BEAUTIFUL MEMORIAL TO BOSTON'S NOBLEST CITIZEN AND PHILANTHROPIST, GEORGE R. WHITE, UNVEILED AND DEDICATED.

BEAUTIFUL STATUE IN MOST SOOTHING AND DELIGHTFUL SETTING AT BEACON AND ARLINGTON STREETS, PUBLIC GARDEN, ACCEPTED BY MAYOR CURLEY FOR CITIZENS, AT INTERESTING CEREMONY.

MAYOR CURLEY ACCEPTS BEAUTIFUL $50,000 MEMORIAL TO GEORGE ROBERT WHITE.

It was with simple but fitting dignity that the memorial to the late George R. White, one of Boston's greatest benefactors and philanthropists was unveiled and dedicated on Wednesday afternoon, with city officials and special guests and friends of the man to be honored present.

The memorial has been placed at the Arlington-Beacon street entrance to the Public Garden and makes the spot one of the most charming and beautiful in the entire public park system. The entire memorial is in perfect harmony with the surroundings and seems to sooth the spirit as soon as one nears the spot.

The exercises opened with a brief word from George E. Phelan, manager of the White Fund for the City of Boston, who presided. Rev. Samuel McComb, D. D., friend of Mr. White for many years, gave the invocation, in which he expressed the hope that the memorial shall speak to many a soul of the greatness of Mr. White's career, of his unselfish service, of his love for humanity and his help to whatever race, creed or color.

"Grant that we may borrow his example in his devotion to the highest welfare of the city of his affection and in his loyalty to the claims of duty and holiness," Doctor McComb implored.

Another intimate friend of Mr. White, William C. Endicott, had been chosen by Mrs. Bradbury to present the memorial to the city. Both had served on the Board of Trustees of the Museum of Fine Arts for years. Mr. Endicott said that when the design of the memorial had been decided upon, it was found that the cost would exceed the amount provided in the will, but, through the generosity of Mrs. Bradbury, the memorial in its present form was made possible.

"As a friend of Mr. White I early discovered that he had two marked characteristics — an intense love of everything that was beautiful in art and literature, and a passionate sympathy for those less fortunate than himself," Mr. Endicott declared. "This memorial which has the enthusiastic approval of the Park Commission and the Art Commission will bring to the mind of every citizen Mr. White's artistic understanding and the George Robert White Fund will perpetuate his love of humanity."

As Mr. Endicott concluded Mrs. Bradbury was escorted from her seat for the unveiling. As she pulled the string and the female figure was revealed, water gushed from the fountains at either side. Mayor Curley then stepped forward to accept the gift in the following address:

NO INCREASE IN TAX RATE.

MAYOR CURLEY AND BOARD OF ASSESSORS SUCCEED IN PREVENTING INCREASE OF BURDEN TO CITIZENS OF BOSTON.

Mayor Curley issued the following statement relative to the tax rate.

The tax rate for the year 1924 is found to be per thousand divided as follows: State, $2.41; county, $1.64; city, $20.65; total, $24.70.

Of the city rate of $28.65, more than one third is for public school expenditures, or for educational purposes $14,355,664.

The increase in real estate valuations is $80,000,000, the greatest gains being in Wards 5, 7, 8, 9 and 25. Part of the increase is due to new buildings completed April 1. Many new buildings have been constructed in the suburban wards as reflected in the increased valuations in Ward 23, West Roxbury, $2,700,000 increase, and in Ward 21, Dorchester, $2,300,000 increase.

The increase in personal property amounts to $14,780,600. Notwithstanding the increase of $14,780,600 in personal property, there has been very substantial losses in the business wards, and the increase would have been exceeding $25,000,000 were it not for the losses occasioned by the changing of firms to Massachusetts corporations, also large reductions in the stocks of merchandise, and removals of business firms to other cities. In Ward 5 alone, losses from these causes amounted to more than $5,000,000.

The rate established when contrasted with other Massachusetts cities is gratifying considering increased expenditures for education and wages. The average rate for thirty-six Massachusetts cities as reported to date is $30.

The rate of the larger cities of Massachusetts follows:

Brockton, $39.80; Chelsea, $34.20; Cambridge, $33.30; Marlborough, $33.50; Springfield, $32.50; Medford, $33.20; Worcester, $29.40; Somerville, $28.70; Northampton, $28.10; Lowell, $29.40.

Boston with a $24.70 rate, being the same rate as during the past three years, means that there can be no valid reason for increased rentals for one, two or three family apartments as in addition to no increase in tax rate there has been no increase in valuations upon this class of property.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,

From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,
Ensured by thy sons' and thy daughters' unselfish devotion!"

NATHAN HASKELL DOLE.]

MAYOR EULOGIZES MISS LOTTA CRABTREE, MOURNING HER DEMISE.

Mayor Curley issued the following statement on September 26, relative to the death of Miss Lotta Crabtree, the distinguished retired actress, who a generation ago held the regard and affection of the theater-goers of the United States in a manner unsurpassed by any other American actress:

"The death of Miss Lotta Crabtree, one of the most devoted friends the City of Boston has ever known, and who for two generations has constantly given evidence of her loyalty to our municipal welfare, and in a manner deserving the highest commendation, marks a great loss to the City of Boston.

"Miss Crabtree brought to the American stage the finest delineation of youthful character acting known in either the United States or abroad. Her plays depicted the most interesting character of child life in our country and her high standard of honor and cleanliness in her stage productions has been well evidenced by the fact that her greatest and most loyal patrons were the women and children of our nation.

"Miss Crabtree never wavered in her fealty to the City of Boston, as evidenced by her large realty investments in the heart of the city, and her singular devotion to the cause of suffrage for women and her belief that they should actively participate in national affairs, was a fine evidence of her loyalty to the best American ideals during the later years of her life.

"In Miss Crabtree's wonderful creations of the character of 'The Little Detective,' 'Firefly,' 'Musette,' and 'Topsy' thousands upon thousands of children of another generation were entertained in a manner unknown upon for such service. Application may be made to this department for information regarding the public baths and gymnasiums maintained by the city, and with regard to municipal indoor concerts and band concerts; also information relative to Mt. Hope, Evergreen, Fairview and other public cemeteries owned by the City of Boston.

To THE BOARD OF EXAMINERS, Room 1001, City Hall Annex, for information regarding the licensing of persons having charge or control of the work of construction, alteration, removal or tearing down of buildings.

To THE WIRE DIVISION OF THE FIRE DEPARTMENT, Fire Department Headquarters, 60 Bristol street, for all information relative to the erection of poles, the building of conduits, the installation of all overhead and underground construction and electrical apparatus, as well as for general information relative to the entire division. To Room 906, City Hall Annex, for permits for the installing of wires and electrical apparatus within buildings in the City of Boston, and for the payment of fees incident to the granting of the privileges above named, and which must be paid in advance.

the American stage of the present day, and no woman in the history of the American stage has ever enjoyed a wider tribute of love and affection from the American people.

"Advancing years in no slightest way limited Miss Crabtree's interest in every good and righteous cause that had for its aim the betterment and the welfare of humanity and her memory will be ever held in the hearts of our citizens, especially those of a generation ago, with singular love and affection."

NAMES COMMITTEE FOR COMPILING EARLY COURT RECORDS OF BOSTON.

Mayor Curley sent the following communication September 30:

HON. NATHAN MATTHEWS, 1134 Tremont Building, Boston, Mass.:

MY DEAR MR. MATTHEWS.—It is important that the early court records of Massachusetts be compiled and for this purpose I have set aside a sum of money in the budget.

Knowing your interest in the early history of the Massachusetts Bay Colony and the Commonwealth generally, I am desirous that you serve as chairman of a special commission for the compilation and publication of the early court records.

I have this day written Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg, and to John F. Cronin, clerk of the Supreme Judicial Court of Suffolk County, to serve with you as members of a committee of three to supervise this important work.

Trusting you will find it possible to make the sacrifice of time and effort necessary, I beg to remain,

Sincerely yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

DEPLORES UPSET IN TRAIN ACCOMMODATIONS BY NEW SCHEDULE WHICH NEW HAVEN ROAD HAS INAUGURATED.

MAYOR CURLEY UTTERS STRONG AND VIGOROUS PRO- TEST IN BEHALF OF CITIZENS AND CALLS FOR A GREAT MUNICIPAL CORPORATION TO FINANCE TRANSPORTA- TION AND OTHER MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS.

Mayor Curley has issued the following statement regarding the cutting of suburban train schedules by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

As Mayor of Boston I cannot but deplore the fact that the New Haven Railroad having but recently received an additional advance of 20 per cent in commutation rates has so cut its suburban schedules as greatly to discommode thousands of people living in and near greater Boston and to have practically isolated certain of our towns. What affects certain of our towns necessarily affects Boston itself.

The commercial and industrial growth of Boston depends upon the livable conditions of its suburbs and these conditions in turn necessarily depend upon the transportation facilities and service afforded the people who live therein. More than one third of the wage-earning persons in suburban Boston come to Boston daily either to business or to school. The citizens of Boston cannot remain indifferent to the additional hardships and discomforts that are imposed upon our fellow citizens of greater Boston by this new train schedule of the New Haven Railroad and its various local branch lines.

This is but one of the many public interests that the several communities composing great metropolitan Boston hold in common. They can be adequately dealt with by the people interested therein only by some unified and consolidated form of municipal government. The necessity for a greater Boston government is made more patent by this latest development in transportation conditions. Boston itself has struggled to give to its people and its immediate suburbs rapid transit facilities and service of a high order and has not hesitated wherever necessary to pledge its credit to the building of rapid transit lines to give Hyde Park, now a part of Boston proper, adequate transportation.

The City of Boston purchased the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway lines in that section of the city and successfully negotiated to have them operated as an integral part of the Boston Elevated Railway. To care properly for the thousands of people living in Dorchester and beyond Boston has taken over the Shawmut Branch of the New Haven Railroad and will there construct a rapid transit electric line which will be operated by the Boston Elevated Railway as an integral part of its tunnel line extending through downtown Boston and into Harvard square, Cambridge.

The railroads running into Boston and by their branch lines and circuits serving suburban Boston have been very slow to adjust themselves to modern conditions. The tendency of modern urban growth is not toward greater density of intown population but in the opposite directions. Modern transportation inventions and improvements should aid this tendency but the railroads serving greater Boston have been reluctant to adopt them. The electrification of branch railroad lines and circuits, it is true, would call for a considerable initial capital investment, and greater municipal Boston acting as one community instead of seventeen could in a very short time give to its people this form of service wherever it is reasonably required and practical.

It is not clear to me why the railroads of greater Boston have not long since established bus lines where steam drawn trains have long since been operated only at a net loss.

The State should no longer be obliged to pledge its credit in financing local improvements required for the convenience of the people of metropolitan Boston. There should for this additional reason be a distinct municipal corporation for metropolitan Boston, one that is ready and able at all times to finance its own metropolitan improvements, including not only transportation lines but water, sewers, parks, police, schools, fire protection, and other municipal services that are the common concern of all our people in this community of towns and cities.

MAYOR CURLEY SEEKS TO PROTECT CITY'S INTEREST IN LOTTA CRABTREE WILL.

September 2, 1924.

HON. E. MARK SULLIVAN,
Corporation Counsel:

DEAR SIR,—Under the provisions of the will of the late Lotta Crabtree, provision was made for an expenditure of the income from $2,000,000 for Veterans of the World War and their dependents.

Press reports set forth that it is the purpose of certain individuals to appeal to the courts to prevent the carrying out of the wishes of the testatrix. The City of Boston is required by legislative enactment to provide aid to unemployed veterans. The expenditure under this item during the depression of 1922 exceeded $100,000 per month. Under the provisions of this will the city might expect to be relieved in part of the obligation of assuming the entire cost of this most laudable legislation.

In view of the fact that the City of Boston, among other municipalities of the Commonwealth, may rightly expect to be relieved in considerable measure of its duty to aid that class of persons who appeal so much to the charity of Miss Crabtree, it occurs to me that it would be very appropriate for you, representing the Mayor and city government of Boston, to express to the Attorney General our concern at the attack that is now being made against the Crabtree will by persons claiming to be distant relatives of the testatrix, and emphasizing to the Attorney General of the Commonwealth the importance of his vigilance in protecting the trust which Miss Crabtree intended for the relief of our country's defenders.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

WHITE MEMORIAL.

MRS. BRADBURY, MR. ENDICOTT, REVEREND SIR, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—It is an exceeding pleasure on behalf of the good people of the City of Boston to accept this magnificent addition to the artistic bronzes of our city and to accept in addition all that it conveys to the welfare of our people. The capable and talented sculptor, Daniel Chester French, was wise in his consideration of a subject to typify the generosity and the vision of that kindly, courageous, truly great and generous American, George Robert White.

We have some realization of how true are those words inscribed upon this monument when we consider a little scene enacted yesterday at the seat of Boston government. A committee, consisting of Doctor Edsall, Dean of the Harvard Medical College, Dr. Richard Cabot, Doctor Osgood and Mr. Horace Morriison, four men who have given of their God-given talent to the alleviation of human suffering, called to make a pronouncement that there was greater co-operation upon the part of all agencies interested in combatting one of the three great evils that have afflicted society from the beginning of time, that there was greater co-ordination, greater co-operation, a greater prospect of larger success at the present time than at any time in the history of our city.

We have some realization of the value of the George Robert White health units when we realize that on the judgment of competent medical authorities the final installation of six health units in Boston should result within a period of two years of their completion in a reduction of infant mortality by at least one third. George Robert White out of his generous heart gave and built better than he knew. Not only will his generosity give inspiration to others to render similar generous and unselfish service to humanity but it will serve and remain as a blessing.

After all there are certain functions which the municipality should discharge but which because of financial considerations and legal limitations the municipality is prohibited from doing. This generous gift of George Robert White makes possible the development in our section of America of a more healthful boyhood and girlhood, assures America of a more sturdy womanhood and a more healthful manhood. It is a great gift; an inspiration to others to consider that most important of all divine commandments, observed by George Robert White during a lifetime, and not forgotten in the closing hours, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." No man ever lived more closely to the second divine commandment than George Robert White.

No man by his generosity was ever more deserving of the commendation, good will and prayers of an intelligent community than he in whose honor we assemble today to dedicate this work of art. The City of Boston places this wreath of laurel as its gift at the base of this memorial. It is with a firm wish and a sincere hope that his memory may ever remain green in the hearts of a grateful people.

The Mayor in presenting a bunch of roses to Mrs. Bradbury said:

The City of Boston with a profound appreciation of the fact that every act that really touches the heart has its inspiration in the gentler sex, and with a realization that great and good and generous as was George Robert White, his greatness, goodness and generosity had such a source of inspiration. In behalf of the people of Boston it is a source of exceeding pleasure to present these flowers, God's lovely handiworks of the season, to the source of George Robert White's inspiration, Mrs. Harriet J. Bradbury.

When the Mayor had concluded he stepped back to obtain a large wreath of laurel which he placed at the base of the memorial, on behalf of the city. Then, with a large bouquet of roses in his hand, he presented them to Mrs. Bradbury, with the expressed belief that she had been an inspiration to her brother through life. It was Mrs. Bradbury's wish to deposit the floral gift also at the base of the memorial, and she was escorted from her seat by the mayor. These two unexpected offerings gave a most impressive conclusion to the exercises.

NEW ENGLAND HISTORICAL GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY PRAISES MAYOR FOR EFFORTS TO SAVE EARLY COURT RECORDS.

Mayor Curley, October 2, received the following letter from Henry Edwards Scott, recording secretary of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, 9 Ashburton place, Boston:

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—I have the honor of informing you that at a meeting of the Council of the New England Historic Genealogical Society on Tuesday, 30 September, 1924, it was unanimously, Voted, That the thanks of the Council be extended to Hon. James M. Curley, Mayor of Boston, for his generous support of the plan for compiling and publishing the early court records of Suffolk County and for his approval of an appropriation by the City of Boston to defray the expenses of this work.

Respectfully yours,

HENRY EDWARDS SCOTT,
Recording Secretary and Clerk of the Council.

PETITIONS ALLOWED.

The Mayor has approved the following petitions received from the Board of Street Commissioners.

Mack Motor Truck Company, 75 North Beacon street, Ward 26, 1,000 additional gallons gasoline.

Estate of Amelia B. Rowe, 591 Albany street, Ward 6, 500 gallons gasoline and oil.

MAYOR CURLEY WINS OVER IMMIGRATION OFFICIALS AND SECURES ADMISSION OF BOSTON GIRL WHO HAD BEEN BARRED.

OBTAINS RULING WHICH MAY BE PRECEDENT FOR OTHERS DELAYED IN RETURNING.—MISS CATHERINE LANDERS, WHO HAD BEEN NURSING PARENTS, MAY REJOIN HER FRIENDS.

Mayor Curley was especially gratified upon the 30th ultimo to learn that a successful ruling would issue and a passport and vise be formally signed by Hon. Albert Halstead, Consul General of the United States at Montreal, Can., admitting to this country Miss Catherine Landers, temporary resident at the Killarney, a working girls' home, directed by the Gray Nuns at Montreal.

The case involved the entire question relative to the enforcement of the new Immigration Act of the United States of 1924 and established what shall be considered a definite ruling relative to that class of immigrants temporarily held at ports of entry under an appeal upon a nonquota immigration status.

It appears that Miss Catherine Landers resided in Boston for a period of 19 years and that about four years ago she received a communication from her parents in Ireland that they were very infirm by reason of age and that her mother was suffering from severe weakness, physically, due to advancing years.

Miss Landers started for her home in Ireland, proceeding to Queenstown, and for four years ministered to the care of her father and mother in a most dutiful manner. The exigencies of the illness of her parents prevented a renewal of her original passport.

Upon arriving at Montreal, Can., several months ago she was refused admission to enter the United States under the quota-exemption law, and effort from many sources to secure the admission of this most worthy and deserving woman had proved futile.

Sister Dorsey of the Gray Nuns of Montreal, Can., advised Miss Landers to present her case to Mayor Curley, as her domicile had been clearly established in Boston for a period of 19 years, and the bar which had been raised against her readmission proved a most cruel and intolerant detention.

Mayor Curley presented a brief to Hon. Albert Halstead, Consul General of the United States at Montreal, Can., declaring that Miss Landers established a domicile in Boston during her 19 years of residence, that her visit to Ireland was prompted by an act of mercy to her aged and devoted parents, and that her four years in the service of her parents as nurse and attendant in no way re-established her settlement in Ireland, and that her visit must be strictly regarded as temporary in character.

Mayor Curley especially emphasized the fact that under section 4 of the Immigration Act of the United States of 1924, in subsection (b) the law is clearly defined in the following statement, as to those who shall be admitted, and which reads as follows: Section 4 (b) "An immigrant previously lawfully admitted to the United States and who is returning from a temporary visit abroad," under the term, nonquota immigrant.

Mayor Curley received advices this morning that Consul General Halstead of the United States Consulate at Montreal would issue a vise and order for passport in behalf of Miss Landers tomorrow and permitting her to immediately come to join her brother, Patrick B. Landers, and her brothers-in-law J. F. Bresnahan and Patrick M. Casey all of whom are residents of Stoneham. Mrs. T. E. Keating, wife of the superintendent of the Woburn Almshouse, is a sister of the immigrant.

This is one of the first cases known in Boston where a ruling has been secured relative to the exact status of a nonquota immigrant under the law and the results are especially pleasing to Mayor Curley.

COLUMBUS DAY CELEBRATION ON OCTOBER 13, TO BE MOST ELABORATE, WITH 700 PARTICIPANTS.

There will be 700 participants in the annual Columbus Day municipal observance by the City of Boston on Monday, October 13. Plans being perfected provide for the same character of program that has proved both interesting and of value to the community the past few years.

The central idea of a "get-together holiday" for representatives of all the people of the city will be emphasized as heretofore. Besides the countries of Europe and Asia, the countries of South and Central America will be honored. So far, groups representative of twenty nations have accepted the invitation to participate. There will be two children taking part, who are descendants from the Indians, who greeted Columbus upon his arrival.

The United States will be particularly represented by a battalion of troops from the United States Army. The story of the origin and development of the stars and stripes will be pictured by a group of characters impersonating typical figures in the nation's history.

The officers and crew of the Argentina battleship "Rivadavia" have been especially invited as the ship will be here at the time. The commanding army and navy officers stationed here, as well as the consuls of all foreign countries so represented here, have been invited.

The custom inaugurated two years ago and carried out successfully last year of inviting the mayors of all Massachusetts cities to come to Boston Columbus Day and participate in the events will be continued this year. Already fifteen mayors have accepted, most of them to be accompanied with their wives. The Mayor of Boston will be a host at a dinner at the end of the day.

All participants in the municipal program will assemble at the Public Library in Copley square, the trustees and director of the library having granted special privileges for the occasion. After assembling inside the building, the groups taking part will take places on the steps outside and witness the parade of the Knights of Pythias which will be reviewed there by the mayors, as well as officers of that organization.

When the parade has moved on, the national groups, the groups representing Columbus and his suite, the Pan American group and the others taking part in the municipal Columbus Day program will proceed with particular ceremonies before forming a procession to march to Boston Common.

At the Parkman Bandstand, on the Common, will be delivered the annual address by Lieut.-Gov. Felix A. Toupin of Rhode Island. Mayor Curley will preside. The Alhambra band will furnish music. The audience will sing patriotic songs. The groups representing each nation of the world will be welcomed on arrival by "Columbus" and "Columbia." The story of the flag by a group of Cambridge school children will close the program.

The exercises at the band stand will be amplified for the benefit of the assembled audience and broadcasted from WNAC for those who listen in at other points.

The colorful and patriotically significant ceremony of evening colors, lowering of the flag and review on the athletic field, will be performed by the army troops, with other participants in previous events present on the field with their flags and costumes.

The annual municipal athletic meet on the Common in the forenoon will include the customary events for men and for the first time on such occasions there will be events for women for which twenty entries have already been received.

All arrangements are being made under the supervision of the Director of Public Celebrations J. Philip O'Connell with the help of a committee whose chairman is Joseph A. F. O'Neil and a dozen members of the Citizens' Public Celebrations Association. The marshal for the day will be Eugene P. Carver, State Commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars.

MAYOR CURLEY MOVES TO AID FAMILIES OF POLICEMEN KILLED IN COURSE OF DUTY.

Mayor Curley addressed the following letter to the Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, Corporation Counsel, on September 26:

HON. E. MARK SULLIVAN, Corporation Counsel, Boston, Mass.

DEAR SIR,—I am desirous that you confer at once with the Police Commissioner with a view to the adoption of a policy with reference to members of the Police Department who are killed in the discharge of their duties.

My attention has been directed to the fact that the family of Police Officer Albert Matroni are in needy circumstances at the present time owing to the untimely death of the head of the household. I am also informed that generous hearted women and men of the East Boston section are arranging a public subscription.

In my opinion it should not be necessary for friends and neighbors of a police officer who courageously died for the preservation of law to depend upon either the generosity or the charity of his friends. Adequate provision for the family of such a man should be made by the city, and I am desirous that you, acting in conjunction with the Police Commissioner, determine upon a relief program and submit the same to me at once.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

LAND-TAKING IN WEST ROXBURY.

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners for the taking of land for a public improvement, consisting of the laying out and construction of an extension of Maple street, West Roxbury district, as a highway, from Weld street northwesterly.

South by Weld street, sixty-one and 32-100 feet; east by the same, seven and 80-100 feet; again south by the same, sixty-six and 29-100 feet; west by the westerly line of said extension of Maple street as hereby laid out, six feet; again west by the same, forty-nine and 40-100 feet on a curve of twenty feet radius; southwest by the southwesterly line of said extension of Maple street as hereby laid out, six hundred one and 41-100 feet; northwest by the northwesterly line of said extension of Maple street as hereby laid out, forty feet; and northeast by the northeasterly line of said extension of Maple street as hereby laid out, seven hundred and ten feet.

Trees or structures standing upon or affixed to the aforesaid described land shall be removed therefrom within sixty days following a notice of the city's intention to enter upon said land for the purpose of constructing said improvement.

Betterments are to be assessed for the making of the aforesaid improvement.

Ordered, That this Board estimates that the lots of abutting land on both sides of Maple street, for a distance of about seven hundred and ten feet northwesterly from Weld street on the northeasterly side, and for a distance of about six hundred and eighty feet northwesterly from Weld street on the southwesterly side, will receive benefit or advantage, beyond the general advantage other than the general advantages to the community, from the improvement herein ordered, each of the particular lots to the amount respectively set against it herein; said lots and the supposed owners thereof being shown on a plan marked "City of Boston, Maple street, West Roxbury, Assessment Plan, July 30, 1924, William Sullivan, Chief Engineer Street Laying-Out Department," and on file in the office of said department.

FINANCE COMMISSION REPORT.

The Finance Commission in a letter to the Mayor issued the following statement concerning the Strandway project:

BOSTON, September 25, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

SIR,—Following the report of the Finance Commission on the irregularities under the contract between the Park Department and J. C. Coleman & Sons Company, your Honor made public an answer which the official publication of the city, the Boston City Record, calls the "reply of the Park Commission." The newspapers and the public have accepted it as such.

The Finance Commission has investigated the circumstances surrounding the preparation of the reply thus attributed to the Park Department and reports:

1. The reply was not made by the Park Department.

2. James B. Shea, chairman of the department, has testified that he "dictated" it in the office of your secretary at City Hall, to Mr. Chapman, one of your stenographers, on Wednesday, September 17, the day the report of the Finance Commission was published; that his reason for dictating the reply in your secretary's office, instead of in the office of the Park Department at 33 Beacon street, was that it was more convenient.

3. Mr. Shea testified that after his dictation he left the matter entirely in the hands of your stenographer; that he did not sign the reply or even see it after it had been typewritten.

4. The other two members of the Park Department took no part in preparing it and were not invited to take part.

5. Commissioner Lewis testified that he called at your office between four and five o'clock that afternoon to procure a copy of the Finance Commission's report. He saw your "secretary," who said that he was at work on the reply.

6. Commissioner Coolidge has never seen the reply, except in the newspapers.

7. Mr. Lewis testified before the Finance Commission Tuesday afternoon, September 23. Early the next morning the Park Commissioners met and for the first time decided to investigate the charges made by the Finance Commission.

From testimony taken by the Finance Commission since the issuance of its report, it appears that counsel for the contractor was furnished by the Park Department with copies of the testimony given before the Finance Commission by the Park Commissioners; that the chairman of the Park Department conferred with counsel for the contractor on the matter under investigation a few days before the issuance of the Finance Commission's report; that counsel for the contractor read the Finance Commission's report in a newspaper office on the evening of its issue and later that same night telephoned your Honor's house to notify you that it had been issued; and that counsel for the contractor was at your Honor's office on the following day and read there the so-called reply of the Park Commissioners before it was published, though the Park Commissioners themselves had not seen it.

Since the Finance Commission made its disclosures, the chairman of the Park Commission, as well as your Honor and the counsel for the contractor, have been diligent in each other's defense, while no official appears to have taken any measures to protect the interests of the city.

Respectfully submitted,

MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN,
Chairman,
CHARLES L. CARR,
COURTENAY GUILD,
JOHN F. MOORS,
JOSEPH A. SHEEHAN,
The Finance Commission.

AUTHORITY TO DO WORK.

The Mayor has approved the request of the Public Works Department for authority to have the Richard T. Green Company dry dock and make repairs on the ferryboat "Noddle Island" for the following agreed prices: Remove the wheels and rewood bearings on the East Boston end, $187; patch yellow metal sheathing, $483; place blower engine foundation, $79; repair rail and gate post at East Boston end, $50; renew stern bearing on Boston end of boat, $775; total, $1,574. This work is emergency work, practically all of it ordered by the Steamboat Inspection Service after the boat was placed on the marine railway. The Richard T. Green Company plant, which built this steamer, is well qualified to make the necessary repairs expeditiously and economically.

The Mayor has approved the request of the Public Works Commissioner for authority to rough grade in School street, southwesterly side, between Province street and Chapman place, with division forces, without advertisement, the estimated cost for labor and material being $1,000.

DIRECT RETURN FIRE.

The Mayor of Boston recently set a fine example for other executives at the head of American municipalities. The leaders of the Socialist party of Massachusetts sought permission to hold a "peace demonstration" on Boston Common on September 12, which was to be a flagrant rivalry of the national program for the same day. Mayor Curley replied immediately as follows:

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of communication requesting that a permit be issued for the staging of a peace demonstration on Boston Common September 12 at 6 p. m., under the auspices of the Socialist party. I regret to inform you that it will be impossible for me to comply with your request, as September 12 has been designated as "Defense Day," and as an American Mayor of an American city, interested in America, I am opposed to anything that savors of pacifism propaganda, which, in my opinion, unless checked, may serve to deprive Americans of their present splendid heritage which was secured through the use of the sword, and so long as the governments of the world continue constituted as at present can only be preserved and perpetuated by the sword."—[From the "National Bulletin," Organ of the Military Order of the World War.]

PLEASANTLY SURPRISED THE MAYOR WITH EXPRESSIONS OF APPRECIATION.

A medical group, consisting of Dr. Richard Cabot, Dr. David L. Edsall, Dean of the Harvard Medical School, Dr. Robert B. Osgood, former chairman of the Executive Committee of the Boston Health League, and Dr. Horace Morrison, representing the Medical Societies, gave the Mayor a jolt on September 30 when they called to express appreciation for the progress the city is making along improved health conditions and child welfare and baby hygiene work. It is the first group in many years that has called and desired nothing but the privilege of extending thanks for services rendered.

CHARGES ACTION IS PROOF OF POLITICAL ANIMUS IN STRANDWAY CLAIMS BY FINANCE COMMISSION.

Mayor Curley issued the following statement on Friday October 3:

With reference to the action taken by a group of citizens among whom are such familiar Republican politicians as Ben Lane, Morton Prince, Abigail Homans and George C. McCaffrey, Secretary of the Good Government Association, the purpose of which action is to prevent further payments on the Columbus Park improvement contract, I beg to say that the list of signers is complete proof, if any were lacking, that it is a purely political plot hatched up solely for the purpose of doing injury to my candidacy for Governor.

I beg to state that it was unnecessary for any body of citizens to take this action as some ten days ago I notified the City Auditor, Rupert S. Carven, to withhold any further payments upon this contract until such time as a full and complete report had been submitted by the Park Commission.

A conference with the Park Commission was held at the Mayor's office on Tuesday, September 30, at which the commission were notified that they would have to submit a more detailed report with reference to this work and they informed me that they would do this at once and in addition would engage the service of one of the leading engineers of America to check up both reports.

There is nothing that can be done that has not already been done upon this matter, and the action of Republican politicians at this time is neither good taste nor good politics.

MAYOR SENDS REPRESENTATIVE OF CITY TO WASHINGTON ON DIFFERENTIALS HEARING.

HON. E. MARK SULLIVAN TO WORK WITH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IN NEW EFFORT TO GET TRADE RELIEF FOR NEW ENGLAND.

Boston, September 26, 1924.

MR. FRANK S. DAVIS, Manager, Maritime Association, Boston Chamber of Commerce, Boston, Mass.

MY DEAR MR. DAVIS.—I have received your two letters, one of September 23, and the other of September 25, relative to the new petition which has been filed in behalf of the New England ports seeking to rid ourselves of the vicious freight differentials that are diverting railroad and ocean freight from the Port of Boston and other New England ports to the inland ports of Baltimore and Philadelphia. As the City of Boston has gladly co-operated with your association and made itself a party to the petition to the Interstate Commerce Commission which is still pending before that Board and without final action by it, the City of Boston will gladly give you its heartiest co-operation in your latest move.

In view of the fact that the North Atlantic ports at least have equalized ocean freight rates since the establishment of the United States Shipping Board and unequalized rail rates on exports and import freight by decree of the Interstate Commerce Commission, I believe that these two co-ordinate bodies of the Federal Government may properly be expected to sit in joint sessions on this latest petition when they can consider these complimentary rail and ocean rates that so greatly affect the business of our ports and railroads serving them.

The transportation of freight between interior points of the United States and foreign countries is a service which nearly all of the ports of the North Atlantic and South Atlantic and Gulf groups, together with the railroads serving these ports, are ready to give on an equal basis of freight and ocean rates. All that Boston asks is an opportunity to compete on an equal basis with all other ports, to give this service.

I am pleased to see that the attorneys representing the joint New England petitioners have adopted at last the view which the City of Boston alone urged in its brief before the Interstate Commerce Commission respecting the unconstitutional character of differential freight rates. In our brief we pointed out to the Interstate Commerce Commission that Article I of the Federal Constitution provides "That the ports of one state shall not be discriminated against in favor of the ports of another state by any regulations or customs of commerce." When Baltimore and Philadelphia, by an agreement among the railroads themselves long years ago, had received its freight differential on exports and imports the ports of Boston and New York and other of the New England ports had an ocean differential in fact which so militated against these ports in closer proximity to Europe enjoying ocean differentials that the railroads agreed among themselves that the freight rates on exports and imports moving by the ports of Baltimore and Philadelphia might be lessened so as to give to all exports and imports moving through these ports an equalized through rate from the central freight territory of the United States to all European ports. Now that both ocean rates and rail rates are regulated respectively by the United States Shipping Board and the Interstate Commerce Commission, respectively, acting under authority given them by Congress, any discrimination resulting from their rate structures against the ports of Massachusetts and other New England States in favor of the ports of Philadelphia, Maryland or any other ports in the North or South Atlantic group are regulations of commerce and therefore unconstitutional.

In compliance with your suggestion I am directing the Corporation Counsel of the City of Boston to appear with the representatives of your association and those of the other petitioners at the hearing to be given by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the United States Shipping Board sitting in joint session at Washington on October 7.

I desire, Mr. Davis, to specially commend you for the enterprise which you, acting as manager of the Maritime Association, have shown in this effort of the New England people to do something for themselves. I deplore, however, the inactivity of the many official representatives that New England has at Washington who, being friends and partisans of the present Republican administration, might properly be expected to make strenuous efforts to properly affect the minds of the administration and these two Boards serving by and under it that New England and their constituents might be dealt with justly.

With every good wish, I remain, as ever,

Sincerely yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

HISTORY OF THE ART OF PRINTING.

PUBLIC LIBRARY HAS INTERESTING EXHIBIT SHOWING DEVELOPMENT.

The craftsmen number of "The American Printer"—a collection of sixty plates illustrating the history of the art of writing and printing—is now on exhibition at the Boston Public Library. The collection, published a few weeks ago, has called forth much favorable comment among those engaged in the art and business of printing. And surely, the collection deserves the praise. Edmund G. Gress, associate editor of the periodical, arranged and compiled the material; he did it with knowledge and skill. The plates have been designed and engraved by more than one hundred artists, and all of them have been done in different printing shops; they truly represent the highest standard of typographical art in America.

The artistic and technical finish of type, design and "make-up" must appeal even to the most casual visitor. But probably, the craftsmen in printing, engraving and designing are those who will find the greatest interest in the exhibition. And with them are to be counted the hundreds of art students who visit the exhibition room of the library.

To supplement the collection, the Public Library has also exhibited a large number of its own books and plates relating to the subject. The history of printing in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries is told in the works of Claudin, Haebler, Harassowitz and others; they represent the best products of scholarship and research in this field.

Books on modern printing—essays by William Morris, Charles Ricketts, Alfred Pollard, etc., and works of descriptive and technical character—are also exhibited; they offer a choice of reference books to the more ambitious in the trade, art or profession. Together with the works on printing, plates are exhibited illustrating the history of writing.

MAYOR ASKS CITIZENS TO DECORATE FOR CONVENTION.

Mayor Curley has issued the following proclamation:

The Military Order of the World War, an association of officers who served this country, honorably and gallantly in the World War, will hold its convention in Boston during the current week, October 2, 3 and 4.

I suggest to the patriotic citizens of Boston that their houses and places of business be decorated with the national colors during the days of the convention, as a courtesy to the order, and an evidence that the people of the capital of the Commonwealth do not forget the service and sacrifice given the nation in its days of stress.

I direct that all schoolhouses and public buildings of the City of Boston hoist flags and otherwise be appropriately decorated during the continuance of the M. O. W. convention.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

CONVEYANCE OF LAND.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, August 28, 1924.

To the Honorable the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I present for your favorable consideration the accompanying order for the conveyance of a parcel of land containing thirty-one square feet which was formerly a part of East street, a public highway in the City of Boston. Said land was conveyed by deed to the City of Boston by Thomas W. Phillips et al., dated November 19, 1852, and recorded with Suffolk Registry of Deeds, Lib. 640, page 82, and was conveyed in fee, but upon the condition that the said land should be used for highway purposes.

In October, 1919, by order of the Board of Street Commissioners, East street was discontinued over the land described in the accompanying order. The owner of the adjoining premises, being of the opinion that the discontinuance of East street vested title in him, erected a building on the lot adjoining East street and on the land described in the accompanying order.

As I am advised by the Law Department that the city cannot use this land for any purpose except street purposes, and as the owners of the adjoining land have erected the building in good faith, under a mistake of fact, and as the land upon which the building stands is assessed for $25 per foot and the contents of the lot proposed to convey is thirty-one feet, I therefore recommend for your favorable consideration the accompanying order, as the amount to be paid is a reasonable and just sum for the city to receive under all the circumstances.

Yours very truly,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

CITY OF BOSTON.

IN CITY COUNCIL.

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor in the name and behalf of the city be and he is hereby authorized to convey by an instrument satisfactory to the Law Department to Max Forman of Boston, upon the receipt of the sum of six hundred dollars, the following described parcel of land:

A certain parcel of land with a portion of the building numbered 20 to 24 on East street thereon situated in said Boston and bounded and described as follows:

Northeasterly by the northeasterly line of said East street as it existed previous to a discontinuance of a portion of said East street by the City of Boston, dated November 12, 1919, and recorded with Suffolk Deeds, Book 4182, page 375, fifty-nine and 92-100 feet;

Southwesterly by the northeasterly line of said East street as it now exists, fifty-nine and 96-100 feet; and

Northwesterly by the northwesterly line of said East street as it existed previous to said discontinuance, one and 5-100 feet;

Containing thirty-one square feet of land, all as shown on a plan showing a discontinuance in East street, Boston proper, between South street and Atlantic avenue, City of Boston, East street, Boston proper, dated October 18, 1919, by F. O. Whitney, Chief Engineer, Street Laying-Out Department, being street plan filed as No. 1135 with said deeds.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

PROPOSED CONTRACT WITH EDISON COMPANY.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor is hereby requested to furnish the Council with copies of all data that he and any head of department has, or may have, relative to the contemplated contract that the City of Boston may enter into with Edison Electric Illuminating Company for the lighting of the city streets and alleys.

The rule was suspended, on motion of Coun. WATSON, and the question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. WATSON.—Mr. President, I do not intend to take up any considerable amount of the time of the Council today on the order which has just been read or the other order which was passed, but merely to make a slight reference to the matter. I am informed by a large user of electricity for power purposes in Boston that the Edison Company has increased the rates for electricity within a very short time to the fairly small consumer and to those who may be called the average users of electricity for power. I don't know that I ought to expose for the benefit of the Edison Company the information I have at this time, but it is sufficient to say that they have entered into a contract, or are about to enter into a contract, with the City of Boston for the furnishing of electricity for power purposes for the pumping station at Calf Pasture. They are expending approximately $25,000 for conduits, wires and paraphernalia, in order to supply the pumping plant with electricity for power purposes, and the price given to the city is so low if the Edison Company were obliged to operate the whole proposition on the price paid in by the City of Boston for the juice for the pumping station, it could exist but a very few weeks. They are selling electricity below the cost of manufacture plus the cost of installation. The reason for that is, Mr. President, that they were fearful that the powers that be in Boston—the Commissioner of Public Works, for one,—might decide to establish at Calf Pasture an electric plant and take care of the Calf Pasture from their own plant, and in order not to have the high cost they charge and the terrific profit they get from the sale of their commodity exposed to the public, they go in there at a price that the city could not meet or that a public plant established there could not run on and make both ends meet. But that is not the whole story. The rest of it is this. As soon as they sell juice to the large consumers for power purposes at an abnormally low price, they have to make that up somewhere else, and they do it in this way,—by increasing the cost to the consumers in the territory they serve other than the territory at Calf Pasture. They will not increase the price to the large users, because those who use large volumes of electricity have under consideration the installation of plants in their own buildings where they will generate and manufacture their own juice at a price much less than the Edison might charge them and make the profit it hopes to make. Take, for instance, any merchant on Tremont street or any small manufacturer in a building, who is using electricity for elevator purposes or for lighting in the daytime or for power purposes during the time of day when the consumption is the lowest, they will sell electricity to such a concern at a profitable price, which will still be very low, because anybody who knows anything about the manufacture of electricity knows that in order to sell electricity for the entire territory at night they have to carry the same capacity during the day. If they did not sell that juice at that time, there would simply be a waste, so they can sell it for power purposes in the daytime, or for other purposes in the daytime, at a very low price. I know whereof I speak. I can give you the names of fifty big concerns in Boston that get electricity for power purposes at such a time and get it at a low price, while the price of electricity at other times has been jumped. Of course, I do not refer to the newspapers, because I know the different newspapers get their juice at a price at which, if they were the only consumers, the Edison Company could not make both ends meet. But that is their business, and they can make it up on the small consumers. I know very well that I have taken my political future and hopes in my hands and am taking quite a chance when I attack the Edison Company. I have had a little experience with them in the past few weeks, showing their tremendous power in politics. But they have not silenced me yet, and with the help of the Council, which I know will back me up in every move I make to compel the Edison Company to treat the people of Boston fairly, I feel confident that we can do something. They may own the Legislature, but I can say without fear of contradiction that they do not own the City Council of Boston. We have one more year in the City Council, the nine members here, and I think I can promise for my associates that the Edison Company will have a very interesting time with the City Council of Boston and in all probability with the Mayor. I know that we in the Council here are on all fours, as far as our attitude towards the Edison Company is concerned, in our endeavor to do the fair thing by the consumers of Boston and to compel the Edison Company to treat the public fairly.

The order was passed.

COMMUNICATION FROM FINANCE COMMISSION.

The following was received:

Boston Finance Commission,
410-416 Tremont Building,
September 16, 1924.

To the Honorable the Mayor and City Council.

Gentlemen,—Recent investigations by the Finance Commission have revealed a situation in connection with the improvement of Columbus Park, South Boston, more serious than anything which has come to its attention for some years.

Bids were opened for this park improvement on June 14, 1922, the lowest bidder being the John McCourt Company and a higher bidder being J. C. Coleman & Sons Company. The bids were rejected. New bids were then asked for and this time the Coleman Company was the lowest bidder, its second bid being $138,950 lower than its former bid. The contract was awarded to this company.

The contract provided that all materials furnished, except sand, should be measured after being put in place, leveled and rolled. The Park Department had not measured the materials as provided in the contract up to the beginning of the investigation by the Finance Commission. The Finance Commission has had the materials measured as provided in the contract. The report shows that the city has paid for materials which cannot be found in place in the park to the extent of $294,000.

Subsequent to the beginning of this investigation by the Finance Commission, the Park Department engaged Harry W. Rowley, an independent engineer, to secure the necessary data for computing the amount of material put in the park. On the data obtained by Mr. Rowley the Finance Commission bases its computation.

After the investigation by the Finance Commission had begun, the contract between the city and the contractor was amended in an attempt to legalize the over-payments already made to the contractor. This amendment was made after a conference between the Park Commissioners and Hon. John M. Sullivan, representing the contractor. The city was not represented by counsel, nor did the Law Department pass upon the amendment. The amended contract was approved by his Honor the Mayor.

The work under the four items of this contract which are the subject of this report included the building of a road, known as the Beach road, which extends from that part of Columbia road east of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad tracks along the newly made waterfront to a point on Columbia road about opposite G street; covering the beach to the east of this road with sand; and filling to a certain grade the area to the west of this road with earth, or gravel, and loam. The earth or gravel was to be free from organic materials and satisfactory to the engineer. It was estimated that it would take to complete the job 96,000 cubic yards of earth filling, 75,000 cubic yards of loam and 44,000 cubic yards of sand.

The contract provided that the earth or gravel filling and the loam should be measured after it was put in place, leveled off, and thoroughly compacted by rolling with horse and steam rollers, and in case the material was too dry to be properly rolled, it should be moistened before rolling. Under the terms of the contract the sand furnished was to be measured in the carts or scoops when delivered. Monthly payments were to be made to the contractor for the work done on estimates made by the engineer of the Park Department. The work was to be completed by July 1, 1923.

The contractor was to receive 70 cents per cubic yard for earth and gravel filling, $1.50 per cubic yard for sand, and $1.90 for loam.

When the work began, the contractor, without protest from the Park Department, posted on the premises an invitation to the public to dump refuse material in the park. As a result of this invitation, tin cans, barrels, broken furniture, scrap iron, old automobile tires, old mattresses, bed springs, bed frames, and other discarded articles were deposited in the park. All of these items, of course, were contrary to the specifications, but were allowed to remain there by the engineers and inspectors of the Park Department.

During the first nine months of the contract the city paid the contractor for all the sand estimated in the contract; also for 19,000 cubic yards more than that estimated in the contract for "Filling for Roadway," and for 47,000 cubic yards more than that estimated in the contract for earth filling; yet no steps were taken at that time by the Park Department to measure the amount of materials the contractor had actually put in place in the park, nor had any authority been given to the contractor to exceed his contract in the sum of $46,200. No statement in writing was ever rendered by the contractor to the Park Department of the amount of material he claimed to have put in place. All payments were made on oral claims of the contractor and on data which the Park Department claimed to have.

In July, 1923, the contractor, claiming to have exceeded his contract by over $125,000, the contract was amended and received the approval of the Mayor, authorizing the contractor to furnish 100,000 cubic yards of additional filling which was 10,000 cubic yards more than double the original estimate, 30,000 cubic yards of additional filling for the roadway, which was five times the original estimate, and 15,000 additional cubic yards of loam, which was an addition of one fifth of the original estimate. This added $119,500 to the contract. Nearly one half of this additional amount had been paid to the contractor without legal authority before the amendment to the contract was made.

These additions to the contract were made by the Park Department with the approval of the Mayor, although the actual amount of material already furnished had not been measured, as provided in the contract.

Again, in May, 1924, the contractor claimed to have furnished more material than his contract as amended authorized. The Park Commissioners and the Mayor granted another amendment to the contract, so as to legalize a further payment to the contractor of $59,100, but no steps were taken even then to measure, as provided in the contract, the amount of loam or earth filling that the contractor had already furnished.

When the chairman of the Park Commission approved a payment to the contractor under this last amendment, the Finance Commission requested the Park Department to furnish it with the measurements of materials in place upon which payment to the contractor had been made under the terms of the contract. The Park Department had made no such measurements and had no figures on which to base payments, but proceeded to have such measurements made by Harry W. Rowley, an engineer not connected with any department of the city. About two months later, on July 29, 1924, these measurements were received by the Finance Commission and computed by its consulting engineer, who found that there were actually in place in Columbus Park, 130,128 cubic yards of earth and roadway filling (Items 2 and 3 of the contract), instead of 260,000 cubic yards for which the contractor had already been paid; 16,740 cubic yards of sand, instead of 45,459 cubic yards for which the contractor had been paid; and 7,168 cubic yards of loam, instead of 91,500 cubic yards for which the contractor had been paid. In addition to the data furnished by Engineer Rowley, the Finance Commission caused test holes to be dug in the loamed area and the actual depth of the loam determined. The report of Engineer Rowley is in substantial agreement with the conclusions of the consulting engineer of the Finance Commission, as above set out, except as to the volume of the loam. As to Engineer Rowley's estimate of the volume of loam which he found, namely, 34,400 cubic yards, he testified that he did not make any borings to find the depth of the loam. He assumed that the specifications had been complied with. He admitted that he could not tell where the loam stopped and where the filling began, because he had not dug any test holes.

The contract made between the City of Boston and J. C. Coleman & Sons Company for this work contained a provision that the materials, except sand, should be measured after they had been put in place, leveled and rolled. Similar provisions were contained in contracts made in the past. For example, this method of measuring was used when Marine Park was built, almost adjacent to Columbus Park and quite as large. It was the method used in the shore filling all along South Boston, including that under Columbia road. It was the method used when Columbus Park was filled from low water flats by the New York State Dredging Company in 1910-18, the first work on the present Columbus Park, then known as the Strandway or shore of old Harbor. It is the best method of protecting the interests of the city in work of this kind.

Under the terms of the amendment to the contract granted by the Park Commissioners and approved by his Honor the Mayor on August 7, 1924, the filling and loam furnished by the contractor are to be measured by the cart or truck load, instead of being measured in place after being leveled and rolled, as provided in the contract.

The discrepancy between the amount of material that the contractor and the city inspectors said was placed in the park, and the amount that was found there by actual measurement by an engineer selected by the Park Department, is so gross that every opportunity was given the contractor to explain. Accordingly he was requested to furnish the Finance Commission with the sources from which he received the material that he claimed to have placed in Columbus Park. The definite sources of supply disclosed to the commission by the contractor were investigated. In every instance the contractor overstated the amount substantially, in some instances giving twice the quantity that he had actually received, and in two instances three times the quantity that he had actually received. On the other hand, these sources checked up approximately with the amount that the engineers of the Finance Commission and Engineer Rowley determined by measurements under the provisions of the contract was actually in place in the park.

As to the explanation given by the contractor why the amount of material that has been paid for by the city cannot be found in the park and incurred in by Commissioners Shea and Lewis, of the Park Department, namely, that the ground has settled and cracked and that much of the material was washed away by the rain and disappeared in the cracks, or was used up in the settlement that has taken place in the last two years, it is sufficient answer to say that the levels of the ground taken before the work began two years ago by the engineer of the Park Department, and again last June by an engineer employed by the Park Department, Mr. Rowley, shows practically no settlement, or so little as to be negligible. See, also, Mr. Gow's report, attached hereto. Such settlement as there was would not make a difference of 5,000 cubic yards at the most. The contention is absurd upon the face of it. The area upon which filling was actually placed by the contractor measures approximately 422,000 square feet, roughly nine acres. The filling actually put in place on this area, if spread to uniform depth, would raise the area 8 feet and 4 inches. The contractor, however, was paid for enough filling to raise this area 16 feet 8 inches. The area upon which loam was actually placed is approximately 330,000 square feet, or about seven acres. The loam actually put in place, spread uniformly, would cover this area to a depth of 7 inches. The contractor has been paid for loam enough to cover the same area, if spread uniformly, to a depth of 2 feet 8 inches. To contend seriously that a fill of nine acres would settle 8 feet and 4 inches in two years, or that a fill covered with loam would settle 2 feet and 1 inch in two years is too absurd for consideration.

The case was serious enough up to August 7, with an unwarranted payment of $294,000 made to this contractor, but when on that date the Park Department and the Mayor of the city changed the contract so that the contractor would be paid for material which the engineers cannot find, (to the extent of $294,000 over the past two years, and further authorized the contractor to deliver material under a method whereby the city is allowed only 10 per cent for shrinkage, when according to the statement of their own engineer, a shrinkage of about 45 per cent may be expected, a situation is reached that is without parallel in the history of the city in the matter of squandering public funds.

The city charter only empowers the Finance Commission to investigate and make public the facts. This it has done. Action should now be taken by a taxpayers' committee in the courts to prevent further waste of the city's money and to have the amendment to this contract made on August 7 declared void. The money paid to the contractor in excess of his performance of the contract should be recovered by the proper authorities. The report of the consulting engineer with its exhibits is hereto annexed.

Respectfully submitted,

COURTENAY GUILD,
JOHN F. MOORS,

CHANGE OF ROUTE IN JITNEY LICENSE.

Coun. PURCELL offered an order—That the Boston Elevated Railway Company be requested to file a petition for a change of route in the jitney license granted by the City Council August 28, 1924, so that the buses will run only on Centre street from Belgrade avenue to Eliot street.

Coun. PURCELL moved a suspension of the rule, that the order might be put upon its passage.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I would like to know the reason for the introduction of the order.

Coun. PURCELL—The reason is that the route may be changed from Eliot street, which is a very, very narrow street, to Centre street. Centre street is a main, wide thoroughfare. Eliot street has a small school, attended by very small children, and the residents of the district are objecting very much to these buses running up and down Eliot street. It seems hardly right for them to run through there. It is a side street and, as I have said, Centre street is a main thoroughfare and a proper place for a bus line. I know if it were proposed to put a line of car tracks in, Eliot street would never be considered, but they would be put through Centre street, and I think the proper thing is to shift this route back to Centre street.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

LEASE TO ATLANTIC AVENUE LAND.

President DONOGHUE called up No. 4, under unfinished business, viz:

4. Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be and hereby is authorized to execute and deliver for and in behalf of the City of Boston a lease running from said City of Boston to Henry E. Rothfield of Newton, in the County of Middlesex and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and Henry B. Day, of said Newton, trustees of the Middlesex Trust, of a certain parcel of land situated on Atlantic avenue, Boston, in said Commonwealth, being a portion of the premises now used by the City of Boston as a dumping station for garbage, at an annual rental the equivalent in amount to 5 per cent of the total valuation of the land so leased, appraised at $10 per square foot, for such period as the adjoining premises now used by the said City of Boston as a dumping station for garbage shall continue to be so used by the said City of Boston, but the term of said lease is in no case to exceed twenty years.

Said leased premises are to consist of so much of the land fronting on Atlantic avenue and to a depth of not more than twenty feet therefrom as is not now needed by the said City of Boston for public or municipal purposes, the said trustees to have the right to build upon the leased premises a structure or building of one or more stories in height.

The aforesaid Middlesex Trust is to agree to pay taxes on the land and buildings to be erected thereon to the City of Boston at the current rates during the period of said lease and that the buildings erected thereon by the Middlesex Trust, or any other person holding under them, shall at the expiration or termination of said lease become the property of the City of Boston aforesaid.

The said lease is to contain such other restrictions and limitations, including a right of passage over and across the said leased premises from and to Atlantic avenue, as is satisfactory to the Law Department of the City of Boston, and the said lease is to be in such form as is satisfactory to said Law Department.

On August 4, 1924, the foregoing order was read once and passed, yeas 8, nays 0.

In connection with No. 4 on the calendar, the following has also been received:

September 11, 1924.

To the City Council:

The trustees of the Middlesex Trust and the Harbor Trust agree that the following clause shall be inserted in the proposed lease of the premises on Atlantic avenue:

"The said lease is to be made upon the provision that the lessee or its successors or assigns shall within a period of eighteen months after the execution of the said lease erect upon the said premises a two or three story office and store building, and the said lease shall contain the further provision that if the Middlesex Trust or Harbor Trust fail to erect on the premises numbered 470 Atlantic avenue, in said City of Boston, a thirteen-story manufacturing and office building within a period of eighteen months after the execution of the lease of said premises, then said lease shall forthwith terminate."

HENRY E. BOTHFIELD,
Trustee of Middlesex Trust.
MILTON C. BURTON,
Trustee of Harbor Trust.

September 11, 1924.

Then personally appeared the above-named Henry E. Bothfield, trustee of Middlesex Trust and Milton C. Burton, trustee of Harbor Trust, and acknowledged foregoing instrument to be their free act and deed.

Before me,

HOWARD NORTON,
Notary Public.

The question came on the second and final reading and a passage of the order.

Coun. HEALEY.—Mr. President, I suppose perhaps the order might be so amended as to include that agreement, but perhaps that would not be quite proper. I suppose the Council could go on record as in favor of the order, with the understanding that the agreement will be accepted by the Mayor and the said trustees.

The order was rejected, yeas 3, nays 3:

Yeas—Coun. Healey, Lane, Watson—3.

Nays—Coun. Donoghue, Purcell, Walsh—3.

Coun. WATSON.—Mr. President, I think that Coun. Moriarty has an interest in this matter. He is not present, and I would like to move that the action be reconsidered and the order be placed on the table. I move reconsideration of the vote whereby the Council refused to pass No. 4. I have nothing further to say except that I wish unanimous consent to make a statement.

President DONOGHUE—There being no objection, we will hear from Coun. Watson.

Coun. WATSON.—Mr. President, I would like to see a full vote of the Council on this proposition, rather than having it killed here with only a little more than a bare quorum present, six members. The vote was 3 to 3, with three members absent. I think at least we should have full discussion on the proposition. I think it is a mistake to defeat the order, Mr. President. It means employment. There are a tremendous number of people loafing at the present time. I move reconsideration of our action.

(Coun. Moriarty entered the chamber at this point.)

The motion to reconsider was declared lost. Coun. Watson doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays.

Reconsideration prevailed, yeas 4, nays 3:

Yeas—Coun. Healey, Lane, Moriarty, Watson—4.

Nays—Coun. Donoghue, Purcell, Walsh—3.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I move that the matter lie on the table till the next meeting, when the other members will be present.

Coun. Moriarty's motion prevailed, and the matter was assigned to the next meeting.

ORDINANCE ABOUT ADVERTISING SIGNS.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I move to recall from the Committee on Ordinances the ordinance introduced by me some weeks ago providing a regulation for signboards and advertising.

The ordinance, referred to by Coun. Watson, introduced by him and referred to the Committee on Ordinances August 18, is as follows:

City of Boston.

In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-four.

An Ordinance Relative to Advertising Signs. Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

No person, firm, association or corporation shall post, erect, display or maintain on any public way or on private property within public view from any highway, public park or reservation any billboard or other advertising device which advertises or calls attention to any business, article, substance or any other thing, provided, however, that this prohibition shall not apply to signs or other devices erected and maintained in conformity with law and which advertise or indicate either the person occupying the premises in question or the business transacted thereon, or advertise the property itself or any part thereof as for sale or to let and which contain no other advertising matter.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I want to state briefly my reason for the motion. I did something I never did before in this Council in my life—I took an ordinance handed to me by a person who asked me to introduce it for him, and I did not read it or know the import of the ordinance. It has been referred to the Committee on Ordinances where it has been for seven weeks. I understand that if the ordinance were passed by this Council and were signed by the Mayor, it would mean doing away with signboards of every kind everywhere, and furthermore would be the loss of employment to many workers now in the sign business. I want to apologize to the Council for having introduced the order. I should not have introduced it, and I promise that hereafter I shall not introduce any such order or ordinance, without examination. If our action is reconsidered I want the ordinance defeated, if possible.

The Council voted to withdraw the ordinance from the Committee on Ordinances and, on motion of Coun. WATSON, it was indefinitely postponed.

RECESS.

The Council voted at 3.18 p. m. to take a recess subject to the call of the Chair. The members reassembled in the chamber and were called to order at 4.14 p. m.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. PURCELL, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following:

1. Report on notice of hearings on gasoline licenses from the Street Laying-Out Department (Philip K. Finegold, Shikes & Long, Cities Service Refining Company, Reuben Harris, Joseph Silk, James J. Boyle, Max Lipson and Reardon Building Trust, all referred September 8),—recommending that the same be placed on file.

Report accepted; notices placed on file.

2. Report on notice from the State Department of Public Utilities of hearing to the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston on issue of additional stock (referred today) on October 7, at 10.30 a. m.,—that the same be placed on file.

Report accepted; said notice placed on file.

BUTTONS USED NEW ENGLAND WEEK.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a statement.

President DONOGHUE—If there is no objection, Coun. Watson will proceed.

Coun. WATSON—Last Saturday closed what was called a New England week, conducted by several civic bodies, including the Chamber of Commerce. They had a publicity committee that had a great deal to do with handing out publicity and information to boom the week. I am informed, and I think reliably so, that one of the pieces of publicity or advertising that was broadcasted by the New England week organization was a button that I hold in my hand, with the letters "N. E. W." upon it, spelling "New" and also meaning "New England Week." The button was manufactured in New Jersey. I am informed—in fact, I am positive that I am correct in this—that it was made by the firm of Whitehead & Hoag, a New Jersey company, with plants in Chicago, New Jersey and elsewhere. They deal in advertising souvenirs and materials. The button does not bear the name of anyone who might have manufactured it. It has no union label on it, and I am informed—and I believe it cannot be contradicted—that the moving spirit in the New England week had submitted to them samples of buttons similar to this in design, and in some respects having a better design, from concerns in New England manufacturing buttons and advertising souvenirs and materials. The reason for the failure to purchase a New England-made product, I am informed, I think reliably, was because the price of the button manufactured in New England was a trifle higher than the price offered by the manufacturer outside of New England, and for the further reason that they thought the button made here was not so good as the button that was made outside. It merely brings again to my mind what I have often thought of and what I often see, that these so-called high-class civic bodies, industrial organizations and "Boom New England" organizations are playing the same game that they tell the other people in New England not to play. I think the "New England Week" proposition was an asinine proposition. Ex-Mayor Fitzgerald was one of the very prominent leaders, and leaders in the Chamber of Commerce were others and there were some merchants. I believe the merchants played the game because they believed they were doing something right and proper, but in my opinion in the "New England Week" propaganda they were doing just the same thing that they are criticizing the South for doing. To illustrate my thought: It was called to my attention today by one of the biggest lawyers in Boston, a New England man, attorney for the biggest corporation in New England, that if they were going to play the game they have mapped out they were going to create dissension in their organization, and that their organization, by lining up New England against the South, the Middle States, the West and the Pacific Coast, would be creating trouble, because, while we do not manufacture automobiles in New England to any great extent, if any, we do manufacture accessories, bodies, wheel rims and rubber tires, pneumatic tires for trucks and pleasure vehicles, and the same things are manufactured in the West, and if we undertake to carry to a conclusion the thought of "New England Week" we are going to become a little bit of a circle, existing and living on what New England will buy; and, while I am not an expert on commercial propositions or trade thoughts or ideas, I do know that New England cannot exist without free intercourse and give and take with the rest of the United States. So, in conclusion, I want to say that I think the merchants of Boston and New England, the manufacturers and the well meaning citizens who put up their good money to carry on this New England week, have had the thing managed by a lot of amateurs and that they have wasted a great deal of money. I hope hereafter when the y start something for the benefit of New England the results will be beneficial rather than detrimental.

PREVENTION OF SALE OF FIREARMS.

Coun. MORIARTY offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to petition the General Court at its next session for legislation to prevent the sale of revolvers, pistols and other small firearms within the limits of the state except to policemen and members of the militia.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I will say that some three or four years ago I introduced a similar order and predicted that that winter, on account of many people being unemployed, there would be many assaults made upon our citizenship in the city and state. I remember that at the next session of the Legislature there was a bill introduced by myself and many others, and it was opposed by some of the police departments of our state. It was opposed by some of the gun clubs of our state, who were paid yearly by some of the retail and wholesale gun and revolver makers for the purpose of advertising their make of gun or revolver. They were there in opposition. We have found lately in picking up practically every newspaper, every day in the week, that somebody is being continually maimed or is losing his life through the use of these arms sold to practically anybody who desires to buy. There is a report this afternoon that two policemen in East Boston have lost their lives and that the man who shot them has also been shot. I think it is about time that some legislation for the protection of the life and limb of men and women should be passed, so that they may walk the streets unmolested, without being held up. Nightly you see where young men are going around holding up everybody within sight, and things are not getting any better but are daily getting worse. We see where men, under the influence of liquor, driving automobiles through the streets, are given jail sentences. I feel that the thing ought to go even farther than my order indicates. I feel that the Police Commissioner of Boston should revoke every private permit to carry firearms within our city; that there are men carrying permits granted by the Police Commissioner which have been in existence for many years, not given out by the Police Commissioner now serving but by his predecessor in office and other commissioners. The thing has gone on from year to year, and as a matter of routine the permits have been renewed, without any investigation. I suppose there are thousands of such permits, and I feel that it is about time that some legislation should be enacted which will prevent the continuance of that sort of thing. I know somebody is going to say that every magazine advertises firearms and that you may buy by mail order. I agree that that is so, and perhaps it will be impossible, on account of interstate commerce, to stop those magazines from advertising and selling guns through the United States mail. I agree that some of the stores down town are going to holler, "Why take business away from us?" But I want to say that if we can stop one life from being taken by interfering with the sale of firearms we will be doing something which will justify us with the people we are representing. Two policemen were shot today, two policemen last week, two policemen about a month or two months ago in the South End. A policeman in South Boston a short while ago was shot and maimed for life. I think it is about time that legislation for the protection of the women and children of our city should prevail. I think, in so far as my order is concerned, that I should perhaps offer an amendment, asking the Police Commissioner, through his Honor the Mayor, to revoke all permits now in circulation through the Police Department, starting a movement to see if we cannot cancel the carrying of guns by every Tom, Dick and Harry in this town.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I think it is rather far-reaching when you ask for the recall of every permit. That means that watchmen in a building could not have them. You do not intend to go that far, do you, Councilor?

Coun. MORIARTY—I think, if it were possible to stop other people from carrying guns, that watchmen in any buildings would not need them. I will say that 90 per cent of the policemen prior to the police strike did not carry their guns, and those who did carry them didn't know whether they would work if they tried to use them. So I don't feel that there would be any particular hardship on watchmen in a building. If someone is going to break in, the watchman has no more right to shoot a man breaking in in cold blood than the robber or the man breaking in has a right to shoot the watchman in cold blood. I feel, so far as the carrying of guns is concerned, that you cannot go any too far in stopping it.

Coun. WATSON—Of course, Mr. President, I agree with a great deal that Coun. Moriarty says. He is correct in theory, but let us take a practical case. Take a man or a woman, an invalid, who sometimes during the night is alone, and there may be some valuables in the house. If an invalid woman had a permit to carry a revolver, to take care of herself, I would not vote to ask the Police Commissioner to revoke her permit. I don't think that should be done. I think the promiscuous issuing of permits for the carrying of firearms is entirely wrong. I understand that in London the policemen carry no revolvers at all, are not armed, but I don't think Coun. Moriarty wants to go quite that far. His good wife might be alone sometime, possibly, and she might want protection. If she had a permit I would not favor revoking it, because I believe she would only use it in case of necessity. I could not vote for the proposed amendment, but I will vote for the broadest possible order that will carry out your thought, Councilor.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I will say this in answer to the councilor, that if my wife had a permit to carry a revolver, if I thought she carried it in her sleep, I would want to have the permit taken away from her; and I think in the case of any invalid, woman or man, living in any house, if they are going to carry a revolver in their hands at all times they are not responsible persons to have a permit to carry a gun, because they may make mistakes, as I think many mistakes have been made. The mistake was made first and the life went when the mistake was committed. If anybody is going to break into a house where there is an invalid man or woman, the invalid man or woman is not going to be prepared to meet that person going in.

Coun. WATSON—I cannot vote for the proposed amendment.

Coun. MORIARTY—I am not asking any member to vote for the order. I introduced the order and I am going to vote for it. Everybody else has the same privilege I have, to vote either yes or no.

(At request of Coun. LANE the order with the proposed amendment was read.)

Coun. LANE—Mr. President, I cannot vote for the proposed amendment to the order, because I feel that great harm would be done thereby. I have no proof, and I don't believe Coun. Moriarty has, that the people who have permits are the ones who are doing this promiscuous shooting. If you take away all these permits many will be taken away where the people are using them legitimately. But most of the trouble, it seems to me, comes from the people carrying firearms without permits. The order introduced by the councilor, I believe, is all right. I would be willing to make it as drastic as possible. By reason of interstate commerce we cannot prevent firearms being introduced on mail orders. If we could, I would like to vote for some such provision. But I cannot ask the Police Commissioner to revoke all permits that are out, because I believe that few of the acts of which we complain have been committed by people who have the right to carry firearms, granted by the Police Commissioner.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, if Coun. Moriarty's contention prevails, the guards who go around with pay rolls and automobiles taking money from the different banks will not be permitted to carry revolvers. I merely want to say that I cannot vote for the proposed amendment.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I don't think the Police Commissioner is going to accept any request without consideration. I think he is going to use judgment. We have not the right to compel him to do it; we have no control over him. But Coun. Lane does not know and cannot prove that some of the murders and shootings that have taken place, to which I have referred, were not done by someone who had a permit. You cannot prove that any more than I can prove that those not having permits were responsible. If there is ever a break, and a gun is handy when the break is being made, that is one of the first things that the fellow going into a house takes, and men who get permits in my estimation lay firearms around very carelessly. I think there are a lot of men carrying guns in Boston who are irresponsible people, and if they were in close quarters they might use the gun where some other man would not use it. In so far as the proposed amendment is concerned, I don't care about forcing that. I feel that the Police Commissioner without any request from me ought to at least realize the condition now existing, worse at present than ever. Six or eight policemen have been killed or maimed within the last eight months, and I think he ought to move without any request from me. I am satisfied, with unanimous consent, not to press the amendment. I will withdraw it.

There being no objection, the proposed amendment was withdrawn.

Coun. PURCELL—Mr. President, I rise to a point of information. Does a person keeping a gun in his own home require a permit? I did not realize that he did. I figure that I can keep a gun in my house, if I want to do so. I think if the order was amended so as to cover anybody carrying a gun on the street, that would cover it. I believe it should be so amended that persons cannot carry guns on the street. A watchman could then carry a gun inside of a building. But I believe he ought not to have a permit to carry a gun on the street and I think that is the matter in which we should appeal to the Police Commissioner, the prevention of carrying guns on the street. Nothing needs to be done about having guns in a man's house. I think that will cover what Coun. Moriarty is after.

President DONOGHUE—The Chair would state that he understands that you do not require a permit for a gun in your house, but that you do to carry it on your person. I would like to say, while this matter is under consideration, that I believe the entire proposition is one of regulation. I don't believe it would be possible to ever have regulation enacted that would prevent people from purchasing revolvers and, therefore, I cannot very well see the logic of the order. It seems to me that people who wish to have guns will get them in ways that are now available. If this order which has been introduced here were to be enacted into law, nobody could buy a gun in this Commonwealth. It seems to me we would be going pretty far in saying that people shall not be allowed to purchase a revolver for their own protection. While we have civilization we are always going to have some members of it who will persist in breaking the law, whether it be with guns, knives or something else. That is going to continue until the millennium is reached, in my opinion. I really cannot vote for this order, because I cannot see that we would ever be able to place it in practical effect. If anyone wants a gun, he is going to get the gun. He may not be able to buy it in Massachusetts, but he will get somewhere else. The only ones we are going to prevent having guns, if this legislation is enacted, are the ones who would wish to have them for their own protection, not the ones who go around shooting people up. We are putting an obstacle in the way of a person who wants to protect himself, and when it is a matter of life and death, I believe a person who is a good living citizen has a right to protect himself at all hazards. We are going to take that right away from him and only give it to people who now do wrong, people who will then have the opportunity to go around armed, with the knowledge that everybody else is unarmed. I cannot see that. The question comes on the passage of the order.

The order was declared passed.

President DONOGHUE—I desire to be recorded as voting no on the order.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

On motion of Coun. WATSON a general reconsideration of all action today was refused.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. WALSH, at 4.41 p. m., to meet on Monday, September 29, at 2 p. m.

MAYOR CURLEY ANNOUNCES HIS POSITION ON CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT.

TAKES STAND AND PUBLISHES VIEWS AFTER CONFUSING STATEMENTS AND CONFLICTING DISCUSSIONS HAD BEGUN TO CLOUD THE ISSUE.

Mayor James M. Curley has announced unmistakably his stand on the Child Labor Amendment broadcasting the same this week from City Hall when he said:

"A study of the 'Congressional Record' of the 68th Congress, first session, pages 1-16, leaves no course open for any person interested in the perpetuation of a free America than to oppose the proposed amendment, and this I shall do. It is my purpose, nevertheless, to give my time and energy and such money as it is possible for me to give to aid in the movement for the adoption of adequate child labor laws in each state where proper protection is not afforded.

"The most important work confronting America today is the conservation of the womanhood and manhood of America. The importance of protective legislation whereby the youth of the land may be safeguarded from exploitation in industry destructive both to physical and mental development has been recognized by the adoption in more than twenty states of child labor legislation.

"From the economic standpoint it is important both as a measure of protection of the future manhood and womanhood of America and to the safeguarding of the wage received by adults in industry that the labor of children be restricted, and under certain conditions absolutely prohibited. Substantially every person of prominence in America, either in religious, labor, political or other circles, is in agreement on this matter. In an address in the Senate Chamber of the United States by Senator King, May 31, 1924, he stated every Bolshevik, every extreme Communist and Socialist in the United States is back of the Child Labor Amendment to the Constitution of the United States to be voted upon November 4.

"This is a bolshevistic scheme, and a lot of good people misled are accepting it, not knowing the real consequence which will result and the sinister purposes back of the measure. The Bolsheviks of Russia were familiar with the scheme that is about to be launched to amend our Constitution. The 'Congressional Record' of May 31, 1924, states further that the constitutional amendment on which the people of the United States will vote in November was drafted by the former Miss Wischnewetsky, a professional Socialist, translator of Karl Marx and editor of the Archive for Sozialgesetzgebung at Berling and president of the Intercollegiate Socialist League of the United States.

"The 'Congressional Record' of May 31, 1924, further states that Miss Wischnewetsky, Socialist, translator of Karl Marx, friend of Frederich Engles (co-author with Marx of the Communist manifesto of 1848), who had been a resident of Hull House, Chicago, a founder of the national child labor committee, the American Association for Labor Legislation (a product of the second international), the National Consumers' Leagues, etc., president of the Intercollegiate Socialist League (now the League for Industrial Democracy), who had been working for a Federal Child Labor law since 1905, has been engaged in this work for many years.

"Frederich Engles, joint founder with Karl Marx of modern Socialism, instructed Miss Wischnewetsky, in a letter dated January 27, 1887, how Socialism could be worked 'into the flesh and blood' of Americans by their experience.

"He wrote. 'The less it will be knocked into the Americans from without and the more they test it . . . by their experience the deeper it will go into their flesh and blood.' (Quoted in New York Call, Socialist organ, January 29, 1923.)

"This, in part, is the position taken by those interested and sponsors for this legislation. I am desirous that my position be absolutely understood.

"I am a candidate for the office of Governor of Massachusetts and naturally I am desirous of being elected. I have no desire, however, to secure any person's vote through resort to falsehood or subterfuge. I desire my position made absolutely clear. I believe it is vital for the security of America and the happiness of the American people that they be permitted to work out their own destiny without interference from either pacifists within the nation, or Bolsheviks outside the nation. If it be the purpose of Miss Wischnewetsky through the Child Labor Amendment to lay the foundation for a Sovietized United States of America then it becomes the duty of all persons interested in the preservation of the American Republic to set aside every consideration other than national integrity. A Boston morning newspaper would convey the impression that the most important thing in my existence is election to the office of Governor of Massachusetts. They are in error. It is not. I consider the duty I owe to my American citizenship of greater importance than the office for which I am a candidate and I would prefer defeat as a candidate standing four square by American principles and American institutions than to succeed through subterfuge."

MAYOR CURLEY'S INTEREST AROUSED TO AID SISTERS OF MT. ST. JOSEPH ACADEMY.

FINDS THEY ARE DETAINED AT ELLIS ISLAND AND SECURES THEIR RELEASE THAT THEY MIGHT REACH THEIR BOSTON HOMES QUICKLY.

Mayor Curley was immeasurably gratified to learn on October 3, in a communication received from Hon. W. W. Husband, Commissioner General of the Bureau of Immigration, Department of Labor, Washington, D. C., that Sister Ann Louis Reynaud and Sister Lucien Goudard, destined to Mt. St. Joseph Academy in Brighton, as teachers of French and the languages, and who had been detained upon the arrival of the S. S. "Tauris" from Marseilles, France, at Ellis Island, during the last week in August, 1924, had, upon the Mayor's earnest entreaty, secured unconditional admission to the United States.

It appears that Sister Ann Louis Reynaud and Sister Lucien Goudard were originally teachers in a French convent in Paris and were assigned to a convent in Fall River where for some years they were listed as teachers of modern languages. Desiring to make a trip abroad they proceeded to their homes in France, and upon arrival of the S. S. "Tauris" at Ellis Island, New York, were detained under the quota exemption terms of the Burnett-Dillingham Immigration Act. The sisters of the convent in Fall River appealed to Bernard J. McDonald, a Fall River attorney, who presented the facts in the case to Mayor Curley, supplemented by an earnest appeal in behalf of residents of Fall River, that every possible step should be taken at Washington that would enable the sisters to secure admission to this country to engage in their educational pursuits at Mt. St. Joseph Academy in Brighton.

PLANS ADEQUATE FOR CARING FOR DEPENDENTS OF DECEASED POLICEMAN.

Mayor Curley received the following communication from the Assistant Corporation Counsel:

Your communication of September 26, addressed to the Corporation Counsel, relative to the adoption of a policy with reference to members of the Police Department who are killed while in the discharge of their duties has been referred to me.

Before consulting with the Police Commissioner of the City of Boston I made an examination of the law relative to the matter contained in your communication and found that chapter 371 of the Acts of 1924, which was approved May 20, 1924, and which is an amendment of section 87 of chapter 32 of the General Laws as amended by chapter 178 of the Acts of 1923 provides:

"If a policeman in a regularly organized police department of a city or town or a member of the Department of Public Safety doing police duty is killed, or dies within six months from injuries received, while in the performance of his duties, and his death is certified by the city or town clerk or commissioner of public safety, as the case may be, and by the attending physician or medical examiner, to the officer required to make payment as hereinafter provided there shall be paid to his executor or administrator the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars for the use equally of his widow or minor children; or if there are minor children but no widow, and if there is no minor child, to the use of the widow, and if there is no widow, or minor child, to the use of the next for such service. Application may be made to this department for information regarding the public baths and gymnasiums maintained by the city, and with regard to municipal indoor concerts and band concerts; also information relative to Mt. Hope, Evergreen, Fairview and other public cemeteries owned by the City of Boston.

TO THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE, 15 Beacon street, for information relative to the operation of the schools of the city.

TO THE SCHOOLHOUSE COMMISSIONERS, Room 1007, City Hall Annex, for information as to the construction and repair of school buildings.

TO THE BOARD OF EXAMINERS, Room 1001, City Hall Annex, for information regarding the licensing of persons having charge or control of the work of construction, alteration, removal or tearing down of buildings.

TO THE WIRE DIVISION OF THE FIRE DEPARTMENT, Fire Department Headquarters, 60 Bristol street, for all information relative to the erection of poles, the building of conduits, the installation of all overhead and underground construction and electrical apparatus, as well as for general information relative to the entire division. To Room 906, City Hall Annex, for permits for the installing of wires and electrical apparatus within buildings in the City of Boston, and for the payment of fees incident to the granting of the privileges above named, and which must be paid in advance.

of kin, if dependent upon such deceased person for support. A child of full age dependent upon such policeman for support shall be regarded as a minor child. Payment shall be made by the treasurer of the city or town concerned, if the policeman was in the service of a city or town, and by the state treasurer if the policeman was a member of the Department of Public Safety doing police duty."

The Police Relief Association, of which any member of the Police Department may become a member, and of which Officer Motroni was a member, pays a benefit of $1,000 to the beneficiaries of a deceased policeman.

Chapter 68 of the Acts of 1920 which is an amendment to chapter 93 of the Special Acts of 1919, provides that:

"Annuities payable to the widows and children of deceased policemen and firemen of the City of Boston, under the provisions of chapter 178 of the Acts of 1887 or of section 2 of chapter 107 of the Acts of 1880 shall be in such sums not exceeding $600 as the City Council may determine."

Accordingly the widow and child of Officer Motroni will receive $2,500 from the city; $1,000 from the Police Relief Association, and an annuity of $600 per year.

After investigating so far I consulted with the Police Commissioner who informed me that his opinion was that there was no need of further legislation or action, as he believed that the amounts already provided by statute were sufficient.

Respectfully yours,

H. MURRAY PAKULSKI,
Assistant Corporation Counsel.

MAYOR CURLEY SUBMITS TO LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE FIVE BANK TAX REFORM SUGGESTIONS.

REPRESENTED BY HON. JOHN A. SULLIVAN HE ASKS FOR MORE UNIFORM AND EQUITABLE SYSTEM OF TAXATION.

Speaking for Mayor James M. Curley before the special commission created by the Legislature to recommend legislation for a more uniform and equitable system of taxation of national bank, savings banks and trust companies, John A. Sullivan, special counsel for the City of Boston, charged that Massachusetts has selected the banking interests as a favored class and is discriminating in their favor and against the people who pay at the local property rates on their property taxable locally.

On behalf of the Mayor he offered five suggestions for reforms in the present bank taxation laws which, he declared, will not conflict with either Federal or State constitutions, but will put an end to the present alleged discrimination, which amounts to a revolutionizing of the tax laws so that "most of the tax burdens rest upon those least able to bear them." He charged the Legislature with bad faith in its handling of the national bank taxation problem and with becoming alarmed at the extent to which it has gone.

The statement was in part, as follows:

"Mayor Curley's suggestions to your honorable commission are to recommend to the Legislature the following reforms:

"1. Repeal the law taxing national banks on their net income.

"2. Pass a law taxing shares of national banks at their fair cash value at the local property rates.

"3. Repeal the law taxing trust companies on their net income.

"4. Pass a law taxing them on their franchises.

"5. Tax capital employed in the banking business by individuals and partnerships on the fair value of that capital.

"Then you will have taxed alike all whose capital is employed in the banking business. There can be no further claim of discrimination.

"All this can be done without violating the Federal or the State constitutions or the act of Congress relating to the taxation of shares of national banks.

"The state of New York passed a law last year which taxed shares of national banks on their fair cash value, and also taxed at its full value the capital employed in the banking business by individuals and partnerships. The banks and the private bankers challenged the validity of that law. They employed the best legal talent in the country. The case was decided by a justice of the Supreme Court of New York on July 15 of this year. The law was upheld. What New York has done Massachusetts can do.

"New York did not decline to pass the law because bank attorneys predicted the courts would declare it void; but Massachusetts did. Its Legislature accepted the opinions of the bank attorneys. The New York decision shows they were wrong. The Massachusetts Legislature was asked last year to request the opinion of our Supreme Judicial Court on the validity of the law proposed by Mayor Curley. That request was ignored. Why was it not accepted? That question has never been answered. Our Supreme Judicial Court is impartial. The bank attorneys are not—yet the opinions of the bank attorneys were preferred.

"No adequate law for taxing the banking interests has been passed in Massachusetts in the last two years. On the contrary the taxes on national banks have been reduced. The taxes on trust companies have been reduced. Taxes on real estate and tangible personal property have mounted upward, meanwhile. The banking interests have been selected as a favored class. Public revenues have greatly diminished. This is a shocking condition of affairs in a community where quality is said to be the keystone of our democratic institutions.

"How long is Massachusetts to suffer this disgrace? How long shall we wait for a readjustment of tax burdens so that they shall be placed on our people in some fair proportion to their ability to pay them? Your action, Gentlemen of the Commission, will in large part answer that question.

"In the six years following the enactment of the income tax law the total tax on shares of national banks was $14,370,720. The average per year was $2,395,120. In the last year of the six, 1922, it was $2,784,204.

"In 1923 the Legislature reduced the taxes on national bank shares. (C. 487.) It substituted a tax of 12½ per cent on income for the former tax on shares at the local property rates. In the first year under the 1923 law the taxes collected were only $681,761—a reduction from the year before of $2,102,443 or 75 per cent. One bank which paid $432,250 in 1922 paid only $69.75 in 1923. Some banks paid nothing in 1923. The new law had worked well for the banks.

"In 1924 the Legislature tried to make the national banks pay more. It had intended to favor the banks in the 1923 Act. It became alarmed on discovering how far it had gone in doing good to the banks. So it passed the minimum tax law providing that the tax paid by a bank should be at least as much as six per cent of the dividends it had paid in the year. (C. 233.) Even with this handicap the banks were too smart for the taxing authorities. The taxes in 1924 amounted to only $563,338. This was $118,423 less than in 1923. If it were not for the minimum tax law of 1924, these banks would have paid only $401,782. The table of diminishing returns is shown in the following comparison of the taxes for the last year under the old system with the first two years under the new system:

"1923—$681,761, reduction from 1922, 75 per cent.

"1924—$563,338, reduction from 1922, 80 per cent, approximately.

"In 1924 the trust companies, seeing how good the going was for national banks, got themselves put under the same 12½ per cent tax on income law. (C. 247.) The figures showing the amount collected in 1924 have not yet been published, but I am informed that the taxes will be considerably less than in 1923. That was the object of the law.

"Is it not about time to call a halt?

Is it not time to stop the discrimination in favor of national banks and trust companies and against the people who pay at the local property rates on their property taxable locally? If the process of taking taxes off the richer and placing them on the poorer elements in the community is fair in the case of national banks and trust companies, how can you resist similar demands from all other corporations in the state? In the end the tax laws will have been revolutionized and most of the tax burdens will rest upon those least able to bear them. That is not statesmanship. It is not even good politics. It is certainly not in accordance with generally accepted principles of taxation.

"It is up to you, gentlemen, to rectify the great error which has been committed. You can do so by recommending the program outlined at the beginning of this address."

MAYOR'S INTEREST AROUSED.

Mayor Curley made a vigorous appeal to Commissioner General Husband under paragraph (d) section 4, stating the regulations relative to those persons who shall be considered as "non-quota immigrants." This section of the Burnett-Dillingham Immigration Act reads as follows: "When used in this act the term 'non-quota immigrant' means 'An immigrant who continuously for at least two years immediately preceding the time of his application for admission to the United States has been, and who seeks to enter the United States solely for the purpose of, carrying on the vocation of minister of any religious denomination, or professor of a college, academy, seminary, or university; and his wife, and his unmarried children under eighteen years of age, if accompanying or following to join him.'"

It was the contention of Mayor Curley that as the religious sisters had for a period of years been, in reality, professors of languages, they clearly came within the non-quota immigrant provision, and this contention of the Mayor has been sustained and approved by the ruling of Commissioner General Husband. The case is the first known in Massachusetts in which religious teachers have been held under the terms of the new Immigration Act and Mayor Curley is especially gratified that a precedent has been established.

MAYOR CURLEY MOVES TO AID IN MOST SENSATIONAL HEALTH MEASURE.

PRESENTS ORDER TO CITY COUNCIL, UPON REQUEST OF CONSERVATION BUREAU, CALLING FOR THE SUM OF $10,000 FOR EXPERIMENT WITH SUN'S RAYS THAT MAY STOP RICKETS IN CHILDREN.

Mayor Curley drew up the following message for presentation to the City Council on Monday's meeting:

To the City Council.

GENTLEMEN,—The Boston Conservation Bureau have this day submitted a report, which, in the event that their conclusions are sound and the research work which they propose undertaking should prove the success which they anticipate it will, will prove of inestimable value to the human family and the agriculturists. The modest sum requested, namely, $10,000, as contrasted with the great benefits anticipated, in my opinion justified favorable action by the City of Boston.

I accordingly recommend adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

The order reads as follows:

Ordered, that under the authority of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 that the sum of $10,000 be and the same is hereby transferred from Reserve Fund to Boston Conservation Bureau, G-2, Special Investigations.

The communication of the Conservation Bureau follows:

DEAR MR. MAYOR,—I have pleasure in reporting a remarkable and useful piece of research work which has been carried on by Dr. W. T. Boyle, professor of biophysics at Harvard, who is a member of my committee on medical research.

In co-operation with the General Electric Company and with Doctor Little, a new quartz glass has been invented, which has the property heretofore unknown of permitting the free passage of actinic rays through it. It has been proven that ordinary window glass stops these actinic rays, which are the curative rays, and might be called the "life-giving rays" of the sun, so that in northern climates, poor children brought up in dark alleys and rich children brought up in houses where the windows are closed, develop rickets, and frequently tuberculosis.

Up to now, it has been believed that by exposing such children in greenhouses to the sun's rays, that the effect would be beneficial, but these investigations proved that the curative rays are stopped by the glass. Furthermore, a lamp has been developed and is now in use which enables the operator to concentrate these ultra violet rays on the patient, so that by an exposure of from one minute to fifteen minutes daily, depending upon the distance away from the lamp, as much artificial sunlight can be applied as can be obtained by twelve hours or more exposure to the sun's rays directly.

Of course, the curative value of violet rays has been known for some time, but the lenses now in use stop the most effective rays, so that the result has not been so good.

I take the liberty of recommending that one of these lamps be placed in each health unit and that at least one nurse in each unit be authorized to take instruction in the use and operation of these lamps. Fortunately, the margin of safety both ways is very wide, so that little harm can be done even by an unskilled operator. Nevertheless, the operators should be intelligent and well-instructed. These rays are not only a valuable treatment for rickets and tuberculosis, but they will cure a larger number of skin diseases.

Another series of experiments has just been completed by Professor Bocie and Doctor Little, which have great economic value. In New England alone, hundreds of thousands of dollars can be saved annually by the use of these rays, and by the knowledge of what this piece of research work has developed.

It is well known that an average of 75 per cent of chickens dies before they are five weeks old, the largest percentage dying in the fourth and fifth week. If they get past the fifth week, they seem to have developed strength and resistance enough to live. It is now proven by this research that the principal cause of this mortality is lack of sufficient exposure to the direct rays of the sun. In our northern climate, most of the year it is too cold to let young chickens and other domestic fowl run in the open, and so they are kept in dark brooding houses, or under the best circumstances, in greenhouses. As I have explained above, the health-giving rays of the sun are kept out by the glass and chickens die.

I enclose some photographs, No. 1 which shows two chickens from the same brood. They are four weeks old. They were hatched and reared under exactly the same controlling conditions, the same food, sand, dust and water in adjacent pens in a greenhouse. Most of the class from which the small chickens came developed rickets and 75 per cent of them died by the time they reached this age. The other 25 per cent were of the size that is shown on the photograph. The large bird, brought up under the same conditions, received exposure to the ultra violet rays for fifteen minutes a day and all of the chickens in this class lived past the dangerous period. The chicken weighs five times as much as the smaller bird.

In order to get facilities, Professor Bovie had to go to Maine, as the Harvard Biophysical Laboratory has no greenhouse available, and I therefore respectfully submit the advisability of an additional appropriation to the Conservation Bureau of $10,000 to be used for the erection and equipment of a greenhouse and laboratory at Huntington avenue, Boston, adjacent to the Biophysical Laboratory. If Professor Bovie had a workshop adjacent to his present laboratories, it would enable him and his assistants to do much more work in carrying on this research.

Professor Bovie is on our committee but receives no compensation for his services and does not want any.

Yours sincerely,

BOSTON CONSERVATION BUREAU,
M. DOUGLAS FLATTERY,
Chairman.

MAKES URGENT PLEA FOR SAVING WAGE IN INDUSTRY FOR LABORERS.

MAYOR CURLEY IS GREETED ENTHUSIASTICALLY BY WALTHAM CITIZENS WHEN HE DISCUSSES INDUSTRIAL SYSTEM.

Mayor Curley speaking on the labor question at Waltham said in part:

The action of the management of the Waltham Watch Company is the same character of action that may be anticipated in every large industrial establishment in America in the event of Republican success nationally. The morning newspapers report that at a convention of the American Bankers' Association at Chicago, at the close of the session, that it is the opinion of the leading bankers of the country that wages should be liquidated at once. This position might very properly be taken provided the insurgent movement led by La Follette and his group in the West and Northwest represented a political revolt in the ranks of the Democratic party but the revolt being confined almost wholly to the Republican party, coupled with the statement of the national manager of the Republican Campaign Committee, William S. Butler, that there was doubt even in his mind as to the success of the Republican nominee for President, would make it appear that the action taken here in Waltham and proposed throughout the nation by the American Bankers' Association is not only premature but extremely short-sighted.

The establishment of what has been termed the saving wage in America was only possible as a consequence of the exigencies of the World War draining the youth of the nation, thereby creating temporarily a shortage which resulted in the blessing of a premium for the creative source of all wealth, they who toil with hands and brain. The saving wage in America maintained for a quarter of a century means a more intelligent America, a more healthful America, a more patriotic America, a more useful America, and it means a fruition of the pledge of equality of opportunity, the cornerstone of the American experiment in government. Who seeks to destroy this institution is the friend of the old order at heart and believer and supporter of the exploded theory of class and caste.

I realize that capital is entitled to justice, but not more, and that labor should enjoy every right that is enjoyed or exercised by capital. We have experienced a practical demonstration of the value of co-operation between employer and employee in the agreement signed more than a year ago between the Building Trades Employers and Employees of Greater Boston through which industrial peace and constructive progress has been enjoyed to the fullest measure by the parties to the agreement. The benefits have been reflected, shared and enjoyed by the entire community. John Boyle O'Reilly has epitomized the progress of organized labor under intelligent leadership in the short lines:

"A Nation's greatness lies in men not acres,
One master mind is worth a million hands."

The establishment of humane conditions in industry in America in all probability would have been long delayed were it not for the monumental character of service rendered by the American Federation of Labor. Through the instrumentality of this great force in the life of America the eight-hour day with its opportunity and promise of a little more enjoyment in the home and added opportunity for the increase of knowledge was substituted for the twelve-hour day. The spectacle of a president of the United States pleading in the name of the United Churchmen of America to the powerful steel interests to discontinue an industrial feudal system represented by a twelve-hour day in the steel industry, and such as formerly obtained in every industry, was as abhorrent as the demands now made by the American Bankers' Association in the nation and the management of the Waltham Watch Company here in Massachusetts.

The experience of a former president of the United States in his endeavors to dictate the leaders and the policies of the American Federation of Labor were of such recent occurrence as to be fresh in the memory of every individual. The humiliation suffered in the attempt to supplant the present able leader of the American Federation of Labor, Samuel Gompers, with Mr. Lewis, merited the rebuff and rejection which it received at the hands of organized labor.

The emancipation of the worker presents the most harrowing story ever unfolded in the world's history. Every reform enjoyed today by the worker is stained with tears and sorrows and in many cases the blood of those who considered no sacrifice too great in the achievement of benefits that might serve as a blessing to posterity.

The Workingmen's Compensation Act, with its guaranty of protection to the dependents of the toiler made possible through organized labor, can best be conserved through the perpetuation of organized labor that the bankers now seek to destroy.

The Mother's Aid Act adopted in this Commonwealth in 1913 represents the development of a humanitarian spirit supplemented by the intelligence of organized labor during a period of 130 years. It seems inconceivable that any individual or group of individuals would be so blinded by the lure of power which is but another word for money to declare war against such a necessary force for the good of America and its people.

Here in Waltham a highly intelligent and exceptionally skilled body of women and men have developed a product known internationally for its standard of excellence. It has been produced under conditions that make for loyalty and cheerfulness in the service rendered by the employee. The workers of the Waltham Watch Company desire only the right to continue in their employment, seeking in return for their labor only that which competent judges have determined that they are entitled to receive. From what I have been able to ascertain it is another one of those strikes engineered in the name of economy, solely for the purpose of liquidating the wage scale of the workers. No worth-while American is desirous of a return to the starvation wage scale which obtained in America prior to the World War.

Every thoughtful citizen realizes that the saving wage scale resulting from the World War has been the most potential factor in improved health and mental conditions and opportunities for the American people. The sincere wishes and earnest prayers of all lovers of America and of justice are with the workers of Waltham in their courageous stand for the retention of a wage scale which means more profitable business for every local interest in Waltham and more general happiness in the home of every worker.

*Awarded contract.

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do the work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

PARK DEPARTMENT.

Upon September 27 the Mayor approved a contract with George J. Regan for water supply at the Public Garden. A communication from the Park Department was as follows:

Boston, September 18, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—You are hereby requested to award to George J. Regan, 92 Stoughton street, Dorchester, without publicly advertising, a contract for water supply to the Public Garden for the sum of $1,875.

You are hereby requested to award to George J. Regan, 92 Stoughton street, Dorchester, without publicly advertising, a contract for water supply to the Public Garden for the sum of $1,875.

The reason for this request to award this contract, without advertising, is that the work must be done before the dedication of the George Robert White Memorial to be held October 1, 1924, and the contractor guarantees to complete the work before this date.

Respectfully yours,

DANIEL J. BYRNE,
Secretary.

Upon October 6 the Mayor approved a contract with P. J. Dinn & Co. for furnishing and installing a corral at Franklin Park. A communication from the Park Department was as follows:

Boston, October 6, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—Your approval is respectfully asked to authorize the Board of Park Commissioners to award, without advertising, a contract to P. J. Dinn & Co., 278 Dover street, Boston, to furnish and install a corral, similar in every way to the present ones in Franklin Park Zoological Garden, for the sum of $1,350.

The reason for making this request is that we have arranged with the United States Government to ship three buffaloes from the National Yellowstone Park to the Franklin Park Zoo. As the buffaloes are to be shipped at once, we have not the time to advertise for proposals for the construction of a corral. The other work done for us by P. J. Dinn & Co. is of a high class and the price submitted is a very satisfactory one.

Very truly yours,

DANIEL J. BYRNE,
Secretary.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

Upon October 4 the Mayor approved a contract with Dominick Fagone for the construction of artificial sidewalks. A communication from Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, October 3, 1924.

To the Mayor of Boston:

Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Domenick Fagone, 44 Tilton street, Boston, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; second, the expense of construction is divided by the City and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve $1,000.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon October 4 the Mayor approved a contract with Levine-Segal for the construction of artificial sidewalks. A communication from Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, October 3, 1924.

To the Mayor of Boston:

Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Levine-Segal, 110 Waumbek street, Roxbury, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; second, the expense of construction is divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve $1,000.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon September 26 the Mayor approved a contract with A. G. Tomasello, for the construction of artificial sidewalks. A communication from Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, September 23, 1924.

To the Mayor of Boston:

Your approval is respectfully requested to the award of a contract, without advertising, to A. G. Tomasello & Son, 68 Devonshire street, Boston, for building sewerage works in Bowman street, Dorchester, at a cost of $1,901.50.

There would be no advantage in advertising for bids for this work. A. G. Tomasello & Son now have a contract for concrete pavement in this street, and are in a better position to construct the sewerage works in conjunction with their paving contract than would be the case by advertising for bids, and having two contractors in the street at the same time.

The work to be done under this contract is to be completed on or before October 15, 1924.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Paving Service).

Upon October 6 the Mayor approved a contract with M. Racich for the construction of artificial sidewalks. A communication from Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, October 6, 1924.

To the Mayor of Boston:

Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to M. Racich, 1060 Saratoga street, East Boston, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; second the expense of construction is divided by the city and abutters also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve $1,000.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

SCHOOLHOUSE DEPARTMENT.

Upon September 30 the Mayor approved a contract with T. F. Connor for painting the gymnasium and drill hall of the English High School. A communication from Thomas P. Glynn of the Schoolhouse Department was as follows:

Boston, September 29, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—The Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners respectfully requests the approval of your Honor, under the provisions of chapter 486, section 30, of the Acts of 1909, to awarding a contract, without advertising, to T. F. Connor, 1 Cedar park, Roxbury district, for painting the gymnasium and drill hall of the English High School, the cost of said work to exceed $1,000.

The reason for making this request is as follows: The Board has been notified that the alumni banquet is to be held in these rooms on October 30, and there is not therefore sufficient time to advertise for bids and have the work completed by that date. The Board consequently requests the approval of your Honor to the awarding of contract as stated.

Respectfully yours,

THOMAS P. GLYNN,
Chairman.

Upon October 4 the Mayor approved a contract with Walter Curley & Son for repairs to the Charles Sumner School. A communication from Thomas P. Glynn of the Schoolhouse Department was as follows:

Boston, October 3, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—The Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners respectfully requests the approval of your Honor to the payment of bill of Walter Curley & Son, 11 Robeson street, in the sum of one thousand six hundred and twelve dollars and nineteen cents ($1,612.19), for repairs to the Charles Sumner School.

The reason for making this request is as follows: Two fires occurred in this building, on June 11 and on June 25, which caused considerable damage. This is a four-story building, and all four floors were damaged. It was impossible at the time to approximate the amount of repair work to be done, and it was also an emergency job, as the school was required to be ready for occupancy at the reopening of school sessions. The Board therefore believed it advisable to have the work proceeded with at once, and as it is now completed, requests your Honor's approval of payment of the bill as stated.

Respectfully yours,

THOMAS P. GLYNN,
Chairman.

Upon October 6 the Mayor approved a contract with the Nichols-Egan Company for finish hardware for the Bennett School. A communication from

Thomas P. Glynn of the Schoolhouse Commission was as follows:

Boston, October 6, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—The Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners respectfully requests the approval of your Honor, under the provisions of chapter 86, section 30, of the Acts of 1909, to awarding a contract, without advertising, to Nichols-Egan Company, Water street, in the sum of two thousand and fifty (2,050) dollars, for finish hardware for the Bennett School, which is being rebuilt after the fire.

The reason for making this request is as follows: The building will be ready for the hardware in about five weeks, and it will take longer than that time to have the hardware prepared and delivered at the work. There is therefore not sufficient time to advertise for bids. The Board believes it desirable to award the contract as stated, and trusts this will meet with your approval.

Respectfully yours,

THOMAS P. GLYNN,
Chairman.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.General Order No. 616.

BOSTON POLICE PARADE, DRESS PARADE, AND REVIEW, MONDAY, OCTOBER
13, 1924.

General Instructions.

On Monday, October 13, 1924, the Boston police parade will take place, at 9.50 a. m. sharp.

Every officer in the department, who is not sick, will take part in the parade, go on street duty on his division, or will hold himself in readiness in his station house until the parade is over.

Division commanders will instruct all officers who are to take part in the parade, to present the very best possible appearance, not only as to uniform and equipment, but also as to personal appearance; hair trimmed, face shaved, and shoes conditioned; to refrain from chewing any substance; to preserve silence in the ranks; to pay no attention to greetings or remarks, friendly or otherwise, which may be made by spectators along the line, and at all times to pay attention and show discipline, so that when any command is given it will be understood and immediately executed.

The regulation fall uniforms, with dress coat, white standing collar, and white gloves will be worn by members of the department participating in the parade, and also by officers on detail and on street duty in uniform.

It is desirable that members of the force, who are veterans and who are entitled to wear decorations or insignia other than service buttons, members of the rifle clubs who qualified as sharpshooters and marksmen, and the members who have been awarded the Scott department medal, wear the same on breast of uniform coat in line with police badge, while taking part in the parade.

Short-day men detailed to parade will be excused at 6 a. m., October 13, and they will report at station for first-half duty at 6.45 p. m., October 13.

After the parade is over, day men on route duty will remain on the street until relieved, at about 7 p. m. Long-day men will be governed by instructions from their commanders.

During the parade the officer in charge of each station will see that a sufficient number of men is on street duty, and a sufficient number held in station for emergency calls. If additional men are needed in any station in an emergency, call headquarters immediately.

During the absence of the patrol wagons from Divisions 13 and 14, Division 13 will use its Ford touring car to answer wagon or other calls. In case an ambulance is needed, the nearest station having a combination wagon will send its wagon, if called. Division 13 will call Division 10's wagon and Division 14 will call Division 16's wagon. In case of accident, where more than one ambulance is required, officers in charge of divisions will notify headquarters, and they will immediately notify City Hospital and the Relief Hospital.

After the parade is dismissed on the Common, each captain or officer in charge of a unit will be governed by the superintendent's orders relative to other details for the day.

Division commanders stationed a long distance from parade formation point, will arrange for their men to ride in street cars, paying the fares, if necessary, and charge the same in their account.

Sergeant Comerford and twenty mounted patrolmen will ride at the head of the parade, riding ten abreast, except in School street, where they will ride in column of fours.

The mounted unit will be preceded by two mounted patrolmen from Division 16 and they will act as skirmishers to clear the streets of vehicles and other obstructions. Two mounted men from Division 20 will ride in rear of parade.

Commanders of companies and units, as designated by Superintendent's Order of October 1 for the police parade, will report to Captain Louis E. Lutz, on Dartmouth street, between Commonwealth avenue and Beacon street, at 9 a. m. sharp, Monday, October 13, 1924.

Battalion commanders, Deputy Superintendents Thomas C. Evans, Forrest F. Hall and Thomas F. Goode, with their adjutants, lieutenants, William H. Allen, Division 2; George H. Guard, Division 13; and Harry P. Burns, Division 5, respectively, will report at the same time and place, form their respective battalions in line, and see that their several companies are properly uniformed and equipped, after which each battalion commander will direct his adjutant to report to the regimental adjutant, at 9.40 a. m., sharp. The companies assigned to each battalion are enumerated in General Order No. 612 of October 2, 1924.

Details, as per special order of October 1, 1924, for the Riot Gun companies, Motorcycle Unit, Machine Gun Unit, and for Divisions 8, 18, and Division 20, Traffic Company No. 2, will report at 8.45 a. m. to Adjutant Captain Lutz, in Commonwealth avenue, south side, at Dartmouth street. It is very important that the men detailed for these companies and units report on time and be carefully instructed as to which company they are to report.

The commanding officers of Divisions 8, 18, and 20, No. 2 Companies will report at 8.45 a. m. with the designated number of men from their own divisions. Their companies will be formed by the regimental adjutant, after which they will proceed to their place in their respective battalions.

Lieut. Charles B. McCloskey, Lieut. Edward H. Mullen, Lieut. Michael C. Bresnahan, and Lieut. Archibald F. Campbell, superintendent's staff, will report at 9.30 a. m., sharp, to Adjutant Lutz, on Dartmouth street, corner of Marlborough street.

Other lieutenants and sergeants, assigned to parade with companies and units other than their own, will report at time and place ordered for such company or unit.

The color bearers and color guard will report at Police Headquarters and be ready to leave there for the formation point at 9 a. m., October 13. Division 3 will furnish its patrol wagon to carry them to Dartmouth street at Marlborough street. After the parade is dismissed on the Common, the wagon driver will again report there and carry them back to headquarters.

Line will be formed at 9.45 a. m., with the right of the 1st Battalion resting at Commonwealth avenue on Dartmouth street, and the regiment turned over to Superintendent Michael H. Crowley, after which the regiment will start to parade at 9.50 a. m., sharp, over the following route:

Route.

Dartmouth street, to south side of Commonwealth avenue, Arlington street, Boylston street, north side, between Arlington and Charles streets, Tremont street, Temple place, Washington, School, Beacon and Charles streets, to the Boston Common.

Division companies and riot gun companies will enter through gate, corner Charles and Beacon streets. The mounted unit, motorcycle unit, machine gun unit and patrol wagons will enter through the center gate drive to Common on Charles street, and take assigned posts in rear of the second Battalion.

The parade will be reviewed at City Hall by his Honor the Mayor, at the State house by his Excellency the Governor and his Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, and after the dress parade on the Common by the Hon. Herbert A. Wilson, Police Commissioner.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 617.

In awarding, for the second time, the Walter Scott medal, provided from the income of the fund donated by Walter Scott, Esq., formerly of Boston, now of New York City, to be presented to the police officer in this department, who in my judgment, during the year 1923, specially distinguished himself for valor in the performance of his duty, I regret that I am limited to the presentation of only one medal, because of the many acts of heroism and courage achieved by members of this department since this medal was last awarded on January 24, 1923.

To the heroic dead of this department who gave their lives in the performance of their sworn duty as police officers, earthly recognition is impossible and unnecessary, for their brave acts are engraved and recorded in the indestructible records of this department.

Upon careful consideration and comparison of the acts of bravery and valor of the present members of this department, as reported to me, I have decided that Patrolman John H. Gottschalk of Division 14 has most "specially distinguished himself for valor in the performance of his duty as a police officer."

On March 12, 1923, at about 11.30 p. m., Patrolman Gottschalk, by his alertness and attention to duty, recognized the first three numbers of a number plate on a passing automobile, which three numbers had been read out at roll call, and also at the same time, disarmed and overpowered the occupant of the car, who proved to be one William E. Gray, a dangerous criminal, and head of a band which had been terrorizing the merchants of this city.

I therefore award to Patrolman John H. Gottschalk, the "Walter Scott Medal for Valor," with a feeling of gratification which I believe is shared by the whole department.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

SEPTEMBER LABOR REPORT.

The records of the Massachusetts Public Employment Office, 23 and 25 Pearl street for the month of September, show a decided improvement over August, also over September, 1923.

The number of people called for by employers was 1840, an increase of 718, or 64 per cent over August and an increase of 231, or 14 per cent, over September a year ago. The number of positions reported filled was 1,540, an increase of 559, or 57 per cent, over last month, also an increase of 292, or 23 per cent, over last September. Notwithstanding this improvement, the attendance of applicants for employment was heavy, being 24,892, an increase of 4,551 or 22 per cent over August and an increase of 5,137 or 30 per cent, over September a year ago.

During the month, 1,722 service men (1,186 soldiers, 536 sailors) visited the office in search of work. Of this number, 277 (203 soldiers, 74 sailors) were referred to employers and 236 (175 soldiers, 51 sailors) secured positions.

In the men's skilled department the majority of calls were for carpenters, masons, painters, electricians, steamfitters, gas fitters, plumbers and roofers. There was some difficulty in supplying the demand for plumbers, as competent mechanics out of employment remain scarce. Business in the metal trades was exceedingly quiet, with an occasional call for a machinist or tool maker which was easily filled. Large numbers of engineers and firemen have visited the office daily throughout the month with little or no demand for their services. The demand from the general trades has been more diversified and we have had calls for metal spinners, boot and shoe workers, sail makers, acetylene and electric welders, chauffeurs, packers and shippers. The printing trades' demands were for compositors, cylinder and job pressmen and feeders.

More positions were filled in the men's unskilled department this month than for any similar period in the last eighteen months. The demand for able-bodied laborers for short jobs on lumber, etc., was heavy and the demand from the building trades was good, with a fair supply of men on hand. Culinary workers in clubs, hotels and restaurants were in good demand and many positions were filled.

The demand for boys for errands, office and factory work was steady, but the wages offered for the larger boys was not enticing enough. Small boys for errands were quickly placed.

There was a general improvement in the call for women workers in all lines of industry, with no special demand for help from any particular line. The demand for waitresses and chambermaids was good and positions easily filled. There was a strong demand for day workers and cleaners with a plentiful supply of applicants. The demand for housework girls continues strong with little or no supply of applicants to draw from.

The number of people called for by employers was 1,840 as compared with 1,609 in 1923; 1,690 in 1922; 1,623 in 1921; 3,233 in 1920 and 3,044 in 1919.

The number of positions reported filled was 1,540 as compared with 1,248 in 1923; 1,159 in 1922; 1,149 in 1921; 1,701 in 1920 and 1,331 in 1919.

MORE BOOTHS FOR REGISTRATION.

A committee representing the citizenship of Ward 14 waited upon his Honor the Mayor, on October 7, and requested that two places for the registration of voters be established in the ward. They contended that 336 persons, the largest number ever registered in any ward in the history of Boston were registered in one night on October 6, and that many were turned away and unable to register.

His Honor, after a conference with Chairman Burlen of the Election Department, decided to continue two registration places in Ward 14; one at the Martin School, on Huntington avenue, and the other at the Jefferson School on Heath street, near South Huntington avenue, from now until the close of registration on October 15.

Office of the Mayor, September 29, 1924.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith a communication from the Commissioner of Public Works, relative to the sale of 800 tons of coal, approximately, the property of the Sewer Service, and respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
September 24, 1924.

To the Honorable the Mayor.
It is respectfully requested that the City Council authorize the sale to the Boston Consolidated Gas Company of approximately 800 tons of Welsh steam coal which has been stored on the ground at the Calf Pasture pumping station since the winter of 1922-23, the balance of which had been burned under the boilers by mixing in the proportion of one part Welsh coal to three parts New River coal, as it was impossible to make steam with this coal alone.

For nearly a year we have been burning oil at this station, and for an emergency which may require coal we have stored in the bins a large quantity of first-class steam coal. The coal we desire to sell is strewn about the premises and occupies room which may be required in case the coal stored in the bins for a long period may acquire such temperature as to threaten a fire and must be removed and store outdoors.

The Supply Department has negotiated with the Boston Consolidated Gas Company which would be the only likely purchaser and the price offered of $2.25 a ton is a very fair and generous offer.

Yours very truly,
J. A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works be and hereby is authorized to sell to the Boston Consolidated Gas Company approximately 800 tons of Welsh steam coal, the property of the Public Works Department, Sewer Service, at a price of $2.25 per ton.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

PUBLICATION OF YEAR BOOK.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, September 29, 1924.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—The Statistics Department, after more than two years of research, report in favor of the publication of an annual year book as a measure of economy both from the financial standpoint and of the time required to ascertain facts relative to activities of the municipal departments.

The work in question has been compiled and the compilation is available for publication and distribution. Its adoption should represent a considerable saving annually to the municipality and should serve as a model for the municipalities of the nation.

I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the Superintendent of Printing be hereby authorized to print an edition of twenty-five hundred copies, bound in cloth, of "The Municipal Year Book for 1923-24," and that the expense of the same be charged to the appropriation for City Documents.

Further Ordered, That this edition shall be distributed under the direction of the Statistics Department, and that any income received through such distribution be credited to the appropriation mentioned above.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

ABUTTERS ON PROVINCE STREET.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, September 29, 1924.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith communication from the Board of Street Commissioners in reply to the order passed by your honorable body on August 11, 1924, with reference to the use of underground areas by abutters on Province street, which is self-explanatory.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Street Laying-Out Department,
September 16, 1924.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—With reference to the attached order of the City Council, requesting information as to "whether or not any of the abutters on Province street are using the area under said street either by right or by encroachment," I beg to advise your honor that the Province Building, recently erected on land of the Olympia Realty Company and land of the Massachusetts General Hospital, extends out under Province street as the same was widened under the order of October 23, 1923.

It is my opinion that the owners of that building are using this underground areaway as a matter of right. However, if at any time during the existence of Province street as a public way the city found it necessary to appropriate the space for its own municipal purposes, the private rights of occupancy therein would be forced to yield to the paramount public easement, and in such an event no damages could be exacted from the city for the loss of any part, or the whole, of said areaway.

Respectfully,
JOHN H. L. NOYES, Chairman.
Placed on file.

JITNEY LICENSES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, September 18, 1924.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I return herewith, without my approval, the votes of the City Council, adopted on September 8, 1924, granting four separate jitney licenses to Conway's Tours, Inc., to operate between Boston and Providence; Boston and Fall River; Boston and Worcester, and Boston and Attleboro.

These proposed lines would be in direct competition with the railroads serving this territory. My objections to this form of competition have already been stated in a previous veto sent to the City Council on July 28, 1924.

The tremendous growth in motor transportation, both freight and passenger, has resulted in a serious problem. At the present time, to a large extent, the motor transports are taking the cream of the business during the good weather and leaving the burden on the railroads during the time when operating expenses are highest; and in my opinion, unless both the railroads and public authorities meet the situation with wisdom and foresight, practically all the short haul freight and passenger traffic will be abandoned by the railroad systems within a few years.

In some parts of the country this might not be a matter of great concern, but in New England, with its severe winters, transportation would be crippled during at least three months of the year with disastrous effects on our industries and prosperity.

It does not necessarily follow that the solution of the problem is to concentrate motor transportation under the control of the public service corporations, but until some solution is presented which will not jeopardize the prosperity of our people I shall refuse to be a party to any competition of this nature either with the railroads or the street railways.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Accompanying the communication were the licenses above referred to.
Placed on file.

PAYMENT TO ROBERT JONES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, September 18, 1924.

Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, the order adopted by your Board under date of September 8.

The report of the Soldiers' Relief Department shows they have nothing to do with cases of this character, and sets forth that the city cannot legally comply with the order as adopted by the City Council.

Respectfully yours,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Soldiers' Relief Department,
September 15, 1924.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Sir,—In reply to your communication dated September 10, would state that on August 20, 1924, Commissioner John H. Dunn, with Mr. Lyons of the City Law Department, attended a conference with the Soldiers' Relief Committee of the Boston City Council. At that conference the case of Robert A. Jones was gone over, and Mr. Lyons of the Law Department informed the committee that no aid could be paid Mr. Jones by the Soldiers' Relief Department under the law.

I talked with Commissioner Dunn yesterday, and he stated that this man was not entitled to aid.

I am enclosing a copy of the letter sent by the commissioner to the Boston City Council under date of August 11, 1924.

Respectfully yours,
TIMOTHY W. KELLEY,
Chief Visitor.

August 11, 1924.

Boston City Council, City Hall, Boston.

Gentlemen,—I respectfully call your attention to the following dates regarding the military service of Robert A. Jones of 11 Waltham street, Boston, whose case is before your body. He enlisted in the United States Navy April 2, 1898, and deserted December 10, 1898. This is the official record from the Navy Department at Washington.

He next enlisted in the 16th Company, Coast Artillery, July 10, 1900, and was honorably discharged July 9, 1903, by reason of expiration of service.

He again enlisted in the United States Navy November 7, 1910, and was discharged by medical survey June 4, 1913, under honorable conditions.

The law governing state aid, military aid and soldiers' relief specifies that in order to be eligible for any of these forms of aid a soldier or sailor must have received an honorable discharge from all war-time service. He enlisted for service during the Spanish War and deserted from same. This, under the law, renders him ineligible for aid from this department.

Yours very truly,
JOHN H. DUNN,
Soldiers' Relief Commissioner.

The order referred to was as follows:

Resolved, That the name of Robert Jones be placed on the pay roll of the Soldiers' Relief Department at $45 per month.

The above papers were placed on file.

COMMUNICATION FROM FINANCE COMMISSION.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, September 29, 1924.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I submit herewith for your consideration a communication from the Finance Commission calling attention to the necessity of making an additional appropriation of $10,000. The order for this appropriation was submitted by me on July 28, 1924.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Finance Commission, September 27, 1924.
To the Honorable the City Council:

Gentlemen,—By chapter 369 of the Acts and Resolves of 1924 of the Massachusetts Legislature, a larger appropriation for the Finance Commission of the City of Boston was authorized by the sum of $10,000. This act received the approval of the Governor on May 16, 1924.

Prior to that date his Honor the Mayor submitted to your honorable body a budget calling for the entire appropriation to which the Finance Commission was at that time entitled.

Subsequent to the passage of chapter 369 of 1924, above referred to, namely, on July 18, 1924, the Finance Commission sent to his Honor the Mayor the budget segregation of the additional $10,000 allowed by the Legislature and thereafter: namely, on July 28, 1924, his Honor the Mayor sent a supplementary budget to your honorable body for the appropriation of this additional $10,000. As your honorable body has not yet approved this additional $10,000, the Finance Commission respectfully requests that you do so as early as possible.

Activities now under way by the Finance Commission and in prospect require the early appropriation of this money, in order that it may be available to pay the expenditures made necessary by the activities of this Commission.

From the language of the statute authorizing the appropriation it would appear that the appropriation of this sum, as well as the other sums authorized in earlier statutes, is mandatory upon the city. The language of the statute is as follows:

"A sum sufficient to cover the salary of the chairman of the commission and a further sum of at least forty-five thousand dollars to meet the expenses as aforesaid each year shall be appropriated by said city."

Respectfully submitted,
MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN, Chairman.

OFFICIAL CHRONICLE OF MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

VOL. 16.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1924.

No. 42

BOSTON SOON TO BOAST OF MOST COMPLETE AND UP-TO-DATE OUT-PATIENT DEPARTMENT IN WORLD.

NEW STRUCTURE TO CARE FOR 3,000 PATIENTS, FITTED UP WITH ALL CONVENIENCES AND MOST MODERN EQUIPMENT, TO BE DEDICATED ON TUESDAY, OCTOBER 21.

Boston, when the new Out-Patient Department of the Boston City Hospital is dedicated on October 21, will be able to boast of having the finest appointed and the most completely fitted department of the kind known to the medical world.

The official dedication exercises will be held in the new building with Dr. Edward N. Libby presiding. Dr. George G. Sears, a trustee of the Boston City Hospital, and Mayor James M. Curley will deliver the principal addresses.

The building, which is located on Harrison avenue, on the corner of East Concord street, is a seven-story structure, with 320 rooms, all of them fitted with the most modern and finest scientific equipment obtainable. On each floor there are to be social service workers who will look after the welfare of the patients and who will carry their work into the homes as well as the hospital.

It is expected that approximately 3,000 patients will be cared for daily when activities are well under way in the new department.

Most interesting of all the various branches of the out-patient hospital is the one devoted to the care of children. This clinic takes the entire first floor. Doctors who are experts in ailments and diseases of children will be in attendance.

There are shining new weighing machines, where the little ones can be weighed each time they come to the hospital and the record kept on file.

There are examining rooms and rooms for the treatment of medical and surgical cases. An isolation room is comfortably equipped so that if an attending physician diagnose a child's case as contagious, the child is at once put in this room and transferred to the South Department, where such diseases are treated. This means that the safety of the hundreds of other little children in the Out-Patient Department is safeguarded.

Most important, is the work which the social service workers can do among the children who come to the new building. They will see that no little child who is waiting his turn and who has come without breakfast or lunch, goes hungry. They will see that the children have necessary clothing and are not being neglected or ill treated at home.

Children who have rickets will be treated by the new sun-lamp (ultra-violet rays); and the same treatment will be given to the little ones who have signs of peculiar trouble or certain skin diseases.

The second floor is devoted to male and female surgical service. The surgeons have laboratories, equipped with the newest scientific apparatus to aid them in their work.

On the third floor is the fracture clinic, for men and women and also the rooms where electrical therapy treatments are given. Electrical machines of all kinds have been installed to do massage work and aid in reconstructing bones which have been fractured.

This is one of the most important works which the Out-Patient Department expects to handle, for through the latest scientific methods of electrotherapy, men and women who might otherwise be crippled for life through the effects of an accident are now going to be straight limbed and strong.

The ear, nose, eye and throat clinic is on the fifth floor. Here, too, is the obstetrical clinic and the prenatal clinic. The work which will be done in this special department, it is believed, will decrease infant mortality and help build up in Boston a stronger, healthier generation of children. Mothers and prospective mothers will be taught how to care for their babies according to the most scientific methods. They will be shown how to prepare and modify milk for their infants and the way to care for them in minor ailments.

On the sixth floor is the skin clinics and the nerve clinic, where the most noted specialists in the city will give their services. The immunology, vaccine and serum departments are on this floor. An iceless ice-chest, private laboratories and quantities of the scientific supplies which are necessary in such a department are in readiness for the doctors who will take their place in this service.

The record room in itself is an interesting feature. It is located on the mezzanine floor and has a carrier system, connected with the first floor. The records are kept so that they are obtainable at a minute's notice, yet so arranged that they are safeguarded from being disturbed, misplaced or lost.

Behind the perfectly appointed building, there have been months, yes, even years of work and study. Dr. John J. Dowling, Superintendent of the Boston City Hospital, who is recognized among fellow professional men as a genius as a hospital administrator, has worked day and night untiringly. He planned the building, saw that his plans were executed, until now his ideal of having the best municipal out-patient hospital in the country is on the eve of accomplishment.

Doctor Dowling has been assisted in carrying out his plans by Dr. James W. Manary, who has also worked hard for the new building, of which he is in charge. He has supervised the equipping of the various departments and has been in charge of other executive work, so that there would be no work in the vast building uncompleted on the day of its dedication.

Joseph P. Manning, president of the Board of Trustees, Thomas C. Forsyth, secretary; Dr. Henry S. Rowen, Dr. George G. Sears and Carl Dreyfus, trustees, have helped to make the new building a reality and have worked to make it one of the highest standing.

TAXATION IN CITY AND STATE DISCUSSED BEFORE MEMBERS OF BOSTON CITY CLUB.MAYOR CURLEY ABLY DEFENDS HIS POLICIES IN CITY FINANCE AND SHOWS FALSITY OF PREMISES AND CHARGES IN CONNECTION WITH STATE'S POLICY.

Mayor Curley, speaking on October 14, at the Boston City Club, said in part:

Within the last ten days my opponent for the office of Governor of this Commonwealth has attempted, through proxies, to set up as a campaign issue the financial record of the state in the last three years as compared with the record of the city whose affairs have been under my guidance during the same period. Personally I do not consider this to be a legitimate issue of the campaign because it involves a discussion of the financial methods and policies pursued by the state during the administration of the Hon. Channing H. Cox. The present Governor is not a candidate for reelection and I would prefer not to discuss his methods and policies.

My opponent, however, in an endeavor to use the retiring Governor as a prop to his own weak and indifferent public service record, has had his platform spokesmen relate how he has assisted the Governor and how he can be relied upon to continue the financial policies and methods of the past three years. In view of this definite pledge let us examine the financial record of the state.

Commencing with the budget message of the Governor last January and extending down to the present day great emphasis and stress has been placed by members of the Republican party on the remarkable financial accomplishments made in recent years on Beacon Hill. A $2,000,000 reduction in the state tax for 1924 and a material reduction in the direct debt of the state have been pictured as accomplishments which could not have been possible except for the rigid economies practised by the dominant party during the last three years. An examination of the figures underlying these widely advertised reductions discloses some interesting facts.

STATE TAX.

The state tax for 1924 has been fixed at $10,000,000, a figure $2,000,000 less than the tax fixed for 1923. According to the state authorities, this reduction in the tax burden of the cities and towns has been made possible by the practise of rigid economies in all state activities. In other words, the official explanation of this year's reduction in the state tax would lead the average citizen to believe that the expenditures of the state had been materially reduced. What are the facts?

The total of the appropriations voted by the Legislature this year was approximately $100,000 less than the appropriations voted in 1923. Last year the legislative appropriations totaled in round numbers $43,500,000, and this year $43,400,000. Despite this negligible difference it is interesting to note that the appropriations for the administration, operation and current maintenance of the various departments and institutions in 1924 were approximately $1,700,000 in excess of the similar appropriations in 1923. In view of this large increase in maintenance costs the question naturally arises, how were the total expenditures for the two years maintained at practically the same level?

The answer is simple, by killing or postponing permanent improvements which were vitally needed. In 1923 the Legislature authorized approximately $4,300,000 for capital outlays, whereas this year, because of the recommendations of the Commission on Administration and Finance, the appropriations for permanent improvements did not exceed $2,800,000. In the budget estimates as submitted by the various departments for the current year there were included requests for permanent improvements totaling $6,500,000. The Commission on Administration and Finance eliminated approximately 60 per cent of the requests despite the fact that building operations had been suspended during the war and such items as dredging and filling Boston Harbor, development of East Boston Flying Field, erection of a Normal Art School, purchase and development of additional state forests, construction of additional fish hatcheries and the erection of dormitories, shops and employees' quarters at the various state hospitals, institutions and schools were thrown into the discard for one year at least. Because of this "Put off until tomorrow" policy it has been possible to maintain the appropriations of the current year at approximately the same level as that of 1923. But you ask—if there has been no reduction in the expenditures of the Commonwealth, how was a reduction in the state tax made possible? To answer this question let us look at the income side of the Commonwealth's ledger. In 1923 the financial authorities of the state estimated, prior to fixing the state tax, that approximately $31,000,000 would be available during the year to offset the appropriations authorized by the Legislature. This year it was estimated that approximately $33,000,000, or an increase of $2,000,000 over the figures of 1923, would be available to meet appropriations. Thus we see that the reduction in the state tax was due not to any creditable or worth while reductions in expenditures but rather because certain revenues of the state were automatically increased. The particular item of revenue which made this year's reduction in the state tax possible was fees collected from the owners and operators of motor vehicles. In 1923, at the beginning of the year, it was estimated that fees of this nature would total approximately $7,000,000 during the year. Fees actually received during 1923 totaled $8,150,000 and so this year's estimate, allowing for a normal increase, was fixed at $8,900,000, or an increase of $1,900,000 over the estimate of the year previous. In passing it may be said that at this time it appears that the actual receipts from motor vehicle fees this year will be close to $9,250,000.

Motor vehicle fees are restricted to use in connection with the construction and maintenance of highways and roads. Prior to this year the fees received were not sufficient to meet the entire cost of highway work, hence it was necessary to use some of the ordinary revenue of the Commonwealth to make up the deficit. This year, however, the estimate of fees was sufficient to cover the entire highway expense, and so the ordinary revenue previously used was released to meet other expenses.

The circumstances, therefore, surrounding the reduction in the state tax for 1924 may be summed up as follows: Whereas the state authorities would imply that the reduction was due to economies affected in the conduct of the various state activities, the truth of the matter is that the cut was made possible largely as a direct result of the increase in funds received from the registration of motor vehicles, which, for the first time in the history of the state, have made it unnecessary to appropriate money from general revenue for highway construction and maintenance.

WHY THE DELAY?

In examining the finances of the Commonwealth for the past three years the interesting question arises, why did the state authorities wait until 1924 before making a reduction in the state tax?

In fixing the state tax for 1922 at $12,000,000 the financial authorities of the Commonwealth estimated that there would be received during the year as income available for appropriation purposes approximately $25,000,000. The actual receipts during the year were approximately $27,200,000. In 1923 in maintaining the state tax at the same figure as in 1922, the financial authorities, despite the experience of the previous year, estimated income at approximately $25,900,000 despite the fact that the actual income for 1922 was $27,200,000. The actual receipts in 1923 totalled $29,000,000.

On the basis of the actual receipts for 1922 the state authorities could have increased their estimate of income for 1923 by at least $1,000,000. If this had been done a reduction in the state tax for 1923 of at least a half a million could have been made, for the expenditures authorized in 1923 were but little in excess of those authorized in 1922.

Perhaps the knowledge that 1923 was an off year in state politics and further that 1924 would be a Presidential election year influenced the financial authorities to be extremely conservative in their estimates for 1923. From the figures available for inspection it would certainly appear as though a reduction in the state tax could have been made prior to 1924.

STATE DEBT.

The financial reports of the Commonwealth would indicate that within the last three years a net reduction of $14,336,006.18 has been made in the state's net direct debt. While at first glance this is a notable achievement, investigation reveals that the present administration was more or less a passive agent during its accomplishment.

During the last three years practically the only item of debt to be issued by the state was the short term notes which served to finance the $100 bonus paid to the citizens of the Commonwealth who served in the World War. Thirteen million dollars of these notes were issued under the present administration, but here is a fact that I want you to weigh carefully — $20,000,000 of these notes were redeemed during the years 1921, '22, '23. In other words, the present administration redeemed $7,000,000 more of the notes than it issued. This excess comprises 50 per cent of the total reduction in debt accomplished during the past three years.

How were the notes redeemed? By the machinery provided in chapter 283 of the Acts of 1919, a piece of legislation which was passed two years prior to the coming into office of the present administration. This act provided that for the purpose of meeting the interest and principal necessary to finance the bonus that a special poll tax of $3 be assessed on every male inhabitant (veterans excepted), that a special tax of $660,000 be added to the state tax from 1919 to 1921, inclusive, that a special personal income tax of one-half of 1 per cent be assessed for the years 1919 to 1922, inclusive, together with special taxes to be assessed on legacies and on the income of foreign and domestic corporations. The following table indicates the revenue received under each of these items, up to December 1, 1923:

Civilian poll tax, $12,315,042; special state tax, $1,980,000; corporation taxes, $4,241,608.51; legacy taxes, $1,306,070.56; income taxes, $2,854,793.47; miscellaneous, $42,399.41. Total, $22,739,913.95.

Fifty per cent of the reduction during the past three years in net direct debt was automatic and not because of so-called wise planning on the part of the present administration. The credit for the financing of the Military Service Loan Act of 1919 does not belong to the present administration on Beacon Hill, but rather to the cities, towns, corporations and citizens of the Commonwealth who cheerfully bore the $20,000,000 tax in order that the state might fittingly show its appreciation of the services rendered by those who served the nation during the World War.

How was the remainder of the $14,000,000 net reduction financed? First, by serial bond payments which were secured each year through the levy of the state tax, and secondly by payments from sinking funds established in years past and built up, since their establishment, by annual additions secured from the state tax. Let me illustrate. Last year $5,000,000 of abolition of grade crossings bonds were redeemed by the Commonwealth. These bonds were issued in 1893, '94, '95, '96, and the sinking funds out of which they were redeemed have thus been accumulating over a period of thirty years. That is why I say, gentlemen, that the present administration has been a passive agent in the net debt reduction of the past three years. Representative Henry L. Shattuck, in discussing this topic at Tufts College last Friday evening, is reported as saying, "I venture to say that history tells of no more splendid record in the administration of public affairs." If Mr. Shattuck will permit I will suggest that he amend his statement by striking out the word "splendid" and inserting the word "fortuitous."

At this time I would like to call your attention to another interesting sidelight on the subject of reduction in state debt. In recent years the state has been following the "pay as you go" policy in matters of capital expenditure. This means that where in prior years the state issued loans for the erection of new buildings, the construction of highways and roads and the equipping and furnishing of hospitals, institutions and schools, it now includes the cost of these capital outlays as a part of the state tax. In the past three years appropriations totalling approximately $13,000,000 have been authorized by the Legislature for items representing permanent improvements. Thus by levying a direct annual tax on the cities and towns for permanent improvements the present administration has been able in large part to achieve its debt reduction record.

THE CITY DEBT.

It is to be regretted that within the past ten days several agencies have made oral or printed statements concerning the net debt of Boston, which are far from truth. It is unfortunate that misstatements and half-truths should emanate from sources which should be better informed, particularly as the statements in connection with the debt of Boston are issued in printed form each month, and are available to the public.

These agencies would have the public infer that the net debt of the city has increased $8,000,000 during my present administration. All these statements seem to be based upon the net debt of the city, exclusive of rapid transit debt, as of April 30, 1924. The suggestion of an $8,000,000 increase offered by each of these agencies, would indicate that they were based upon the same source of information. It is true that Representative Adlow came nearer to a correct statement of the net debt, exclusive of rapid transit debt, as of April 30, 1924, when he stated that there was an increase of $45,000. The other agencies were not so careful in their statements, and as a result their utterances were not in accord with the facts. Representative Adlow stated that there were loans authorized at the date mentioned, amounting to $8,472,000, which had not been issued. This statement is true, but he did not state that at the beginning of my administration, February 1, 1922, there were loans authorized under the previous administration, amounting to $4,593,500, which had not been issued, thus showing an increase during this administration of authorized debt, but not issued, of $3,878,500. It should be clearly kept in mind that in both of the cases just mentioned, the loans had not been issued, and therefore could not have been included in the net debt.

It is difficult to understand how business men, who are supposed to know something about financial loans, could make such serious misstatements. With any knowledge of business finance, they must know that authority to borrow becomes a definite liability, only when loans are negotiated, and not before. There are many business organizations, as well as individuals, which are granted a line of credit at their respective banks far in excess of their loans outstanding and the fallacy of including the total credit authorizations not availed of by loans, as part of their outstanding debt, would be just as ridiculous as to include authorized loans, not negotiated as part of the debt of the city. The merest tyro in financial economics should clearly understand this situation.

I have shown that the total of loans authorized, but not issued, at April 30, 1924, was $8,472,000; that this amount represented an increase of $3,878,500 during my administration. It is interesting to note that of the total debt authorized, but not issued, $4,084,000 was authorized by acts of the Legislature, as follows:

Stuart street, $100,000; Cambridge and Court streets, $3,484,000; Police Headquarters, $500,000. Total, $4,084,000.

In other words, if there is any criticism of the loans authorized, but not issued, then the Legislature must share that criticism.

At no time in the history of Boston has our financial reputation been higher than at the present time. This claim has been substantiated by Harris, Forbes & Co., one of the largest investment banking houses, in a statement published some few months ago, wherein it was shown on the basis of average yields of bonds that Boston ranks first in credit standing amongst the ten largest cities in the country. As was well stated, editorially, in a Boston paper, "It is all the more pleasing that this high rating is determined by the unbiased verdict of the market place, which plays no favorites, and accepts no excuses." Any attempt, intentional or otherwise, to injure this high financial reputation, should be condemned by every right thinking citizen.

TAX RATE.

The public, in large measure, bases the success of municipal administration upon the tax rate announced; while the taxation laws for all cities in the state are practically the same, it must be evident that appropriation needs are not the same. Boston, as well as other cities in the metropolitan district, is obliged to include in its tax rate, the amounts of all metropolitan assessments levied yearly by the state. Boston, differing from every other city, must include in the tax rate the total expenditures of the County of Suffolk, which includes the cities of Boston, Chelsea, Revere and the town of Winthrop. The new contributory pension system for city employees is applicable only to Boston, and the amount included in tax rate for this year is $1,228,000. In any comparison of tax rates, these important factors must be kept in mind. Yet, notwithstanding the burden of these factors upon Boston the tax rate announced for this year is $24.70, making the fourth successive year at the same rate. There are only two cities in the whole state with lower rates, viz., Beverly and Holyoke, and both of these cities have no metropolitan assessments included in their tax rates, while Boston must include $1,775,000 for these purposes. It should be noted that Beverly has increased its tax rate this year $2 per thousand, with a rate of $24, while Holyoke has increased its rate $1.50 per thousand, with a rate of $23. The low rate in Boston can be better appreciated, when it is compared with the average rate of $30.20 for the other thirty-eight cities of the Commonwealth.

DISCOVERY OF AMERICA BY COLUMBUS DUE TO DIVINE INSPIRATION WHICH HELD TO IDEAL.

MAYOR CURLEY DELIVERS AN INSPIRING ADDRESS AT COLUMBUS DAY EXERCISES ON BOSTON COMMON, EX-TOLLING QUALITIES OF MAN WHO MADE AMERICA KNOWN.

Mayor Curley speaking at the Columbus Day exercises on Boston Common on October 13 said in part:

"A very unusual distinction and pleasure is mine to present upon this festive observance of the anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus two children who are lineal descendants of the people who inhabited this continent when Columbus arrived there in 1492, the Praxton children, Ramona and Matthew.

"We have been privileged today to witness a most interesting and colorful spectacle, representatives of every one of the North American and South American countries, and nations that were undreamed of at the time of the voyage of Columbus by the people of Europe. We have some conception of the character of contribution made to human progress when we consider the life and the story of the voyage of Christopher Columbus, out of the fruition of whose voyage of discovery came our own splendid American Republic and the republics to the south of us, when we consider the Divine inspiration which mocked at poverty and starvation and held firm to the ideal and belief that beyond the sea there lay a new land, a virgin territory, where human progress and human possibilities to a greater degree than ever previously known might be possible.

"When we consider that 12th day of October, 1492, we realize how much that voyage of discovery has meant in the march of events and we have a realization that the voyage of discovery of Columbus and its bearing on human progress was only excelled by the Divine Sacrifice on Calvary for the redemption of mankind. We have some realization as to the gift, not of Columbus alone, but of our country, America, and its part in the scheme of Divine Providence for the welfare of mankind. Out of the voyage of discovery of Columbus came the Massachusetts Bay Colony; out of the Massachusetts Bay Colony came the movement for liberty on this continent, this movement which disked the suffering and the struggle and hardship of human kind for nearly eighteen centuries that somewhere in the world there might be established a form of government under which all persons might enjoy the fullest possible measure of liberty and equality.

"The same Divine faith that sustained Columbus until his voyage of discovery had been consummated was the same Divine faith that held firm in the movement for the establishment of free government by the women and men of the Massachusetts Bay Colony and the women and men who inhabited the thirteen colonies in 1775. Faith and the spirit of self-reliance made possible the discovery of America; faith and self-reliance made successful the work of the Massachusetts Bay Colony; faith and self-reliance made successful the work of Washington and his followers; faith and self-reliance made possible and continuement for the emancipation of the negro under Abraham Lincoln and faith and self-reliance made possible the continuance of free government in the world under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson. Faith and self-reliance, love of God and country, love of one's neighbor, has made possible a reality of the panorama of friendship and brotherhood presented here by the representatives of the various nations of the world.

"Let us trust the faith of Columbus and the self-reliance of the Colonial fathers may be a part of our daily life and that through it we may develop a more profound realization of the great blessings that is ours through our American citizenship and as we value that blessing and cherish our heritage adopt a more friendly spirit towards our fellow man here in free America.

"It becomes my very great privilege as Mayor of Boston, acting as presiding officer, on the presentation of the speaker of this occasion, to present to the people of Massachusetts a citizen of our neighboring state of Rhode Island, a representative of our great sister Republic, the Republic of France, without which republic and people in all human probability the freedom of the thirteen colonies might have been long delayed, possibly never consummated, France ever a friend of America, America in the recent hour of trial for France a true friend of France, it affords me pleasure to present Lieutenant Governor Felix Toupin of Rhode Island and the next Governor of Rhode Island.

CHALLENGES LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR FULLER TO DEBATE.

Mayor Curley sent the following letter on October 11:

HON. ALVAN T. FULLER, State House,
Boston, Mass.

MY DEAR MR. FULLER,—The public utterances of Republican leaders during the past week, including Governor Channing H. Cox, Representative Elijah Adlow and Representative Henry L. Shattuck, would make it appear that it is the purpose of the Republican machine in Massachusetts to abandon the campaign in behalf of Hon. Calvin Coolidge for President, Speaker of the House Frederick H. Gillette for United States Senator and the remainder of the Republican ticket, with a view to saving you from defeat.

Your personal representatives have devoted their entire time to the discussion of so-called state tax reduction and state and municipal administration. This is a most interesting subject and one which I am quite sure the public will be pleased to hear discussed by the two candidates for governor.

May I take the liberty of extending you a cordial invitation to appoint a time and place when you and I as the candidates for the office of Governor of Massachusetts may be afforded an opportunity to participate in a joint debate upon this subject; or in the event that you prefer it, upon the subject of your neglect of public duty while a member of the Congress of the United States, or your silence upon the activities of the Ku Klux Klan.

Trusting your engagements will permit of your determining upon an early date and assuring you that I shall be most pleased to arrange my campaign schedule to meet your wishes, I beg to remain, with every good and sincere wish,

Sincerely yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

MAYOR RECEIVES ZR-3 GREETINGS.

Mayor Curley was pleased on Wednesday morning to receive from Lieutenant Commander Sydney M. Krauss, U. S. N., a member of the detachment of the United States Navy on board the ZR-3, Zeppelin, the following message:

XB BC-1 RADIO, SS. ZR-3, NERM R C,
BOSTON 12.

October 15, 1924, 4.08 A. M.

MAYOR CURLEY, Boston:

Greetings from ZR-3. Sorry it is not daylight.

KRAUSS.

Mayor Curley had previously cabled Lieutenant Commander Krauss at Friederichshafen, Germany, the following message, requesting that he sail over Boston on his transoceanic route from Friederichshafen to Lakehurst, N. J., the home of the new Zeppelin ZR-3:

LIEUTENANT COMMANDER SYDNEY M. KRAUSS, U.S.N., ZR-3, Friederichshafen, Germany:

Heartly congratulations. Sincerely trust ZR-3 will fly over Boston en route to Lakehurst, N. J.

JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor.

Boston, October 10, 1924.

MAYOR CURLEY ADDRESSES AUDIENCE ESTIMATED AT 400,000 PERSONS IN FIRST RADIO RALLY.

ADDS NEW FEATURE TO POLITICAL LIFE OF AMERICA BY INNOVATION SPEAKING THROUGH EDISON RADIO STATION TO CITIZENS OF STATE.

Mayor Curley opened his radio rallies at Station WEEI, Edison Light, Boston, on the evening of October 13, a new feature in the political life of America. It is estimated that 400,000 persons listened in.

Mayor Curley said in part:

"I sincerely trust that every individual listening in, in whose home a radio set is to be found, will make it their business to invite a group of five or more persons each evening, with the exception of Saturday and Sunday evenings, from now until the close of the present campaign between 7 p. m. and 7.10 p. m. to listen to a discussion of the issues involved in the present National and State campaign.

"These radio rallies will between now and Election Day be addressed by Senator David I. Walsh, candidate for Governor James M. Curley, and women and men of national prominence. A rare opportunity is, by means of the radio, afforded to enjoy the pleasures of the political rally without the discomforts, and I sincerely trust that everyone interested in the success of my campaign will invite their friends to be present at every one of the radio rallies to be held in my behalf."

Mayor Curley said further: "It is a great privilege and an exceeding pleasure to be permitted to talk to the good women and men of Massachusetts concerning the election to be held on the fourth day of November. It is less important who shall be elected than it is that every individual privileged to cast a ballot shall not only be in a position to cast that ballot but be familiar in some measure with the issues involved in the campaign.

"Our nation has been in existence less than a century and a half. It can boast of progress in that short period of time greater than any nation in the world; and yet with all our progress, with all our intelligence as a people, with all our resources, natural and developed by the talent of the American nation, we are confronted by a condition that makes living extremely hard and the future dark. America is the only solvent one among the larger nations of the world; its productivity was increased enormously in consequence of the exigencies of a war; for it became necessary not only to provide for the requirements of our own government but for the needs of all the nations allied with America in the winning of the World War.

"As a consequence of this tremendous development in our productive capacity, and as a result of the speeding up of our methods of production by the introduction of more economical and efficient instrumentalities, it is possible for the American nation to produce in a period of seven or eight months all that the American people can consume or utilize in a full period of twelve months. With this condition common knowledge for the past four years, it was the duty of those in charge of the destinies of the American nation to develop a program whereby the excess output of the industries of America might be absorbed by the remainder of the outside world. Yet no such program was embarked upon. Prior to the World War, in 1912, America was able to provide carriers on the waterways of the world for about 9 per cent of the goods produced for export in America; but the World War created a great Merchant Marine, made possible by the expenditure not of millions but of billions of dollars by the American people; and this great Merchant Marine, for want of a courageous and constructive policy has been permitted to rot in creeks and waterways upon all the coasts of the American Republic.

"This condition should not obtain in America; it is a condition that makes for unemployment in the land and discontent in the home; and destructive alike of the happiness, harmony and patriotism of the American Republic. It would never have been permitted to obtain in America were a larger number of the American people possessed of a keener interest in their own government. Just as long as the work of government is delegated to minorities, just so long will the same policy of neglect, ignorance and incompetency be in evidence in this land of ours.

"I trust the time will come when every American woman and man eligible to vote will realize the duty they owe to the greatest Republic on earth and meet their political obligation because of the possible blessings and benefits their action can confer not only on this generation but upon posterity. Arrangements have been made in the leading cities and towns of the Commonwealth for registration daily and each evening until 10 p. m.

"There are probably 100,000 who have neglected this great duty, this great privilege to be a part of the American Government, to be a stockholder in the largest and most important business of the whole world, the business of government. It is a business whose transactions affect vitally the happiness and the welfare of 112,000,000 of people living under the American flag.

"Every enactment of Congress either lightens the burden or makes the burden just a little harder to bear for every individual in America. We get the character of government that we will. If we continue to delegate our responsibilities to minorities and fail to take a livelier interest in the welfare of the government we forfeit the right to complain when men who are blind to duty, when men who fail the people and refuse to do their duty, fill office in this land.

"There are two candidates in this contest for the office of Governor. I propose to say just a word in closing with reference to this contest.

"During the period of the World War more measures vital to the American people and the world generally were considered by the American Congress than for half a century. The candidate of the Republican party, Mr. Alvan T. Fuller, was absent or not recorded on more measures of legislation in Congress than any twenty-five members of Congress combined. Never once during the most important period of legislation in the last half century, the sixty-fifth Congress, was the voice of Mr. Fuller raised either pro or con upon measures affecting the happiness and the very life itself of the American soldier and nation. I do not believe we can afford as a people to send to the office of Governor of this Commonwealth at a time when commerce is paralyzed and industry stagnant, when murmurs of protest are heard on every hand, a man who in the hour of our greatest trial, during the World War, when the future of free government hung in the balance, failed to record himself upon measures the adoption of which meant so much to humanity.

"I propose that the public shall know his record during the war and after the war, confident in the belief that when the truth is known he will fail to receive the support of any real American."

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 618.

A trial board consisting of Captains Walkins, Skillings and McDevitt, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman Thomas P. Gallagher of Division 20, charging him with being absent without leave, has reported to the commissioner a finding of guilty. In accordance with which, it is hereby ordered that the said Patrolman Thomas P. Gallagher perform thirty-five hours' punishment duty.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 619.

For the fifth time in recent years, the annual police parade was held on October 13.

As was naturally expected, it was effected with military precision and accuracy and as a demonstration of the potential service that this department may render to the citizens of this city, it must have been extremely enlightening to many. The setup and carriage of the men were excellent and the marching and maneuvers, both on the line of parade and later at dress parade, evidenced admirable training.

To the superintendent, Capt. Louis R. Lutz, Sergt. Thomas S. J. Kavanagh, and Patrolman Edward J. Seibolt of Division 15, I desire to extend my sincere thanks for their thorough training of the men, and also to those members of the department who worked extra hours in order that the citizens of this city might have an opportunity to see its defenders.

To the department as a whole, therefore, from the superintendent down, I again extend my congratulations.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

HISTORIC SOIL OF BUNKER HILL SENT TO WISCONSIN FOR DEDICATION OF MEMORIAL TREE.

Mayor Curley on Wednesday, October 15, sent to Mrs. Mary Geb, 3302 Osborne boulevard, Racine, Wis., as chairman of the Committee of the American War Mothers, Racine Chapter No. 2, soil from the summit of Bunker Hill, Charlestown, Mass., to be planted with the first memorial tree to be erected at Racine, Wis., in honor of the sons and daughters of Racine who loyally served the nation during the World War.

These memorial trees are to feature one of the leading boulevards of Racine, and the soil from Bunker Hill will serve at the dedication ceremonies at Racine when the first tree is planted in honor of the patriotic service of the men and women of Racine.

Mayor Curley's letter to Mrs. Geb, chairman of the committee, is as follows:

BOSTON, October 15, 1924.

MRS. MARY GEB, Chairman, 3302 Osborne Boulevard, Racine, Wis.:

DEAR MRS. GEB,—I am duly in receipt of your valued letter relative to the desire of the American War Mothers, Racine Chapter No. 2, to plant memorial trees in your city in honor of the sons and daughters of Racine who so loyally served our nation during the period of the World War.

I heartily congratulate the loyal women of Racine for their patriotic endeavor and sincerely trust that the tree that is nourished by the soil of Bunker Hill may serve as a lasting memorial to the brave sons and daughters of Racine who served our country so well in the hour of our nation's extremity.

With many assurances of my highest consideration and esteem.

Sincerely yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

SOLUTION OF BOSTON'S STREET TRAFFIC PROBLEM MORE MATTER OF HIGHWAYS THAN OF INCREASE IN POLICE FORCE.

MAYOR CURLEY ADDRESSES COMMUNICATION TO POLICE COMMISSIONER HERBERT A. WILSON, SETTING FORTH HIS VIEWS AND ATTITUDE ON MATTER OF INCREASING FORCE.

The Mayor has addressed the following communication to Police Commissioner Wilson:

HON. HERBERT A. WILSON, Police Commissioner, Boston, Mass.:

MY DEAR COMMISSIONER,—My attention has been directed to a statement reported to have been made by you recently before the Legislative Committee having under consideration the establishment of a traffic court and while I do not believe it is your purpose to convey the impression that there has been a lack of harmony between the office of the Mayor and your department, yet the report as it appeared in the press would so indicate.

The solution of the Boston traffic problem, as I have stated to you upon the occasion of conferences relative to this subject, is less a question of additional officers in the Police Department than a question of providing adequate traffic highways and a scientific consideration of the traffic problem as a whole.

Upon December 21, 1922, you will recall a conference at the office of the Mayor of Boston at which were present the City Auditor, Budget Commissioner and yourself, called for the purpose of considering the question of appointment of additional policemen for traffic duty; that it was your opinion that 100 additional men should be added to the force at that time.

I approved the appointment of fifty additional patrolmen and agreed that, if the gasoline tax measure was adopted, I would not object to an additional fifty patrolmen. At that time you expressed yourself as being in agreement with this program.

The gasoline tax measure was eventually passed by the Legislature and approved by the Governor but its operation delayed by the filing of a referendum petition so that it will be impossible to determine whether this means of adding to the Police Department will be possible until action is taken by the electorate upon the fourth day of November of the current year.

With a view to the real solution of the traffic problem I sought and received authorization from the Legislature for the issuance of a loan of $3,500,000 for the widening of Cambridge street for the purpose of providing traffic relief to the northwest and have made available a total during my administration of $1,100,000 for widening and improving of Chelsea street, thus providing for a further northern artery, in addition to $2,640,000 for the widening of Tremont and Kneeland streets.

The widening of Tremont and Kneeland streets practically commits the city to the carrying out of the recommendation of the Boston City Planning Board which will ultimately result in a new radial highway connecting Tremont and Cambridge streets through the heart of the city and will do much to solve traffic congestion.

I have in addition this day written Major General Andre W. Brewster, in charge of the Army Base, South Boston, requesting that the army engineers make a study and report of the Boston traffic problem, believing that an outside agency is perhaps better qualified than those immediately connected with the administration of municipal departments to solve a problem of this character.

Your address delivered before the Legislative Committee conveys the impression, although possibly not intended, that the city has failed to deal generously with the Police Department. This is an injustice in view of the fact that nearly one-sixth of all the money expended within the tax limit is appropriated for the conduct of the Police Department, certainly an extremely generous amount as contrasted with the sums expended annually during the administration of the late Edwin U. Curtis. The cost of conducting the activities under your immediate predecessor, the late Edwin U. Curtis, in 1917 was $2,821,071.

The amount appropriated for the current year is $4,537,796, or an increase of more than 60 per cent over the amount appropriated and expended in 1917. During your administration of the Police Department I have authorized in addition capital expenditures for Police Headquarters and station houses representing a total of about $2,500,000. This total in a period of three years represents a sum greater during your short term as Police Commissioner than the total expenditure made for police station houses in the entire half century preceding your incumbency of the present office.

Provided every department of the city had increased in the same proportion as the Police Department has increased, the municipal tax rate would be nearer $40 today than its present rate, which by the way is the third lowest of the thirty-nine Massachusetts cities.

With reference to the erection of Police Station No. 2, I beg to state that in 1917 a site was purchased, during my first term as Mayor, and no action was taken upon the proposition for the erection of the building until I returned to the office of Mayor in 1922. It is customary in the award of city contracts to award to the lowest responsible bidder and this custom was followed. Unfortunately the contractor died while the work was in progress; the firm went into bankruptcy and the bonding company were required to complete the building without loss to the city. The probability is that had the contractor lived, bankruptcy might have been avoided and the building completed on time.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Revenue from another class of public service enterprise, i. e., Rapid Transit, for rentals of subways and tunnels, $1,655,475 or $15,642 less than the interest and sinking-fund requirements of the Rapid Transit debt in 1923.

THE WORLD HAS NEVER PAID ITS JUST TRIBUTE TO THE CHINESE NATION.

STANDISH WILLCOX, REPRESENTING MAYOR JAMES M. CURLEY, DELIVERS DELIGHTFUL ADDRESS BEFORE REPRESENTATIVE CHINESE ASSEMBLY.

Representing Mayor James M. Curley, Standish Willcox, Secretary to the Mayor, delivered the following address before the members and friends of the most powerful and influential body of Chinese citizens in the state. The address was delivered Sunday, October 12:

DEAR FRIENDS,—It is a very manifest and gratifying pleasure to have the opportunity to come to this splendid assembly of representative citizens of the Chinese community, in the name of my beloved and honored employer, Hon. James M. Curley, Mayor of Boston, and reaffirm, in the hour of the present crisis which confronts China, our firm belief in the honor and integrity of the Chinese government.

China is the honored nation of antiquity which spread the light of civilization throughout the world twenty-two hundred years before the birth of the Saviour of mankind, and in the arts, sciences, literature and philosophy the people of China led the world in the advancement of all that is best in thought and learning.

I desire to call your particular attention to the fact that before the beginning of the Christian Era, China had produced Lao Tsze, Confucius and Mencius, and its armies had carried the banners of the Eastern Empire in glorious military triumph.

The integrity and devotion of the people of China is splendidly evidenced by the fact that, while the history of China has changed superficially, the old China of philosophy, science, art and literature, as a world leader, still remains.

The American tourist travels through the beautiful Chinese country and finds the villages and cultivated fields resembling in their appearance the centuries past, while, in the metropolitan cities of China, though there are evidences of the new era, but those villages from which sprang the firm, resolute and devoted leaders of the wonderful China of antiquity show little difference from their appearance of one hundred years ago.

The world, in my humble judgment, has never paid its just tribute to China.

My own personal experience has brought me into the association of the leaders of foreign affairs of all the civilized world in Washington, and I am firm in my conviction that I have never known finer or greater statesmen, blessed with superb intelligence, more loyal friends of the American nation, or more untiring in their service to the men and women of their native country than the late Li Hung Chang and Ambassador Wu. These statesmen enjoyed the love and respect of everyone in official Washington. None were more gifted in the solution of those problems that related to the world's best estate and the absolute sovereignty of China in securing the good will of the American people, and they left their indelible imprint upon the pages of the world's history a blessed and inspiring memory.

I desire to call your particular attention to the fact that forty-five years ago we received from the Chinese government the first students to be sent abroad to America. They have proved leaders in science, art, literature and human fellowship and have enjoyed the most intimate relation with our fellow students at Cornell, Yale, Harvard, University of Chicago, University of Wisconsin, University of Pennsylvania, and other of our leading educational institutions.

Today there is not a family in China who would not, if circumstances permitted, send all its sons to our nation to complete their education, and I call particular attention to the fact that, when the treasury of the provincial and central government of China was sadly taxed, the education of its sons has been the first requisite and demand of the people of your nation.

I can but feel that the coming of these scholars to the United States is but another evidence of China's advancing position in science, jurisprudence and academic subjects, and I have known no finer contribution to the world's intelligence than the return of these Chinese students with a master's or doctor's degree to their native land.

I desire to call your particular attention to the fact that the devoted service of these students is strictly in keeping with the traditions of centuries of respect which Chinese civilization has had for education during the countless ages of mankind.

We find in industrial plants, business offices, hospitals and agricultural stations of the United States, splendid young men of Chinese birth and ancestry, engaged in the most practical supplemental study our nation knows, and who are a splendid contribution to the welfare of China and the human race.

I have conferred with the Bureau of Commerce in Washington and find that, despite the crisis in your nation, our trade with China has continued to increase, that our merchants believe in the triumph of law and order in the United China, and which will once again restore China to her rightful position among the nations of the world.

It is gratifying to know that, after a most comprehensive study, the Chinese customs import tariff has been revised and which will result in added revenue to China in the amount of eight million taels, and it is believed that through the port of Shanghai alone the increase will amount to five million taels. This is highly important as, for a number of years past, Shanghai has contributed about thirty-seven per cent to the total Chinese revenue.

I call your particular attention to the fact that China has accomplished these things despite the adversity at present suffered and which is a splendid tribute to the character and integrity of the Chinese people.

I believe that as soon as the present unstable conditions in China are effectively settled, we shall see the normal value of the tael approaching ninety cents in our money. It is a pleasure to assure you that nowhere in the world has the good roads movement received a greater encouragement than in the China of the present day, and, while the work is slow and tedious, there have been splendid improvements in the highways of your native land. The officials of China recognized the importance of highway improvement, and the business men realize that it will increase the facilities for marketing products. The farmers of China are beginning to realize that highways are more expeditious than canals, and by reason of this fact are securing better prices today for their products.

Let us stand for a constitutional government in China and appreciate all its wonderful service for the blessings of mankind.

Professor Hirth, one of the greatest scholars of Europe, has declared in one of his works, that as an educator of the nation, the "Chou Li" has probably not its like among the literature of the world, with the possible exception of the Bible.

Kindly remember in the seventh century, while Europe was steeped in the middle ages, that China had inaugurated science and literature and which has perpetuated down to the present century.

As early as 1021 A. D. China produced a philosopher and statesman, Wang An Shih, and whose recommendations for commerce, industry and agriculture to pass into the hands of the state, with a view to succoring the working classes and preventing them from being ground into the dust by the rich, that tribunals should be established throughout the land to regulate the daily wage and the daily price of merchandise; that the soil should be measured and divided into equal areas and graded according to its fertility in order that there might be a new basis of taxation; that taxes should be paid by the rich and the poor should be exempt; that pensions should be provided for the aged and employment for the unemployed; and that every family with two males should provide one for the state militia, was, I assure you, my friends, nine hundred years before the most advanced thought of the present day had approached similar recommendations for governmental character.

It was the people of China who invented the mariner's compass, gunpowder, paper, ink, printing, chinaware and porcelain. It was China who gave silk and tea to the world and produced poetry, literature, art and architecture unsurpassed in the history of other nations.

I call to your particular attention the Book of Rites issued in China, twelve hundred years before the birth of Christ, outlining especially the education of the people of China. Among the ancients, villages had their schools, districts their academies, departments their colleges, and principalities their universities. Every educated subject of China today shows evidence of a culture which has come down through the ages of their own rich civilization.

I was told in Washington of a quarrel between two rickshaw coolies on the streets of Peking, one declaring to the other, "You should be ashamed of yourself, you have forgotten the eight principles of China."

Have you ever noted the Chinese servant in the household, the poor illiterate coolie pushing a wheelbarrow or carrying a load, the boatman clad in rags, and the fisherman at his net, all of whom have inherited a certain degree of this Chinese culture? Do any of these good men a favor, and note the gracious manner in which it is recognized. In my opinion the difference between one member of society and another lies in opportunity and education rather than in class.

I want with all my heart and mind to see a reunited China, and everything done to make Hong Kong, Shanghai, Dairen, Canton, Tientsin, Kiaochow and Hankow the greatest commercial ports of the East and supported by every commercial and industrial interest of the United States.

The Chinese customs returns of the Board of Trade of China for the first six months of 1924 indicate a revenue of four million taels in excess of those for 1923, and it is a pleasure to learn that the settlement of bond issues has netted the central government of China about nine million dollars. Railway construction is everywhere advanced in China, even in the crisis through which she is passing at present. The Shanghai cotton mills still give their superior products to the world. The silk exports from Shanghai to the United States are still the world's maximum in splendid manufacture. I congratulate heartily the Chinese people on the opening of the Amur River upon May 5, 1924, and which will tremendously increase, after the present crisis is over, the commerce and industry of the Chinese nation.

I have made inquiry at Washington and I am delighted to learn that the increase of our commerce with China is three hundred and forty seven millions over 1923, despite the instability in the condition of China by reason of the present crisis.

I have made a compilation in Washington of the character of study of the Chinese students now within our country and find them engaged in the studying of our railways, electricity, telegraphs, blast furnaces, gasoline engines, industrial chemistry, anesthetics, surgery, sanitation, the science of modern warfare, modern agricultural methods, and modern commercial, industrial and political society.

What China needs today is a readjustment of its population so that six-sevenths of its men and women and children will not endeavor to live in a territory embracing one-third of the country. China possesses two million square miles of territory with an average of less than four persons to the square mile. Something must be done to relieve this condition. I believe that everyone of China's two million square miles of territory can be made fertile by well defined systems of irrigation, and I call to your particular attention that nowhere in the world, after the present crisis is settled, will the young American of intelligence, honor and character find greater opportunity for advancement than within your native land. A recent traveler over the Peking Suiyan railway to inner Mongolia, a country which before the advent of the railway was as sparsely populated as the Western plains in America, tells me that thousands will make their way to that splendid land of promise.

Every gentleman in this assembly should do everything possible for the advancement of railway construction in China, which is the vital element so greatly needed to bring your nation back to its splendid position during ancient years. I have no hesitancy in prophesying that this work will be done in the next few decades and that the port and harbor facilities will be splendidly improved.

As illustrative of this I call to your particular attention the situation in Shanghai which was not a city of great importance even in China. The site of the splendid present city of Shanghai was mud flats and rice fields, but I believe that Shanghai will eventually become one of the world's most noted cities.

My brothers, let us stand firm for the integrity of China and be appreciative of the rich legends of its glorious past. Your people merit the kind, constructive and intelligent sympathy of the whole civilized world. Let us apply science to life in the development of the railways and factories of a new China, which is the hope of the world. It is a pleasure to know that the Rockefeller Foundation has come to China's aid with the best professional talent known in the world's science.

China is a land of unlimited possibilities for industry and commerce and in the wake of transformation will come the honor and respect of the civilized world.

In the five years 1918-1922 the expenditure from taxes and other ordinary revenue for various public improvements (such as were formerly financed from loans) amounted to $15,096,963 or an average of $3,019,392 a year.

In this five-year period the expenditure by objects was: $7,260,085 for streets, bridges and ferries; $5,437,740 for new schoolhouses, etc.; $881,143 for parks, playgrounds, etc.; $471,273 for public buildings; various other objects, $1,046,722.

Of the total expenditure for parks, $797,303 was from Parkman Fund income.

NATIVES AND CITIZENS OF BOSTON AND VICINITY HONORED IN HALL OF FAME.

In the American Hall of Fame, New York City, dedicated in 1901, are inscribed on bronze tablets the names of 56 eminent men and 7 distinguished women deemed worthy of the highest honor on account of their services and attainments. Of the 63 individuals thus selected (up to 1920 inclusive) by an electorate of 100 leading Americans, 27 were natives or for some time citizens of Boston or vicinity. The names of the latter are as follows: Chosen in 1900—John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, William Ellery Channing, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Daniel Webster, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Horace Mann, Nathaniel Hawthorne, George Peabody, Samuel Finley Breese Morse, Joseph Story, Asa Gray, Gilbert Stuart—total, 13.

Chosen in 1910—Edgar Allan Poe, Oliver Wendell Holmes, George Bancroft, John Lothrop Motley, Phillips Brooks—total, 5.

Chosen in 1915—Louis Agassiz, Francis Parkman, Rufus Choate, Charlotte Cushman—total, 4.

Chosen in 1920—William Thomas Green Morton, Alice Freeman Palmer. Five additional names every fifth year are to be selected and inscribed until the year 2,000, when the 150 tablets in the colonnade will be complete.

If those who were natives or residents elsewhere in the State are added to the list, the following 7 names increase the total to 34 for Massachusetts or more than half the whole number, viz.: William Cullen Bryant, Jonathan Edwards, Mark Hopkins, Elias Howe, Eli Whitney, Maria Mitchell, Mary Lyon.

If all New England is included, 4 more names will bring up the total to 38 or 60.3 per cent of whole number chosen, viz.: Roger Williams, Henry Ward Beecher, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Emma Willard.

CITY CHARTER CHANGES.

In 1854, 1885 and 1900 important changes in the original City Charter of 1821 were effected for the purpose of improving the methods and efficiency of the City Government. The revision of 1854 (Chap. 448, Stat. 1854) referred to the voters for acceptance, gave the Mayor a qualified veto over the action of the City Council, also the power of removal of appointed officials, besides providing for his election by a plurality instead of a majority vote. The amendments of 1885 (Chap. 266, Stat. 1885) were not submitted to the voters for approval. They transferred all the executive powers to the Mayor, prohibiting the City Council from interference with the executive and administrative business of the City. This was done in order to end the inefficiency resulting from an excessive number of joint committees, a municipal development conforming to the traditions of the outgrown town government.

The amendments of 1909 (Chap. 486, Stat. 1909) cut down the number and powers of the legislative branch of the government to a minimum, the Board of Aldermen (13 members) and the Common Council (75 members) being abolished. For these was substituted a single City Council of nine members to be elected at large for a 3-year term. The Mayor's position was further strengthened by giving him a 4-year term, subject to recall at end of two years, but requiring a majority of the registered voters to make the recall effective. The Mayor's power over appointments was no longer subject to check by aldermen but by a State board, the Civil Service Commission, and City elections were removed from all connection with national and State politics, no primaries nor caucuses being permitted, all candidates for office to be selected by means of nomination papers. The only question in this Act of 1909 which was submitted to the voters was contained in section 35, i. e., whether Plan 1 or Plan 2 should be adopted, the first providing for a term of two years for Mayor and a City Council of 36 members to be chosen in primaries. Plan 2 was adopted by a majority of 3,894. Charter of 1909 amended later as follows: (1) By Chap. 437, Acts of 1910, exempting loans issued for Rapid Transit construction from the prohibition of the establishing of sinking funds, as contained in sec. 26. (2) Chap. 730, Acts of 1914, fixing date of annual municipal election on the sixth Tuesday after the state election instead of in the following January, as in sec. 32; changing the requirement as to signatures on nomination papers to 3,000 for Mayor and 2,000 for City Council and School Committee instead of 5,000 for all, as in sec. 53, also limiting the number of nomination papers issued to 300 for a candidate for Mayor and 200 for other candidates, referring to sec. 54. (3) Chap. 37, Special Acts of 1918, annulling the jurat at end of nomination papers. (4) Chap. 94, Special Acts of 1918, abolishing recall of Mayor, and making him ineligible for re-election, i. e., establishing a single term of four years, but not prohibiting the election of any Mayor for other than consecutive terms. (5) Chap. 288, Acts of 1921, fixing date of the annual municipal election on the first Tuesday after the second Monday in December, also making slight changes as to nominations.

LIQUOR LICENSES AND NATIONAL PROHIBITION.

The national prohibition amendment (i. e., the 18th) to the Constitution, having been ratified by 45 States and becoming effective on January 16, 1920, the legalized trade in intoxicating liquors ceased then. It was supposed to stop about 6 months sooner because of the Federal war regulation providing for prohibition on July 1, 1919, to be effective until the army could be demobilized. But as there was no Massachusetts law forbidding the issuing of licenses after July 1, the Boston Licensing Board issued 702 such for the remainder of the license year with the proviso that the license was no protection against violation of Federal law. After which licensees claimed the right to sell July 1, under Federal law, the only liquor was beer and ale containing not over 2.75 per cent of alcohol. Sales of these lighter beverages continued to October 28, 1919, when Congress enacted a law (Volstead Act) forbidding the sale of any liquor as a beverage containing more than 0.50 per cent alcohol. The validity of this act being widely questioned, the United States Supreme Court upheld it on Jan. 5, 1920, and again on June 7, 1920. The result of this decision was that former applicants for liquor licenses did not apply for them in 1920. The Supreme Court of Mass. later in the year decided that the liquor laws of the State remain in force where not inconsistent with the Volstead Act. The Boston Board therefore issued 146 licenses to druggists and 17 4th-class, permitting sales for non-beverage purposes only. In 1921 there were issued 192 licenses to druggists, 15 4th-class and one 5th-class. On May 17, 1922, Chap. 427, Acts of 1922 (consisting of 27 sections) was approved, providing for the carrying into effect in Mass. of the 18th Federal (i. e., prohibition) amendment. This law is subject to a referendum at State election on November 7, 1922.

By Chapter 392, Acts of 1922, the retailing of non-intoxicating beverages is subjected to license, with fee of not more than one dollar for each year ending April 30.

PUBLIC STREETS IN BOSTON.

Total length of the 2,447 paved (accepted) streets, February 1, 1922, 606.33 miles; total area, 11,459,009 square yards, or 8.47 per cent of the City's total land area. This is exclusive of the private streets (not accepted), numbering about 2,890. 366.10 miles, or 60.38 per cent, are paved with macadam (including 128.03 miles bituminous macadam); 105.66 miles with granite block; 45.50 miles with asphalt; 29.32 miles with gravel; 36.63 miles with asphalt concrete (17.55 m. being bitulithic and 13.71 m. Topeka); 11.69 miles with wood block; 5.42 miles with brick. Old macadam pavement is gradually being replaced with more satisfactory and durable kinds, such as bitulithic, concrete, granite block, etc., $5,138,678 having been expended during the past four years in reconstructing and improving 313 miles of streets and parts of streets. Granolithic sidewalks laid in 1921, 97,049 square yards or about 21 miles, averaging 8 feet wide, 50 per cent of cost assessed on estates benefited.

New highway construction completed in period 1918-1921 includes 13 streets in Boston Proper; 34 in Dorchester; 37 in West Roxbury; 14 in Roxbury; 24 in Brighton; 6 in East Boston; 3 in Hyde Park; 4 in South Boston, and 1 in Charlestown, roadway pavement bitulithic, or asphalt surface on concrete, and bituminous macadam. Gross debt outstanding February 1, 1922, for all street construction, including damages, $22,267,141 or $925,700 more than in 1921, this increase due to new loan for Stuart St. construction.

SETTLEMENT OF BOSTON.

Boston was settled in the latter part of August, 1630, by Puritan colonists under Governor John Winthrop. The name of the original settlement was changed to Boston from Trimountaine by order of the Court of Assistants on September 7 (O. S.), 1630. This date was moved forward by the New Style calendar in 1752 to Sept. 17, the recognized date of the founding of Boston. The name, Trimountaine, had been given because of the three peaks of the most prominent hill, afterward called Beacon Hill, much higher then than now. By the Indians the place was called Shawmut. The name, Boston, was derived from the English town of Boston in Lincolnshire, the home of some of the leading colonists and promoters of the enterprise.

To the City Council.

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, October 6, 1924.

The following was received:

Gentlemen,—The Overseers of the Public Welfare of the City of Boston report that available funds will be exhausted by October 13, 1924, under the Item F-9, Care of Dependents. The expenditures under this item are considerably greater than was anticipated when the budget was compiled.

I had hoped that industrial prosperity might develop to a point where it would be unnecessary for the large number of persons who have been seeking aid during the past three months to resort to this method of providing for their needs. It is the first duty of the city to provide for its dependents and I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying order, which will cover the requirements for the present month.

Department heads, having been instructed to economize in an amount sufficient to meet the further needs, I trust it will not be necessary to withdraw further funds from the Reserve Fund.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Overseers of the Public Welfare,
October 3, 1924.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir,—I am instructed by the Board of Overseers of the Public Welfare to inform you that we will have a balance of only $1,601.79 under F-9, Dependent Aid, after our cash draft is drawn on October 13, 1924.

At a meeting held in your office on Monday, April 7, 1924, a committee representing the Board advised you that we would have a deficit of approximately $200,000 this year under F-9, Dependent Aid, and at that time, you stated that you would make the necessary arrangements to provide this money.

Will you kindly give this matter your early attention, and oblige

Yours very truly,
WALTER V. MCCARTHY,
Secretary.

Ordered, That under authority of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893, the City Auditor be and hereby is authorized to transfer:

From the appropriation for Reserve Fund, $40,000, to the appropriation for Overseeing of the Public Welfare Department, Central Office, F-9, Care of Dependents, $40,000.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

PARK AT WELLINGTON HILL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, October 6, 1924.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Park Department, September 24, 1924.
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir,—The inclosed letter, dated September 8, 1924, from the City Planning Board recommending the acquisition of certain property at Wellington Hill for park purposes was placed before the Board of Park Commissioners at its last meeting.

The Board believes that favorable action should be taken in this matter and that a sufficient sum of money should be appropriated for the purchase and improvement of this land amounting to five acres, now only assessed for $11,300.

Very truly yours,
JAMES B. SHEA, Chairman.

Ordered, That the sum of $18,000 be appropriated to be expended by the Park Commissioners for the purchase of land and development for park purposes, in the Wellington Hill district, and that to meet said appropriation, the City Treasurer be and hereby is authorized, to issue from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the City of Boston to said amount.

TRANSFER OF $10,000 TO BOSTON CONSERVATION BUREAU.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, October 4, 1924.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—The Boston Conservation Bureau have this day submitted a report which, in the event that their conclusions are sound and the research work which they propose undertaking should prove the success which they anticipate it will, will prove of inestimable value to the human family and the agriculturists. The modest sum requested, namely, $10,000, as contrasted with the great benefits anticipated, in my opinion justifies favorable action by the City of Boston.

I accordingly recommend adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

RELEASE OF PARK RESTRICTIONS.

Coun. DONOGHUE called up No. 4 on the calendar, viz.:

4. Notice filed by Coun. Donoghue of motion to reconsider the vote of September 29, whereby the ordinance concerning park frontages on Columbia road was passed.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I rise at this time to move reconsideration of the ordinance concerning park frontages which was passed at the last meeting of the Council. I refer, of course, particularly to the ordinance which was submitted to the Council and was passed by a majority of the members, relating to the removal of restrictions on that part of Columbia road from Dorchester avenue to Buttonwood street for the purpose, as I understand it, of erecting a gasoline station on that particular site. I am one of those who believe that our park system, upon which the City of Boston has for years and years gone by expended large sums of money and upon which for many years to come it will in all probability expend millions of dollars for beautification, should not be destroyed from an aesthetic point of view by having it studied with gasoline stations every 100 to 200 yards. It seems to me, in view of the fact that this particular station was established some nine or ten years ago without any authority, without any legal right to place it there, this City Council should not find itself in the position of being asked to legalize something which was done illegally. I think there is no one who questions the fact that this gasoline station, as well as some others which are located along our park system, is there contrary to the restrictions of the Park Department, and now contrary to the city ordinances. At the last meeting of the Council, I introduced an order asking that the Law Department immediately institute legal proceedings to remove all gasoline stations and garages which may exist contrary to the restrictions of the Park Department or the city ordinances. Unfortunately, that matter was laid on the table without my having had an opportunity to express myself on it, and I now take this opportunity of saying that I feel that these gasoline stations, regardless of who has had sufficient prestige to place them within the restricted area, should be removed, and that it should be done without any order of this Council or without any request from this Council being necessary. The Law Department should immediately proceed to have those stations which are not there in conformity with our laws removed. In my opinion, it would be just as sane to have some one ask to have a gasoline station placed on Boston Common, or on the Public Garden, and if this passes, and if the members of the Council vote to remove these restrictions from Columbia road, in all fairness to some one else, they should vote to remove restrictions from Boston Common and the Public Garden or from any other section of our park system. Of course, the average person would say that it would be ridiculous to place gasoline stations on Tremont street, in connection with Boston Common, or on Boylston street near the Public Garden. From a business viewpoint it would be the most ideal location that could be found in this city and, of course, all these things are purely material. Taking in mind this location adjacent to our Strandway, on which this present administration, under the direction of Mayor Curley has expended a million dollars in the past year, we now propose to give permission by vote of this Council for the placing at the entrance practically a gasoline station, thereby seriously detracting from all that work which has been done with the expenditure of a million dollars. I say it is about time that we use the office of City Councilor for the purpose for which it is supposed to be used. We are here to represent the interests of the great majority of the citizens of our city and not to grant special privileges to any one individual. This is a clear case of special privilege, a case of particular legislation for an individual, and I do not think it should be the duty of this Council to legalize in any such manner something which is absolutely illegal. We vote to place restrictions on our park system and then we come in here and vote to remove those restrictions from some particular section. There is no more reason why we should vote to remove a restriction from Columbia road, Dorchester avenue and Buttonwood street, than there is why we should vote to do so in any other section of our park system. It merely means the commercializing of that section, and within a very few years, if this practice is continued, allowing individuals to come in here to the City Council and obtain such special privileges, removing restrictions from our park system for their benefit, we are going to be flooded with requests for these gasoline stations and garages along our parks, parks upon which we have spent millions of dollars of the city's money in maintenance and for beautification, parks upon which we pride ourselves. We call Boston the Athens of America, the city of education, and yet just think of what we are doing in allowing gasoline stations all along through our park system. I cannot conceive of any such thing happening, and I feel very strongly that this restriction should not be lifted, but that we should vote to reconsider on the proposition and defeat it decisively by our vote. Mr. President, I move reconsideration, hoping that the same will prevail.

The motion to reconsider was declared lost. Coun. Donoghue doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays.

The motion to reconsider was lost, yeas, 1, nays 5.

Consists in the most inclusive sense of 40 municipalities, including Boston, or 14 cities and 25 towns, all within 15 miles of the State House. The four organized Metropolitan Districts existing for the purpose of constructing and maintaining certain extensive systems of public works under State control are as follows: Metropolitan Park District, established by chapter 407, Acts of 1893, including all the cities and towns except Lexington, and managed by a State Board of five commissioners; Metropolitan Water District, established by chapter 488, Acts of 1895, including 10 cities and 9 towns, and covering an area of 175 square miles; Metropolitan Sewerage District, established by chapter 439, Acts of 1889, consisting of the North System and South System, including 17 cities and towns in the former system and 8 in the latter, and covering an area of 225 square miles; the last two districts managed by a single State board of three commissioners; Charles River Basin District, established by chapter 465, Acts of 1903, including all the cities and towns except Cohasset and Lexington, and in charge of the Metropolitan Park Commission. By Chapter 350, General Acts of 1919, the two Metropolitan boards were abolished and a single Metropolitan Commission of five members was established.

AREA OF BOSTON.

Area to ward lines (26 wards), 30,598 acres (i. e., 47.81 square miles), 2,944 acres being filled land, 1,143 acres water area and 1,484 acres flats. Land area only 27,971 acres (i. e., 43.70 square miles). Included in the latter are 154 acres of filled flats added to the land area of South Boston in 1919 and 1920 and 133 acres to that of East Boston. Original Boston contained about 780 acres of land. Of the twelve leading American cities, eight are larger in land area than Boston, viz., Los Angeles (365.7 sq. miles), New York (318), Chicago (199.4), Philadelphia (129), Baltimore (91.9), Detroit (80), Cleveland (56.6) and St. Louis (61.25). The only city in Massachusetts with larger land area is Taunton (50 sq. mi.).

If Boston should expand by annexations as New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and others have expanded, its total area, in case of including the 39 cities and towns within the 15-mile radius, would exceed the largest, viz., Los Angeles, the present land area of "Greater Boston" being 409.5 square miles.

AREA OF UNITED STATES, NEW ENGLAND, ETC.

Total of the 48 states in square miles, 3,026,719; Alaska, 590,884; making grand total of 3,617,603 sq. m. or 42.11 per cent of continent of North America and 6.32 per cent of the earth's land area. The six states of New England 66,424 sq. m., i. e., Maine, 33,040; Vermont, 9,564; N. H., 9,341; Mass. 8,266; Conn., 4,965; R. I., 1,248. Land area of New England, 61,976 sq. m.; of Mass., 8,093 sq. m.

Total area of U. S. (inclu. Alaska) 112,000 sq. miles less than total of Canadian provinces, but total population is over 12 times as many.

BOSTON CITY RECORD

OFFICIAL CHRONICLE OF MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

VOL. 16.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1924.

No. 43

ONE OF THE FINEST MONUMENTS TO THE CURLEY ADMINISTRATION OF THE CITY OF BOSTON'S AFFAIRS, THE NEW ROXBURY HIGH SCHOOL, WHICH IS WELL UNDER WAY.

BUILDING WHICH WILL BE UNIQUE IN THE HISTORY OF EDUCATION IN BOSTON, AND WHICH WILL BRING ADDED FAME TO NEW ENGLAND, WILL SEAT 1,800 PUPILS AND PROVIDE ACCOMMODATIONS FOR CITIZEN USE AS WELL.

BOSTON'S NEW $3,000,000 ROXBURY HIGH SCHOOL TO BE FINEST STRUCTURE OF KIND IN NEW ENGLAND—A SOURCE OF GREAT CIVIC PRIDE.

One of Boston's best examples of what is now being termed "Curleyism" by political enemies is the new Roxbury High School being provided for the citizens of Boston by Mayor Curley. This building is to cost $3,000,000 when completed and will be the pride of the city as well as New England.

The Mayor during the past two years of his administration has spent more than $14,000,000 in providing schoolhouses for the children of the citizens of Boston. He has provided a seat for every child despite the enormous growth in attendance. The Mayor believes in education for the children of the city that they may grow into better citizens. The Mayor also realizes that money spent by a community for the education of its citizens is not extravagance.

NO POLITICAL FUND BEING COLLECTED IN FIRE DEPARTMENT.

COMMISSIONER GLYNN POSITIVELY REFUTES AND DENIES NEWSPAPER CANARD.

Mayor Curley has received the following letter from Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn:

BOSTON, October 22, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—My attention has been directed to a news item in the morning papers in effect that the members of the Fire Department were engaged in raising campaign funds for one of the candidates for public office. This is the first intimation that I have had that any such work was in progress.

I have caused an investigation to be made and find that there is absolutely no truth in the story that funds have been raised or are being raised for campaign purposes in the interests of any candidates.

So far as any member of the Fire Department making a contribution to the candidacy of any individual that is his personal business and no concern of mine; so far as the question of a collection of a general fund within the department

I should not permit any such work to be undertaken and I am positive that none has been undertaken.

The Fire Department has been collecting funds among the members for the victims of the Lorain, Ohio, disaster, and also collecting funds for the Father Lynch Memorial Scholarship Fund, and it is possible that some persons may have the impression that the funds raised for these two purposes were to be applied for the particular benefit of some candidates for public office.

THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Fire Commissioner.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,
Ensured by thy sons' and thy daughters' unselfish devotion!"

NATHAN HASKELL DOLE.]

MAYOR RECEIVES THANKS OF COMMISSION ON MARKING HISTORICAL SITES.

BOARD OUTLINES WORK ALREADY IN SAVING FOR POSTERITY PLACES OF HALLOWED MEMORY AND PROMISES TO CONTINUE WORK.

Mayor Curley on October 17 received the following communication from the Commission on the Marking of Historical Sites, consisting of Walter Gilman Page, chairman; Hon. David A. Lourie, Edward W. McGlenen and Hon. Thomas H. Dowd, and Walter K. Watkins, secretary.

MY DEAR MR. MAYOR: I take pleasure in making the following report on the work of this commission to date:

We have placed a tablet to mark the First Free School on the Suffolk Savings Bank.

We have placed a tablet to mark the home of Gov. John A. Andrew on Charles street.

We have provided a tablet to commemorate the visit of Abraham Lincoln to Boston in 1848, said tablet to be placed on the building now in process of construction on Bromfield street.

We have contracted to place a memorial on Lafayette Hall. This will be a very handsome and appropriate memorial.

We have contracted and will soon place in position a tablet to mark the site of the first post office. This site is now occupied by the Globe newspaper.

We have provided for a tablet to mark the site of the home of William Blaxton, corner of Spruce and Beacon streets. The Blaxton, the first post office and the Lafayette tablets will be in position within three months.

We have voted to mark the site of the home of Robert Keayne, founder of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, and also the site of the book shop, which is the same, the corner of Washington and State streets. We have voted to mark the site of the first state bank; the first ship yard; the first printing office; the site of the building where the Federal Constitution was adopted; the site of the first fort in Fort Hill square; a memorial to Samuel Maverick in Maverick square; a memorial to Champlain in North End Park; the site of the first newspaper published in Boston; the site of the home of John Winthrop, where the Old South Building now stands; the site of the first tavern, now Thompson's Spa. We have voted to replace with a slate tablet the white marble tablet now defacing the front of the Old North Church and hiding some of its architectural features.

At our meeting this coming Thursday we shall select ten more sites. Where a tablet is merely marking the place without any particular adornment, not much time is required, but it is the ambition of this commission wherever opportunity offers to place tablets of artistic value, as we feel that the work in which we are engaged is of a permanent nature, and we wish to place memorials which will reflect credit not only upon ourselves, but upon your administration.

I trust, Mr. Mayor, this program meets with your approval, and personally, as chairman of this commission, I wish to express to you my sincere appreciation of your sympathetic interest.

WALTER GILMAN PAGE,
Chairman on Behalf of the Commission.

BOSTON POLLS TO BE OPENED TILL 8 P. M.—BIG VOTE ANTICIPATED.MAYOR CURLEY APPROVES VOTE OF CITY COUNCIL—POLLING PLACES TO OPEN AS USUAL, AT 6 A. M.

The voting places in Boston will be open on election day, November 4, from 6 a. m. until 8 p. m. Mayor Curley has approved the City Council's vote to this effect.

The Election Commission expects that at least 80 per cent of Boston's 248,750 voters will go to the polls. This would mean a vote of approximately 225,000. The Democratic-Republican ratio of the total registration is figured as about two to one.

Election Department officials and workers are now busying themselves with perfection of the election machinery. For instance, 150 of the 2,192 precinct officers who served in the primaries have indicated either their unwillingness to serve in that capacity on election day, or else have removed from Boston. Their respective ward committees will nominate their successors, final action in each case to be taken by the Election Commission.

Then because of the 36,000 new voters who have enrolled themselves since the primaries, additional voting compartments must be installed in each of the

274 voting places in Boston. This work requires constant supervision and will cost many hundred dollars. The law stipulates that each voting place must afford one compartment for every 75 voters in the precinct.

Three hundred blank ballots have already been mailed to absentee voters. At least 200 more applications will be made, it is expected. These ballots must be marked and returned through the mail, in ample time to be taken to the home precinct of the absentee on election day, so that the voter's name may be properly checked.

Of the 274 voting places in Boston, 147 are located in schools, 58 in church basements, municipal buildings and private halls, 49 in portable voting booths, 14 in ward rooms in city public buildings and 6 in fire stations. A few of the portable booths are being eliminated this year, in keeping with the commission's policy of eliminating them gradually as too small for the demands made upon them. The old-style voting booth will be a thing of the past in a very few years.

Fairview Cemetery.

James Kingston, Dennis Sullivan, laborers, 1 day, $4.50 each.

Evergreen Cemetery.

Henry L. Dolan, treeman, 1 day, $5.

Public Works Department (Bridge Service).

BOSTON, October 11, 1924.

Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—Permission is respectfully requested to award a contract, without advertising, to the Planet Company of Westfield, Mass., for furnishing to the Election Department 200 sets of voting compartments at the price of $10 each set less 2 per cent for payment in ten days, the total amount of contract to be $2,000.

This department publicly advertised and received bids on October 10 for these 200 sets of voting compartments and the Planet Company was the lowest bidder, but failed to file a duplicate copy of bid at the office of the City Auditor. The Planet Company have the patents on these compartments, and are in a position to make delivery within ten days. The Election Department are very desirous of securing these compartments and have them set up before the state election which takes place on November 4, and it would be impossible to readvertise these bids and secure delivery in time for the state election so that I feel that the best interests of the city will be served by accepting this recommendation.

Respectfully yours,

FRANK P. ROCK,

From time to time during the past ten months, I have received from the commanding officers of the several divisions, reports concerning the use with excellent results of the Schaefer or prone pressure method of resuscitation on persons suffering from asphyxiation or immersion, by officers in their respective divisions, and I have been exceedingly gratified to observe these officers' evident understanding and skillful application of the principles of this method.

Division 2.—Patrolman Bernard F. Wermers.

Division 3.—Sergeant Joseph L. Snow, Patrolman John M. Brauneis, Jr., Patrolman Richard B. Conroy, Jr., Patrolman John C. Walker.

Division 4.—Patrolman Paul F. Hal-leran, Patrolman William Shea.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 622.

A trial board consisting of Captains Goodwin, McConnell and McDevitt, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman Edward C. Lawless of Division 14, charging him with conduct unbecoming an officer:

Specification.—In that on the sixteenth day of September, 1924, the said Patrolman Edward C. Lawless did, while in uniform, ride in an automobile other than that owned by the Police Department when the transaction of specific police business did not require such riding.

has reported to the commissioner a finding of guilty. In accordance with which, it is hereby ordered that the said Patrolman Edward C. Lawless perform one hundred and five hours' punishment duty.

I desire to take this opportunity of warning the members of the force that I consider this a very serious violation of the rules of the department. It is impossible for a police officer, who is assigned to a particular route to properly protect the persons and property which are in his care and which is his responsibility if he simply skirts his territory in an automobile with only the thought of pulling his duty calls on time. There are other duties which a police officer must perform if he does his duty faithfully beside pulling his duty calls and which he must of necessity neglect if he patrols in an automobile. If this practice is being indulged in by any other members of the force, they should profit by the penalty imposed upon Patrolman Lawless and discontinue it at once, as any patrolman who is found guilty in the future of this violation of the rules, will be dealt with more severely.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 623.

A trial board consisting of Captains Walkins, McConnell and McDevitt, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman Anthony G. Tobin of Division 9, charging him with neglect of duty and leaving the city without permission, has reported to the commissioner a finding of guilty. In accordance with which, because of his previous excellent record as testified to by his commanding officer, it is hereby ordered that the complaint against the said Patrolman Anthony G. Tobin be placed on file.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

DORCHESTER TUNNEL IMPROVEMENT SOON TO BE STARTED.

Mayor Curley issued the following statement to the public on October 17, relative to Dorchester tunnel work:

I am gratified beyond measure at the announcement that the Transit Commission have completed arrangements with the Public Control Trustees of the Boston Elevated Street Railway System whereby steps may be taken at once upon the work of advertising for bids for construction of the Dorchester Rapid Transit System.

This construction work involving an initial expenditure of one and one half million dollars and which ultimately represents a total cost in excess of five million dollars should prove of tremendous value in affording relief to the unemployed of Greater Boston during the coming winter months.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

CITY PAYS ADVISERS IN STREET WIDENING FEES OF $10,000 EACH, BASED ON LAND VALUES.

Richard F. Andrews of Roxbury, real estate operator and a street commissioner in the Peters régime, and John Beck of Wollaston, a State street real estate man, who has had the rating of official municipal adviser in this field during the Curley administration, have been paid $10,000 each for services to the city in connection with the Court-Cambridge streets widening.

John B. Graham, 8 Beacon street, has been paid $4,550 for services in connection with the same undertaking, according to bills exhibited by City Auditor Rupert Carven.

Each of the men made their charge to the city upon what they contend is the customary rate—one third of one per cent of the total sum involved in damages for the land takings. The city records show the sum in this instance to have been $3,002,021. The members of the Street Commission all approved the bills, being convinced the $10,000 fee for each was not extortionate.

The Finance Commission several months ago accused Beck of charging the city twice the customary fee, when he put in a bill for $750 for advising the Curley administration in the purchase of the new $1,000,000 Police Headquarters' site at Berkeley and Stuart streets. Although assessed at $13 per square foot, this plot was bought by the city of Amory Eliot et als, for something like $21 per square foot.

The "Fin Com" then contended that the Boston Real Estate Exchange schedules provided for payment to Beck for service in a case like that of only $324. Its advice that the $750 bill be ignored was not followed, and Beck collected the $750 with the Mayor's approval.

LAND-TAKING IN BRIGHTON.

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners for the taking of land for sewerage works to be constructed as follows:

The right and easement is taken to lay and maintain sewerage works in the following described lands, exclusive of any interest in trees, buildings or other structures standing thereon, reserving to the owners thereof the right to use the lands for any purpose except such as may injure or obstruct said works, and except for placing or maintaining any structure on said lands not authorized in writing by the Mayor of said city; trees, buildings or other structures standing upon or affixed to the land in which an easement is hereby taken are to be removed therefrom within sixty days, following a notice of the city's intention to enter upon said taking for the purpose of constructing said sewerage works. Said lands are in that part of Boston formerly Brighton and are bounded as follows:

A parcel of land, owners unknown, being part of the private way known as Elizabeth avenue, bounded:

Southeast by Allston street, six feet; southwest by another part of Elizabeth avenue, one hundred and ninety-five feet; northwest by the same, six feet; and northeast by the same, one hundred and ninety-five feet, containing eleven hundred and seventy square feet, more or less.

The sewerage works to be constructed are as follows:

One hundred ninety linear feet of 10-inch pipe sanitary sewer, in the above described premises, being part of the private way known as Elizabeth avenue, leading northwesterly from Allston street for a distance of about 195 feet.

Betterments are to be assessed for the making of the aforesaid improvement.

This Board determines that no person sustains damages in his estate by the taking of the aforesaid easement and construction of said sewerage works and awards no damages therefor.

Ordered. That this Board estimates that the lots of abutting land on both sides of Elizabeth avenue for a distance of about two hundred and eighteen feet northwesterly from Allston street, will receive benefit or advantage, beyond the general advantage to the community, from the improvement ordered herein, to the amounts hereinafter respectively set against them; said lots and the supposed owners thereof being shown on a plan marked "City of Boston, Plan No. 579, Sewerage Works, Elizabeth Avenue, Brighton, August 29, 1924, William J. Sullivan, Chief Engineer, Street Laying-Out Department," and on file in the office of said department.

PUBLIC LIBRARY SECURES GIFT OF EARLY BOSTON MANU- SCRIPTS.

A collection of early Boston manuscripts and autograph letters, dating from 1734 to 1845, and including many interesting pieces on business and political affairs, were presented to the Boston Public Library by Mr. Raphael Sachs, a New York collector.

The earliest piece is a letter by Joseph Brandon, Boston merchant, written to Samuel Storke, London. The date is June 14, 1734. It speaks of "a large Cargo of West India Rum" which Mr. Brandon sent to England; the price of this cargo will go to the payment of his account, and he also assures Mr. Storke that he "will leave no stone unturned till this account will be shut up."

In another letter Nathaniel Appleton & Co. (Salem) offers to Hon. James Russell (Charlestown) the canceling of a purchase of lighting supplies which the latter lately made. "We are sensible that your purchase must be very disadvantageous to you," writes the firm, "therefore, gratitude forbids us to hold you to this Bargain." The reason of this unusual courtesy is well worth noticing, if we consider that the letter was written on May 25, 1775—three weeks before the Battle of Bunker Hill. "We have heard that the Provincial Congress is doubtful of continuing the Lights at Boston Harbor as the Trade of the Province is so far obstructed as not to afford ye Means of supporting them . . ." begins the letter.

A sentence passed at the general court martial, held at Fort Independence in Boston Harbor, June 30, 1811, shows into what a sad plight his desertion brought John F. (suffice the initial), a private in the artillery. "The court . . . after mature deliberation . . . sentence him to receive fifty lashes on the naked back, serve six months to hard labor, refund the expenses incur'd in his desertion . . ." etc., reads the severe document.

A letter of Sarah B. Dearborn to Mrs. Madison, wife of the President, brings some cheer after the gloomy affair. "Dolly Madison"—the name itself spells gayety. "Society . . . Montpelier . . . Washington . . ." are the words which first strike the eye.

The figure of Daniel Webster looms up again in the very next letter. Though by this time not he, but Nathaniel Greene (of Boston fame) is the one who raises the thunders. "We shall express our views shortly and very decidedly on the impropriety of confirming the nomination of Mr. Webster to the British Mission. . . ." he writes. Then a few lines farther: "The election in New Hampshire takes place a week from to-morrow; if Pierce succeeds, you may set down that state for Jackson."

And so might we go on with quotations. The gift is a valuable one, and will constitute a notable addition to the large and rich manuscript collection of the Boston Public Library.

BOSTON'S FIRST WHITE FUND HEALTH UNIT DEDICATED WITH FITTING CEREMONIES.

MAYOR JAMES M. CURLEY PRESIDED AND DR. GEORGE E. VINCENT, PRESIDENT OF THE ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION, DELIVERED ADDRESS OF DEDICATION.

BOSTON'S FIRST WHITE FUND HEALTH UNIT DEDICATED TODAY IN NORTH END.

Boston's first health unit, constructed under the direction of and from the funds provided through the beneficent philanthropy of the late George R. White, one of Boston's best loved citizens, was dedicated today with elaborate and very fitting ceremonies.

The building, located at North Margin street and Baldwin place, North End, has been under construction and fitting for several months. It is one of the finest and most completely appointed buildings of the kind in the entire United States.

Hon. James M. Curley, Mayor of Boston, presided at the exercises and the dedicatory address was delivered by Dr. George E. Vincent, president of the Rockefeller Foundation. Many other prominent Boston citizens took part in the exercises.

GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY AIDS MAYOR AND BOSTON IN HEALTH RESEARCH WORK.

Mayor Curley has issued the following statement:

"I am very pleased to make public the report received from the Boston Conservation Bureau with reference to the work being done towards curing of rickets, tuberculosis and other diseases in children."

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

YOUR HONOR,—I have great pleasure in reporting the fact that the General Electric Company have given the medical committee great assistance in its work of trying to discover a specific cure for a certain disease.

During the last few months, the Little Laboratory of the General Electric Company have manufactured from designs made by the committee, numerous applicators of special design from the new synthetic quartz which they have recently developed. The actual cost to the General Electric Company has been nearly $100 an ounce for the material delivered and we are now using applicators manufactured by them which must weigh fifty or sixty ounces.

The committee hopes to make a report of great value in the near future and it would have been impossible to have made the progress which has been made without the assistance and co-operation of the General Electric Company.

Yours sincerely,

BOSTON CONSERVATION BUREAU,

Chairman.

MAYOR CURLEY GIVEN HIGH PRAISE BY LEADING ITALIAN PUBLICATION OF WIDE CIRCULATION.

"LA NOTIZIA" PUBLISHES ARTICLE TELLING OF WORK DONE BY BOSTON'S MAYOR, NORTH END CITIZENS AND THOSE OF ITALIAN ORIGIN.

"La Notizia," the Italian paper of wide local circulation in its issue of this week has this to say concerning Mayor James M. Curley and his friends for his Italian fellow citizens.

CURLEY AND HIS ITALIAN FRIENDS.

The Italian-Americans have always had a good and loyal friend in Mayor James M. Curley, the Democratic candidate for Governor, a friend who has done much to make conditions better and more wholesome in the places they live, and has guarded and helped their economic rights.

When Mayor Curley learned that many contractors and employees of Italian labor were paying wages below the union standards he took measures to stop this practice as far as they applied to contracts for construction of streets, sewers, public buildings and other public works and inserted a provision in every contract entered into by the City of Boston compelling the contractor to pay his employees and laborers engaged in the work the current rates of wages as established and maintained by the labor unions. The result was that men who were receiving only $2 and $2.50 a day are now being paid from $4 up. He released the Italian laborer from the grip of the sweater and padrone.

Mayor Curley has done much to improve the North End, the so-called Italian quarter, by street improvements, the enlargement of parks, the establishment of playgrounds and other open spaces, that provided places of pleasure and safety for mothers and their children and better opportunities for the games and sports so dear to the hearts of young people.

He has found employment for many Italian-Americans in the service of the city, among others, that talented young lawyer, P. Nicholas Petrocelli, who is an assistant in the Law Department of the city, a place of honor and dignity.

On Saturday, November 1, 1924, at noon, there took place the dedication of the new health center, on Baldwin place, in the North End. The dedication address was made by Dr. George E. Vincent of New York City, whose association with the International Health Board has given him an international reputation in philanthropic work. The new building was dedicated to the promotion of the health of the people of the North End of Boston. The demonstrated value of a somewhat similar institution on Blossom street in the West End of Boston made it apparent that it would be desirable to have similar institutions for the promotion of public health and civic welfare in various parts of the city.

The North End was selected by Mayor Curley, who is one of the trustees of the George Robert White Fund, as deserving of the first new building of this kind. Through the efforts of the Mayor, its construction was made possible by utilizing the George Robert White Fund for this purpose. Mr. George Robert White, who died a few years ago, created by the terms of his will, a permanent charitable trust fund, the net income of which was to be used for "creating works of public utility and beauty, for the use and enjoyment of the inhabitants of the City of Boston."

The building is a three story brick and stone structure. The income from the White Fund provides only for its construction. It will be managed and maintained by the Boston Health Department in co-operation with various private agencies devoted to the promotion of health and welfare of the people of the North End of Boston.

The work contemplated in the building will include child welfare conferences, dental service, classes in nutrition, physicians for the examination of certain special organs, as for, example, the eye, nose and throat. In addition to serving the purposes above indicated, it is intended to be a civic center for the North End under municipal direction and a place where mothers' clubs and other social organizations may find opportunity to hold meetings.

The patrolman will not allow this envelope to be put into the ballot box. The sergeant who will report on motor vehicle, will keep it about his person until delivery at the office of the Election Commissioners. The unused and spoiled ballots are then to be put in the envelope for unused ballots, and the envelope sealed and certified.

17. When returning from polls, all motor vehicles must drive to the easterly side of City Hall Annex, Court square, where ballot boxes will be conveyed by chute to the basement.

18. It is important that the patrolman sees that the voting lists envelope is signed by the warden, clerk and all the inspectors. The patrolman will also see that the special book for signatures of voters is returned in the registering ballot box.

19. In case a patrolman is detailed to relieve another after the close of the polls, the commanding officer will see that he is instructed as to the duty of bringing the official returns, the box of ballots cast, and the press return to the Election Commissioners' office as soon as they are delivered to him by the election officers.

20. When the ballots have all been counted, the ballots thus counted, tally sheets and nothing else, shall be placed by the warden in the leatheroid box for that purpose, which must be sealed up and signed by all the election officers. The patrolman will particularly see that this box is properly sealed up and that all the election officers have signed their names to the certificate on the box. The patrolman will then bring the box, official return, press return, and stamps for marking defective ballots to the City Hall Annex, Court square, and deliver same to the Election Commissioners. The patrolman is directed not to allow the official return or record book to be placed in the leatheroid box.

21. After the close of the polls, a vehicle, to be provided for the purpose, will be sent to the various precincts in Ward 24 to bring police officers with regular ballot boxes, unused ballots, etc., to the station house of Division 18, from which place only two police officers need accompany the motor vehicle with the regular ballot boxes, unused ballots, etc., to the office of the Election Commissioners.

22. While the polls remain open, an officer of rank will visit the polling places in each division at stated intervals, to be designated by the captain, and in case of any disturbance will report the fact to the commanding officer of the station house without delay. If additional men are needed beyond the number available in that division, the officer in charge will communicate immediately with Headquarters.

23. Attention is called to the fact that the polls at the state election on Tuesday, November 4, shall open at 6 o'clock a. m. and close at 8 o'clock, p. m.

24. Commanding officers of divisions will see that the officers detailed for duty on State Election Day are furnished with a copy of the circular issued by the Board of Election Commissioners, entitled: "Instructions to Police Officers on . . . Election Days."

25. Attention is particularly called to the fact that at the state election on November 4 the Board of Election Commissioners has made provision for the appointment of two extra election officers in each precinct to report at 6 o'clock on the evening of the election. Such extra election officers will assist in the counting of the ballots cast, which will be done at two tables in each precinct this year, instead of at one as heretofore.

NOTE.—Refreshments consisting of coffee and sandwiches will be provided by the Board of Election Commissioners at its office, for the officers detailed to report at that place on the morning of November 4.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

MASSACHUSETTS BAY COLONY.

The first chartered colony in New England, charter granted by Charles I on March 4, 1629. About a year before, a patent had been granted to six prominent men of Dorchester, west of England, among whom was Capt. John Endicott. He sailed in June, 1628, with a party of 50 or 60 persons, arriving in September and settling at Naumkeag, afterward named Salem. In the spring of 1629, the Bay Company fitted out three ships conveying about 400 persons and arriving at Salem in June. Endicott sent a small party to effect a settlement on the Bay in Mishawum, afterward named by the settlers Charlestown, the first town in New England to assume the town polity, Plymouth and Salem being governed by a Governor and Council. Endicott was appointed in London as the first resident Governor on April 30, 1629. The Massachusetts Bay Company was reorganized in London on Oct. 20, 1629, when John Winthrop was chosen as Governor. He arrived at Salem on June 12, 1630, soon proceeded to Charlestown with a large following, and finding that place unsuitable, finally settled in Boston. Winthrop served thirteen years as Governor in four different periods ending in 1649 and Endicott 15 years at various times ending in 1665. Other governors were Thomas Dudley, Richard Bellingham, John Haynes, Henry Vane, John Leverett and Simon Bradstreet, the latter serving 12 years until 1692 when the Bay Colony and the Plymouth Colony were merged, becoming the Royal Province of Massachusetts Bay, which existed 82 years to 1774, the governors being appointed by the King.

The name, Massachusetts, is Indian and signifies "near the big hills."

CONTRACTS AWARDED.

Permission to award contracts for work, materials and supplies, in accordance with recommendation of department heads, has been approved by the Mayor.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT.

Upon October 24 the Mayor approved a contract with the United States Rubber Company for fire hose. A communication from Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department and the bids follow:

BOSTON, October 10, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
 Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Attached please find list of bids on proposals for furnishing 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch and 3-inch double jacket fire hose to the Fire Department, which were publicly opened and read at this office under date of September 22, 1924.

Permission is respectfully requested to award this contract to the United States Rubber Company, Eureka Fire Hose Department, on their Paragon brand of fire hose at a price of \$1.40 per foot for the 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch hose and a price of \$1.75 per foot on the 3-inch hose.

After the proposals were received at this office, I conferred with the officials of the Fire Department regarding the purchase of low priced hose, and received a report from the Fire Commissioner, signed by John O. Taber, chief of the department, stating that although the low priced hose was in accordance with the specifications, the life of the hose itself was very short, and better service had been rendered the Fire Department by the Eureka-Paragon fire hose. Eureka fire hose after having been in service for sixteen years at an intown fire house has been sent out to Engine House 48, and there is 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch Eureka fire hose still in service, which has been in use for the past twenty years.

I feel that though the price of this hose is high, the service that the City of Boston will receive through the purchase of same, will more than offset the first cost, and that danger to life and property through the purchase of low priced hose will be eliminated. Chief Taber states in his report that after thirty-seven years of experience in the Boston Fire Department, he will recommend the purchase of the Eureka hose for the safety of the men, apparatus and citizens in general, and I concur with him in this recommendation.

Trusting that the permission requested will be granted, I am,

Respectfully yours,

FRANK P. ROCK,
 Superintendent of Supplies.

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do the work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS DEPARTMENT.

Upon October 18 the Mayor approved a contract with the Edison Electric Illuminating Company for furnishing light for the Suffolk Courthouse at Pemberton square. A communication from John H. Mahony, Acting Public Buildings Commissioner was as follows:

BOSTON, October 2, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
 Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—I wish to advise you that on October 23, 1919, a contract was entered into between the Old Colony Real Estate Trust and the City of Boston to furnish electricity for the Suffolk County Courthouse, Pemberton square, Boston. The contract expires shortly and the sheriff, in a communication to me which I am inclosing to you, recommends that on the expiration of said contract that it be not renewed owing to the fact that there have been several circumstances connected therewith whereby the service was not constant and the building would be left in darkness.

I, accordingly, have asked for bids from both the Edison Electric Illuminating Company and the present contractors with the following result.

The Edison Electric Illuminating Company will furnish light and power under this rate, the specified amount of 205,000 kilowatt hours per year, the demand of 80 kilowatt hours and at the present coal charge, for $7,524.55 giving an average rate of 3.675 cents per kilowatt hour.

The Old Colony Real Estate Trust submitted a bid of 5.75 cents per kilowatt hour.

In consideration of the foregoing facts, I respectfully request permission to award a contract, without the usual form of advertising, to the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston, which would not only mean a monetary saving but also more efficient service.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN H. MAHONY,
Acting Superintendent of Public Buildings.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Paving Service).

Upon October 17 the Mayor approved a contract with the Guiney & Hanson Construction Company for the construction of artificial sidewalks. A communication from Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, October 16, 1924.

To the Mayor of Boston:

Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Guiney & Hanson Construction Company, 61 Court street, Boston, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; second, the expense of construction is divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon October 17 the Mayor approved a contract with Saul E. Moffie for the construction of artificial sidewalks. A communication from Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, October 16, 1924.

To the Mayor of Boston:

Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Saul E. Moffie, 51 Cornhill, Boston, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; second, the expense of construction is divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon October 18 the Mayor approved a contract with the Central Construction Company for asphalt pavement in Sterling street. A communication from Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, September 22, 1924.

To the Mayor of Boston:

Your approval is respectfully requested to the laying of an asphalt pavement in Sterling street, Roxbury, from Tremont street to Newbern street, by the Central Construction Company, at an estimated cost of $1,841.19. This is in connection with a widening ordered by the Board of Street Commissioners, where it was necessary, in order to establish a proper surface for a wider roadway, to do considerable reconstruction work and lay an asphalt pavement.

The unit prices are to be those in the Central Construction Company's contract for repairing bituminous pavements, with the exception of the item for removing old concrete base. The charge under the latter item will be 80 cents a square yard, which is considered fair for this class of work.

Yours respectfully,

J. A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT.

Upon October 17 the Mayor approved a contract with Ellis S. Joseph for furnishing a pair of dromedary camels to the Park Department. A communication from Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department was as follows:

The Park Department has made inspection of these camels, and feel that the price quoted is a very reasonable one.

CONTRACT REJECTED.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS DEPARTMENT.

Upon October 25 the Mayor approved the rejection of contract with John Bowen Company for the completion of Police headquarters building. A communication from John H. Mahony, Acting Superintendent of Public Buildings, was as follows:

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—I wish to advise you that in response to an advertisement appearing in the City Record, bids were opened by this department at 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, October 21, with the result as appears on an attached sheet. You will observe that the lowest bid received was that of John Bowen Company in the sum of $555,000 and this was really the only figure under which the contract could be executed and keep within the appropriation.

However, Mr Bowen's bid was illegal owing to the fact that he neglected to incorporate a list of sub-bidders as called for in the specifications and also neglected to insert any amounts in certain alternatives which was also required by the specifications.

In consideration of these facts, I respectfully request permission to reject all bids and to readvertise again.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN H. MAHONY,
Acting Superintendent of Public Buildings.

EDISON STREET LIGHTING CONTRACT.

The following was received:

City of Boston.

Office of the Mayor, October 9, 1924.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit herewith communication received from the Edison Electric Illuminating Company. Under the provisions of the Revised Charter of 1909 specific provision is made that all street lighting contracts in excess of one year must be subject to the approval of the City Council and the Mayor.

In December, 1914, a contract for a period of ten years with the Edison Electric Illuminating Company was made by the City of Boston; this contract will expire December 7, 1924. Under the provisions of the contract adopted in 1914, notice on the part of either of the contracting parties to terminate the contract at a period within sixty days prior to the termination of the ten-year period may be given.

The Edison Electric Illuminating Company, through the president of the company, Charles L. Edgar, have notified the Commissioner of Public Works of their intention to terminate the contract, and of their purpose to establish a higher rate than the rate paid under the 1914 contract.

In view of the fact that an investigation of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company's rates has been in progress for a period of more than five years, and is still being conducted jointly by the Boston American Publishing Company, in behalf of the public, and by the City of Boston, in behalf of the municipality, it would, in my opinion, be inadvisable to enter into a contract at this time with the Edison Electric Illuminating Company.

I have directed the Corporation Counsel to file notice of appeal from the proposed increase in schedule of rates, as determined upon by the Edison Electric Illuminating Company, and filed with the Public Utilities Commission.

It would be inadvisable, in my opinion, for the city to take any action in the making of a new contract until such time as the investigation has been settled.

The increase as proposed by the Edison Electric Illuminating Company in the new schedule submitted cannot be regarded other than as a raid upon the public treasury, since it will amount to more than one million dollars provided the contract is made covering a ten-year period under the schedule as filed.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Placed on file.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. PURCELL, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following:

Report accepted; and the question came on the adoption of the ordinance.

Coun. LANE—Mr. President, I move as a substitute an ordinance increasing the salaries of the other two members besides the chairman from $4,000 to $5,000.

OPPOSITION TO CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT.

President DONOGHUE offered the following:

Resolved, that the Boston City Council place itself on record as opposed to the so-called child labor amendment to the United States Constitution and urges the citizens of Boston to vote "no" on amendment No. 7, to be voted on at the state election November 4, 1924.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

RESOLUTION SUPPORTING HON. JOHN W. DAVIS.

President DONOGHUE offered the following:

Resolved, that the Boston City Council extend to the Hon. John W. Davis of West Virginia a most cordial welcome on the occasion of his visit to the City of Boston, and pledges him its support as a candidate for President of the United States of America.

The question came on the passage of the resolution.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I had hoped that I would not be called upon to make any speech here today, in order that we might get away early but the order which has just been introduced by the Chair and read by the Clerk compels me to speak in opposition. The Chair knows full well that I cannot vote for the order. I do not desire to make the Council chamber a political arena at this time but I am for La Follette for president. I have great admiration and respect for John W. Davis as a man and as a lawyer, but to my way of thinking he is not the man to be made president of the great United States of America. I believe that the time to check unrest is before it gets past the stage where it can be checked. The Republican and Democratic parties have both nominated candidates for president, and if you ask the average thinking man on the street today the difference between the two men no man can see that there is any difference. They both represent the same interest identically. Neither one of them represents a protest against the conditions as we see them in connection with the Republican administration at Washington or elsewhere, or in the country at large.

It is unfortunate that I am compelled to explain my position in opposition to this resolution. To begin with, it has no place here. Before I conclude I will move to amend the order simply retaining such part of it as extends a welcoming hand to Mr. John W. Davis, the candidate for President of the Democratic party, as a guest of the City of Boston. But when it comes to wishing him success and pledging him as a candidate for President my support, I cannot do it; but I can justify my position, at least to myself, and I believe to the average man, in not voting for him. I was a delegate to the New York convention, as well as the gentleman who has introduced the resolution, and he knows the interests that nominated John W. Davis for President perhaps as well as I do. He was nominated by a combination arranged for prior to the convention. He was selected by the few who operate in both political parties for nomination before the convention was called to order. I was quite active in that convention, as the president knows, and I saw the delegates from New York vote for Albert E. Smith, the candidate of the real democracy, on approximately 100 ballots, 101, I think.

Then they shifted to Underwood for a ballot or two, and then those who had selected Davis as the candidate of the party went down and turned the eighty-eight votes that were being cast for Underwood right over for John W. Davis of West Virginia. I am not going to tell what I heard there or what I know, but I do know that the representatives of the Standard Oil, of J. P. Morgan, including Judge Morgan O'Brien, were very active at that time. It is the first time in my life that I have bolted a Democratic candidate for public office when he has borne the Democratic label, and I do it rather reluctantly; but I have been brought up in the orthodox school of politics to vote for principles rather than for men or for the label, and Robert M. La Follette, in my opinion, represents the best interests of America today. He is a living protest against the control of this country by the few rather than the many, and the control of this country by those who believe in putting the dollar before the man. I make this prediction. There has been more strong and direct thinking by the average man in this great country of ours today, regardless of political affiliations, than there has been in a decade, perhaps in a century, or perhaps since the republic was born, and I predict that by the popular vote, which may not mean the election of the candidate, Robert M. La Follette will get more votes in the election of November 4 than John W. Davis, whom I consider the equal of if not the superior in brain matter and ability as a lawyer to either of the other candidates. It is unfortunate that I have to do this here, but I have already declared my position on this matter. It does not mean that I am right, but it means that I believe I am right, and that is sufficient for me. Therefore, I am going to move to amend the order by striking out all in the order which follows the welcoming of Mr. Davis to the City of Boston. I would like to examine the resolution for the purpose of offering exactly the amendment I wish. (Coun. Watson examined the resolution.) I move to strike out the words "and pledges him its support as a candidate for president of the United States of America."

The question came on Coun. Watson's amendment.

President DONOGHUE—I desire to state that I introduced this resolution because I feel that I also have a right to support whomever I see fit for President of the United States. I want to say that I also was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention held in New York, and that I voted for Alfred E. Smith, Governor of New York, for the Democratic nomination for President of the United States, not upon 101 ballots or 102 ballots but upon 103 ballots. I voted for Alfred E. Smith on every ballot that was cast. I refused to leave his standard when others did. But the situation now has changed. The Hon. John W. Davis of West Virginia has been nominated by the Democratic party as its standard bearer, and Governor Smith of New York is in the forefront advocating the election as president of the United States of John W. Davis of West Virginia. It has been said that this Council should not be made a political arena. It is a political arena. No one can make it other than what it is. We members of the Boston City Council have been elected members of the Boston City Council as Democrats, practically speaking. We, in my opinion, are representative of the great Democratic party and we, as members of the City Council, have a right to decide whom we care to support for any office in the gift of the people of the United States. I do not want any Democrat to bolt the Democratic ticket. I don't think that any Democrat in voting for Robert M. La Follette, the Senator from Wisconsin, is voting for other than a Republican—a Republican Senator, elected as such, a Republican all his life, bearing the party label in practically every political contest in which he has engaged. While we have heard a great deal of talk of progressive movement, and so forth, I want to say that I personally am satisfied with the standard bearer who has been selected by the Democratic party. Men high in the councils of our Democratic party throughout this state and throughout the country are satisfied to support John W. Davis of West Virginia and why should not we members of this Council who have been elected by the citizens of Boston and principally by Democratic votes do so? I want to say also that the Boston City Council is not now called upon for the first time to advocate the election of any particular individual. Politics have been played in this Council since the Council was inaugurated, and I feel that we, a Boston City Council composed of eight Democrats and one Republican, have the right to ask the Democrats to extend a most cordial welcome to the Hon. John W. Davis on the occasion of his visit to Boston on October 24, and, further, that I have the right to ask that the Democratic members of this Council tender to him their undivided support in his candidacy for the presidency of the United States. The question comes on the amendment.

Coun. LANE—Mr. President, I favor the amendment as offered by Coun. Watson. I cannot see any objection to the first part of this resolution. I certainly will be glad to welcome the Hon. John W. Davis here to Boston. He is a candidate for the highest honor within the gift of the people of this nation. I have the greatest respect for him, and I sincerely hope that Mr. Davis will come to Boston and be received with the acclaim with which he should be received as a candidate for this high office. As you have said, Mr. President, this Council is composed of eight Democrats and one Republican, I being the lone Republican in the body. But I think, Mr. President, that it ill becomes the presiding officer of this body to put across the rest of this resolution. The resolution reads:

"Resolved, That the Boston City Council extends to the Hon. John W. Davis of West Virginia a most cordial welcome on the occasion of his visit to the City of Boston, and pledges him its support as a candidate for President of the United States of America."

I believe, Mr. President, that you have done me a wrong, a personal wrong, on this occasion. You can carry this vote through eight to one provided the other members of the Council here vote to pass the resolution, and it will then go out to the City of Boston, the State of Massachusetts and the entire nation, that the City Council of Boston, a non-partisan body, elected without party designations, has pledged its support by a vote of eight, six or five in favor, whatever the case may be; thereby pledging the entire City Council of Boston to the political support of the Hon. John W. Davis. I sincerely hope that the resolution will pass as amended by Coun. Watson.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I am really surprised at this resolution being here. When any member of this organization says that he has been elected by the Democratic votes of Boston, when he has received the endorsement of the Good Government Association, the statement does not come with good grace, because any man who makes that statement knows that he is not getting elected by the Democratic votes of this city when he gets the endorsement of the Good Government Association. He knows that there are certain people in this town who will vote for a Good Government nominee who are not Democrats and who will not vote for John W. Davis or any other Democratic nominee. Let us bring it closer to home. When our colleagues have gone forth from this Council for re-election to the Council, has a resolution ever been brought into this body endorsing for re-election the three colleagues who are going out? Again, let us bring it close to home. We have a man who is the chief magistrate of our city, who is a candidate for public office at the present time. Has there been any resolve put in here that endorses and supports him in his candidacy for the high office of Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts? I want to say publicly that I am not with John W. Davis, and I don't think that the presiding officer or any member of this Council has the right to ask me to go on record as being in favor of Davis or any other candidate for the presidency. Of course, this is a piece of sharp politics, the snidest piece of politics that I have ever seen in here, the cheapest piece of politics I have ever seen here in my term in the body. Of course, it was brought in for a purpose. The purpose has been achieved. Everybody knew, of course, where Watson was, and everybody knew where Lane was, but they wanted to find out where I was. And now you have found out. I am with La Follette. I am a Democrat, and just as good a Democrat as any man here, but I am with the American Federation of Labor first. The American Federation of Labor has endorsed La Follette, and I am throwing my lot in with labor. We talk about parties. Some few weeks ago a state convention was held within our state and a platform was endorsed, planks of which have been repudiated by members of the party in this state. If the leaders of the party in this state have a right to repudiate planks accepted in the Democratic convention, I as an individual have my right to choose as a Democrat what my position shall be. If the delegates from the state that John W. Davis comes from had voted for Alfred E. Smith as candidate for President, it might have made some change in the Democratic convention in the State of New York. But the state that he came from stayed aloof practically during the whole convention, voting solidly for John W. Davis. Then, when the Ku Klux Klan from the South, from the Democratic party, found that it was impossible to elect its man, it shifted to John W. Davis, the lesser of the two evils. If Alfred E. Smith had been the nominee of the Democratic party, I would have been on the band wagon of the Democratic party for Alfred E. Smith; but John W. Davis sat there all the time during the convention, not making one move for the purpose of getting the Democratic national organization together. No; he was hoping for a personal reason that the lightning would strike him, which it did, and it didn't make much difference who the nominee was as long as certain people could have their way. There is not any difference, in my estimation, between the honorable gentleman who is President and John W. Davis, as far as the interests are concerned. John W. Davis has been on the pay roll of the Morgan interests for many years; Coolidge, while in power in this state, was always controlled by the interests. The situation is about the same with both of them. It is simply like putting your hand in a bag and pulling out the lesser of the two evils, as far as Davis and Coolidge are concerned. Of course, they say that La Follette is a Bolshevist. Well, I have been a Bolshevist before ever La Follette was a candidate for President, in so far as the public press is concerned. Therefore, it is nothing new for me to be referred to in that way. I want to say that I am going to vote against the resolution. I have no objection to welcoming any man to our city. I would be very glad if more men would come into our city. I have not the slightest objection to that. But when it comes to endorsing a man in this way, no. Much as I care for the movement I am connected with, the labor movement, I would not bring a resolution in here asking that the members here endorse the candidate that I am with. I have no objection to Coun. Watson's amendment, but in so far as the order is concerned, I shall vote against it.

President DONOGHUE—The Chair desires to state that he would be very glad to have the order so amended as to include the names of United States Senator David I. Walsh and of the Hon. James M. Curley, as candidates respectively for the United States Senate and for the Governorship of this Commonwealth. As a democrat, I personally will support not alone John W. Davis for the presidency, but David I. Walsh for the United States Senatorship and James M. Curley for the Governorship of this Commonwealth, and I will also mark a cross against the name of every other Democratic nominee on the ballot. I believe that I have the right also to ask fellow Democrats to support the nominees of the Democratic party. It is not an unusual thing, in my opinion, to expect Democrats to support the Democratic ticket. I think it is a usual procedure. Of course, I had no hope that the Republican member of this Council would vote in favor of this resolution. Naturally he will stay with the party with which he is affiliated. I merely ask the members of the Democratic party to stay with the party that they are affiliated with and that they have been affiliated with for years and years. So there is no attempt personally on my part to put across anything on the Republican member of this Council, and when they accuse the Democratic party or any members of it of attempting to put anything across, I rather welcome the compliment, because we have been laboring here in our city for years under conditions which have been put across by Republican legislators. I think it is time, therefore, that once in awhile at least, if we have the opportunity to do so, we should stand by the colors of the party with which we are affiliated. I would be very happy indeed to see the resolution so amended as to include the names of United States Senator David I. Walsh as a candidate for reelection and Hon. James Michael Curley as a candidate for Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and to also include the names of all other Democratic nominees that will appear on the ballot November 4. Therefore, I move that as an amendment to the amendment offered by Coun. Watson.

Coun. PURCELL—Mr. Chairman, I wonder if the chairman of this body is trying to tell us other members how to vote, or is trying to find out, as a matter of newspaper notoriety, where we stand? I am absolutely opposed to the last amendment, and I don't care who knows it or who likes it. I think I have a right to vote as I please, and we have the same right of individual opinion, as Coun. Moriarty says, as a leader of the party who can afterwards oppose a plank that he was instrumental in putting in to the Democratic platform in Worcester. I have just as much right to change my vote, and when the name of the present Mayor of Boston is proposed to be mentioned and endorsed by this honorable body, I am going to vote to oppose anything that may be attempted to favor the endorsement of the Hon. James M. Curley for Governor of Massachusetts.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I desire to state just one word more, as a matter of record. In a speech of John W. Davis, delivered in Chicago, published in Saturday morning's Boston Post, John W. Davis quoted Balfour of England, known as "Bloody Balfour," as being one of the greatest men in this world. If that is the type of man that Mr. Davis claims to be one of the greatest men in this world, then I take pleasure in not being with Davis. It all goes to prove conclusively that there was an agreement in the Democratic convention in New York that no Catholic would be endorsed as the Democratic nominee, and it was the English money of Pierpont Morgan that made it possible that John W. Davis should receive the nomination of the Democratic party. It was "Bloody Balfour" whom the chief magistrate of this city refused to welcome to Boston. I did not want to make any statement, but this thing having been brought up I have stated my mind, as I never hide behind anybody. The statements we have made here are to be made a matter of record, and that is all I want to put in the minutes.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I would like to suggest that it might be well to draft the order over again and to have it read that we welcome the Hon. John W. Davis, Hon. Robert M. La Follette and any other candidate for president who may come to Boston, to our city. We ought to welcome them as great Americans, and I, therefore, ask the Chair if he will kindly accept that amendment to add the names of Robert M. La Follette and any other candidates to the name of John W. Davis? I would like to ask the President if it might not be a good thing to withdraw his resolution and to then erase from the record all our speeches, which, after all, don't amount to very much.

President DONOGHUE—Not in my opinion.

Coun. PURCELL—Mr. President, I am heartily in favor of what Coun. Watson said. I think that is a proper thing to be done. I don't think our Council meetings should be made into a rally for any one, and that is what this looks like to me.

President DONOGHUE—The members of the Council are entitled to their opinion. The question comes on the amendment to the amendment.

Coun. BRICKLEY—Mr. President, I move you, sir, that the whole thing lie on the table and that the minutes on this resolution be done away with.

The question came on the motion to lay on the table.

Coun. PURCELL—Mr. President I make a motion that this Council do now adjourn.

President DONOGHUE—Coun. Purcell moves that the Council do now adjourn.

The Council voted to adjourn at 5.13 p. m., to meet on Monday, October 27, at 2 p. m.

AMERICA GRADUALLY SOLVING PROBLEMS THAT HAVE LONG IRRITATED MANKIND.

MAYOR CURLEY DELIVERS NOTABLE ADDRESS AT DEDICATION OF GEORGE R. WHITE FUND HEALTH UNIT IN NORTH END.

Many prominent Boston citizens gathered on Saturday, November 1, at 41 North Margin street, North End, for the dedication of the first health unit to be erected in Boston from the $5,000,000 George R. White Fund.

Leaders in the field of public health work, distinguished educators and specialists in preventive work from different parts of this country took part.

The new health unit is at 41 North Margin street, corner of Baldwin place, North End. The dedicatory address was delivered by Dr. George E. Vincent, president of the Rockefeller Foundation. Pres. Howard Coonley of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, ex-officio one of the trustees of the White Fund, presented the completed structure to Mayor Curley, who accepted it in the city's behalf.

Rev. William H. Dewart, rector of Christ Church, who was introduced by George E. Phelan, manager of the White Fund, pronounced the invocation. There were addresses by Health Commissioner Francis X. Mahoney, Dr. Charles F. Wilinsky, who is to be director of the new health unit; Dr. David Edsall, dean of the Harvard Medical School, and Dr. Haven Emerson, professor of public health administration at Columbia University.

Mayor Curley's address was as follows:

It is fitting that this milestone in the march of human progress so typical of enlightenment, so emblematic of service to one's fellow man should be erected within the shadow of Old Christ Church out of whose belfry was hung the lantern which lighted the way to the emancipation of the people of the world. Here in America we are gradually solving problems that have irritated mankind from the beginning. Here in this section through the instrumentality of the light which paved the way to liberty we have created on this continent a place where all may enjoy in the fullest possible measure the right to freedom of speech, freedom of thought, freedom of religion and where all may enjoy equal privileges and equal opportunities and the full enjoyment of liberty. That great movement marked the most advanced step taken to that day in the history of humanity. We have made some progress in the last century and a half. We have lightened the burden of our fellow man. Gradually there has come to us a realization of the obligation which each and every individual owes to his fellow man and with that realization there came the desire and the wish that some day there might be established in those sections of our larger cities where the people congregate in large numbers, where babies are born and few survive, some character of agency where all philanthropic individuals and agencies interested in the consummation of public health might assemble and through co-operation and the co-ordination of effort make possible greater service to humanity. The dream has been realized in the erection and establishment here of the George Robert White Fund Health Unit. It would have come in the course of time but in all probability it would have been long delayed because of the expense and loud demands for local improvements which are always voiced in any city. There is a source of gratification in the knowledge that hand in hand with the progress represented here we are making progress in other directions. For the first time in the history of Boston we are to have an out-patient department for the tuberculosis agencies of our city. We probably will lay the cornerstone of that institution within the next thirty days.

About a week ago we dedicated for the people of Boston the largest and most complete out-patient building to be found controlled by any municipality in the entire world at the Boston City Hospital grounds. We have arranged to borrow three millions of dollars and will probably within the next thirty days advertise for bids for the erection and completion of a 100 bed maternity hospital at the Boston City Hospital as a part of the equipment of the Boston City Hospital for the combatting of disease and the saving of human life. Through the instrumentality of this agency it will be possible for us to provide accommodations at all times for 100 expectant mothers, insuring protection for the mother and protection for the child. It is a matter that should have been started and put in operation many years ago.

I found in 1914, upon assuming the office of Mayor, there was no place in Boston, with the exception of the Boston Lying-In Hospital where the expectant mother without money could go. I established eighteen beds at the Boston City Hospital. I came back at the end of four years and found they had added but four beds and in the twenty-two beds, in four years, 2,500 children were born. It was only natural that with overcrowding and lack of proper facilities the mortality rate should be high and we are endeavoring to meet that problem. We are endeavoring to meet the problem of tuberculosis. We are endeavoring to solve some of the economic problems correlated with the combatting of disease by the payment of what is known as the saving wage and by establishing a standard that can be followed with safety to the people of this country that will be conducive to the happiness in the home, peace of mind and patriotism in the land. And after all, there is no agency that has been of greater incentive to generous expenditures and the adoption of a wise program than this particular agency in which we are here assembled. It is a monument not only to the generosity of a great Boston citizen; it is more than that; it is a monument that will serve as an incentive to added service on the part of every individual in the community, but more than that will convey to every individual's mind a realization of his individual responsibility to his fellow man and to his fellow woman and if out of that realization of individual responsibility and if out of the possibilities of added service and sacrifice the opportunity of the individual citizens of this community there comes a greater service to the women and men of this section, it is only reasonable to anticipate that similar institutions to this one may ultimately be established in every city in the entire country. In accepting these keys I do so with the realization of the value that this institution may prove to America and to future generations, for after all, the most valued product in any land is the happy and healthy womanhood and manhood. The conservation of the womanhood and manhood of America is the most important task confronting America and when through the instrumentality of these institutions we contribute in any measure to this most necessary and potential work, then in our age and generation we have done something worth while and as we respect and as we thank the donor of this great institution whose generosity made it possible, so may succeeding generations remember him in their supplications and prayers as one citizen ever mindful of his obligation to his fellow man and who made possible the discharge of that obligation by this great monument, a monument typical of his generosity, a monument of service, of sacrifice and of inspiration to all in America.

PROGRESS IN MUNICIPAL MEDICAL CARE FAST BECOMING A BOSTON HABIT.

DR. GEORGE E. VINCENT, PRESIDENT OF THE ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION, DELIVERS PRINCIPAL ADDRESS AT DEDICATION OF HEALTH UNIT IN NORTH END.

George E. Vincent, President of the Rockefeller Foundation, delivered the following address at the dedication of the White Fund Health Unit in the North End, Boston, Saturday, November 1, 1924.

In grateful contrast with the acrimony, clamor and clashing interests of the culminating campaign, we are met in peace, concord and good will to open formally to the citizens of this district their own House of Health. Here the city's official staff and the workers of many voluntary societies will put at their service resources of knowledge, skill, counsel and friendliness.

This event follows closely others which have brought new distinction to this historic city. A year or more ago the opening of the Thorndike Memorial notified the country that Boston regards municipally supported medical research as essential to the best care of the city's sick. Only the other day a splendid new wing of the City Hospital was put in service. The recent taking over by the city of health work which had been developed under private auspices is highly significant. Progress in municipal medical care and protection of the people's health is becoming a Boston habit.

Dr. Haven Emerson has given an informing account of health center development and has clearly described the purpose, organization and methods of this relatively new social agency. It remains for me to suggest and to characterize briefly some of the meanings with which this ceremony is fraught.

We celebrate: The generous gift of a loyal private citizen to his municipality; the wise statesmanlike decision of trustees to use this gift first of all for the public health; the leadership of the Mayor in advocating the plan and in securing guarantee of maintenance from public funds; the transfer to municipal control of health services built up by voluntary effort; the continued co-operation of municipal and of nonofficial agencies; emphasis upon prevention of disease rather than upon medical treatment; the creation of a model institution which will have a nation-wide influence; a concrete expression of community spirit.

George Robert White gave evidence of his loyalty to Boston during his life. The Massachusetts School of Pharmacy building, for example, was his gift, and testifies to his interest in medicine. But the fund he bequeathed for the direct benefit of the city is notable. He showed confidence in the citizens by vesting the control in five trustees, a majority of whom are municipal officials. He shrewdly limited gifts to capital expenditures for buildings and grounds which must be maintained at public expense. He insisted upon keeping the public informed by the issuing of annual reports. Mr. White had faith in the people of Boston and in its government. He believed that the way to evoke responsibility and fidelity in public officials is to show confidence in them.

Today Mr. White's faith finds justification. The trustees of the fund have shown wisdom and imagination in recognizing the basal importance of the public health and in deciding to create units like this as centers of a city-wide system of co-operative service by both official and voluntary health and social agencies.

To the Mayor this must be a welcome day. He sees the fulfillment of a plan of which he has been a persistent advocate. There have been doubts and obstacles. The public has a fancy for ornamental and conspicuous civic buildings and monuments; it is not easily excited by so dull a thing as health; and it hates to pay taxes. It took faith and steadfastness to carry through this project. Public appreciation and approval may be counted upon as the program develops.

The recent taking over by the Boston Health Department of infant welfare work and nutrition service which had been developed by nonofficial associations, and the setting up of dental prophylactic stations in affiliation with the Forsyth clinic was what ought to be a typical procedure. It shows what a private enterprise should try to do, namely, as Dr. Livingston Farrand has said, to "put itself out of business." While the city was properly giving first attention to sanitation and communicable diseases, the voluntary groups carried on demonstrations in the field of hygiene. Here was a convincing experiment in infant welfare; the city takes it over. It would have been hard to get municipal money to start such work. A going concern makes a quite different appeal.

In this case the private societies did another thing. They helped to create the public opinion which at least acquiesced in this extension of municipal activity and the increase of the Health Department budget. This educational service of nongovernmental agencies has been a powerful influence in the growth of the public health movement throughout this country.

Many people will see dangers in this transfer of work from private to public auspices. They will fear two things especially: The handicap of politics and the substitution of bureaucratic machinery for a more sympathetic human interest.

Both these possibilities may easily be exaggerated. There is a strong and growing sentiment against permitting such professional services as education, health and municipal engineering to be touched by partisan influences. Experience in other cities shows that under the right leadership municipal infant welfare and similar work can be done well and in a fine spirit. It is fortunate that in this transfer in Boston many of the nurses of the voluntary society are being taken over by the city so that there will be little break in personal relations.

It must be remembered, too, that this unit will house many private societies that will continue their activities. This co-operation between public and voluntary agencies is an impressive feature of the plan. Nowhere has there been a closer, more cordial relation than that established here in Boston. It has aroused interest and emulation in other cities. The way in which this team play was brought about is instructive.

First of all, the private societies got together with the public authorities. They formed the Boston Health League. Here was a sound and natural basis for co-operation. In the next place, the City Health Commissioner was genuinely co-operative. He did not resent private societies; he welcomed them. They in turn loyally supported his administration. This relationship has been strengthened by an unusual but admirable arrangement by which the director of the Municipal Health Unit has at the same time served as executive secretary of the Boston Health League.

Let us hope that this example of well-organized effort will have suggestions for the health activities of the city government itself. Surely the School Board and the Health Department will find some way of working together more closely in carrying out a child health program. Then, too, it is hard to believe that the Health Department will indefinitely continue to maintain five different types of nurses under the auspices of three separate authorities when a unified staff could render more efficient and economical service.

In connection with this co-operative health unit under municipal auspices it is important that the public should understand one thing clearly. A large part of the work will continue to be done by the voluntary societies. They will need generous support from private gifts. That system of community self-taxation which is an American distinction and source of pride will need to be maintained on a high level of generosity. This health unit is a city institution but the city will not pay for all that is done here.

It should be made quite plain that the unit will put its emphasis on preventive effort. It will not be another dispensary. The work for mothers and infants, the nutrition service, the dental prophylaxis, all aim at anticipating and warding off diseases and avoiding defects. Educational campaigns in personal hygiene for adults will seek the same thing. Periodic health examinations will become in time an important feature here. The people of the district will find this a place whose whole effort will be to keep them well and vigorous.

This new health unit will have an influence upon the movement in the country. Each city has a contribution to make. The characteristic features of the Boston plan will be studied widely with interest and will be gradually incorporated in the system which seems destined to play a vital part in the health movement of the United States and even of foreign countries. In Prague and Lyons health centers started under American Red Cross auspices are persisting and making progress. You may expect many visitors from home and abroad who will want to see the health units of Boston.

The institution which we dedicate today and others that are to follow are more than health centers. They are symbols of a community ideal which gives one glimpses at least of the city as a whole. Beneath differences in race, religion, economic status there are common interests and a common pride in citizenship. This unit proclaims that the health of each is a concern of all, that no group or section can live to itself alone, that Boston is in a very real sense a comradeship of people who seek to realize Aristotle's conception of a city as a place "founded that men may keep alive, continued that they may live well."

STATUS OF FINE AND INDUSTRIAL ARTS REPORTED BY ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT BRODHEAD IN CONNECTION WITH HIS RECENT VISIT TO CITY SCHOOL SYSTEMS.

John C. Brodhead, Assistant Superintendent, has made the following report concerning his recent visit to school systems in cities as far west as St. Louis, for the purpose of interviewing candidates for the vacant position as Director of Manual Arts and of studying the status of the manual and industrial arts in the school systems of the cities visited.

Places visited: Springfield, Mass., Buffalo, New York, Edinboro, Penn., Detroit, Mich., St. Louis, Mo., Columbus, O., Yonkers, N. Y., New Haven and Hartford, Conn., Providence, R. I.

FINE ARTS.

Recognition.

Drawing, in its various aspects, seems to be highly appreciated in all school systems. This is shown by its requirement in elementary and intermediate courses of instruction and by its large election in high school courses where it is not required. This recognition is further measured by the substantial salaries given to directors. Yonkers pays $4,000; State Normal School, Edinboro, Penn., pays $4,125; Buffalo pays $3,800, with $25 a month allowance for a car, frequent permits for the giving of lectures for compensation, and other emoluments; Detroit pays its woman supervisor $4,000.

Art directors seem quite commonly to occupy prominent positions in civic organizations, speaking before parent-teachers' associations and chambers of commerce, and being officers of professional art leagues. In Detroit the local art club selects promising art pupils for junior membership.

Because in this city program demands so frequently deprive pupils of drawing which they would like to elect, it is interesting to note that in Springfield, Mass., there is a species of vocational guidance which follows throughout the high school course pupils desiring to have drawing, in an attempt to clear up program difficulties and provide them the opportunities desired.

In Buffalo the teachers of drawing in the elementary grades receive $200 more than do other teachers.

The attitude of teachers and principals seems uniformly co-operative toward art work. In fact, drawing is being so taught as to strengthen the more formal lines of education such as English, history and geography. Even the arithmetic papers, through insistence upon good arrangement, fine margins, spacing, etc., show the influence of art instruction.

Art Appreciation.

All directors introduce the subject of art appreciation through their courses but none of them have so carefully worked out, as has been done in this city, a special course for one of the intermediate years.

Art Related to Other Subjects.

In St. Louis, the art work, household science and arts and manual training are all under one director. In all school systems it is noted that while there is not the forced correlation of other years, the constructive work of various departments is affected as to form, color and decoration, by the existence of the art departments. Shop and domestic science teachers are taking art courses and art teachers are studying construction, and conferences are common.

Commercial Art.

In general courses, little emphasis is put upon the commercial use of art. Emphasis is put on appreciation of form, color and design, and a love for the beautiful. In commercial schools and courses, naturally emphasis is put upon space relations, printing types, color and design. It is quite common to have students in courses participating in commercial competitions for poster designs and selling posters. In a technical school in Buffalo, fifteen advanced pupils form a Tech Studio, which accepts orders and has done $600 worth of work in a given year. In Springfield, Mass., commercial pupils make and sell posters for department stores and have entered competitions for community chest posters.

Public school art work seems to have little direct relations with or effect upon local manufactures, whether it be of wall papers, textiles, furniture or machinery, but evidence seems conclusive that there is a strong indirect effect in proved state of public school graduates with insistence on better color and design.

In General.

Other communities do not seem to have put as much emphasis as has Boston upon imaginative work and free-brush expression. There is more cutting of colored paper and more lettering of not so high character as we find in our own schools. In Springfield, Mass., there was noted, especially in the high schools, work which in spirit and in appearance more nearly approaches the high standard of Boston.

It would seem that we have in our elementary and intermediate schools, in our supervising staff and in our high and normal schools, as fine regular and art teachers and supervisors as can be found anywhere in the country.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS.

Boston is undoubtedly offering more opportunities for industrial work and with more pupils engaged in it than other cities anywhere near it in size.

Trade Instruction.

St. Louis has no public trade instruction. It has a fine private trade school for boys offering ample opportunities but has no provision whatever for girls.

Detroit offers no trade instruction above the intermediate school except that offered in the fine Cass Technical High School.

Supervision.

In Detroit, domestic science and manual training are under the same supervisor.

Lower-grade Manual Training and Drawing.

It is quite common to find a common course for boys and girls in both drawing and manual training from the first to the fourth grade and sometimes even to the sixth, in some cities, with separate allotments of time for the two subjects and again with common allotments.

Detroit is trying the experiment of having drawing and manual training for the first six grades for boys and girls under an entirely separate supervisor, entitled "The Director of Arts." I think this has been done on personal grounds rather than because of any particular educational conviction.

Suggestions.

Two suggestions were received in Springfield, Mass., which are of interest, one, that in six-grade buildings a room be left free for a variety of uses, such as sewing, drawing, handiwork, special demonstrations, etc.; the second, that junior high school lunch room be placed under the administration of the domestic science department with the provision of enough paid assistants to operate them.

Striking Situations.

In Detroit a strange situation is noted in that girls are given no sewing in the fifth and sixth grades but a double amount—180 minutes weekly—in the seventh and eighth grades.

In this city also there was noted a fine bookbinding course for boys of the fifth grade, including much book repair work.

In the eighth grade the boys have a fine course in household mechanics, including glass setting, plaster and wall paper patching, etc.

Still in this city, in contrast with conditions in our own, shop work in the high schools is an elective. The schools are fitted with shops equipped for varied activities and no less than thirty-five teachers are giving full time to instruction.

At least one college—Smith—is enough impressed with the importance of domestic science, that it is seriously considering the introduction into its course of home science as a major subject.

OTHER SIGNIFICANT ITEMS.

School Repair Shop.

The Detroit Board of Education operates a plant with shops for sheet metal work, carpentry, painting, etc. This shop effects all the repairs and minor alterations in the public schools with an annual budget of about $250,000. It has a substantial staff of workmen augmented during the summer months. Repairs are done on written or even telephone orders and frequently within twenty-four hours.

School Museums.

Several cities are operating children's museums with live circulating exhibits. The one in St. Louis prepares, advertises and circulates supplementary books, animal, vegetable and mineral specimens, stereoscopic pictures, lantern slides and films. New exhibits are constantly in process of formation. Exhibits are revised and cleaned constantly and a large amount of work is done for a rather small total expenditure. The museum is growing in appreciation and influence.

Buildings.

Other communities have not generally been so successful in keeping up with demands for new accommodations as has Boston. Neither have they adopted the sensible Boston plan of paying for buildings out of current taxation. Moreover, they are building without quite as close scrutiny of cubic contents and constant use. There is a tendency to equip even elementary schools with gymnasiums and shower baths and to equip high schools with swimming pools and such appurtenances.

A PERSONAL WORD.

I wish to thank the members of the committee for the opportunity afforded me of seeing certain candidates for the position of Director of Manual Arts and other people recommended for the position in their own school systems and of judging of their influence upon and standing with their local communities. I am making my report on this matter to the superintendent. I was away from the city throughout eight school days (one being Columbus Day not observed to the westward). In this time I visited eight people in as many different cities, doing my traveling largely at night. I took advantage of the opportunity in each city visited to obtain salary schedules and the personal view of the superintendent upon the basis for salary schedules and adjustments. This latter material I will make available for Mr. Purke.

I wish to testify to the cordial way in which I was received in every city visited. All records, statistics, buildings and conveniences were put at my disposal and I feel that in many directions the visit has been of value to Boston as well as pleasant and profitable to myself.

REPORT ON EAST BOSTON TUNNEL WORK

The Mayor has received the following report from the Transit Department:

Boston, November 1, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—During October the work of grouting in the East Boston Tunnel alterations was continued, mainly in the portion of the section south of the Maverick Station. Patch paving in Lewis street, Maverick square and Chelsea street was carried on to remedy irregularities in the street surface. Installation of a pipe line, electric wiring, etc., in connection with new pumps for the East Boston Tunnel has been in progress.

The alteration of the stairway from the westbound Cambridge Subway platform leading to the southbound Tremont Street Subway platform at Park Street Station was continued by night and day crews. The heavy construction work is practically completed. There remains to be done the plastering on the walls and ceiling, tiling on the walls and the installation of the handrails.

The work of reconstructing the platforms at Devonshire and Atlantic Stations was continued during the month, both stations being now practically completed. The platform at Bowdoin Station has been extended 28 feet at the easterly end, the walls and ceiling being now ready for plastering.

The platform for the loop track at Scollay Square has been lowered to bring the platform to standard practice; similar work is being done on the platform at Haymarket Station.

The lease of the extension of the rapid transit facilities in the Dorchester district was executed by the city and the Boston Elevated Railway Company on October 17, thus carrying out the last statute requirement necessary before construction of this extension could be begun. In accordance with the requirements of the statute that all construction work should be open to competitive bidding, advertisement for proposals for construction of the first section, to be known as Section K, were inserted in all the newspapers, the first advertisement appearing under date of October 20, bids to be opened November 25. This section is located in and near Boston street, Power street and Dorchester avenue, and is about 1,300 feet in length and includes an open incline, sewer changes and additions, bridge changes, removal of structures, regrading, etc. Field surveys were continued at various places along the route of the extension, the work consisting principally of establishing a system of bench levels along the railroad location which are connected with the city benches along Dorchester avenue.

The department has been engaged in the investigation called for by chapter 65 of the Resolves of 1924, providing for an investigation by the commission of the Department of Public Utilities and the Transit Department, sitting jointly, as to relocating certain elevated structures in Cambridge street in connection with the widening of that street.

Yours respectfully,

T. F. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

CONSTRUCTION WORK.

The Mayor, upon request of the Public Works Department, has approved the following construction work:

A sanitary sewer of 12-inch earthen pipe in Fuller street, between Milton avenue and a point 200 feet easterly, in the Dorchester district, at an estimated cost of $1,400.

The balance, $350.20, was sent to Rev. George P. O'Connor the director of the Catholic Charitable Bureau, and the following letter from Father O'Connor will explain the purpose for which this money will be used:

CATHOLIC CHARITABLE BUREAU,
43 TREMONT STREET, BOSTON,
October 22, 1924.

MR. THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Fire Commissioner:

MY DEAR MR. GLYNN,—I wish to express my deep appreciation to you and to the members of the Boston Fire Department for the generous donation of $360.20 in memory of Father Dennis Lynch.

May I assure you that in no way could you make the memory of that saintly priest more blessed than by giving this as a health fund for poor children.

I shall set aside a bed in our Vacation House at Nantasket with a small tablet over it, stating that it is the gift of the Boston Fire Department in memory of Father Dennis Lynch.

I trust that for many years the prayers of our sickly little ones who will occupy this bed will be offered up for the repose of his soul.

With every good wish, I am

Sincerely yours,

GEORGE P. O'CONOR,
Director.

Your check is the second largest we received and it certainly helped us wonderfully. I hope that your city will never experience anything like what we went through.

Wishing you and all the members of the Boston Fire Department the best of everything in this good world, I am

Gratefully yours,

J. J. O'DOHERTY,
Chairman.

In connection with the report on these two funds the Fire Commissioner desires to state that it is very gratifying to him to see how the members of the department respond in any movement that has for its purpose the relief of the suffering. General Order No. 628

Patrolman Frank A. Barthelmess of Division 15, having arrived at the age of sixty years, having performed faithful service in the Police Department for twenty-nine years, and having requested to be retired from active service, it is hereby Ordered, That the said Patrolman Frank A. Barthelmess be retired from active service and that his name be placed upon the department pension roll with pay at the rate of nine hundred and fifty (950) dollars per annum, said sum being one half of the amount of compensation received by him in the office from which he is retired; to take effect Friday, October 31, 1924, at 5.45 o'clock p. m.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 629.

The commanding officer of Division 7 has brought to my attention the following meritorious piece of police work performed by Patrolman Thomas G. Duggan of that division.

On September 22, 1924, Patrolman Duggan was detailed with the late Patrolman Albert Motroni of Division 7 to go to a house in Liverpool street to arrest one George Wright, wanted for complicity in the theft of an automobile. When Patrolman Motroni ordered Wright to come with him and Patrolman Duggan, Wright made a rush for the cellar way, and in the struggle which ensued the three men fell down the cellar stairs, Patrolman Duggan breaking his right ankle in the fall.

Lying on the cellar floor, Wright drew his revolver and shot Officer Motroni in the stomach, inflicting the wound which a few hours later caused the officer's death. Patrolman Duggan, although suffering from a broken ankle, thereupon attacking Wright with revolver and club, at length succeeded in getting his revolver and reducing him to submission, but not until he himself had been shot in the right leg. When at length in answer to their calls for help, a police officer came to their assistance, Patrolman Duggan ignoring his own serious injuries, told him to look after Patrolman Motroni, and remained alone in the cellar until help arrived from the station.

It is with the utmost gratification that I have learned of this remarkable performance of Patrolman Duggan. Suffering from a broken ankle and the wound in his leg, he yet had the nerve and pluck to battle with and overcome this desperate criminal; and when assistance came he forgot his own injuries in his anxiety for his fellow sufferer. Such courage and unselfishness are rare in any walk in life, and it gives me great pleasure to express my appreciation and commendation of Patrolman Duggan's valor, intrepidity and fortitude which alone rendered possible the capture of this dangerous felon.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 630.

My attention has been called by the commanding officers of Divisions 16 and 17 to the excellent police work of the following patrolmen of their respective divisions:

At about 12.45 a. m., on October 18, 1924, Patrolman Cyril V. Considine of Division 16, while patrolling in Copley square, which lies in his route, observed a colored man running, and in a condition which indicated he had run a long distance.

The officer gave chase and on overtaking the man, asked him where he was going and why he was running. His answers not being satisfactory, Patrolman Considine searched him and found a black jack in his pocket. Upon further questioning, the man stated that his name was Walter Jennings, that he was a waiter and that he had been involved with another man by the name of Sheafe in an assault on one Joseph Duarte at 11 Albion street.

Jennings was arrested by Patrolman Considine as a suspicious person, brought to the station and booked, and then turned over to officers of Station 5, by whom he and Sheafe were jointly complained of for the murder of the said Duarte and were held for the Grand Jury.

This is a most excellent piece of police work and I heartily commend Patrolman Considine for the alertness, quickness of observation and shrewdness which he displayed in bringing about the arrest of these criminals.

On June 5, 1924, Patrolman Eldridge Dunham of Division 17 was detailed by his commanding officer to investigate and discover the origin of the fires which had occurred in West Roxbury during the months of April and May. On June 26, Patrolman Dunham, who had devoted himself night and day to locating the guilty person, arrested for arson one William W. Turner of Roslindale. Sufficient evidence had been obtained concerning four different fires set during the month of June, to secure a conviction against Turner, but at the request of the authorities of the Psychopathic Hospital, where Turner had been sent for observation, the complaint against him was withdrawn and he was committed to the Boston State Hospital, and thence sent to the Bridgewater Hospital for the Insane.

I am gratified to learn of this meritorious work on the part of Patrolman Dunham, and I take pleasure in commending him for the intelligence and perseverance shown by him in this arduous undertaking.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 631.

The commanding officers of Divisions 3 and 10 have brought to my attention the following excellent pieces of police work performed by officers attached to their respective divisions:

I. About five o'clock p. m., on September 23, 1924, as Patrolman George A. Kelley of Division 3 was patrolling his route in Chardon street, he saw a horse attached to a wagon, with no driver, running up Merrimac street. The officer gave chase, climbed into the wagon over the tailboard, and getting hold of the reins, turned the team into Pitts street where, after it had crashed into and damaged a couple of vehicles, he finally succeeded in stopping it.

This is an excellent piece of police work, and I take pleasure in commending Patrolman Kelley for the courage, activity and presence of mind which he displayed in stopping this runaway horse and thus preventing possible serious casualties.

II. About three o'clock in the morning of September 21, 1924, while Patrolman Michael J. Kane of Division 10 was patrolling his route in the vicinity of Washington and Ruggles streets, he thought he heard the sound of breaking glass and at once proceeded to investigate. After looking over his own route, he looked across to the opposite side of Washington street, which is in Division 9, and seeing two bareheaded men come out of a market, started in pursuit of them.

After chasing one of them for a couple of blocks, the officer succeeded in arresting him, brought him to the nearest police box, where he called for the wagon, and then back to the store, where they were joined by a sergeant and a patrolman of Division 9. Upon investigation they found that the front door of the store had been forced and the safe moved out from the wall in preparation to open it; also a complete set of burglar tools was found on the floor by the safe.

When the prisoner was booked at Station 10 he was discovered to have been arrested before in connection with a break in Division 2, but the evidence to convict him was lacking.

This is a most excellent piece of police work on the part of Patrolman Kane, showing vigilance and care not only over his own division but over the one adjoining, and I warmly commend him for the alertness, acumen and attention to duty shown by him on this occasion.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 632.

General Order No. 708, issued November 4, 1920, relating to the assignment of hospitals for the respective divisions in cases of injuries to officers of this department, is hereby rescinded, and the following General Order is issued in its place.

It is hereby ordered that when patrolmen or superior officers of the department are injured in the performance of their duty, to the extent that medical or surgical treatment is necessary, that they shall go, or be taken to, either one of the hospitals designated, in this order, for treatment.

Officers attached to Divisions 1, 2, 3, 15 and 20, will go to the Massachusetts General Hospital for treatment.

Officers attached to Divisions 4, 5, 7, 8, 9, 11, 13, 16, 17, 18, 19 and 21 will go to the City Hospital for treatment.

Divisions 6 and 12, to the Carney Hospital.

Division 10, to the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

Division 14, to St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

If an emergency may arise where it would be impracticable to send an officer of any division to the hospital assigned to the officers of that particular division, such officer may be taken to the nearest hospital mentioned herein or to any of the other hospitals named at the request of the injured officer.

In an emergency where the officer is seriously injured and in a dangerous condition, the nearest physician shall be immediately called, if one is available, and the injured officer shall, under the supervision of such physician, be removed to the hospital, and if considered necessary by the physician, he shall be allowed to accompany the injured officer to the hospital.

Officers preferring to be treated elsewhere, or by other physicians, may do so, but it will be at their own expense. The Commissioner will approve no bills except those rendered by the hospitals mentioned, or except in specific instances where immediate medical attention is necessary, or except in those specific cases where by order of the Commissioner other medical attendance may be had.

Where an officer of a particular division is injured in the performance of his duty, not in his own division but in a division assigned to the hospital to which his division is not assigned, he shall be taken to any of the hospitals herein mentioned that may be most conveniently reached.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

PLANNING BOARD MAKES REPORT ON WORCESTER CONFERENCE.

The Mayor has received the following report from the Planning Board:

BOSTON, October 24, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—In compliance with the provisions of chapter 274 of the Acts of 1914 the following report is submitted with regard to attendance at the Eleventh Annual Massachusetts Conference on City and Town Planning, which was held in Worcester on Monday, October 6, 1924, by members and representatives of the Boston City Planning Board.

The conference, a program of which is inclosed, was attended by representatives of thirty-seven planning boards throughout the state. There were also in attendance the mayors of three cities and a number of officials, teachers and private citizens.

The conference was opened by Mr. Richard K. Conant, Commissioner of Public Welfare, who welcomed the delegates on behalf of the Commonwealth, and who stated during the course of his address that twelve planning boards have been organized during the past year, making at the present time a total of seventy-five cities and towns which have adopted the provisions of the so-called City Planning Law.

Mr. Horace B. Gale of Natick, the retiring chairman of the federation, reviewed the work of the year, emphasizing particularly the efforts of the organization in behalf of billboard and zoning legislation, while Mr. Edward T. Hartman, State Consultant, spoke of various outstanding events which have come under his observation.

Hon. Edward M. Bassett of New York, a former member of Congress, who served as chairman of the New York Committee on Building Districts and Restrictions and who is at the present time counsel for the Zoning Committee of the City of New York, conducted a question box discussion during the afternoon session and in the evening delivered a particularly illuminating address on "Zoning—Why We Need It."

One of the outstanding features of the program was the address of Philip Nichols on "Protecting the City Plan—The Next Steps." This is a subject which has been discussed without tangible results at practically every annual conference, but the suggestions offered by Mr. Nichols were so full of possibilities and opened up so many new lines of thought supported by legal opinion that arrangements were made for its immediate publication and distribution among the planning boards throughout the state.

Three-minute reports on planning board activities in the various cities and towns were submitted during the morning and afternoon sessions and furnished ample proof of the widespread interest in city planning and zoning work.

Boston's Zoning Plan was presented at the evening session by the chairman of the City Planning Board, assisted by Arthur C. Comey, Zoning Director, who, with the aid of lantern slides, explained many of the technical details of the work of preparation and presentation.

The following officers were chosen for the ensuing year:

Chairman, William R. Greeley, Lexington; Vice Chairman, Frank W. Kimball, Dedham; Treasurer, Joseph Finberg, Attleboro; Secretary, Arthur C. Comey, Cambridge; Executive Board, Gorham Dana, Brookline; Elisabeth M. Herlihy, Boston; Horace B. Gale, Natick.

Respectfully submitted,

THE CITY PLANNING BOARD,
FREDERIC H. FAY, Chairman.
MARY A. BARR, Member.
ELISABETH M. HERLIHY, Secretary.
HENRY L. WHITNEY, Investigator.

An extension of the highway named Hazleton street is hereby laid out northwesterly to Wellington Hill footway and ordered constructed.

Said highway and the land, exclusive of trees or structures standing upon or affixed thereto, in which an easement for street purposes is hereby taken, is bounded and described as follows:

Trees or structures standing upon or affixed to the aforesaid described land shall be removed within sixty days following a notice of the city's intention to enter upon said land for the purpose of constructing said improvement.

Betterments are to be assessed for the making of the aforesaid improvement.

Ordered, That this Board estimates that the lots of abutting land on both sides of said extension of Hazleton street so laid out, will receive benefit or advantage other than the general advantage to the community, from the improvement herein ordered, each of the particular lots to the amount respectively set against it herein; said lots and the supposed owners thereof being shown on a plan marked "City of Boston, Hazleton street Extension, Dorchester, Assessment Plan, September 8, 1924, William J. MAYOR CURLEY CONGRATULATES ALVAN T. FULLER ON ELECTION.

The result in the gubernatorial contest both in the state and in Boston, with a total of nearly a half million votes in the former and 125,000 in the latter, is most gratifying, being the largest vote ever received by a Democratic candidate for Governor.

This greatly increased Democratic vote in the home state of President Calvin Coolidge and in the face of a Republican landslide that swept the entire country is all the more remarkable.

The Republican party achieved a notable victory and all representatives of that party, including my late opponent, Alvan T. Fuller, are to be congratulated.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

SALE OF LAND ON MASON STREET.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, October 27, 1924.
To the Honorable the City Council:
Gentlemen,—The present location of the engine house occupied by Engine No. 26 and Engine No. 35 is so situated that service in case of fire cannot be rendered efficiently. It is proposed to erect an engine house over the subway at the junction of Broadway and Tremont street, and arrangements have been made with the Boston Elevated Railway Company by which the city can secure this site, which is much more advantageous, for the sum of $75,000. An offer of $240,000 has been made by Keith's Boston Theatre Company, a Massachusetts corporation, having its usual place of business in Boston, for the purchase of the present site on Mason street, which offer I consider to be for the best interests of the city to accept. In my opinion the above sum is the fair market value of this property and the city is extremely fortunate in securing this offer at the present time. The cash received will greatly assist the city financially in constructing an engine house at the proposed new site, which will have the effect of greatly improving the Fire Department service of this district. I therefore recommend the accompanying order for your favorable consideration.
Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston, in City Council.
Whereas, The land and buildings now occupied by Engine No. 26 and Engine No. 35 on Mason street have become obsolete; and

Whereas, The location is no longer appropriate for Fire Department purposes; and

Whereas, It has been determined to erect a new fire station at the junction of Broadway and Tremont street over the location of the subway; and

Whereas, An advantageous offer has been made for the conveyance of the engine house site on Mason street, which is hereinafter described in the within order;

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor, in the name and behalf of the City of Boston, is hereby authorized to convey to the Keith's Boston Theatre Company, a Massachusetts corporation, having its usual place of business in Boston, by an instrument satisfactory in form to the Law Department of the City of Boston, for the sum of $240,000, the following parcel of land with the buildings thereon, bounded and described as follows:

Westerly by Mason street, fifty-nine and 60-100 (59.60) feet; southerly by land now or formerly of the heirs or devisees of Mary C. Keith, one hundred forty and 11-100 (140.11) feet; easterly by land now or formerly of the heirs or devisees of Mary C. Keith, forty-six and 56-100 (46.56) feet, and northerly by a lot of land formerly owned by the City of Boston, one hundred eighteen and 49-100 (118.49) feet;

Being the same lot as shown on a plan marked "City of Boston, Mason Street, Boston Proper, June 28, 1923, F. O. Whitney, Chief Engineer, Street Laying-Out Department," which lot is designated on said plan as "City of Boston Fire Department Engine No. 26; Engine No. 35, 6,608 square feet."

Provided, However, that contemporaneously with the conveyance a written agreement is entered into by and between the Mayor, acting for and on behalf of the City of Boston, and the Keith's Boston Theatre Company that the said lot of land and building thereon may be used by the City of Boston for Fire Department purposes until the new building proposed to be erected at the junction of Broadway and Tremont street is completed and ready for occupancy without the payment of any rent prior to April 1, 1925, and at a monthly rate after April 1, 1925, equal to the proportionate share of the annual tax assessed on said land and buildings April 1, 1925.

The B. F. Keith Circuit,
Boston Mass., October 24, 1924.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In behalf of Keith's Boston Theatre Company, I hereby offer to pay to the City of Boston, for the lot of land situated on Mason street in the City of Boston, containing 6,608 square feet, upon which lot now stands the building used for Engine No. 26 and Engine No. 35, the sum of $240,000. This lot is bounded and described as follows:

Keith, 46.56 feet; northerly by land now or formerly belonging to the City of Boston, which lot was occupied by the School Department for its School Committee building, 118.49 feet.

PAYMENT TO WIDOW OF JOHN A. NOONAN.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That an annuity of $600 be allowed and paid to the widow of John A. Noonan, a member of the Fire Department, who died from injuries received in the performance of his duty, said annuity to continue so long as said widow remains unmarried; the expense of same to be charged to the appropriation of Fire Department, Pensions and Annuities.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS, ETC., BY CITY EMPLOYEES.

Coun. LANE offered the following:

Ordered, That the Boston Finance Commission be requested to investigate charges recently made in the press concerning the solicitation and collection of campaign contributions from the city employees by candidates for public office or by persons acting in their behalf; and be it further Ordered, That the aforesaid Boston Finance Commission be requested to investigate recent charges that the employees of the city have been coerced and intimidated into doing work of a political nature, said work having no reference to their public duty, and having been performed at the request of candidates for public office, or by persons acting in their behalf.

Coun. LANE—Mr. President, I move a suspension of the rule, that the orders may be put upon their passage. No doubt all of us have seen in the paper that members of the Fire Department have been solicited and have contributed $37,000 to a campaign fund. We are also familiar with the fact that city employees have been handed cards with the names of people who were enlisted, with the request that they make a report on those names, finding out whether they are aliens or not, and that they see, if these people are citizens, that they be registered for voting purposes. Now, chapter 55 of the General Laws reads as follows:

"SECTION 10. No political committee, and no person acting under its authority or in its behalf, shall demand or solicit from any candidate for nomination to elective office or from any one acting in his behalf, a payment of money or a promise of payment of money, as a prerequisite to his obtaining from such committee or its agents the nomination papers required by sections 95 to 101, inclusive, of chapter 53.

"SECTION 11. No person holding any public office or employment, under the Commonwealth or any county, city or town, shall directly or indirectly demand, solicit or receive, or be concerned in demanding, soliciting or receiving any gift, payment, contribution, assessment, subscription or promise of money or other thing of value for the political campaign purposes of any candidate for public office or of any political committee, or for any political purpose whatever; but this section shall not prevent such persons from being members of political organizations or committees.

"SECTION 12. No person shall in any building or part thereof occupied for state, county or municipal purposes demand, solicit or receive any payment or gift of money or other thing of value for the purposes set forth in section 11.

"SECTION 13. No officer, clerk or other person in the service of the Commonwealth or of any county, city or town shall, directly or indirectly, give or deliver to an officer, clerk or person in said service, or to any councillor, member of the General Court, alderman, councilman or commissioner, any money or other valuable thing on account of or to be applied to, the promotion of any political object whatever.

"SECTION 14. No person in the public service shall, for that reason, be under obligation to contribute to any political fund, or to render any political service, and shall not be removed or otherwise prejudiced for refusing to do so.

"SECTION 15. No officer or employee of the Commonwealth or of any county, city or town shall discharge, promote, or degrade an officer or employee, or change his official rank or compensation, or promise or threaten so to do, for giving, withholding or neglecting to make a contribution of money or other valuable thing for a political purpose."

Mr. President, I have put in these orders requesting the Finance Commission to have this investigation, not that I think the Finance Commission is the best body to do it, but that body is in a position to do it. The orders embody a request of the Finance Commission, but are not introduced at their request. I should much prefer that this body itself conduct the investigation, but, as I understand it, we have no power to summon any witnesses, and if we had a public hearing I doubt if any one would be present. However, if the Finance Commission wish to do it and see fit to grant our request, they can summon people and put them under oath. Therefore, I hope suspension of the rule will prevail.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, these orders refer to charges made in the public press. The councillor who has offered them has not told us what the charges are. I am not much given to taking too much stock in what appears in the press, although I am satisfied that the Finance Commission is. Whenever anything appears concerning Boston's affairs, either through an anonymous communication sent to the Finance Commission or through a prejudiced newspaper, or as a matter of hearsay or otherwise, the Finance Commission never loses a moment's time in proceeding to investigate the charges, even though they are based merely on the dreams or the wild thoughts of somebody. I have in mind what the councilor has reference to, but I think for this body to ask the Finance Commission to do something of this sort at this time is really politics. I hate to disagree with Coun. Lane. He sits here like a wise owl all the time, and does not say much, but he is a pretty steadfast Republican. He is orthodox in his Republicanism, and has that right and privilege, although he does not agree with the rest of us. He does not agree with me, and I do not agree with him. We just discussed politics a moment ago, and we are as far apart as the two poles on any candidate running for office in the state or in the nation. But I reiterate that there is no need of this body calling the attention of the Finance Commission to anything of this sort, referring to any candidate for office in the state who may be serving within the confines of the square bounded by School, Tremont, Washington and Court streets. This may be good campaign material, but we all know that any man who works for the city naturally follows and will do everything he can to further the ambitions of a candidate representing the dominant party in the city, and the same is true concerning employees of the state government, who will campaign and use their efforts for a candidate of the dominating party in the state, the Republican party, having in mind at the moment Mr. Fuller. The councilor knows that in the latter case it is only natural that the efforts of state employees should be exerted on behalf of the Beacon Hill candidates, and the same sort of thing is naturally to be expected down here. Of course, every employee of the state is trying to do what is good and helpful for the success of the Republican candidate for Governor, for President and for local offices, and, of course, it is being done down here. Naturally, men expect to receive favors in the way of promotion or otherwise from the successful candidate. I hate to tell Coun. Lane that this is but a commonplace, but I think he agrees with me that it is and perhaps I might do just the same thing on the other side, if conditions were reversed. It is fairly good politics, if the newspapers will play it up. But I think it is of little consequence, and I know that Coun. Lane agrees with me. I know that he would not prohibit anybody in City Hall from going out and working his head off for him as a candidate for the City Council. He is employed by the city, but undoubtedly he will request men in the city employ to do what they can for him. They are not coerced, of course, but he will do what he can in the way of increasing their pay, and so forth, later on. I do not think that Coun. Lane himself regards this as a very serious proposition, and I don't think it is. I am fairly wise, when it comes to things that seem important in politics, and I cannot regard this as serious. I certainly think we ought not to ask the Finance Commission to do this. The mere fact that you have introduced the orders, Coun. Lane, may awaken the Finance Commission to do something. Bear this in mind. I am told, from what I believe to be reliable sources, that the Finance Commission is sitting through daylight as well as burning the midnight oil now in attempting to spread something through the press concerning one of the candidates for Governor. They are sitting up in their offices daily, having hearings in executive, secret sessions, and otherwise attempting to do something to injure the candidacy of the Democratic Mayor of the City of Boston for Governorship of this state. Now, why give them something else? Why draw a red herring across the trail? Why try to start something of this sort in this Democratic City, with one Republican, six Democrats and two LaFollette men? I am going to vote against these orders, not because I am afraid of having them passed or am afraid of any inquiry that will be made, but because I believe nothing has appeared that warrants a report from the Finance Commission. Therefore, I am going to vote against the orders, and I believe they should be defeated.

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, if the councilor opposite has no objection, I move reference of the orders to the Executive Committee.

President DONOGHUE—The question is on suspension of the rule.

Coun. LANE—Mr. President, I think if Coun. Watson had listened to the remarks I made he would have known that I was simply referring to the charges that came out in the public press. When the councilor says that he takes very little stock in what he reads in the press, my memory needs to be only a short one to recall that last Monday he introduced an order for investigation of the Charles Street Jail, about which he knew nothing whatever except what he saw in the press.

Coun. WATSON—Will the gentleman yield for a moment, Mr. President?

Coun. LANE—In a moment I will be through. In this case I have not argued against the city employees working for the Democratic candidate. I suspect that they will. They ought to; they are Democrats. I suspect that the employees on Beacon Hill, the state employees, will as a rule work for the Republican ticket, and I would be very much surprised if they did not. What I do object to, however, is the fact that funds have been solicited from city employees. Take the case of the firemen. That is the basis on which I introduced these orders. Last year or a year and a half ago we passed here, with the approval of the Mayor, the two-platoon system, from humanitarian motives, as we claimed. Now, I don't think the firemen should be assessed because they received something in that way from the City of Boston. That is what I object to, and the law specifically states that it shall not be done. I only want to know if it has been done, that is all.

Coun. BRICKLEY—Mr. President, I move that the orders be laid on the table.

President DONOGHUE—The question is on suspension of the rule.

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, I would like to have the orders referred to the Executive Committee, but, inasmuch as the question is now on suspension of the rule, I merely want to say that I think we are not going about this in the right way. I know that another councilor and myself talked with a high official of the Fire Department the following day after the story appeared in the paper, and he denied that any fund had been raised to further the campaign of any candidate for office. Now, we have the power to summon before this body any head of a department. We don't have to have a public hearing or anything of the kind. Let us send for any department head concerned in the matter, and ask him if what has been stated publicly is true. I don't believe it is. I doubt if it is possible to raise that sum of money among the firemen. So I think it is better to determine the matter ourselves, sending for the department head. Surely we have that power.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I simply want to correct Coun. Lane. I offered no order to investigate Charles Street Jail.

The motion to suspend the rule was declared lost. Coun. LANE doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays.

The Council refused to suspend the rule (a two-thirds vote being necessary for suspension), yeas 5, nays 3.

Yeas—Coun. Brickley, Lane, Moriarty, Purcell, Walsh—5.

Nays—Coun. Donoghue, Gilbody, Watson—3.

President DONOGHUE—The order will now be referred to the Executive Committee.

SAFEGUARDING OF ELEVATORS.

Coun. MORIARTY offered the following:

An Ordinance Providing for the Better Safeguarding of Passengers in Elevators.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Section 1. That all elevators in use or that may be installed within the City of Boston for the carrying of passengers are required to have placed thereon, or attached thereto, such automatic locking device, electrical or mechanical, as will prevent the operation of the cab in such elevator, in a direction away from the floor, while any gate, door or doors at the landings that are used for entrance thereto or exit therefrom, are opened or unsecured. The said device to place the power of controlling the elevator beyond the control of the operator while any such gate, door or doors on said landings leading to or from the cab are open or unsecured, except that a device shall be provided in the cab to render the locking device inoperative in case of emergency.

Section 2. A hoistway door or gate shall be considered locked when within four (4) inches of full closure, if at this point and any other up to full closure, the door or gate is prevented from being opened more than four (4) inches from the landing side.

Section 3. Any person, persons, firm or corporation who may own or control any building where passenger elevators are used shall be required within one year from and after the passage of this act, to have said automatic device placed thereon or attached thereto, the same to be in perfect operation.

Section 4. Any person, persons, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this act shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500) for each offence.

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

WELCOME TO AND SUPPORT OF HON. JOHN W. DAVIS.

President DONOGHUE called up the following, under unfinished business:

8. Resolved, That the Boston City Council extends to the Hon. John W. Davis of West Virginia a most cordial welcome on the occasion of his visit to the City of Boston, and pledges him its support as a candidate for President of the United States of America.

Coun. Watson moves to amend by striking out all after the word "Boston."

Coun. Donoghue moves to amend by adding the words "and also pledges its support to Hon. David I. Walsh and Hon. James M. Curley, as candidates for Senator and Governor, respectively."

The question came on Coun. Brickley's motion to lay the matter on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was declared lost. Coun. BRICKLEY doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays.

The Council voted to lay the resolution on the table, yeas 5, nays 3.

Yeas—Coun. Brickley, Lane, Moriarty, Purcell, Watson—5.

Nays—Coun. Donoghue, Gilbody, Walsh—3.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MEMBERSHIP, SEPT. 30, 1924.

A communication was received from the Superintendent under date of Oct. 20, 1924, submitting a statement of the number of pupils belonging to the Boston public day schools, exclusive of the Continuation School, on September 30, 1924, together with a comparative statement of the number belonging on September 30, 1923, as follows:

The total number belonging in the Boston public day schools on September 30, 1924, was 126,502, which is 2,135 more pupils than were enrolled in the schools on September 30, 1923. The Teachers College of the City of Boston shows an increase of 129 pupils; high and Latin an increase of 578 pupils; in the ninth grade intermediate schools there is an increase of 220 pupils; in grades one to eight there is an increase of 628 pupils; in the special schools there is an increase of 93 pupils, and in the kindergartens an increase of 487 pupils. Were the figures for the ninth grade intermediate schools included in the membership of the day high schools, the high schools would show an increase of 798 pupils.

In the Continuation School the membership on September 30, 1924, was 732 less than on September 30, 1923. On September 30, 1924, it was 3,618 against 4,350 for September 30, 1923. In the Training School for Teachers of Mechanic Arts, there was a membership of 21 pupils on September 30, 1924, as against 20 on September 30, 1923. A distribution of the increases in membership for 1923 and 1924 is shown by the following table:

REPORT OF TRIAL BOARD

A communication was received from the Trial Board, under date of Oct. 20, 1924, to whom was referred at the meeting of Oct. 6, 1924 (see p. 210), a communication from the Schoolhouse Custodian preferring charges of neglect of duty against Martin W. Green, custodian, Stephen M. Weld Schoolhouse, reporting that a hearing on the matter was held on Oct. 18, 1924, which was attended by the custodian concerned and by the Schoolhouse Custodian.

It appears from the evidence that the custodian failed to appear at the school building before the opening of school on the morning of Thursday, Sept. 18, 1924. On Monday, Sept. 29, 1924, the custodian again failed to report at the building and it was not until noon that the Schoolhouse Custodian received a telephone message that Mr. Green was ill in bed. The next day the custodian's keys were delivered at the office of the Schoolhouse Custodian, and the messenger was informed that the Schoolhouse Custodian had suspended Mr. Green for a period of ten days. Mr. Green, because of his physical condition, extended the ten days' enforced absence on account of suspension by a further period of five days, so that he has actually lost fifteen days' pay.

In view of the facts as presented at the meeting, the Trial Board is of the opinion that Mr. Green has been sufficiently penalized by loss of pay for fifteen days, and is inclined to further leniency.

FINDING—That the custodian is guilty of the charges preferred against him in failing to report for duty at the specified hour on September 18 and 29, 1924, and of giving no advance notification to the Schoolhouse Custodian.

RECOMMENDATION — That no further financial penalty be imposed, but that the custodian be severely reprimanded for his failure to comply with the established regulations governing attendance at school buildings and notification in advance of absence to the Schoolhouse Custodian, and that he be informed that a repetition of the charges against him, if sustained, will cause the Trial Board to recommend indefinite suspension.

Placed on file, and the recommendation adopted.

EAST BOSTON CITIZENS PROUD OF NEW ENGINE HOUSE 40 DEDICATED ON SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 8.

MORE THAN 1,500 PERSONS ATTEND EXERCISES FEATURED BY ADDRESS OF FIRE COMMISSIONER THEODORE A. GLYNN.—COMPANY HAS OPEN HOUSE AND DANCE.

NEW ENGINE HOUSE AT SUMNER AND ORLEANS STREETS DEDICATED WITH ELABORATE EXERCISES.

The new station of Engine 40, East Boston—the latest idea of a modern fire house and one of the best in the country—at Sumner and Orleans streets, was dedicated Saturday afternoon, November 8, with impressive exercises. The festivities continued until late at night. More than 1,500 persons attended the ceremonies and inspected the $40,000 building.

The firemen held open house and served refreshments. In the evening the company conducted a dance in the large recreation room on the third floor.

On the first floor of the building, which is constructed of tapestry brick, are the quarters for the apparatus and the switch board room. On the second floor are officers' quarters, watch room, large sleeping compartment and locker room. A large recreation room, equipped with pool tables and for smoking, and a roof garden, is the arrangement on the third floor.

The house is erected on the site of the first engine house of the district, built in 1865. It is oil heated.

During the work of construction, Engine 40 has been quartered with Chemical 7 in Saratoga street.

District Chief Henry J. Power was master of ceremonies at the exercises, which were opened with prayer by Rev. William J. Barry, pastor of the Church of the Assumption. After remarks by District Chief Power, an address was made by Alfred E. Wellington, ex-city councilor.

In reminiscences of his work years ago at Engine 40, Chief John O. Taber traced the advancement of fire-fighting in East Boston. He said that when he was at the station the firemen used to fish from the rear window of the fire-house.

Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn accepted the key from the builder, John B. Dolan, and declared that he was proud to be one of those responsible for the construction of so splendid a fire station. He praised the East Boston firemen and lauded the co-operation and work of District Chief Power. The commissioner was given a warm birthday greeting.

Other speakers were ex-Dist. Chief Fitzgerald O'Lalor, Capt. James F. Hickey of Station 7, Chairman John H. L. Noyes of the Board of Street Commissioners, Representative William Hearn, Representative Timothy F. Donovan, ex-Representative J. Frederick Curtin, Past Commander Matthew J. Boyle of the Lieut. Flaherty Post, A. L., and Richard C. Kirby, president of the East Boston Improvement Association.

A feature in the evening program was the presentation of a gold fire badge to William Crawford, assistant state chemist, who was recently commended by Governor Cox for bravery in extinguishing a fire in the State Chemical Department. Presentation was made to the well-known "spark" by Capt. Thomas J. Lannary, in behalf of the members of Engine 40.

MAYOR ORDERS FLAGS LOWERED IN RESPECT FOR DEATH OF SENATOR LODGE.

Mayor Curley telephoned from Atlantic City immediately upon learning of the death of United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and ordered that flags upon all public buildings, schools, parks and playgrounds of the City of Boston should be immediately placed at half-staff in honor of the deceased statesman.

CREW OF WORLD-GIRDLING AIRSHIP REGRETS BEING OUT OF BOSTON ON ARMISTICE DAY.

Mayor Curley has received at Atlantic City the following telegram from Lieut. Leigh Wade, U. S. A.:

ROOSEVELT HOTEL, NEW ORLEANS.

Lieutenant Ogden and I had hoped to be in Boston on Armistice Day to help in the celebration just as the crews of the Chicago and New Orleans are in the cities for which their world cruisers were named. But we have all been overwhelmed with hospitality out here in the West and have been delayed. Nevertheless we want you to know that we are thinking of all of our Boston friends at this time and deeply regret that we are not with you.

I thought you might be interested to know that world cruiser "Boston" has not yet ended its flying days and is still going strong, and as the crew of the plane given the honor of carrying the name "Boston" around the world by air, Lieutenant Ogden and I would both deeply appreciate it if you would convey a message to the citizens of Boston for us on this memorial day and assure them that we too wish to pay tribute to the memories of Boston's sons who were our comrades during the war and we particularly wish to pay our deepest respects to the gold star mothers and the American Legion of Boston.

Faithfully and respectfully yours,

LIEUT. LEIGH WADE.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,
Ensured by thy sons' and thy daughters' unselfish devotion!"

NATHAN HASKELL DOLE.]

CHARGES OF SANFORD BATES CONCERNING DEER ISLAND CONDITIONS DENIED IN TOTO.

DR. DAVID J. JOHNSON, INSTITUTIONS COMMISSIONER, STATES THAT CONDITIONS WERE NEVER BETTER, AND ISLAND PRISON HAS BEEN MODEL FOR OTHER STATES. CLAIMS CHARGES BUT SMOKE SCREEN TO SAVE FURTHER CRITICISM OF STATE INSTITUTIONS.

Dr. David J. Johnson, Institutions Commissioner, has issued the following statement in reply to Commissioner Sanford Bates:

"Interesting isn't it, that Deer Island has been considered pretty fine until Mayor Curley, in his campaign, criticised the state institutions. The reports for the past two years from the grand jury, City Council, and the social workers inspecting the island, compared with reports of Deer Island in previous years, have been gratifying to us.

"It may have some significance that the only escapes happened just before election. It was because there were indications that an outside attempt was being made to discredit the city institutions that the assistant deputy master, Mr. Higbee, was transferred from day duty to night duty, thereby frustrating any plan for wholesale escapes.

"For more than thirty years it has been the policy of the department to use from six to eight short-term drunks on the county institution boats, for general work and, during the coal famine in Boston twenty to thirty short-term prisoners came to Boston daily to bag coal sold at cost to the city's poor. In the summer months trustees are sent to Rainsford Island to clean up after the 200 children who came there each day on the Randidge excursions. On one occasion two prisoners were found to have been given whiskey by a yachting party that landed on the island to get water. These prisoners were punished.

"In order to prevent the smuggling in of drugs and alcohol, known to be the custom in previous years, an order was issued that no one was to be admitted on the island without a pass from the Commissioner. We have, however, publicly announced when any one, or any group, who wished to visit any of the institutions for the purpose of investigating conditions or studying various phases of institutional life may have a blanket pass, and hardly a week passes without organizations, both social and civic, availing themselves of this freedom. In every case their reports were so commendatory as to be a source of great satisfaction to those in charge.

"As for any criticism of the Deputy Commissioner, Dennis D. Driscoll, I venture to say that Commissioner Bates is the only man in Massachusetts who would stoop to make it. Mr. Driscoll is a man known to labor organizations, fraternal organizations and citizens in all classes in Massachusetts—is an outstanding figure in uprightness, humanity and tireless work to help not only the unfortunate men in his charge but their wives and families. His courage and loyalty was proven when he was shot in the head protecting the Governor of Massachusetts when an attempt on the Governor's life was made in the State House. His honesty, kindness and unselfish zeal for others has won for him the respect and love of the citizens of Boston.

"Deer Island is the only institution in the State of Massachusetts where segregation is actually working out—that is—inmates in the Hill Frison are those who have committed offences against property and person and graver offences; in the old prison are the men who are sent to us for nonsupport of their wives and families and those who are committed for drunkenness; in Barracks B are the inmates who are drug addicts or drug sellers

"The Hill Frison was reconditioned by the drug addicts, taking over a year to complete the job. All locks on the prison were renewed, all toilets reconditioned and the prison painted from top to bottom, and bars were put on the prison to make it secure. This work was done by the drug addicts, under the direction of the officers, at a great saving of money to the county and a great help in teaching the drug addicts in the occupations. After the Hill Frison was completely conditioned all the prisoners were transferred there where they have running water, toilets, sun and plenty of light and fresh air.

"It was necessary to completely renovate Barracks B in order to make it habitable. One hundred and fifty cells measuring 7 by 8 were made into seventy-five cells 8 by 14. Two tons of white lead have been used in reconditioning Barracks B. The recreation hall has been completely reconditioned, a cement floor being laid by the drug addict colony. This isolation of the drug addict has helped in a large degree with the assistance of the drug squad in Boston and the district attorney's office, to rid Boston of the drug fiend.

"There were two cases of tuberculosis mentioned, where there was some delay in transfer. The reason for this was in order to make the diagnosis of tuberculosis; in the case of any inmate we require an X-ray and physical examination at our hospital at Long Island.

"If orders of any of the officers have been overruled it is because I do not believe in solitary confinement, excepting in rare cases, and I have never tolerated the use of the straitjacket.

"Certainly sufficient evidence may be found to prove that not only have we made great saving in money but we have rid the institution of drugs, have made no new drug addicts, and in most cases, because of the better food given the inmates, these men on leaving the institution have shown a gain of between forty and sixty pounds in weight and have been taught the beginning of some trade. Our object has been humanitarian and to make Deer Island a real correctional institution."

BOSTON'S YEAR BOOK SOON TO BE DISTRIBUTED. MOST ELABORATE EVER PUBLISHED BY CITY.

CITIZENS WILL FIND FIRST ISSUE REMARKABLE IN MATTER OF INFORMATION AND ARTICLES CONTRIBUTED BY EXPERTS IN MANY LINES OF MUNICIPAL ENDEAVOR. PLANNED BY MAYOR CURLEY IN PREVIOUS ADMINISTRATION.

Is Mr. Ordinary Citizen aware that thirty-two distinct executive departments are operating daily, under the supervision of the Mayor, in the municipal administration of the City of Boston? Does Mr. Extraordinary Citizen realize what cog the Statistics Department supplies to the machinery of local government? Where is this department located?

Away up under the roof of old City Hall, two flights higher than the elevators rise, far removed from the bustling offices of the Collecting Department, Election Board, and licensing divisions, the Statistics Department pursues the even tenor of its way. Its activities include the compilation of municipal and other statistics; the furnishing of authentic information on questions propounded by the Mayor, members of the City Council, heads of departments, officials of other cities at home and abroad, and citizens and students interested in municipal and civic affairs; the preparation and issuance annually of the "Municipal Register," "Boston Statistics," and such other publications as may be required by the city government; the management of the subscription list and other business details of the Boston City Record; the accumulation of current reports and documents, municipal, state, and federal, for the department library; the preparation from time to time of statistical and informative handbooks relating to the public advantages and attractions of Boston, especially those having historical interest, to serve as guides and souvenirs for official and other visitors; the exchange of public documents between Boston and other cities at home and abroad, as well as with state and national bureaus, especially such as issue statistical publications.

On December 18, 1914, a recommendation was received by the trustees of the Statistics Department that a municipal year book be compiled and published. A decade of years has passed, but the suggestion is finally bearing fruit, and the story is briefly told in the Preface to Boston's first municipal "year book," soon to come from the press.

Ten years have elapsed since the Hon. James M. Curley, serving his first term as Mayor of Boston, requested the Statistics Department to publish annually a municipal year book. Plans were finally drawn and approved in 1923, but not until March, 1924, was the undertaking actually begun.

The present volume represents an effort to place before the citizens of Boston, municipal officials here and elsewhere, and students of civics a narrative of the growth, and a description of the functions of the departments, boards, bureaus, and committees which administer the varied and complex affairs of a great city. Moreover, since Boston is so intimately associated geographically, industrially, commercially, financially, and even governmentally, with many of its neighbors, a section has been allotted to metropolitan conditions and progress.

The time is ripe for clear delineation of those publicly supported activities which directly affect the welfare and happiness of all the people, and for honest exposition of that host of officials, elected and appointed, salaried and unsalaried, who are planning and working for the public weal. Results are apparent to all disposed to see that the cities and towns of America are not only developing into better places in which to live and work and play but are serving as proving-grounds for still further progress in municipal improvements and civic advance.

The "Year Book," consisting of about six hundred pages, 7 inches by 10 inches, printed in easily readable type, adequately illustrated, and bound in the municipal colors, is divided into three parts, entitled (1.) Municipal Conditions and Progress, (2.) Community Conditions and Progress, and (3.) Statistics. Part 1, occupying about two thirds of the volume, represents the first successful attempt to include in one publication an authoritative statement of the political control, the statutory functions, and the recent accomplishments of every municipal governmental division or subdivision, including in some cases a detailed historical review. Mr. Ordinary Citizen, in his perusal of the "Year Book" will marvel at the relatively small measure of home rule vouchsafed to the City of Boston. Part 2, occupying more than one hundred pages, represents a free-will contribution by a dozen leaders in thought and action in the cause of community progress. Transportation Needs, Manufactures, higher education, and welfare activities are some of the subjects treated in this section. Part 3 includes thirty-eight statistical tables on population, valuation and taxes, appropriations and expenditures, debt, vital statistics, building construction, and financial condition of cities.

While an unofficial commentator ventures the prediction that the "Boston Year Book," 1923-24, is the most valuable municipal publication issued in twenty years, the final verdict by the press and public is awaited with much expectancy.

By vote of the City Council September 29, 1924, approved by the Mayor October 4, 1924, the printing of an edition of twenty-five hundred copies has been authorized.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS DEPARTMENT.

Upon October 27 the Mayor approved a contract with the Mitchell-Vance Company for electric light fixtures for the Police Station 2 building. A communication from John H. Mahony, Acting Superintendent of Public Buildings, was as follows:

BOSTON, October 25, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—In the contract for the erection and completion of Police Station 2 building there is an allowance in the sum of $4,500 for electric light fixtures, which appears on page 209 of said specifications. This allowance was estimated from figures received from the Mitchell-Vance Company represented by the Wetmore-Savage Company of 76 Pearl street, Boston, calling for the installation of the Mitchell-Vance Company fixtures. Inasmuch as it is the desire of the architects to install this certain style of fixture, it would seem a wilful waste of time and a delay in having this work done if we were obliged to go into the open market and advertise same.

In consideration of these facts I respectfully request that permission be given me to make a contract with Wetmore-Savage Company for the installation of the electric light fixtures as called for by the architect's schedule, in the sum of $4,500, without the usual form of advertising.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN H. MAHONY,
Acting Superintendent of Public Buildings.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Water Service).

Upon October 31 the Mayor approved a contract with V. Barletta for relaying water pipe and service pipe in Humphreys street, Dorchester. A communication from Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

BOSTON, October 28, 1924.

To the Mayor of Boston.

Authority is respectfully requested to the award of a contract for relaying about 900 linear feet of 12-inch main water pipe and about 500 linear feet of service pipe in Humphreys street, between Green street and Dudley street, Dorchester, to V. Barletta, 10 Whipple avenue, West Roxbury, without inviting proposals by advertisement, at an estimated cost for labor and materials of $3,500.

This authority is requested because the existing 6-inch water pipe was removed in connection with the construction of a large sewer within the above-mentioned limits and it is absolutely necessary that adequate fire protection be restored as soon as possible. As V. Barletta was the contractor for the construction of this sewer, it will be for the best interest of the city to have him lay these water pipes, since his prices are reasonable and will complete the work without any delay.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

MAYOR CURLEY CALLS FOR BUDGET SHEETS.

The Mayor has issued the following circular letter to heads of departments:

MAYOR'S OFFICE,
BOSTON, November 5, 1924.

To Department Heads and County Officers:
Budget sheets for 1925 are now ready and may be obtained at the office of the Budget Commissioner, 307 City Hall Annex.

Estimates for the new year are to be submitted in accordance with the following schedule:

For departments whose estimates total:

- $100,000 or under—on or before December 1, 1924.
- Between $100,000 and $700,000—December 15, 1924.
- Above $700,000—not later than January 1, 1925.

Because of an amendment to the city charter made by the Legislature of 1924 the budget sheets for 1925 will cover only a period of eleven months, since under the provisions of chapter 479 of the Acts of 1924 the financial year of the city is to be advanced one month beginning January 1, 1926. Estimates for the new year therefore are to be prepared on an eleven months' basis.

It is advisable that before final submission of your departmental budget you confer with the Superintendent of Supplies with reference to such commodities as may be required by your department and also with the Budget Commissioner relative to the compilation of your budget.

It is evident at this time that the approaching winter will severely tax the resources of the municipality because of the industrial stagnation and the increased unemployment. The funds of the Overseers of Public Welfare and the Soldiers' Relief Department are practically exhausted and before the end of this month it will be necessary to transfer from the appropriations of other departments of the city in order that the worthy poor and the veterans of the World War and their dependents may not suffer through failure of the city to adequately provide for their needs and requirements.

In view of these conditions it will be necessary for all branches of the city and county to practice the most rigid character of economy compatible with the service that should be furnished the public. Unexpended balances must be conserved and you are accordingly directed to keep this idea in mind while planning the activities of your branch of the service during the remainder of the fiscal year.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

CONTRACTS AMENDED.

Hart & Hutchinson have been allowed to amend their contract for metal lockers for various high schools by striking out the words and figures, "August 4, 1924," on page 1, Section 4; and substituting therefor the words and figures, "September 8, 1924," so that the beginning of the last paragraph of said Section 4, on page 1, shall read: "The work is to be commenced on or about April 23, 1924, and is to be completed on or before September 8, 1924."

Joseph Rugo has been allowed to amend his contract for the alteration of West Roxbury Courthouse and Police Station No. 13, by changing the date of completion as appears on page 41 of the contract to read "December 15, 1924" instead of "October 11, 1924."

This extension of time is in addition to a previous extension dated August 22, 1924, and making a total of fifty-two days, and is occasioned by the fact that an addition was made to the contract to build 105 linear feet of 10-inch pipe sewer in Colorado street.

M. DeSisto Company has been granted an extension of the time of completion of the contract for the building of sewerage works in Newfield and Lasell streets, West Roxbury, dated October 4, 1924, from October 18, 1924, to November 18, 1924 (31 days). This extension is requested on account of the fact that the contractor was delayed in commencing the work until the necessary takings were made in the above streets.

William Barrett Company has been granted an extension of the time of completion of the contract for building sewerage works in Mill street, between Victory road and Green Hill street, Dorchester, from October 11, 1924, to November 4, 1924 (24 days). This extension of time is requested on account of the fact that the nature of the soil was such that the excavation and the work attendant thereto required more time than was anticipated.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Water Service).

Antony Cefalo has been granted an extension of the time of completion of the contract for laying water pipes in West Roxbury Parkway (West Border road), between La Grange street and Pleasure Drive, dated September 11, 1924, from October 16 to November 1, 1924.

OFFERS TO BUY MASON STREET PROPERTY FOR KEITH THEATRICAL MEMORIAL.

The Mayor, on October 27, submitted the following to the City Council:

To the City Council.

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to submit herewith tender for site used by the City of Boston for Fire Station No. 26, located on Mason street.

It is the purpose of the B. F. Keith Theatre Company, provided that the city is agreeable to sell the property located on Mason street, and used by Engine Company No. 26, to erect thereon a permanent memorial to the founder of the B. F. Keith theatrical enterprises at a cost of $2,000,000. The income from this estate would net the city annually the sum of $50,000 in revenue and is worthy of consideration.

The B. F. Keith management have further agreed that they will pay to the city immediately upon adoption of the order the sum set forth in their tender, namely, $240,000. With this sum as a basis, it is possible to establish a permanent central fire headquarters over the subway entrance at Tremont street and Shawmut avenue. This site, long considered by the officials of the Fire Department a most desirable one in the heart of the city, merits immediate consideration.

I have fortunately been able to secure an agreement from the B. F. Keith management whereby they will permit the City of Boston to continue as occupants of the fire station on Mason street until such time as the new fire headquarters at Shawmut avenue and Tremont street are available for use.

I accordingly unhesitatingly recommend adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY HAS ARRANGED EXHIBITION FOR STEVENSON ANNIVERSARY.

COLLECTION OF FIRST EDITIONS ON VIEW TO PUBLIC IN THE BARTON ROOM ON OCCASION OF SEVENTY-FOURTH ANNIVERSARY.

To commemorate the seventy-fourth anniversary of the birthday of Robert Louis Stevenson (he was born on the 13th of November, 1850, in Edinburgh), an exhibition of the first editions of his works has been arranged in the Barton Room of the Boston Public Library. On the day of the anniversary, Thursday of this week, in the Lecture Hall of the Library, at 8 p. m., Guy Richardson gave an illustrated talk on the Scottish novelist and poet.

The exhibition includes some twenty-five items, from "Travels with a Donkey" (1879) to "St. Ives" (1898). Some of these volumes are now quite valuable, being much coveted by collectors. A copy of "Travels with a Donkey," for instance, which sold for $15.50 in 1908, realized $95 in 1923. "The Silverado Squatters," sold for $2 in 1908, now stands at $35 to $40. "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" shows perhaps the greatest fluctuation in price. Sold for $4.50 fifteen years ago, its price varies today between $25 and $65. Copies with inscriptions by the author sell at hundreds of dollars.

Chatto and Windus, Cassell & Co., Longmans, Green & Co., and in America Scribners published most of the works of Stevenson. The Boston edition of "Travels with a Donkey," published by Roberts Brothers, contains the same frontispiece (by Walter Crane) as the London edition with which it appeared simultaneously. At auctions and in catalogues this edition is hardly quoted at all. "The Silverado Squatters," describing the mining camps of California, is especially interesting to Americans. "Under a heavy strain of personal anxiety and literary effort," Stevenson spent the year of 1880 in this country. . . . His poems, "A Child's Garden of Verses," were published in 1885. The Library possesses the New York edition of this book, published in the same year by Scribners. This is another item, quite rare today.

A copy of the large paper edition of "Underwoods," Stevenson's lyrical poems, published in 1887 in fifty copies, attracts the attention of the visitor. The greater part of "The Master of Ballantrae" was written at Saranac Lake in the Adirondacks. His "Ballads" were published in London, in 1890, while he was cruising on his little steamer through the unfamiliar islands of the South Sea. Having left the British Isles in 1887, Stevenson never saw again his native country. The last four years of his life he spent at Samoa, where he became a real chieftain of the islanders.

Some of his most important works he wrote here. The Scottish romance of "Catriona" was published in 1893. "Island Nights' Entertainments," three tales illustrative of Pacific Ocean character, date from the same year. He was dictating "Weir of Hermiston" on the day he died. The book was published in 1896. The "Vailima Letters" came out in 1895, "St. Ives" in 1898. He left several books unfinished.

The complete list of Stevenson's works is astonishing. In his short life, stricken from childhood with consumption, it is a wonder how he could write and live so much—write with such beauty, and live with such intensity.

CIVIL ENGINEERS, DECEMBER 15-20, 1924. THESE EXAMINATIONS ARE FOR THE SERVICE OF THE STATE, ALL CITIES, AND SUCH TOWNS AS ARE CLASSIFIED UNDER CIVIL SERVICE.

Warning.—Many men fail in the civil engineering examination because they apply for grades for which they are not qualified. It is advisable, therefore, if there is any doubt about the quantity or quality of your experience, to take both the grade for which you think you are qualified and the next lower grade. If you should be found ineligible for the higher grade, you will still have an opportunity to be placed on the next lower grade.

Grade A.

Engineering assistants, drafting assistants, and rodmen, who perform under instruction and supervision elementary or apprentice work in the field or office.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not Grade A if the salary is less than $900 a year or more than $1,440 a year.

Qualifications.—Applicants must have completed a high school course of not less than three years or must have had not less than one year of practical experience in field engineering or office work.

Subjects and Weights.—Rodmen—Experience, 4; mathematics, 6; penmanship, 1; tracing, 3; questions on the duties of the position, 6; total 20. Assistant draughtsmen—Experience, 4; mathematics, 6; penmanship, 1; drawing, 9; total, 20.

Grade B.

Senior engineering assistants, instrumentmen, and draughtsmen (a) who assume responsibility for the execution of definite instructions in a minor division or section of engineering activity; or (b) who direct, under supervision, the operation of minor engineering projects.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade B if the salary is more than $1,980 a year.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion, not less than one year of service in Grade A. If appointed otherwise than by promotion from Grade A, at least two years of practical experience in engineering work of Grade A character and standard; or such training in civil engineering as is evidenced by a professional degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction at an institution or college of recognized standing; or the successful completion of not less than two years' study in such institution plus one year's practical experience in engineering work.

Subjects and Weights.—Instrumentmen—Experience, 16; penmanship, 2; plotting, 6; questions on duties, 8; mathematics, 8; total, 40. Draughtsmen—Experience, 16; drawing, 10; mathematics, 6; duties, 4; plotting, 4; total, 40.

Grade C.

Assistant engineers, assistant civil engineers, and designing engineers: (a) who assume responsibility for the direction of surveys, the preparation and examination of, or advice upon, plans, designs and specifications for a minor section of a large engineering or a major section of a small engineering project; or (b) who supervise or inspect the construction or the operation of work on such a project; or (d) who make investigations of, and reports upon, such engineering projects as a basis for a report by an engineering superior.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade C, if the salary is more than $2,580 a year.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion within a department or major division thereof, not less than two years of service in Grade B, or if appointed otherwise than by promotion from Grade B, within a department or major division thereof, at least five years of practical experience in engineering work, at least one half of which shall have been appropriate to the particular branch of engineering work covered by the position, provided that a degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction by an engineering school of recognized standing shall be accepted as the equivalent of three years practical experience.

Subjects and Weights.—Experience, 10; design, 2; mathematics, 2; questions on material and methods of construction, 3; engineering theory, 3; total, 20.

Grade D.

Senior assistant engineers, senior assistant civil engineers, and senior designing engineers: (a) who supervise and assume complete responsibility for the work of a main division of an engineering organization, involving the direction of surveys and design and construction; or (b) who maintain and operate the major section of a large engineering project; or (c) who make independent investigations of and reports upon engineering projects as a basis for executive, administrative, or judicial action; or (d) who take charge of a large engineering department in the absence of the chief engineer; or (e) who give advice on large or complicated engineering projects, which may involve the preparation of plans.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade D if the salary is more than $3,600 a year.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion, within a department or major division thereof, not less than three years service in Grade C. If appointed otherwise than by promotion, within a department or major division thereof, at least eight years of practical experience in engineering work, at least one half of which shall have been appropriate to the particular branch covered by the position, and two years of which shall have been in an executive capacity; provided, that a degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction by an engineering school of recognized standing shall be accepted as the equivalent of four years of practical experience.

BOSTON CITY RECORD

OFFICIAL CHRONICLE OF MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

VOL. 16.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1924.

No. 47

MAYOR CURLEY'S CONTENTION THAT CITY'S NET DEBT IS DECREASING YEARLY BORNE OUT BY FORMER MAYOR NATHAN MATTHEWS.

LATTER PUBLISHES IN BOSTON "TRANSCRIPT" NOTABLE ARTICLE ON MUNICIPAL FINANCES SHOWING THAT DESPITE INCREASE IN EXPENDITURES NET DEBT HAS FALLEN—MAYOR ASKS FOR ECONOMY.

The necessity for economizing in departmental expenditures during the closing months of the fiscal year, was again impressed upon his official family Wednesday, November 19, by Mayor Curley, in order to save $900,000 which can be diverted to the uses of hospital, charity and correctional departments.

The Mayor held out strong hope that, if the department chiefs saved the money in question, enforced discipline among their staffs and continued generally the course pursued so far in the Curley administration, they might insure their tenure of office into the succeeding administration, which opens in January, 1926. The Mayor said:

"All of us can contribute largely to a continuance of the practically unassailable record we have established through three years here." The Mayor continued, "That the Republican agency in Boston politics, the revered and venerated Finance Commission, created to destroy the Boston democracy, has discovered nothing of consequence against our administration that men of intelligence would give a moment's attention to."

The Mayor also called attention of his heads of departments to the following article on the Boston charter and its operation in making Boston of unusual financial strength before the outside world. He especially called attention to the fact that despite increased costs Boston's net debt has decreased over $10,000,000, in fifteen years. The article appeared in the Boston Transcript on Monday, November 17, and was by Hon. Nathan Matthews, former Mayor:

The article is as follows:

Municipal corporations are mere political or territorial subdivisions of the state, and city charters—meaning the general laws to which the local authorities are subject—may assume many forms. In some states, though not in Massachusetts, these laws or some of them are embodied in the state constitution. In others, but again not in this state, we find a general form of charter prescribed by statute for all cities or for cities of a certain size. The more common form is a special charter for each city, supplemented by general or special laws enacted from time to time by the legislatures of subsequent years.

In Boston we begin with a formal city charter, adopted in 1854. This has been modified by innumerable later statutes, the most important dating from 1885, 1890 and 1916. Then in 1909 there was a comprehensive revision of the fundamental basis, both political and administrative, of the city government, and the political features of this charter have been modified several times since, the latest change having been effected at the election of November 4.

The charter of 1854 was of the ordinary American bicameral type, with virtually all executive as well as legislative power vested in the city council subject to a qualified veto power in the mayor. The legislation of 1885 vested the executive powers of the city in the mayor and transferred the police to the control of the state government. The act of 1916 compelled the construction of new schoolhouses out of taxes. The debt and tax limit laws affecting the city have also been altered from time to time. In the main, however, the city government of Boston has been administered during the past fifteen years under the so-called charter amendments of 1909; and in view of the rapid changes that are now taking place in our American ideas of government fifteen years is a long time for any thoroughgoing reform to endure without modification of its essential features. The time has also been long enough to enable us to determine the results of this experiment in municipal administration, and to make a fair comparison possible with what has taken place in other cities during the same period.

The political features of this charter of 1909 related to the term of office of the Mayor, which was made longer, and to the composition of the City Council, which was reduced to a single body of nine councilmen, elected at large. This council functioned fairly well for ten years but the incapacity displayed during the past five years has led to the substitution this year of a council consisting of one member from each of the twenty-six wards into which the city is divided. Time alone will disclose whether this change will secure a better City Council. Personally I am extremely sceptical, and should have preferred to retain the present small

MAYOR APPEALS TO PRESIDENT COOLIDGE IN AID OF THE UNEMPLOYED.

HON. CALVIN COOLIDGE, President of the United States, Washington, D. C.

Mayor Curley sent the following telegram November 19:

The unemployment situation in Massachusetts is serious. A New England winter, the rigors of which are familiar to you, does not appear quite the proper time to furlough or discharge mechanics and laborers at the Boston Navy Yard, that is, provided there is work which is necessary and which can be performed at this yard. The force of mechanics has been reduced almost to the vanishing point at the yard as against a normal quota twice as great. The immediate assignment to the Boston Navy Yard either of naval vessels scheduled to be assigned for reconditioning in December or January or of ships of the Shipping Board fleet at this time would in some measure relieve a situation entirely due to causes beyond the control of the workers. I trust you will make the necessary recommendations to the Secretary of the Navy and to the United States Shipping Board.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

PROVINCE STREET, AFTER BEING WIDENED, OPENED TO TRAFFIC ON WEDNESDAY.

Province street, now nearly as broad as it is long, was opened to traffic Wednesday, November 19.

Since colonial days a narrow lane hardly ten feet across, this historic thoroughfare now is fifty feet wide, and offers ample elbow room for all who wish to get from Bromfield street to School street without being jostled by the crowds on Washington or Tremont streets.

Property valued at about a million was taken by the city in carrying out the widening project, suggested as far back as 1911, set in motion by Mayor Curley on July 6, 1922, opposed by the Finance Commission and property owners, and finally begun a year ago the first of November, when the Mayor laid the first two granite paving blocks of the re-modeled street.

The colonial governors of Massachusetts had their residence on Province street. The School street corner, on which stood the old Five Cents Savings Bank, was the site of a French Huguenot church built in 1788. At Bromfield and Province streets stood the Old Corner Bookstore for many years. The old stone steps and wrought-iron arch at the junction of Bosworth and Province streets were not disturbed by the widening.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,
Ensured by thy sons' and thy daughters' unselfish devotion!"

NATHAN HASKELL DOLE.]

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE INVITED TO BE BOSTON'S GUEST, APRIL 19.

MAYOR CURLEY ASKS CHIEF EXECUTIVE OF NATION TO BE CITY'S GUEST ON 150TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE BATTLE OF LEXINGTON AND CONCORD, WHEN RESTORED FANEUIL HALL WILL BE REDEDICATED.

Mayor Curley on Friday wrote to President Coolidge inviting him to be the city's guest during the rededication of the restored Faneuil Hall on April 19 and 20 next, the 150th anniversary of the Battle of Lexington and Concord. The letter says:

"On behalf of the City of Boston it gives me great pleasure to extend you a cordial invitation to be the city's guest on the occasions of the observance of Patriots' Day, April 19 and 20, 1925. We plan for the rededication of newly restored Faneuil Hall as one of the features of the program, and greatly desire your participation in the exercises.

"Anticipating the honor of your presence for this great 150th anniversary celebration, I am, sir, with assurances of esteem and regard."

MAYOR CURLEY'S MANY FRIENDS REMEMBER HIM ON FIFTIETH BIRTHDAY WITH FLOWERS, GIFTS AND SINCERE CON- GRATULATIONS.

Mayor James M. Curley was fifty years old on Thursday, November 20, and he was given plenty of evidence that his friends remembered the anniversary. He went to his office in City Hall at the usual time and had no plans for special observance of the day. "I shall keep at my work as usual," he said, when asked made to this department for information regarding the public baths and gymnasiums maintained by the city, and with regard to municipal indoor concerts and band concerts; also information relative to Mt. Hope, Evergreen, Fairview and other public cemeteries owned by the City of Boston.

TO THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE, 15 Beacon street, for information relative to the operation of the schools of the city.

TO THE SCHOOLHOUSE COMMISSIONERS, Room 1007, City Hall Annex, for information as to the construction and repair of school buildings.

TO THE BOARD OF EXAMINERS, Room 1001, City Hall Annex, for information regarding the licensing of persons having charge or control of the work of construction, alteration, removal or tearing down of buildings.

TO THE WIRE DIVISION OF THE FIRE DEPARTMENT, Fire Department Headquarters, 60 Bristol street, for all information relative to the erection of poles, the building of conduits, the installation of all overhead and underground construction and electrical apparatus, as well as for general information relative to the entire division. To Room 906, City Hall Annex, for permits for the installing of wires and electrical apparatus within buildings in the City of Boston, and for the payment of fees incident to the granting of the privileges above named, and which must be paid in advance.

what he was going to do to celebrate. "Tonight I shall spend at home with my family."

Among the most prominent who came to offer congratulations were Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of San Francisco, who in signing the visitor's book on this day, the date of Mayor Curley's birth, inscribed the following:

1874—NOVEMBER 20th—1924.

On your Golden Birthday Anniversary
I give you Golden Congratulations and Golden Wishes

From the City by the Golden Gate.

Affectionately,

JAMES ROLPH, JR.,

Mayor of the Golden City by the Golden Gate.

All day the Mayor was occupied in receiving callers who came to congratulate him, but he was able to go through his papers, confer with department heads and others about city business, just the same. He was remembered with gifts of various sorts—a handsome inlaid pipe from Standish Willcox of his staff, a large silver loving cup from the L Street Swimming Association, a set of Montaigne's Essays from his office force, a perpetual pass for Mr. Curley and guests, handsomely engraved, from the Fenway Theatre and other remembrances, as well as flowers.

Fifty large, yellow chrysanthemums in a wicker basket occupied the place of honor on the Mayor's desk. There were several large and small baskets decorated with chrysanthemums, roses and other flowers. There also were a number of bouquets.

Mayor Rolfe of San Francisco spent some time in the office, and was much cheered by the more favorable reports from his son, who is ill at the City Hospital. Before Mr. Rolfe left the Mayor instructed an attendant to send a bouquet of roses to Mr. Rolfe's son. Other flowers were sent to different hospitals.

TAKES COMMISSIONER BATES TO TASK FOR HIS STATEMENTS AND ATTITUDE ON DEER ISLAND CONTROVERSY.

MAYOR CURLEY PROVES THAT MANY CHARGES MADE ARE FALSE, AND SHOWS THAT STATE OFFICIAL WAS LAX IN DUTY BY NOT CONFERRING WITH INSTITUTIONS COMMISSIONER IN EFFORT TO CORRECT ALLEGED EVILS.

Mayor Curley issued the following statement relative to the report issued by the State Commissioner of the Department of Corrections, Mr. Sanford Bates:

I have examined chapter 124 of the General Laws of 1921, which reads as follows:

"The commissioner of correction, in this chapter called the commission, shall have the general supervision of the state prison, the Massachusetts reformatory, the prison camp and hospital, the state farm and reformatory, for women, and of jails and houses of correction. He shall make rules for the direction of the officers of such institutions in the performance of their duties, for the government, discipline and instruction of the convicts therein, for the custody and preservation of the property connected therewith, for the supply of food, clothing and bedding in the state prison, Massachusetts reformatory, prison camp and hospital, state farm and reformatory for women, for teaching prisoners who are committed to a jail or house of correction for six months or more to read and write, for securing proper exercises for unemployed sentenced prisoners in jails and houses of correction, and for securing medical examination and supervision of prisoners in jails and houses of correction punished by solitary imprisonment. As soon as may be after such rules have been made the commissioner shall submit copies thereof to the governor and council, who may approve, annual or modify them. Jailers, keepers of houses of correction, county commissioners and the penals institution commissioner of Boston shall make no rules inconsistent with the aforesaid rules. He shall also from time to time cause to be printed in convenient form the rules of the board of parole and the statutes relating to the duties and powers of said board, and shall annually during the month of January cause to be mailed one copy thereof to each justice of the superior and district courts, each trial justice, each sheriff and to each master, keeper, warden or superintendent of the penal institutions in the commonwealth, and to the commission on probation two hundred copies thereof.

"SECTION 2. The commissioner shall keep informed as to the management and condition of all institutions under his supervision or control. He may expend annually in the performance of his duties and for necessary clerical assistance such sum as may be appropriated therefor by the general court. He or one of his deputies shall make frequent visits to such institutions, and investigate the management, condition and discipline of the institutions and the treatment of the inmates and the books of said institutions shall be open for his examination. The commissioner or any representatives designated by him may attend any meeting of the parole board."

I am grieved to learn that the Commissioner of the Department of Corrections of the Commonwealth, Mr. Sanford Bates, has failed to comply with the provisions of this section of the statutes in that he has only conferred once during the past year with Dr. David J. Johnson, Institutions Commissioner of Boston, and upon that occasion some nine months ago in reference to some trivial matter and in no way affecting the conduct of the institutions under his charge. I beg to say for myself that he has never conferred with me either in writing or orally with reference to the institutions or has anyone connected with his department and that this failure to perform his duties as they are clearly set forth by the statutes justified by belief that conditions at the institutions must be eminently satisfactory for the reason that at no time during my service as Mayor have I enjoyed co-operation from any of the regular organized Republican machine agencies of the Commonwealth, the Legislature or the Finance Commission.

The statement of Mr. Bates, Commissioner of the Department of Corrections of the Commonwealth, that he refrained from making this report public prior to the election for fear that it might be understood as intended to have a bearing on the political campaign is a protestation that is a clear evidence of insincerity. It is the duty of the Commissioner of the Department of Corrections of the Commonwealth to definitely determine the question of veracity involved in the statement that repeated recommendations and suggestions made to the officials in charge of the Boston Penal Institutions had been given no consideration as against the statement of Doctor Johnson that no report has ever been received during the past year with reference to the institutions from the office of the Department of Corrections at the State House and but one conference has taken place and that some nine months ago on some trivial matter with the Commissioner of the Department of Correction.

I have carefully studied the specifications contained in the communication submitted under date of November 11, 1924, by the Commissioner of the Department of Corrections of the Commonwealth and have discussed them in detail with the Institutions Commissioner of the City of Boston, Dr. David J. Johnson. The conditions responsible for the sensational report made by the State Commissioner of the Department of Corrections of the Commonwealth may be summed up under four heads; first, the grouping under control of the Institutions Commissioner of the unfortunate poor, the chronic sick, child welfare work and the persons committed for the commission of crime; second, the temperamental unfitness of the Deputy Master at Deer Island and the legal difficulties preventing his removal because of the various veterans' preference acts; third, the observance of customs of long standing and which through usage had become recognized in a measure as proper; and fourth, the failure of the State Commissioner of Corrections, Mr. Sanford Bates, to comply with the provisions of the law as set forth in chapter 124 of the General Laws of 1921, and the participation by the State Commissioner of the Department of Corrections with the Deputy Master at Deer Island and an employee of the Institutions Department as a part of a political conspiracy, the purpose of which was to discredit the Institutions Commissioner of Boston, Dr. David J. Johnson, and the Mayor of Boston.

The present Commissioner of the Department of Corrections of the Commonwealth, Mr. Sanford Bates, was largely responsible for the consolidation of the Infirmary Department, the Penal Department and Child Welfare Department of the City of Boston, which took place under my predecessor and while Mr. Sanford Bates was serving in the capacity of Penal Institutions Commissioner for the City of Boston. I have never been able to understand how an intelligent public ever permitted an institutional consolidation which classified the chronic sick, unfortunate aged poor and the helpless children with the criminal element of the community.

I have long looked forward to the time when it might be possible to change this condition and I propose submitting to the City Council in January a recommendation for an expenditure within the debt limit of $1,000,000 for the erection of suitable quarters for nurses, doctors and internes and a hospital for the chronic sick at Parker Hill. In conjunction with the Corporation Counsel and the National officers of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks negotiations have been in process for a period of two years with a view to the acquiring by the city of the property utilized during the war by the Federal Government and commonly called the Elks' Hospital. Entry has been made and this property is now in the possession of the City of Boston. The establishment of the hospital for the chronic sick of Boston upon the mainland from the humanitarian and every other standpoint has long been recognized.

Upon September 10, 1923 in an address delivered at the annual Congress of the American Prison Association in Boston, presided over by the present State Commissioner of the Department of Corrections, Mr. Sanford Bates, I expressed my views with reference to the institutional system in operation in Boston as follows:

We have been unfortunate in recent years in that kindly and well-intentioned individuals have seen fit to group elements of our social life that represent distinct problems, separate problems, that do not permit of combination. We have an institution department in Boston,—we are going to abolish it before we get through but it exists at present—where the same commissioner has charge of wayward children and of the criminals, of the chronic sick and those unfortunate enough to grow old without acquiring wealth. I have always recognized the principle that these three elements in the life of our nation represent something more than a social proposition; they really represent an economic problem. Poverty, disease and crimes have been boon companions from the beginning of the world; they are the three guardsmen that menace society and that must be overcome. The erection of this chronic hospital in Boston at Parker Hill should prove of inestimable value to medical science because of its accessibility to the leading medical and surgical schools and hospitals located in this section.

I personally believe that it would be advisable, now that the abnormality of the crime of classification of unfortunate poor, chronic sick and helpless children with criminals is so indelibly impressed upon the public mind, to have an amendment to the ordinances submitted to the Council at its meeting on Monday next providing for the creation of an Infirmary Department of Trustees to have charge of the chronic sick and aged poor and the child welfare work; and the penal department established as a separate department of the city.

In the event that the Federal Government cancels its present lease of the West Roxbury property, originally intended as quarters for the unfortunate poor now located at Long Island, this transfer from Long Island to West Roxbury can be consummated at small expense to the city and such cottages as may be necessary for aged poor couples can be constructed, thereby bringing some measure of happiness into the declining years of their existence. The tremendous increase in the population at Deer Island, being an increase of nearly 300 per cent in a period of three years, renders it advisable for the city shortly to consider transferring its penal population to a larger island.

This would be possible through the transfer of the penal population to Long Island. In the event that this program is consummated an opportunity will be afforded for the state to do something worth while along humane lines through the purchase of Deer Island for use as a state prison thereby making possible the abandonment of what has long been recognized as an unwholesome and unhealthful bastle, the State Prison at Charlestown. An opportunity for genuine co-operation in the consummation of a program essential to the welfare and peace of mind of an unfortunate element of society is here presented.

It has been the custom for more than a quarter of a century to detail certain prisoners, termed "trusties," to perform work at Long Island. This work consists of farming and repair work generally on the properties. It is necessary that this work continue but I am absolutely opposed to the quartering of the prisoners who perform this work at Long Island during night time and shall insist that in future they shall return to the Correctional Institution at Deer Island at the end of each day. This matter could have been corrected at any time within the past year provided the State Commissioner, Mr. Bates, had directed it either to my attention or the attention of Doctor Johnson, Institutions Commissioner.

With reference to the second grouping, namely, the unfitness of the Deputy Master to continue in the position he now holds at Deer Island, I beg to say that after consultation with Doctor Johnson I am in agreement with the recommendation made by the Doctor that Deputy Master James H. McDade should be removed, as he alone is responsible for such lack of discipline as has obtained during his incumbency of the office of Deputy Master. I have profound sympathy for the Commissioner of Institutions, Doctor Johnson, who has proven an eminently capable and humane administrator of the Institutions Department.

It is not generally known, but it is nevertheless true, that under the law he is required to make selection from the names submitted by the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission. The law further provides that preference in appointments shall be accorded veterans of the United States Army, Navy and Marine Corps who have served in time of war. Men are selected in accordance with these provisions. There is no course open other than to select the men whose names have been certified by the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission and who in this case stood number one on the civil service list.

The law further provides that no veteran in the employ of the City of Boston shall be removed except upon a hearing by the City Council of Boston. A recent decision of Judge Carroll of the Supreme Court was in effect that employees of the prison at Deer Island were employees of the City of Boston and entitled to the immunity contained in the veterans' preference sections of the civil service laws. From this decision of Judge Carroll an appeal has been taken, which appeal is pending in the courts. It has been the intention of Doctor Johnson, in the event that the appeal taken by the city as to the right to remove officials at Deer Island as county employees had been sustained by the full bench of the Supreme Court, to remove the Deputy Master, James H. McDade.

The conduct of the Deputy Master at Deer Island has been destructive of discipline and it has been necessary both for the Commissioner and Deputy Commissioner to spend a large portion of each week at the island to prevent the character of conditions said to have existed. The commissioner has conferred many times during the past eighteen months with the Corporation Counsel as to the advisability of filing specific charges with the City Council but in each instance has been advised by the Corporation Counsel that there was insufficient actual evidence in his opinion to warrant the belief that the council would approve the removal of the Deputy Master. The act governing the suspension, removal or transfer of veterans reads as follows:

Chapter 31, section 26, "No veteran holding office or employment in the public service of the commonwealth or any city or town therein shall be removed or suspended, or, without his consent, transferred from such office or employment, nor shall his office or position be abolished, nor shall he be lowered in rank or compensation, except after a full hearing of which he shall have at least seventy-two hours' written notice, with a statement of the reasons for the contemplated removal, suspension, transfer, lowering in rank or compensation, or abolition. The hearing in the case of a state employee shall be before the board of conciliation and arbitration, in the case of a town employee before the selectmen, in case of a city employee before the board of aldermen. At any such hearing each veteran concerned may be present and be represented by counsel. Such removal, suspension or transfer, lowering in rank or compensation, or abolition of an office, shall be made only upon a written order stating fully and specifically the causes therefor, and signed by the board of arbitration and conciliation, or by the selectmen, or by the aldermen, as the case may be, after a hearing as aforesaid. An appeal from such order may be taken under section forty-five. This section shall not apply to the state or Boston police or to those of the metropolitan district commission."

Under the law the Institutions Commissioner has been powerless even in the matter of suspension, owing to the fact that there never has previously been sufficient legal evidence which would in the opinion of the Corporation Counsel justify the City Council in removing the Deputy Master. The report of the State Commissioner of Corrections, Mr. Sanford Bates, completes the evidence necessary, with that in the possession of Doctor Johnson, to warrant immediate removal by the City Council of Boston of Deputy Master James H. McDade.

With reference to heading No. 3, "the observance of customs of long standing and which through usage had become recognized in a measure as proper," I beg to say that it has been the custom where officers have rendered satisfactory service and have reported in an intoxicated condition, not to permit them upon the island, simply to suspend them and later to reinstate them. This is a vicious custom and should no longer be permitted. I have recommended to the Institutions Commissioner, Doctor Johnson, that these men be notified that they must seek transfer to some other branch of city service and failing to do so shall be removed from the Institutions Department. In the future any employee of the Institutions Department found under the influence of liquor shall be discharged except in the case of veterans when the matter under the law must be presented to the City Council before action may be taken.

With reference to the performance of hard manual labor by drug addicts, I agree in the decision reached by the Institutions Commissioner of the City of Boston, Doctor Johnson, that it is both unwise and inhuman to require drug addicts to perform hard manual labor until a cure has been established. I agree further that when, in the opinion of the physician in charge of the institution, a cure has been affected that the drug addict should be required to perform such work as his physical and mental condition will permit.

With reference to the employment of short term, so-called "Trusties" upon the institution's boat, I approve this custom and believe it should be continued. It represents a saving of money to the city and opportunity for the inmates to perform some useful labor.

Under specification No. 4, presence of a so-called obscene picture, the picture in question being four inches square, this was unquestionably a plant placed there with the knowledge of the Deputy Master who was familiar with the fact that the State Commissioner of the Department of Corrections was to visit the institution at this particular time.

Specification No. 6, that an assistant Deputy Master had been given leave of absence each day until five o'clock for several weeks prior to the election and worked at the island only on the evenings each day, I beg to say that the officer in question has been employed on the island for fifteen years and no charges ever have been lodged against him in this period of time and his work has been eminently satisfactory. The fact is that the four escapes which took place from the island in the month of October took place at night and during the period that Deputy Master James H. McDade was on duty and as a precautionary measure the Assistant Deputy Master, Frank Higbee, was put on working nights and after being assigned there were no further escapes.

With reference to specification No. 7, that political signs were made by an employee. This is unquestionably a plant arranged for the benefit of the State Commissioner, since no person interested in the success of a candidate for public office in Massachusetts would consider using any form of printed or painted matter other than that bearing the union label.

With reference to specification No. 9, in which it is charged that there was delay in the transfer of tubercular patients from Deer Island to West Rutland. The papers were signed by the Department of Corrections on April 11 and 15, and, as Mr. Bates is aware, the customary procedure was followed, namely, an X-ray examination, supplemented by medical examination, and the transfer completed April 25.

With reference to specification No. 10, that three inmates were seen smoking in a wooden barn filled with hay. This is unquestionably another plant, so staged for the visit, as the privilege of smoking is too highly prized by the inmates to permit of a violation which might result in depriving all inmates of the privilege and even if no officer were present to prevent it the inmates themselves could be depended upon to prevent it.

With reference to specification No. 11, which sets forth that a quantity of applications for absentee voting were sent down to the institution. The Corporation Counsel of the City of Boston informs me that a person convicted of misdemeanor does not lose his rights of citizenship or participation in election under the law of absentee voting.

With reference to specification No. 12, namely, that about the middle of October notices were received by the officials of the House of Correction from the Institutions Department at City Hall stating that no city or state official would be allowed on the island without a pass from the city, I am informed by the Institutions Commissioner, Doctor Johnson, that the only order issued during the past year limiting visits to the island applied to Wednesdays, this day being set apart as drug addicts' visiting day and in the opinion of the commissioner this order was necessary for the protection of drug addicts from persons who might seek opportunity to smuggle drugs into the institution.

With reference to specification No. 5, which reads as follows: "There is an officer at this institution who was appointed as a poultryman, although at the present time the head farmer admits that he has something like ten or twelve hens. This officer up to four weeks ago was employed as night watchman, and at no time since his appointment has he had anything to do with poultry. Three weeks before the recent state election he was given leave of absence, and since that time up to the election has spent his time in Boston aiding in the campaign of the Mayor of the City of Boston as Governor. During this time, according to the books of the institution, he has drawn full pay from the City of Boston and on his own admission, he has performed no services for the city. The Master has signed the pay roll in each instance, certifying that service was rendered for the money drawn."

I beg to state that I sent for the officer and poultryman referred to, Mr. George A. Nelson, and requested from him a statement and reply to specification No. 5. Mr. Nelson states that he was entitled to one week's pay and called to get it and found through an error of some one in the clerical division he was credited with three weeks' pay, that he was laboring under considerable excitement at the time, that he was very active in behalf of the candidacy for Governor of Alvan T. Fuller and the Republican ticket. I questioned him further and he furnished me a receipt for $100 which he contributed to the Coolidge Campaign Fund Committee. He further stated that he had tendered the $100 to Mr. Fuller's manager and was advised that all contributions must be made direct to the Calvin Coolidge Campaign Fund Committee. Receipt for the contribution of $100 by Mr. Nelson to the Massachusetts Coolidge Finance Committee, I beg to here produce and a copy of the cancelled check I also beg here to present and letter signed by the Governor-elect Alvan T. Fuller, thanking Mr. Nelson for his services.

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR,
STATE HOUSE, BOSTON,

MR. GEORGE A. NELSON,
224 Bunker Hill Street, Charlestown, Mass.

MY DEAR SIR: I want you to know how sincerely I appreciate your cordial support and active co-operation in my campaign for the governorship. With very kindest regards, please believe me,

Cordially yours,

In conclusion I beg to state that it is gratifying to know that although the action and purpose of the state authorities is unquestionably viciously hostile, there has been no complaint of lack of food, improper housing, or abuse of inmates, in striking contrast with the reports of state institutions garnered under friendly auspices.

CITY NET DEBT DECREASING.

council elected at large, but under some well-devised plan of proportional representation.

The most important changes effected by the charter amendments of 1909 were administrative and financial. This charter constituted, in effect, the most radical and thorough going reform in municipal administration ever attempted in this country; and the entire scheme, both principles and details, has remained intact.

The main financial changes effected by the Act of 1909 were that the Mayor was given an absolute veto power over all orders passed by the City Council except those relating to its own internal affairs; and not only the absolute right to veto a loan bill in its entirety, but to veto any of the items in a loan bill or reduce them. Loan bills could originate either with the Mayor or the City Council, but each was given full concurrent power over loans and items. The annual appropriation bill, that is the order fixing current expenditures for the year out of taxes and income, must originate with the Mayor; the City Council having power to reduce or eliminate an item, but no power to increase an item or to add new items. This plan was a drastic and revolutionary reform, borrowed partly from Europe, and is the only effort of the sort with which I am familiar for the mitigation of the evils of extravagance from which all our American cities suffer. It will be observed that both the Mayor and the City Council have full concurrent power over all expenditures; and there is no foundation for the unthinking criticism that the Boston charter deprives the City Council of opportunities or incentives to work. The proper discharge of the concurrent power vested in the City Council over all appropriations and loans ought to occupy as much of the time of each member of the City Council as the public can fairly expect them to devote to the duties of his office. If, as has unfortunately been the case, members of the City Council have disregarded these duties and opportunities, it is not the fault of the charter but of the councilmen themselves and the voters who have retained them in office. These financial reforms constitute, you will observe, a complete system of checks and balances upon the expenditure of municipal money. None of the individual ideas were original, but the combination is, I believe, original and has not been imitated elsewhere in this country with results for other cities of comparable size which I will refer to in a moment.

In addition to these financial changes the new charter contained an entirely new idea based upon the experience of the Finance Commission itself. This was that there should be a perpetual Finance Commission appointed by the state and having no administrative powers but the duty of inspection, investigation and publicity. I have always regarded this plan as one of the most effective measures ever devised for checking the more obvious forms of graft and the more scandalous extravagances that city governments if left to themselves are apt to indulge in.

Now for the results. As I said before, a scheme of political administration which has been in operation for fifteen years has been tried so long that we ought to be able to determine whether on the whole it has worked well or ill; and the answer to this question can best be secured by taking in the first place the actual results obtained in the particular city in question, and then by instituting a comparison, so far as accurate figures can be found, with other cities of comparable size.

Let us consider first the experience of Boston, considered by itself. In 1909 the tax rate was $16.50. For the past three years, including the present year, 1924, the rate has been $24.70, an increase of almost exactly 50 per cent. On September 30, 1909, the total net debt of the city and county was $74,175,715, while on September 30, 1924, it was $82,796,088, an increase of $8,620,373, or 11.6 per cent. These figures include the amounts borrowed for rapid transit purposes. If we exclude the debt incurred in connection with the subway system, which is peculiar to this city, we shall find that the net debt of the city and county was $59,675,958 on September 30, 1909, while fifteen years later it was only $49,162,723, a decrease of $10,513,235 or 21.3 per cent. There are under way at the present time a number of street improvements for which loans have been authorized but not issued, so that next year we can fairly expect an increase in the debt for ordinary municipal purposes; but in all probability not enough to wipe out the gain of $10,500,000 that has been made in the past fifteen years.

Let us now see if we can determine what has happened in other cities fairly comparable in size which have been operating during the past fifteen years under the old fashioned type of American city charter, modified more or less, but not in the direction taken in this city. The American people are a spendthrift nation, both as individuals and when organized as municipal corporations; and as late as 1909, when the present charter was adopted, Boston led all the other large cities in the country in the race for extravagance. Taking for comparison the eleven other cities in this country having in 1922—the latest date for which figures have been published by the Department of Commerce—a population of over 500,000, and taking the amount of total expenditure per capita and the amount of net debt per capita as furnishing on the whole the best basis for comparison, it appears that Boston had in 1909 with one exception the largest per capita net debt and spent more money per capita than any of the others. It was these facts, and the exposure of the methods which made them possible, that led to the reforms of 1909.

Now, in 1922, these other eleven cities had increased their expenditures on the average from $18.18 per capita in 1909 to $43.75 in 1922, an increase of $25.57 or 140½ per cent, and had increased their average net debt from $54 per capita to $106, or 96 per cent; whereas in the City of Boston the total expenditure increased from $34.85 to $57.94 per capita or only 66 per cent, while there has been no increase at all in the net per capita debt including rapid transit loans. It was $110.68 in 1909 and $110.76 in 1922. This increase of 66 per cent in expenditure and of nothing at all in debt contrasts with an increase of 140½ per cent in expenditures and 96 per cent in debt for the average of the other eleven cities of similar or greater size in the United States. It can be said, of course, that the different cities are differently situated with respect to the necessity for large expenditures and loans; but this argument is usually put forward as an excuse for extravagance in individual cases. Taken by and large and including the results achieved in all the cities of this country that are fairly comparable with ours, there can be but one interpretation of the figures that I have given you. That is that the Boston type of city charter has, in comparison with other forms of municipal government obtaining in this country, worked enormously to the financial advantage of the people of this community. When we consider that the period in question covers the World War and the great increase in costs which followed it, it is obvious that the results obtained in this city out of the charter amendments of 1909, financial, administrative and informative, have been far better than those obtained in any other large city in this country; and I doubt very much if any large city in the world can show as small an increase in indebtedness during this period as has been the case in Boston.

We ought not to ignore the many extravagant and unnecessary expenditures of the past fifteen years, nor can we close our eyes to the scandals that have been exposed from time to time by the Finance Commission; but notwithstanding all this, the fact remains that the increase in annual expenditures has been much less than in other large cities and that Boston can stand almost alone upon practically the same debt as fifteen years ago. When we note what has been going on in these other cities no impartial observer can deny that the difference between the financial conditions of Boston and that of the other cities is due to the adoption here and here alone of the financial changes of 1909, and to the work of the Finance Commission. The small City Council elected at large has also, in my opinion, had a favorable effect upon the finances of the city.

I want to close these remarks with a few thoughts of a political nature. The framing of this charter was a purely non-partisan work; but getting it through the Legislature was a task of a wholly different order. The community at large, stirred up by the revelations made by the commission, was willing to accept our conclusions, and we had the support of citizen committees from all parts of the state. The welfare of the Commonwealth was felt to be dependent in great measure on the financial integrity of its principal city. But, it proved to be a very difficult thing to secure the necessary votes in the State Legislature. The reforms urged were without precedent in the political history of this country. There was a natural reluctance on the part of the Legislature to rely on our predictions of the results to be expected, and there was the most violent opposition on the part of the politicians who owed their political and financial welfare to the system we sought to abolish. I gave about three months of my time to conferences with the joint committees of the Legislature to whom our report had been referred, and although we had at all times a majority of this committee the opposition in the Senate and House was so strong that it began to look as if we should lose the bill unless we were willing to agree to some sort of a compromise charter. This we were urged to do by the Chamber of Commerce; but the compromises offered were such as to devalue the essentially simple though entirely new reform that we proposed, and we refused to listen to them. The result was a deadlock.

It occurred to me that the situation warranted an appeal to the statesman whose funeral I have just attended. Senator Lodge was the ablest man in public life of my generation and acquaintance; and although seldom in agreement with him on the purely partisan issues in state and national politics, I felt that in this emergency his powerful aid could probably be secured and would prove effective. In this we were not disappointed. Mr. Lodge came to Boston, studied the problem for a week or so, and then induced his party associates in the Legislature to support the plan of the Finance Commission. It was then passed, without the change of an idea or important word, by what was practically a party vote. I have frequently referred to this great service rendered by Senator Lodge to the cause of good government in Boston, but not I believe in public. I know of no more fitting occasion on which to make public mention of these facts than the day we consign his body to the grave. His record as a statesman will be part of the history of Massachusetts. I want to be sure that in that record is incorporated the service given to the people of this community fifteen years ago in their efforts to secure the present city charter.

CITY CREDIT UNION IN FLOURISHING CONDITION.

MAYOR CURLEY RECEIVES REPORT FROM OFFICERS SHOWING GOOD WORK DONE IN THWARTING MONEY SHARKS.

Mayor Curley has received from officers of the City of Boston Employees' Credit Union a report of the tenth annual meeting and the good work done. The officers wrote his Honor as follows:

"Your decision in 1915 to have a Credit Union of city employees organized, in order to relieve employees in need of temporary financial assistance from the mercenary demands of money lenders, is proving more valuable from year to year, as will be seen from the following statement:

"At the tenth annual meeting reports for the year were submitted by the treasurer and the credit and supervisory committees, and various recommendations made by the directors were adopted.

"The total amount loaned since organization is $582,147. Loans to the amount of $137,539 were made during the year. The losses, almost all due to the death of the borrower without financial resources at the time of death, have been comparatively small, being about one half of 1 per cent of the amount loaned in nine years. It was voted to continue to charge interest on loans at the rate of 7 per cent, instead of 8 per cent, the rate prior to December 1, 1923.

"New loans were made during the year at an average of $166.31 each. At present there are $72,029 in loans outstanding but not due. The guaranty fund of $3,388.37 and undivided earnings of $7,143.82 are sufficient to provide against losses. Deposits have increased to $51,551, and the cash on hand at the close of business October 31, 1924, amounted to $15,034. The operating expense for the year was $1,648. A dividend at the rate of 6 per cent for the year was declared, and the same rate of interest, 6 per cent, has been paid on deposits."

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 47.

I. THE AMERICAN RED CROSS.

1. In connection with the sixth annual roll call of the American Red Cross, the Fire Commissioner has been asked to invite the members of the Boston Fire Department to renew their membership in this humanitarian organization. The activities of this society are so well known that it is unnecessary to comment upon them here.

2. Members who desire to renew their membership in the American Red Cross are requested to send their names, with the membership fee of $1, to the Fire Commissioner, on or before Wednesday, November 26, 1924. Commanding officers may consolidate the lists and send them in on Form 5.

3. Membership cards, membership buttons, and pennants will be sent to the members as soon as their membership fees are received at headquarters.

By order of Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn.

DANIEL F. SENNOTT,
Acting Chief of Department.

MAYOR AIDS IN EDUCATION WEEK OBSERVANCE.

Mayor James M. Curley has directed the Board of Park Commissioners to assist in the observance of National Education Week, and its nation-wide observance by the public schools and other educational institutions has met with quick response by the Park Commission of the City of Boston, which has arranged, under the direction of Deputy Commissioner William P. Long, an appropriate one-day program for the demonstration of its contributive share of true education. The classic precept—a sound mind in a sound body—which all educators agree is the true goal toward which their efforts are constantly directed, were exemplified, under the auspices of the Park Department, by exhibitions and health talks in all the gymnasiums of the city on the evening of November 21, the day set apart as National Physical Training Day. Printed invitations to attend these have been distributed, in order that the citizens of Boston may become acquainted with the courses that are maintained throughout the year for their benefit. Class work in calisthenics and ten-minute health talks by doctors from the Board of Health constituted the chief part of the program.

The City of Boston, which early took the lead among the cities of the country in physical welfare work for its citizens, and which has always maintained that lead, has eleven public gymnasiums completely equipped and under expert direction. These institutions, both day and evening, carry on a splendid work. Competent instructors, under the present direct supervision of Mr. John A. Lane, constitute one of the most valuable organizations of the city's public service. Located in sections of the city convenient to all, these gymnasiums are available to young and old of both sexes. A well-defined system of exercises and supervised play has attracted a large patronage of both women's and men's classes, and it is for an increase of this patronage that the Park Department has endorsed National Physical Training Day, and will observe it by practical demonstrations of its careful and constant work to up-build the health of the citizens of Boston.

Boston has always been in the van in the field of education, and none of its institutions have done more toward the maintenance of this lead than its public gymnasiums in their respective line of work. The Park Commission made special preparations to assure the comfort of the big attendance it expected from all quarters of the city as its program of tribute to National Physical Training Day. The location of the city gymnasiums, and their respective instructors are as follows: East Boston, T. Connell; Charlestown, W. Cronin; North Bennet Street, J. Hannon; Tyler Street, Samuel Smith; Brookline Street, Fred Byrnes; Cabot Street, William Mullen; Curtis Hall, Maurice Smith; Vine Street, James O'Brien; Columbia Road, Edward Kohler; Roslindale, Edward Fisher; Hyde Park, George Frazer.

MAYOR CURLEY PLANS FOR CARE OF JOBLESS AND AGED AT LONG ISLAND IN WINTER.

With 150 or 200 jobless men visiting the Municipal Employment Bureau in the basement of City Hall, Mayor James M. Curley at noon on Tuesday told reporters that the unemployment situation in this city was serious and getting worse.

Mayor Curley said he would go before the City Council at its next meeting and urge that work be started at once on the new Fire Headquarters building, at Shawmut avenue and Tremont street, over the subway. The beginning of this work, he thought, would make possible the starting of the proposed $2,000,000 theater on Washington street, near Boylston street.

Mayor Curley said that with the first wintry blasts, Dr. David J. Johnson, the Penal Commissioner, had forty applications for places at Long Island for men of advanced years. Mayor Curley said that he has ordered sent to Deer Island about 200 beds that were used in the firehouses of the city before he put into effect the two-platoon system. He said he would request Budget Commissioner Fox and Building Commissioner John Mahony to make a survey of the city properties to see just what the city has in the way of sleeping quarters if the unemployment situation becomes acute.

Mayor Curley said he would urge that the widening of Court and Cambridge streets be started at once. He added that he had been assured by the Schoolhouse Department that work on three new buildings would begin about the first of the year.

MAYOR CURLEY SEEKS STATLER HOTEL BUILDING TO AID UNEMPLOYMENT.

Mayor Curley sent the following communication November 20:

MR. E. M. STATLER, Buffalo, New York.

MY DEAR MR. STATLER,—I have conferred with the secretary of the Building Trades Employers' Association and have been informed by him that there has been a reduction of approximately 10 per cent in the cost of materials that would be required in the construction of the Statler Hotel at Boston.

I do not believe there is any prospect of a reduction in labor costs but, on the other hand, there is an abundance of both skilled and unskilled labor in the market at the present time which would insure sufficient men to carry through to completion the great project which you had in mind some time ago for the City of Boston, namely, a Statler Hotel. Provided you could see your way clear, in view of the reduction of the cost of building materials, to commence work at an early date upon the Statler Hotel in Boston, it would do much to relieve the unemployment situation which is somewhat acute at the present time and in addition add an institution to Boston which is greatly needed, namely, a Statler Hotel.

Trusting you will find it possible to look with favor upon this invitation to reconsider your project, I beg to remain,

Sincerely yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

MAYOR AND INSTITUTIONS COMMISSIONER REMOVE DEPUTY McDADE.

The Penal Institutions Commissioner, acting upon the advice of the Law Department of the City of Boston, will pursue the same course with respect to Major McDAde that he pursued with respect to Officer Grappi, remove him and give him a twenty-four hour notice of the hearing. This course will be pursued in this and other instances with respect to employees at Deer Island until such time as the full bench of the Supreme Court hold otherwise.

CIVIL ENGINEERS, DECEMBER 15-20, 1924. THESE EXAMINATIONS ARE FOR THE SERVICE OF THE STATE, ALL CITIES, AND SUCH TOWNS AS ARE CLASSIFIED UNDER CIVIL SERVICE.

Warning.—Many men fail in the civil engineering examination because they apply for grades for which they are not qualified. It is advisable, therefore, if there is any doubt about the quantity or quality of your experience, to take both the grade for which you think you are qualified and the next lower grade. If you should be found ineligible for the higher grade, you will still have an opportunity to be placed on the next lower grade.

Grade A.

Engineering assistants, drafting assistants, and rodmen, who perform under instruction and supervision elementary or apprentice work in the field or office.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not Grade A if the salary is less than $900 a year or more than $1,440 a year.

Qualifications.—Applicants must have completed a high school course of not less than three years or must have had not less than one year of practical experience in field engineering or office work.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion, not less than one year of service in Grade A. If appointed otherwise than by promotion from Grade A, at least two years of practical experience in engineering work of Grade A character and standard; or such training in civil engineering as is evidenced by a professional degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction at an institution or college of recognized standing; or the successful completion of not less than two years' study in such institution plus one year's practical experience in engineering work.

project; or (d) who make investigations of, and reports upon, such engineering projects as a basis for a report by an engineering superior.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade C, if the salary is more than $2,580 a year.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion within a department or major division thereof, not less than two years of service in Grade B, or if appointed otherwise than by promotion from Grade B, within a department or major division thereof, at least five years of practical experience in engineering work, at least one half of which shall have been appropriate to the particular branch of engineering work covered by the position, provided that a degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction by an engineering school of recognized standing shall be accepted as the equivalent of three years practical experience.

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners for the taking of land for sewerage works in Alhambra road, West Roxbury, to be constructed as follows:

The right and easement is taken to lay and maintain sewerage works in the following described lands, exclusive of any interest in trees, buildings or other structures standing thereon, reserving to the owners thereof the right to use the lands for any purpose except such as may injure or obstruct said works, and except for placing or maintaining any structure on said lands not authorized in writing by the Mayor of said city; trees, buildings or other structures standing upon or affixed to the land in which an easement is hereby taken are to be removed therefrom within sixty days following a notice of the city's intention to enter upon said taking for the purpose of constructing said sewerage works. Said lands are in that part of Boston formerly West Roxbury and are bounded as follows:

A parcel of land, owners unknown, being part of the private way known as Alhambra road, bounded:

Southwest by Maple street, eight feet; northwest by another part of Alhambra road, four hundred eighty-six and 58-100 feet; northeast by Willow street, eight feet; and southeast by another part of Alhambra road, four hundred eighty-six and 46-100 feet; containing thirty-eight hundred and ninety-two square feet, more or less.

The sewerage works to be constructed are as follows: 330 linear feet of 10-inch pipe sanitary sewer in the above described premises, being part of the private way known as Alhambra road, from Maple street to Willow street.

PAYMENT OF ADDITIONAL PENSION TO CHARLES P. LEBON.

Question came as to payment of the additional annual pension of twelve hundred dollars ($1200) to Charles P. Lebon, retired master, English High School, as provided by Chapter 378 of the Acts of 1924, and the Board was unanimously of the opinion that the said additional pension may not be paid out of the appropriation available for the payment of pensions under the provisions of Chapter 589 of the Acts of 1908 as amended.

In explanation of the action of the Board, the following statement was adopted and ordered spread upon the records:

We are constrained by law to vote that the School Committee has no right to pay Charles P. Lebon the additional annual pension of $1200 provided by Chapter 378 of the Acts of 1924. We regret the circumstances that compel our decision, but the mandatory and restrictive language of Chapter 589 of the Acts of 1908 and the amendments thereto, under which in the matter of pensions the School Committee must operate, prohibit payment to Mr. Lebon.

Section 3 of Chapter 617 of the Acts of 1910, says, "in no case shall the pension of any person be less than $312 or more than $600." The enabling act of 1924 does not purport to amend or supersede this restrictive mandate. In the 1924 act there is no reference to the School Committee other than the remark: "For thirty-five years a public school teacher," but these words are merely descriptive and indicative of the beneficiary's identity.

The permanent school pension fund is a trust fund and created by law, and cannot be disturbed or dissipated except by express legislation drawn in clear and unmistakable terms. Section 3 of Chapter 589 of the Acts of 1908 vests the charge and control of said permanent school pension fund in a board of trustees distinct from the School Committee.

However in fact, there are two funds which go to make up this permanent school pension fund, but the trust, by law, attaches to both.

First: The Current Pension Fund—This fund is made up of the 7c. tax levy "together with the accrued interest of the permanent fund, in case the amount available in any one year under this act is not sufficient, etc." (Special Acts of 1915, Chapter 304, Section 1) and reimbursement by the Commonwealth "for certain pensions paid by the city to retired school teachers, etc." (Special Acts of 1916, Chapter 89). This is the only fund (approximately $200,000 annually) in the charge and under the control of the School Committee available to pay pensions at the rates already established by Section 7 of Chapter 589 of the Acts of 1908 as amended by Section 3 of Chapter 617 of the Acts of 1910, which reads as above "in no case shall a pension of any person be less than $312 or more than $600." Section 1 of Chapter 304 of the Special Acts of 1915 disposes of the surplus, if any, of this fund. "It (the School Committee) shall from time to time pay to the treasurer of the permanent pension fund such portion of the proceeds of said 7c., etc., as in the opinion of the School Committee will not be needed for the purpose of paying pensions." The School Committee for the year 1923-1924 will pay to the trustees of the permanent school pension fund the surplus of $38,474.68. It must be quite evident that the School Committee cannot pay from this fund.

Second: The Permanent School Pension Fund is the only other source which might be called upon for payment, but this is a trust fund, as noted above, and, consequently, this Committee cannot contemplate payment from this fund.

It is not for this Committee to criticize the 1924 Act as mechanically defective, or to shift the onus on the Legislature. However, the fact is the School Committee has the money, a permanent trust fund of a half-million dollars which is continually accumulating, and which cannot be touched now by the School Committee.

In passing, we might mention that there are 286 other pensioners in the same class with Mr. Lebon,—on a pension of $600 or less. The Legislature on several occasions has rejected the plea to utilize this permanent pension fund of a half million dollars by raising the maximum of $600 which now militates against the other 286 pensioners.

NAMING OF NEW SCHOOLS.

The following was offered:

ORDERED, That the new school situated on Bailey Street, in the Henry L. Pierce District, be named the Thomas Francis Leen School in honor of the memory and life work of a former Boston citizen. Born in this city, he was a graduate of the Eliot School in the North End, of the Public Latin School, of Harvard College and of the Harvard Medical School. He entered his profession as a tireless, conscientious worker on the staffs of various hospitals in our city. In this capacity he was a generous contributor of his time, effort and skill in aiding the poor and he gave a life of true devotion to the high aims of a great profession, and to kindly, unselfish deeds of charity. In his civic contribution he was an energetic, intelligent member of the School Committee of the City of Boston. Finally, during a scourge of epidemic that threatened our city he, as a true medical man, gave his life that the lives of our citizenry and of the young sailors in the port of Boston during war-time, might be saved. Boston, therefore, in recognition of a life of noble professional endeavor and devotion to the cause of education, names this school as a small measure of its appreciation of the late Dr. Thomas Francis Leen.

The following was offered:

ORDERED, That the new school situated on Walk Hill and Hazleton Streets, in the Edmund P. Tleiston District, be named the Charles Logue School, in honor of the memory and life work of a former Boston citizen. Born in Ireland, this man who contributed much to the city of Boston, was early educated by the Christian Brothers of his native city, Londonderry. He came to Boston as a young man and attended the English High School. Beginning his life's work as a carpenter he became one of the foremost builders in our great city. Ever was he interested and active in charitable work, both in his public connection with the Overseers of the Poor and as a member of the Tenement House Commission for the City of Boston, and in his private work with church organizations. His first appointment in the service of the city was that of organizing the Repairs Division of the Public Buildings Department in 1898. In 1904 he was appointed and served for ten years on the Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners, during much of which time he was Chairman of said Commission, and in this period many of our finest schools were erected. In addition to the building of various Boston schools he was responsible for the erection of many of the finest churches and schools in and around Boston. He died during the carrying out of one of his great building contributions. This school, therefore, is named the Charles Logue School in recognition of a life of usefulness and devoted public service.

LOAN EXHIBITION OF ETCHINGS AT LIBRARY.

There has been installed in the Exhibition Room of the Boston Public Library a special loan exhibition of etchings by Antony Schutz. The etchings will remain on view until November 22. Mr. Schutz received his art training in Munich.

He has spent the past year in America and at present is assisting Joseph Pennell in the latter's etching class at the New York Art Students' League. In his youth Mr. Schutz studied architecture which probably accounts for the predominance of architectural subjects in his work. His etchings of New York's tall buildings must appeal to everyone who has seen Manhattan.

ADDITIONAL AMOUNT FOR PRINTING DEPARTMENT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 17, 1924.
To The City Council.

Gentlemen,—I am in receipt of the attached request of the Superintendent of the Printing Department for an additional appropriation of $15,000 from the income of said department. The Printing Department was called upon this year to do work for the School Department and since it was work which had never been done before no provision was made for it in the current year's budget. I accordingly recommend adoption of the accompanying order by your honorable body.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Printing Department, November 8, 1924.
Hon. James M. Curley.

Mayor of Boston:
Dear Sir,—Your Honor is respectfully requested to recommend the following transfers within the Printing Department budget:

From the appropriation for B-5, Cartage and Freight, $100, $15, to the appropriation for B-4, Transportation of Persons, $15.

The necessity for a transfer of $15,000 to the item of printing and binding was caused principally by a contract which we completed for the School Department aggregating nearly $15,000 for 125,000 spelling books. This piece of work was never done before and was not provided for in the current year's budget. It is estimated that the above amount will be required to carry us through the balance of the year.

Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM J. CASEY, Superintendent.

CITY CHARTER CHANGES.

In 1854, 1885 and 1900 important changes in the original City Charter of 1821 were effected for the purpose of improving the methods and efficiency of the City Government. The revision of 1854 (Chap. 448, Stat. 1854) referred to the voters for acceptance, gave the Mayor a qualified veto over the action of the City Council, also the power of removal of appointed officials, besides providing for his election by a plurality instead of a majority vote. The amendments of 1885 (Chap. 266, Stat. 1885) were not submitted to the voters for approval. They transferred all the executive powers to the Mayor, prohibiting the City Council from interference with the executive and administrative business of the City. This was done in order to end the inefficiency resulting from an excessive number of joint committees, a municipal development conforming to the traditions of the outgrown town government.

The amendments of 1909 (Chap. 486, Stat. 1909) cut down the number and powers of the legislative branch of the government to a minimum, the Board of Aldermen (13 members) and the Common Council (75 members) being abolished. For these was substituted a single City Council of nine members to be elected at large for a 3-year term. The Mayor's position was further strengthened by giving him a 4-year term, subject to recall at end of two years, but requiring a majority of the registered voters to make the recall effective. The Mayor's power over appointments was no longer subject to check by aldermen but by a State board, the Civil Service Commission, and City elections were removed from all connection with national and State politics, no primaries nor caucuses being permitted, all candidates for office to be selected by means of nomination papers. The only question in this Act of 1909 which was submitted to the voters was contained in section 35, i. e., whether Plan 1 or Plan 2 should be adopted, the first providing for a term of two years for Mayor and a City Council of 36 members to be chosen in primaries. Plan 2 was adopted by a majority of 3,894. Charter of 1909 amended later as follows: (1) By Chap. 437, Acts of 1910, exempting loans issued for Rapid Transit construction from the prohibition of the establishing of sinking funds, as contained in sec. 26. (2) Chap. 730, Acts of 1914, fixing date of annual municipal election on the sixth Tuesday after the state election instead of in the following January, as in sec. 32; changing the requirement as to signatures on nomination papers to 3,000 for Mayor and 2,000 for City Council and School Committee instead of 5,000 for all, as in sec. 53, also limiting the number of nomination papers issued to 300 for a candidate for Mayor and 200 for other candidates, referring to sec. 54. (3) Chap. 37, Special Acts of 1918, annulling the jurat at end of nomination papers. (4) Chap. 94, Special Acts of 1918, abolishing recall of Mayor, and making him ineligible for re-election, i. e., establishing a single term of four years, but not prohibiting the election of any Mayor for other than consecutive terms. (5) Chap. 288, Acts of 1921, fixing date of the annual municipal election on the first Tuesday after the second Monday in December, also making slight changes as to nominations.

LIQUOR LICENSES AND NATIONAL PROHIBITION.

The national prohibition amendment (i. e., the 18th) to the Constitution, having been ratified by 45 States and becoming effective on January 16, 1920, the legalized trade in intoxicating liquors ceased then. It was supposed to stop about 6 months sooner because of the Federal war regulation providing for prohibition on July 1, 1919, to be effective until the army could be demobilized. But as there was no Massachusetts law forbidding the issuing of licenses after July 1, the Boston Licensing Board issued 702 such for the remainder of the license year with the proviso that the license was no protection against violation of Federal law. After which licensees claimed the right to sell July 1, under Federal law, the only liquor was beer and ale containing not over 2.75 per cent of alcohol. Sales of these lighter beverages continued to October 28, 1919, when Congress enacted a law (Volstead Act) forbidding the sale of any liquor as a beverage containing more than 0.50 per cent alcohol. The validity of this act being widely questioned, the United States Supreme Court upheld it on Jan. 5, 1920, and again on June 7, 1920. The result of this decision was that former applicants for liquor licenses did not apply for them in 1920. The Supreme Court of Mass. later in the year decided that the liquor laws of the State remain in force where not inconsistent with the Volstead Act. The Boston Board therefore issued 146 licenses to druggists and 17 4th-class, permitting sales for non-beverage purposes only. In 1921 there were issued 192 licenses to druggists, 15 4th-class and one 5th-class. On May 17, 1922, Chap. 427, Acts of 1922 (consisting of 27 sections) was approved, providing for the carrying into effect in Mass. of the 18th Federal (i. e., prohibition) amendment. This law is subject to a referendum at State election on November 7, 1922.

By Chapter 392, Acts of 1922, the retailing of non-intoxicating beverages is subjected to license, with fee of not more than one dollar for each year ending April 30.

PUBLIC STREETS IN BOSTON.

Total length of the 2,447 paved (accepted) streets, February 1, 1922, 606.33 miles; total area, 11,459,009 square yards, or 8.47 per cent of the City's total land area. This is exclusive of the private streets (not accepted), numbering about 2,890. 366.10 miles, or 60.38 per cent, are paved with macadam (including 128.03 miles bituminous macadam); 105.66 miles with granite block; 45.50 miles with asphalt; 29.32 miles with gravel; 36.63 miles with asphalt concrete (17.55 m. being bitulithic and 13.71 m. Topeka); 11.69 miles with wood block; 5.42 miles with brick. Old macadam pavement is gradually being replaced with more satisfactory and durable kinds, such as bitulithic, concrete, granite block, etc., $5,138,678 having been expended during the past four years in reconstructing and improving 313 miles of streets and parts of streets. Granolithic sidewalks laid in 1921, 97,049 square yards or about 21 miles, averaging 8 feet wide, 50 per cent of cost assessed on estates benefited.

New highway construction completed in period 1918-1921 includes 13 streets in Boston Proper; 34 in Dorchester; 37 in West Roxbury; 14 in Roxbury; 24 in Brighton; 6 in East Boston; 3 in Hyde Park; 4 in South Boston, and 1 in Charlestown, roadway pavement bitulithic, or asphalt surface on concrete, and bituminous macadam. Gross debt outstanding February 1, 1922, for all street construction, including damages, $22,267,141 or $925,700 more than in 1921, this increase due to new loan for Stuart St. construction.

SETTLEMENT OF BOSTON.

Boston was settled in the latter part of August, 1630, by Puritan colonists under Governor John Winthrop. The name of the original settlement was changed to Boston from Trimountaine by order of the Court of Assistants on September 7 (O. S.), 1630. This date was moved forward by the New Style calendar in 1752 to Sept. 17, the recognized date of the founding of Boston. The name, Trimountaine, had been given because of the three peaks of the most prominent hill, afterward called Beacon Hill, much higher than now. By the Indians the place was called Shawmut. The name, Boston, was derived from the English town of Boston in Lincolnshire, the home of some of the leading colonists and promoters of the enterprise.

FANEUIL HALL, NOW MORE THAN EVER, IS THE PRIDE OF PATRIOTIC BOSTON.

RESTORATION AND RENOVATION BY MAYOR CURLEY AT $200,000 MAKES OLD BUILDING TAKE ON NEW GLORY AND SPLENDOR.

RESTORED, SCOURED AND CLEANED, FANEUIL HALL SETS OFF DOCK SQUARE WITH ITS SPLENDOR — WORK COST $200,000, BUT IS WORTH IT.

Faneuil Hall once again basks in pristine splendor, thanks to the fine patriotism of Hon. James M. Curley, Mayor of Boston, and his appreciation of things artistic. The building has been restored and all the patriotic societies that hold sessions there are loud in their praise of the work.

Scrubbed, scoured, chemically treated and restored, it is now even more the pride of Boston's market place. The bricks are back to their natural color and there is a new street canopy around the building.

The cost of restoration, which was begun more than a year ago, was estimated then at more than $200,000. A water curtain has been provided to protect the old edifice from outside fires. Beams of steel have been substituted for the old wooden ones which once held up the floors and the canopy of steel and glass around the building is supported by steel and concrete.

All the old paint has been scoured from the exterior and many old bricks have been replaced. The building was given a chemical bath with a colorless waterproofing material, which was absorbed by the bricks, for their preservation.

MAYOR CURLEY CONDOLES WITH HARDING FAMILY ON DEATH OF FORMER PRESIDENT'S WIFE.

DR. GEORGE T. HARDING, Marion Ohio:

A sweet, kindly and noble woman has passed to her reward, Florence Kling Harding. No person exerted a finer or better influence upon the life of the city of Washington, both official and unofficial, and always for the best. Her private charities were beautiful in character and ever and always the service of a gracious and unselfish woman. There was never an appeal in behalf of a worthy or deserving cause placed at Mrs. Harding's door that proved unavailing, I sincerely mourn her death and pray you will accept an assurance of both my sympathy and condolence.

URGES A METROPOLITAN BOSTON AND MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP OF STREET CAR SERVICE AS SOLUTION OF TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM.

MAYOR CURLEY SPOKE BEFORE LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE IN BEHALF OF FIVE-CENT FARE AND COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL ADVANCEMENT.

Mayor Curley spoke strongly for a five-cent fare and a metropolitan Boston during executive session on Tuesday, November 25, by the special committee of the Legislature appointed to consider the finances of the Boston Elevated and the determination of plans for future operation, public ownership, etc.

The Mayor came out strongly for a 5-cent fare, the road to pass to municipal ownership, with cities and towns of the district served paying any deficit. Incidentally he said he would like to see a Greater Boston and enlarged on the possibilities, as he viewed them, of business and industrial advancement that would come if Boston should "take in" all cities and towns within ten or fifteen miles.

Mayor Curley caused a laugh by his reply to Representative Francis W. K. Smith of Somerville.

"Mr. Mayor," said Mr. Smith, "you said you were reasonably satisfied with the system of public trustees—"

"You have heard no doubt" continued Representative Smith, "the suggestion that the trustees be appointed by the Boston Chamber of Commerce. What do you say to that?"

"I say that the trustees should be appointed by the League of Women Voters." Hearty laughter filled the committee room at the Mayor's jest.

"Seriously speaking," the Mayor went on, "I believe that the five trustees should be appointed—two by the Mayor of Boston and three by the Governor as provided in the original bill."

In beginning his address to the committee Mayor Curley said he was inclined to believe the real solution was "ownership by the cities and towns served by the Elevated." This, with a minimum rate of fare and the deficit to be borne by additional tax levy would prove the one way out of the present difficulty, he declared.

He said that with the abandonment of 400 miles of street railway in Massachusetts and the establishment of a bus system, cities and towns must seriously consider the matter. It is necessary in order to maintain high realty values and maintain business, he declared.

"I do not believe the cost should be borne by the car rider alone," said Mayor Curley. "Those who do not ride in trolleys must pay a proportionate share of the cost if we are to have an adequate street railway system. We can't go on with a prohibitive rate of fare."

"I would place the street railway service in the same category as education, water supply, public lighting and other services which the community must have and which benefits all the people."

"There should be some limitation as to wages paid. I mean we should not go on increasing the amount without regard to the burden to the car rider."

"If we had municipal ownership it would mean perhaps $1 or $1.50 more on the tax rate of the cities and towns served, but it would also mean increased car riding, a permanent guaranty of adequate street railway service. The cost should not be borne by the car rider alone, but by the entire community."

He expressed the belief a 5-cent fare would increase business and that the benefit would come not only to the car rider alone but to all the people.

"I should like to see a Greater Boston," said Mayor Curley. "I think we could get that if we got rid of the political bugaboo. I don't know who in the Republican party has the courage to go ahead but to my mind a Greater Boston would mean port development, a development of industrial life and many other tremendous advantages."

"What hope is there for Cambridge, for Chelsea, for Revere, for Malden, under the present conditions? They cannot lower their tax rates. This and other advantages would come if all cities and towns within ten or fifteen miles would become part of Boston."

"I would like to see Newton taken in and Brookline taken in. We have done much for Hyde Park and we could do much for these other places if they were to become a part of Boston."

MAYOR CURLEY SECURES WORK FOR CHARLESTOWN NAVY YARD.

November 20, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

MY DEAR MAYOR CURLEY,—Your recent despatch to the President in regard to the unemployment situation in Massachusetts has been referred to this department for consideration. In regard to this matter, I have the honor to inform you that the Navy Department has had under serious consideration the labor situation at the Boston yard.

In a recent visit to Boston, a conference was held by me with the master mechanics of the navy yard at that place. Upon my return to Washington, a conference was held with the chief of naval operations and the chiefs of the various bureaus in an earnest effort to prevent discharges as far as practicable.

The manager of the navy yard, Boston, was called to Washington in conference, and plans were drawn up whereby the Scout Cruisers "Detroit" and "Raleigh" will be sent to the navy yard, Boston, for extensive alterations during the month of December and January. Due to these plans, it was unnecessary to discharge many workmen, but some furloughs were obligatory. Private advices received from Boston indicate that some of the men that had been furloughed are now being recalled for shop work, which can be undertaken prior to the arrival of the scout cruisers.

As you no doubt realize, the completion of the "Whitney" and the failure of passage of the Deficiency Bill by the last Congress have produced a rather serious situation as regards funds for the Navy Yard, Boston.

I wish to assure you that every effect will be taken by this department to effect a solution of the serious problem outlined in your telegram.

Sincerely yours,

CURTIS D. WILBUR,
Secretary of the Navy.

To this the Mayor replied, sending the following telegram asking that the time be moved up in order to aid the City's unemployed:

HON. CURTIS D. WILBUR, Secretary of the Navy, Washington, D. C.

Acknowledging receipt of your letter of November 20, with reference to Boston Navy Yard, beg to say the immediate assignment for extensive alterations of the scout cruisers "Detroit" and "Raleigh" would be of great benefit in relieving present unemployment situation, provided the time of assignment of the cruisers might be advanced from December and January to the first week in December at the latest. Trust that this will be possible and in addition that the Boston Navy Yard may be favored with the reconditioning of some of the Shipping Board Fleet.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

MAYOR APPROVES OF ADDITIONAL WORK.

The Mayor has approved the request of the Public Works Commissioner as indicated in the following letter.

BOSTON, November 14, 1924.

To the Mayor of Boston.

Attached please find letter from Division Engineer John E. Carty relative to the work to be done at the north drop, North Ferry, by the Murray Engineering Company, in connection with which your Honor approved the expenditure of $3,000 on August 11, 1924.

As the work to be done under this authority progressed, it was discovered that much additional work on the drop was necessary, and for this reason your permission is respectfully requested to the expenditure of $5,163.76 in addition to the $3,000 which was authorized by your Honor upon August 11.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

BOSTON, November 12, 1924.

To the Commissioner of Public Works.

On August 8, 1924, authority from the Mayor was requested and obtained to repair woodwork and ironwork, etc., at north drop, North Ferry, Boston; work to be done by the Murray Engineering Company; the estimated cost being given as $3,000.

This work was of an emergency nature and required attention at once. It was due to collision of a ferryboat with the drop and it was impossible at the time to tell how much work would have to be done.

As the timbers were taken out it was discovered that there was a considerable amount of timber broken in back that could not be seen at the start and that there was also a very large amount of rotten timber which would have to be replaced in order to make a proper and safe job, with the result that the cost ran up much higher than was anticipated in the first place.

The Murray Engineering Company was well qualified to do the work, being located adjacent to the North Ferry and having competent machinists, machine tools and considerable equipment necessary for this particular job, on account of the size and weight of the timbers required.

The job was well done, the cost being about $9,000. I respectfully request that the Mayor's approval be asked for on the additional expenditure.

Very truly yours,

JOHN E. CARTY,
Division Engineer.

MAYOR IS THANKED FOR FLOWERS SENT TO VETERANS AT WEST ROXBURY HOSPITAL.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

MY DEAR MAYOR CURLEY,—I wish we could adequately express to you our delight and appreciation in your beautiful gift, which arrived last night, just in time for our weekly dance.

By general consent of various members of the hospital, staff and patients, the flowers were put on the stage in the Recreation House during the dance, and sent to Ward A and Ward B afterwards, where the patients are revelling in their fragrance and beauty. They made our little dancing party very delightful indeed, and our guests were able to enjoy and appreciate as well your kind thought of us.

The patients and personnel of No. 44 wish me to extend their deepfelt thanks, and to offer their congratulations for your birthday.

Sincerely yours,

MAYOR CURLEY ASKS COUNCIL TO AID HIM IN TRANSFER OF CHRONIC SICK FROM ISLAND TO MAINLAND.

Boston, November 24, 1924.

To the City Council.

GENTLEMEN.—Under chapter 7 of the Ordinances of 1920 the Institutions Department was established; section 1 of chapter 7 of the Ordinances of 1920 provided that the Penal Institution Department, the Boston Infirmary Department, the Children's Institutions Department and the Institutions Registration Department, be abolished and that all the rights, duties and obligations of the said departments be thereafter exercised and performed by the Institutions Department, as established by the Special Acts of 1919, chapter 222.

Section 2 of chapter 7 of the Ordinances of 1920 further provided that the Institutions Department thus created should be under the supervision and control of a commissioner, to be known as the Commissioner of Institutions.

I have always believed it to be most unfortunate that the chronic sick, the aged poor and neglected children should be subject to the control of the commissioner having at the same time the custody and care of persons sentenced for the commission of crime. It has been my purpose that this deplorable condition be ended and with that object in view, for more than two years negotiations have been conducted for the purpose of acquiring the property formerly known as the Elks' Hospital property at Parker Hill, Roxbury. It has taken nearly two years to acquire title but this, happily, at last, has been done and it is my purpose in the event that the ordinances here submitted is adopted, to recommend to the City Council in January an appropriation in the sum of $1,000,000 within the debt limit for the erection of a chronic hospital, with such suitable quarters as may be necessary for nurses, orderlies, internes, physicians and surgeons, at Parker Hill.

Upon the completion of this institution it will be possible not only to transfer the chronic sick from the institution at Long Island but to provide treatment in future for the chronic sick in a section of the city where the opportunities for medical and surgical service of the highest character may be found.

It is my purpose, in addition, with the aid of the City Council, upon the abandonment of the West Roxbury institution by the federal government to transfer the aged poor from Long Island to West Roxbury.

The initial step in the program is represented today by the amendments to ordinances as here proposed and which I sincerely trust the City Council, in its wisdom, will approve.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

ADDITION TO CONTRACTS.

Croce Iacossa has been allowed the following additions to contract for building sewerage works in Wilmington avenue, from Capen street about 230 feet easterly, and outlet in Capen street, from Fairmount street to Wilmington avenue, Dorchester, ordered under Article 2 of said contract: Build 150 linear feet of 10-inch pipe sewer in Wilmington avenue, from a point 235 feet east of Capen street, about 150 feet easterly, Dorchester. CIVIL ENGINEERS, DECEMBER 15-20, 1924. THESE EXAMINATIONS ARE FOR THE SERVICE OF THE STATE, ALL CITIES, AND SUCH TOWNS AS ARE CLASSIFIED UNDER CIVIL SERVICE.

Warning.—Many men fail in the civil engineering examination because they apply for grades for which they are not qualified. It is advisable, therefore, if there is any doubt about the quantity or quality of your experience, to take both the grade for which you think you are qualified and the next lower grade. If you should be found ineligible for the higher grade, you will still have an opportunity to be placed on the next lower grade.

Grade A.

Engineering assistants, drafting assistants, and rodmen, who perform under instruction and supervision elementary or apprentice work in the field or office.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not Grade A if the salary is less than $900 a year or more than $1,440 a year.

Qualifications.—Applicants must have completed a high school course of not less than three years or must have had not less than one year of practical experience in field engineering or office work.

Grade B.

Senior engineering assistants, instrumentmen, and draughtsmen (a) who assume responsibility for the execution of definite instructions in a minor division or section of engineering activity; or (b) who direct, under supervision, the operation of minor engineering projects.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade B if the salary is more than $1,980 a year.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion, not less than one year of service in Grade A. If appointed otherwise than by promotion from Grade A, at least two years of practical experience in engineering work of Grade A character and standard; or such training in civil engineering as is evidenced by a professional degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction at an institution or college of recognized standing; or the successful completion of not less than two years' study in such institution plus one year's practical experience in engineering work.

Grade C.

Assistant engineers, assistant civil engineers, and designing engineers: (a) who assume responsibility for the direction of surveys, the preparation and examination of, or advice upon, plans, designs and specifications for a minor section of a large engineering or a major section of a small engineering project; or (b) who supervise or inspect the construction or the operation of work on such a project; or (d) who make investigations of,

and reports upon, such engineering projects as a basis for a report by an engineering superior.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade C, if the salary is more than $2,580 a year.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion within a department or major division thereof, not less than two years of service in Grade B, or if appointed otherwise than by promotion from Grade B, within a department or major division thereof, at least five years of practical experience in engineering work, at least one half of which shall have been appropriate to the particular branch of engineering work covered by the position, provided that a degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction by an engineering school of recognized standing shall be accepted as the equivalent of three years practical experience.

Grade D.

Senior assistant engineers, senior assistant civil engineers, and senior designing engineers: (a) who supervise and assume complete responsibility for the work of a main division of an engineering organization, involving the direction of surveys and design and construction; or (b) who maintain and operate the major section of a large engineering project; or (c) who make independent investigations of and reports upon engineering projects as a basis for executive, administrative, or judicial action; or (d) who take charge of a large engineering department in the absence of the chief engineer; or (e) who give advice on large or complicated engineering projects, which may involve the preparation of plans.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade D if the salary is more than $3,600 a year.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion, within a department or major division thereof, not less than three years service in Grade C. If appointed otherwise than by promotion, within a department or major division thereof, at least eight years of practical experience in engineering work, at least one half of which shall have been appropriate to the particular branch covered by the position, and two years of which shall have been in an executive capacity; provided, that a degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction by an engineering school of recognized standing shall be accepted as the equivalent of four years of practical experience.

WORK ON NEW POLICE HEADQUARTERS BUILDING TO BEGIN AT ONCE.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR STRUCTURE IN PARK SQUARE AREA, AT COST OF $618,040, WHICH WILL HOUSE ALL BRANCHES OF DEPARTMENT SERVICE—FINISHED IN EIGHTEEN MONTHS.

THE NEW POLICE HEADQUARTERS BUILDING, WORK ON WHICH IS SOON TO BE STARTED.

The new City of Boston Police Department Headquarters building as designed by Ritchie, Parsons & Taylor, architects, is seven stories in height, with basement and sub-basement, and will cover nearly the entire area bounded by Berkeley, Stuart and Stanhope streets.

The exterior will be treated in Italian Renaissance with limestone on the Berkeley and Stuart street facades and a light colored brick on Stanhope street and the court. The interior with regard to rooms, corridors and stair towers will be of modern office building design with sanitary floors and fireproof construction throughout.

The building will house all of the Police Headquarters Departments, including Photographs and Finger Prints, Automobile Inspection, Carriage Inspection, Superintendents, Inspectors, Homicide, Narcotics and Liquors, Women Police, Signal Service, Clerks, Claim Investigation, Police Commissioner, Listing Board, Trial Board, Radio, Dormitories, etc. Each floor contains 10,620 square feet.

The main facade will be on Berkeley street, set back from the lot line about twenty feet, all parts of the building being easily accessible from the main entrance on that street leading directly to high speed elevators serving all floors. The Stuart street facade will run back flush with the lot line abutting the present building of the Edison Light Company. On the Stanhope street side a ramp entrance is provided leading down to a large open parking space at basement grade for department automobiles, thus utilizing the natural grade and unexcavated portion of the building lot.

Contracts have been signed and the work of construction of this new building, which will properly house the activities of the Boston Police Department, at a cost of $618,040, will commence at once.

NO SALARY INCREASES EXCEPT ON SLIDING SCALE THIS YEAR.

The Mayor has addressed the following letter to department heads relative to salary increases.

To Department Heads:

The policy which is being adopted generally in private employ throughout the country with reference to salaries and wages paid to employees is to reduce the existing wage scale.

Undoubtedly this policy is in large part due to the uncertainty as to business conditions, and yet the policy is being so generally followed as to give every indication of being an organized movement for the purpose of ending what we have termed since the period of the World War as the "saving wage." Recognizing the value of the worker of the "saving wage," which has resulted in the lowering of the mortality rate, in an increase in the educational opportunities for the children of the toiler, and a more contented condition in the home, the City of Boston in the budget for 1924-25 increased the wages of 9,200 persons in the employ of the city. Included in these wage increases were substantially all of the lower paid workers in the employ of the city.

This element of society, because of lack of organization, has in the past invariably been overlooked and it was not an easy task to carry through the program which meant for them in their homes a happier condition and a brighter outlook. The wage increases in the last budget totaled $1,250,000. This burden, however, the city was only required to bear for five-sixths of the year, the wage increase not becoming effective until April 1. This year the entire burden must be borne and it will represent an increase of approximately $250,000 in the pay rolls for the year 1925 as against the pay rolls of 1924-25.

Business depression in large measure is responsible for the increased cost in administering the departments of Public Welfare, Soldiers' Relief, City Hospital and Institutions Department, and the indications are that this increase will represent a sum in excess of $500,000, unless there is an improvement in industry, which is not in evidence at the present time.

Under the circumstances it will be impossible to consider salary increases in the budget for the year 1925 in any cases with the exception of groups that are subject to sliding scale increases.

In the submission of the budget estimates for your department you are accordingly directed to assume your portion of the burden of this situation and inform all applicants for increases as to the true condition of affairs.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,
Ensured by thy sons' and thy daughters' unselfish devotion!"

PUBLIC LIBRARY REPORTS ON ACTIVITIES DURING THE MONTH OF NOVEMBER, 1924.

The librarian of the Public Library of Boston has submitted to the Mayor the following report on activities for the month of November.

During the month 6,734 books have been ordered: 7,051 volumes have been received and accessioned; 2,110 periodicals have been received and recorded, and gifts of 591 volumes and 698 serials have been acknowledged to 505 donors. Two auction catalogues, containing forty-seven titles, have been examined. Six foreign invoices have been received: Three from Holland and one each from England, France and Italy.

Exhibitions.—The principal exhibition of the month was the library's collection of illuminated manuscripts, which were attractively arranged with explanatory labels, in the main Exhibition Room. Here were shown also etchings by Anton Schutz, assistant to Joseph Pennell, and views of English cathedrals and abbeys. In the Barton-Tichnor Room were exhibited first editions of Robert Louis Stevenson, and books in connection with talks on the history and development of artistic bookbinding, given by the assistant-in-charge to classes from the Massachusetts Normal Art School.

Publications.—In addition to the usual monthly list of new books and programs, the first number of "Library Life," volume IV., was published.

Children's Book Week.—The second week of November was observed by the library as Children's Book Week. The Children's Room was made especially attractive by the display of numbers of original paintings lent by several Boston publishers whose books were illustrated by reproductions of the paintings. On the first day, the annual exhibition of new and desirable books recommended for Christmas purchase was opened in the Teachers' Room. This exhibition, which made to this department for information regarding the public baths and gymnasiums maintained by the city, and with regard to municipal indoor concerts and band concerts; also information relative to Mt. Hope, Evergreen, Fairview and other public cemeteries owned by the City of Boston.

TO THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE, 15 Beacon street, for information relative to the operation of the schools of the city.

TO THE SCHOOLHOUSE COMMISSIONERS, Room 1007, City Hall Annex, for information as to the construction and repair of school buildings.

TO THE BOARD OF EXAMINERS, Room 1001, City Hall Annex, for information regarding the licensing of persons having charge or control of the work of construction, alteration, removal or tearing down of buildings.

TO THE WIRE DIVISION OF THE FIRE DEPARTMENT, Fire Department Headquarters, 60 Bristol street, for all information relative to the erection of poles, the building of conduits, the installation of all overhead and underground construction and electrical apparatus, as well as for general information relative to the entire division. TO Room 906, City Hall Annex, for permits for the installing of wires and electrical apparatus within buildings in the City of Boston, and for the payment of fees incident to the granting of the privileges above named, and which must be paid in advance.

remains open until Christmas, interests an increasing number of visitors each year. As a contrast, a collection of early school books and picture books, owned by the library, have been displayed in a show case in the Children's Room, serving well to show the change in making books for children. Illustrations for well-known books were arranged without the accompanying labels and the younger readers were invited to join in a contest to list the book characters in each picture. Over one hundred children shared in this effort to show their familiarity with books every child should know, and books were awarded as prizes to three children. The supervisor of work with children filled six appointments to speak during that week and two the week following on subjects indicative of the library's service to patrons, older and younger, to whom children's books make appeal.

Memorial Tablet.—On November 11, Armistice Day, special exercises were held in the courtyard of the library at eleven o'clock in commemoration of the employees who served in the World War. The invocation was by Msgr. Arthur T. Connolly; Mr. Walter Rowlands, assistant in charge of the Fine Arts Department, presented a tablet, which was accepted by Hon. Michael J. Murray; Maj.-Gen. Edward L. Logan spoke. A program of the unveiling is included in this report.

Appointments.—On October 31 the Board of Trustees appointed Mr. Robert A. Howes assistant to the director. Mr. Howes is a graduate of Colorado College and of the Harvard School of Business Administration, and has also spent a year of study at the Harvard Law School. He has had several years of practical experience and is peculiarly fitted by training and personality for the new position, in which he will assist the director in carrying on the business side of the library administration.

CALLS FOR SUSPENSION OF PROPOSED TELEPHONE RATES AND ASKS FOR HEARING.

MAYOR CURLEY FILES COMPLAINT AGAINST CORPORATION WITH UTILITIES BOARD AND BEGINS BATTLE TO SAVE PUBLIC FROM EXTORTIONATE CHARGES.

December 1, 1924.

To the Department of Public Utilities.
State House, Boston, Mass.

GENTLEMEN,—And now comes Jame M. Curley, Mayor of the City of Boston, and says that the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company has this day filed with your honorable board certain schedules of rates and charges for telephone service wherein the present rates and charges for telephone service are substantially and materially increased over existing rates and charges.

Wherefore, The said James M. Curley, Mayor of said City of Boston, respectfully complains that the said rates and charges for telephone service, as this day filed, are higher than is consistent with justice and public interest and that the said rates and charges for telephone service, as filed by the said New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, are unreasonable, discriminatory and unduly high.

And the said James M. Curley, Mayor of said City of Boston, respectfully petitions your department to notify said New England Telephone and Telegraph Company of this complaint and to give a public hearing thereon, and after said hearing to order such a reduction in the rates and charges for telephone service and such a revision of the rates and charges as it may deem just and proper, and to grant such other relief in the premises as may be authorized by law.

And the said James M. Curley, Mayor of said City of Boston, respectfully petitions your department to suspend the taking effect of said new schedules and rates and charges contained therein as filed by said company with your department until such time as the hearings requested herein shall have been completed.

And the said James M. Curley, Mayor of said City of Boston, further represents that this department is now conducting an investigation into all the rates and charges for telephone service of said company now in effect and that said investigation is incomplete, and your petitioner therefore respectfully requests this honorable board to complete said investigation of existing rates and charges for telephone service of the said company before any consideration be given to the new rates and charges for telephone service as this day filed by said Telephone Company.

JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of the City of Boston.

Accompanying the petition for a suspension of the rates and a public hearing the Mayor issued the following statement relative to the telephone situation and proposed general increase in telephone rates.

The New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, in accordance with its recent announcements, has filed a new schedule of telephone rates to become effective January 1, 1925, that mean increases in these rates of twenty-five per cent.

The hearings on the petition for rate increases filed by this company early last spring are yet unfinished. The burden of the opposition in these hearings has been carried on by the City of Boston through its Law Department and at its own expense. The City of Boston has during this opposition enjoyed the moral support given it by other cities and towns which have formally filed their protest against rate increases with the Public Utilities Commission. The City of Boston acknowledges the assistance which it has received in this case from the Retail Merchants' Association of the City of Boston.

The president of the New England Telephone Company, Mr. Matt Jones, in a published statement, has said that they "desire to deal frankly with those who are interested." If this be important it is greatly to be regretted that the New England Company has not been at greater pains to manifest this desire during the conduct of the pending telephone hearings. The Telephone Company's attorney has repeatedly withheld essential data from the Corporation Counsel, who is conducting the people's case, and the parent and controlling company, namely, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, has dared even to deny to the Public Utilities Commission of Massachusetts certain information which it has requested of that company. This company, like its subsidiary, the New England Company, is enjoying a franchise from the state of Massachusetts that in effect gives it a profitable monopoly of the field in which it operates. There is little assurance in this of a "desire to deal frankly with those who are interested."

When honestly and prudently managed, a public utility may rightly expect that its revenues will be adjusted so as to yield at all times a fair income or return on capital invested. But it must be understood that in theory of the law, at least, the old method of making the public pay, through rates, for the building up of its central office, equipment and extending its lines and other plant, has long since been abolished. Adequate dividends on its stock, of course, are necessary if new money for enlargement of its plant is to be attracted. But equally important to investors and the public, who must eventually pay, are the character of the company's assets, as they maintain them, and the prudence of its management.

The president of the New England Telephone Company says that it must maintain its present dividends on stock of 8 per cent, if it is to expect to interest investors by whom money will be contributed for extending the company's plant. But there is more than one way available to the New England Company for maintaining its present 8 per cent dividends. Increasing its rates to the public very naturally suggests itself to the company. The other way is to effect economies or avoiding many unnecessary expenditures.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company owns 58 per cent of the stock of the New England Telephone Company and it is to be expected that if the New England Company shall offer any additional issue of its stock to the public that the American Telephone Company will be prompt to take its allotment of it in order that the American Company may maintain its present controlling interest in the New England Company. By majority stock control the American Company is able to elect the officers of the New England Company and to dictate the policies of this company.

It is by reason of its majority control that the American Company has made a contract for itself with the New England Company, by which contract the New England Company is required to pay over to the American Company 4½ per cent of all revenues the New England Company receives.

Should the New England Company by any chance receive any further increases in its telephone rates, 4½ per cent of such increased revenue received by it must automatically be paid over to the American Company. Yet the service received from the American Company by the New England Company will not in any wise be increased. The American Company will give nothing further in return for this increased payment that it will receive from the New England Company.

Thus any increases in telephone rates allowed the New England Company means a needless and unearned increase in the amount that the American Company will automatically receive from the New England Company.

Compensation on a sliding scale for service received may often be just and wise. But the wisdom of adopting this method of compensation should depend upon an accurate knowledge of the cost of the service to the one giving it. The New England Company has been asked to give an accurate estimate of the cost to the American Company of the so-called service that it says it is receiving from the parent company under its 4½ per cent contract. The only estimate given by the New England Company includes an inflated appreciation of the use of unpatented telephone apparatus with no statistical estimate of the fair cost and value of the so-called engineering, financing and purchasing service which the company says it is entitled to and is receiving under this 4½ per cent contract.

The precise amount and character of these services is yet undetermined by the petitioner and only vaguely fixed by the terms of the 4½ per cent contract. The Public Utilities Commission of the state of Michigan has estimated that a fair annual charge for the use of the unpatented telephone apparatus which is leased to the New England Company by the American Company would be approximately 50 cents per telephone set and that a fair annual charge for all other services rendered the subsidiary companies by the American Company would be approximately 40 cents per telephone set.

The 4½ per cent of all revenues received by the New England Company and by it in turn paid over to the American Company represents an annual charge of approximately $2 per telephone set, or $1.10 more per telephone set each year above the amount estimated as being fair and reasonable by the Public Utilities Commission of the state of Michigan. This conclusion of the Michigan commission varies little in this respect from the conclusions of the telephone expert employed in the pending cases by the City of Boston.

Unascertained costs of undeterminable and loosely defined services of the character mentioned in the $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent contract which the American Company has forced upon its subsidiary, the New England Telephone Company, are not calculated to satisfy the intelligent inquiries of telephone users, who may well regard these so-called services as a colorable pretext by which the majority stockholder in the New England Company, namely the American Company, has made a contract profitable to itself, but burdensome to the telephone users of New England.

The American Company has the power by its control to make such a contract for itself. But the Public Utilities Commission of this state is not by law required to find that the terms of such a contract is a proper charge to put upon the telephone users of this state, especially when the New England Company asking for increase in rates fails by inadequate evidence to justify this contract as prudent and honest. The American Company by its majority stock control of the New England Company has a trust in respect to the public.

Whenever a trustee profits by dealing with the estate entrusted to him, the burden is heavy upon him to show he is not thereby unjustly enriching himself. The trustee should be doubly concerned, first, to be right, and second, to appear to be right. The refusal of the American Company to open its books to the Public Utilities Commission of this state and other states equally concerned in this matter with Massachusetts, and the ignorance of its subsidiary company, the New England Telephone Company, as to the essential costs of the services it has a right to receive from the American Company, and the New England Company's refusal to furnish to the representatives of the public certain data reasonably asked for are arrogant manifestations of contempt for the public they both are expected to serve.

It is easier to ask for rate increases than to justify them.

It is sound financing to establish a reserve for depreciation, so that when a unit of plant equipment representing capital invested is worn out there is money available to replace it. But since the practice has been established of putting such a reserve in the additional plant, there is ever present the temptation of exaggerating the amount of reserve and thus reviving the vicious practice of building plant not out of capital subscribed or borrowed but out of excessive rates paid by and secured from the public.

An excess in the annual contribution to depreciation reserve which, of course, is payable out of rates charged to the public, is often to be determined only after a lapse of many years. No calculation of this annual charge can ever be accurately made. But whether it is excessive or insufficient, time alone will tell. Experience in such matters has shown that depreciation reserves need to be adjusted periodically. The New England Company has enjoyed nearly two full cycles of the composite life of its plant. A cycle in the case of a telephone company is considered to be approximately a period of twenty-five years.

Many units of telephone plant have been retired from service not because they were outworn, but because of inadequacy or obsolescence resulting from new inventions or public requirements and changes. If twenty-five years be the composite life of the New England Company's plant it ought annually to put into its reserve fund a sum equal approximately to 4 per cent of the plant investment. The present annual rate is in excess of 5 per cent on $160,000,000 of plant.

Last year the New England Telephone Company put into this reserve fund approximately $6,800,000; it took out of it for plant retire from service only $3,030,000. The present accumulated reserve of this company is over $40,000,000. This is equal to 27 per cent of its plant value. This sum is needlessly high, it represents a vicious pyramid of charges that are a burden on the rate paying public. It should be reduced. Now is the time for a readjustment, and the way to do it is not by increasing telephone rates, but rather by reducing them. Since this $40,000,000 of reserve is not held by the company in a bank, but is invested by it in additional telephone plant it is clear that the stockholders of the New England Company own a telephone system which is measurably more valuable, made so by capital neither contributed by the stockholders nor borrowed from some independent source in which their equitable interest is but a part of the whole amount.

It is apparent from such figures and practices of the New England Telephone Company as have been disclosed during the hearings on the pending petitions for rate increasing before the Public Utilities Commission of this state that no plausible opportunity is lost by it to label as maintenance charges that logically and equitably should be borne by capital or in such cases by the depreciation reserve. In this way the plant of the company is kept up, renewed and built up. The charges, therefore, fall upon the public and tend unnecessarily to increase or maintain high telephone rates. By this same device the reserve, another charge upon current rates, often escapes its just burden, and is permitted to pyramid, while in other instances the plant is extended without any fair contribution from capital subscribed or borrowed.

These indicated economies are not only feasible, but justice to the public demand them. These can be put into operation without reduction either in wages or present dividends on the company's stock. It is needless at this time to discuss the relative aspect of this company's salary list. Its dividends have since 1911 been increased from 6 per cent to 7 per cent in 1920, and to 8 per cent in 1922. These increases in dividend it was claimed were needed to attract additional capital. The uniform contribution made by the subsidiary companies of the Bell System to the American Telephone and Telegraph Company under the $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent contract and by "the most favored customer" supply contract with the Western Electric Company also owned by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and by the division of toll service rates between the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and its subsidiary telephone companies indicate clearly why the American Company can pay a dividend on its own stock of 10 per cent and accumulate a reserve of \$40,000,000 as against a capital investment of \$600,000,000.

These facts and conclusions are shown by the record of the present hearings before the Public Utilities Commission of this state, and the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company has not successfully refuted them. Our real opponent is the American Telephone and Telegraph Company whom we cannot reach through the Public Utilities Commission of this state. It has the telephone users of America in its grasp. That grasp it means to tighten and to make doubly sure if it can. There is nothing essentially new in the machine switching telephone apparatus it is now installing. It is old in telephony.

It is, however, a very practical device for ridding itself and its subsidiary companies of thousands of telephone operators and their labor unions, and, by patented improvements upon this old mechanism held by it, or by the Western Electric Company, a renewed effort is being made to monopolize the telephone business of the country and to give colorable excuse for additional contracts for supplies furnished by it through the Western Electric Company to subsidiary and associate companies. The American company knows it cannot justify the $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent contract. The American Company appreciates that an effort is soon to be made to restrict and restrain it through the federal government.

Once manual operating in central offices is done away with and in its stead is installed expensive machine switching equipment over which it has obtained control, there is little that it has to fear from federal regulation of itself, or state regulation of its subsidiaries, thus made dependent upon, if not in fact owned by it.

BOSTON MAY YET HAVE A STATLER BUILT HOTEL.

PROMISE OF LOWER COST OF BUILDING MATERIAL CAUSES FAMOUS HOTEL MAN TO START NEW PLANS FOR STRUCTURE.

Following a suggestion by Mayor Curley, based on a report from the Building Trades Employers' Association, that there is a reduction approximately of 10 per cent in the cost of building materials E. M. Statler will again seek bids on the architects' drawings for a hotel in the Park square section.

Ten days ago the Mayor wrote Mr. Statler in an additional effort to have him reconsider his building plans. The reply has come from the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York City, in which Mr. Statler says:

"We are just as anxious to proceed with this undertaking as you are to have us, but the facts are, as originally stated by us when we temporarily abandoned this work, namely that until there is a considerable reduction in building and equipment costs, or unless we could sell our product at a higher price, there is no chance for us to make a profit out of the venture.

"Since then the hotel men of Boston complain of the increased competition from clubs and the Chamber of Commerce in your city, all of which is not encouraging to one contemplating the investing of ten to twelve millions of dollars in an industry in your community.

"Your letter states that the secretary of the Building Trades Employers' Association claims there is a reduction of approximately 10 per cent in cost of building material in your city.

"I shall at once ask our architects to get new bids on our Boston house; these will, when received, prove whether there has been sufficient reduction in costs to justify us in giving consideration to going ahead with this project or not."

PROPOSES METROPOLITAN DISTRICT COMMISSION FOR BOSTON ELEVATED ROAD AFFAIRS.

MAYOR CURLEY SUBMITS BRIEF TO JOINT LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING SYSTEM WITH A VIEW TO FIVE-CENT FARE.

Mayor Curley submitted the following brief on Wednesday, December 3, to the joint legislative committee investigating the Boston Elevated Railway Company:

The question of adequate street railroad transportation in the case of Boston and the surrounding cities and towns within a radius of fifteen miles, due to the hostility to the project for a greater Boston, should be considered from the standpoint of present and future needs in what is commonly called the metropolitan district.

The cost of providing sewerage works, water supply, and park systems in this great territory is assessed upon the cities and towns included within what is commonly known as the metropolitan district.

Adequate water supply, sewerage system and park system have long been accepted as absolute essentials to the health and well-being of the people. This belief is based on the knowledge that all three of these essentials are requisite to the health of all the people. Yet it is accepted that the only method by which the people can enjoy the benefits resulting from all three is through the creation of a metropolitan district system which after all is simply a greater city by another name.

Realizing the hostility, largely political in character, due in part to the desire for the retention of local autonomy, which is responsible for the failure to create a Greater Boston, I nevertheless unhesitatingly favor the taking over and operation of all street car systems within the metropolitan district.

I favor this project because in my opinion adequate street railroad transportation is today as essential as water, sewerage and public parks. There is a menace not only to the large retail and manufacturing establishments in the cities and towns of the metropolitan district but there is in addition that which constitutes confiscation of the dividends of a lifetime of toil and thrift on the part of the worker who awakens to find that the street railway system which transfers him from his home to the place where he earns his livelihood has been abandoned because it did not prove a profitable investment for the owners of some particular street railroad enterprise.

This condition has arisen in many of the cities and towns of Massachusetts where during the past ten years nearly 400 miles of street railroad system has been abandoned and scrapped. It will be argued that the citizen has the privilege of purchasing a motor vehicle but the motor vehicle itself has been one of the real detriments to the prosperity of the street railroad systems.

At the present time in Massachusetts nearly 500,000 pleasure vehicles are in operation. Allowing that each motor vehicle represents a transportation of four persons they would in the aggregate represent the withdrawal from street railway transportation of about 2,000,000 possible car riders each day and even a limited portion of this number would represent the difference between profitable and unprofitable operation of a street railway system.

The so-called Public Control Act of 1918 contained in substance that which is now advocated, namely, that if in any given year the receipts were insufficient to cover the cost of operation the deficit should be levied against the cities and towns within the territory served by the street railway system and this is identically the proposition which in my opinion should now be considered in the larger territory. It is needless to discuss the causes responsible for the wrecking of the Boston Elevated Street Railway System.

The failure to provide adequate depreciation funds, the failure to recognize the inroads made into receipts through the advent of motor vehicles, coupled with the rising cost of everything, including labor, during the period of the World War made necessary for the preservation of property values, for the protection of business and for the welfare of the public a radical departure in the case of street railroad transportation operation.

There is no way in which to justify turning back to stock jobbers and speculators and a few honest stockholders a property the stock of which in 1917 sold in the open market for less than $30 per share and the intrinsic value of which if sold under the red flag would probably have represented less than $5 per share, a property upon which the public through increased fares have expended many millions of dollars and upon which the cities and towns through the system of levy authorized by the 1918 Public Control Act expended approximately four millions of dollars and upon which sum there is still due the cities and towns served by the Boston Elevated Railway System a total of about $2,300,000.

If we recognize adequate street railway transportation as an absolute essential in the metropolitan district there can be no valid objection raised to the operation of such system by a Metropolitan Transportation District Commission with authority to determine the rate of fares that shall be charged, the method of financing and the other allied problems contingent to the proper operation of a street railway system.

Personally I believe that a five-cent fare locally in each city and town of the metropolitan district with a graduated fare on the high speed lines sufficient to cover fixed charges and higher operating expenses is equitable, and due to the increased number of car riders should prove profitable. In the event that the Metropolitan Transportation District Commission as here proposed should in any year encounter a deficit I favor an assessment upon such portions of the metropolitan district as are served by the street railroad transportation system so established upon the basis of population and valuation.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

MAYOR CURLEY CALLS FOR CONFERENCE OF CITY AND TOWN OFFICIALS ON PHONE RATES.

Mayor Curley, on December 4, sent the following letter to the mayors of all cities and the chairmen of all boards of selectmen of towns in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

DEAR SIR,—The City of Boston, through its Corporation Counsel, E. Mark Sullivan, has been combatting the increases requested by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company during the past year. The city government of Boston has appropriated the sum of $20,000 for the prosecution of this work.

The rate increase petitions, for the combatting of which this money had been appropriated, were minor in their importance as contrasted with the schedule of rates filed upon December 1 by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company. The action of the city in opposing the original rate increases by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company was predicated upon the belief that the State Public Utilities Commission was responsive only to the desires of the public service corporations operating in the Commonwealth.

The attitude of the Public Utilities Commission of the Commonwealth during the progress of the hearings upon the request for increase in rates filed by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company early in the year has been decidedly hostile to those protesting in behalf of the people against the proposed increases. The case has assumed, as a consequence of the increased rates now demanded, such proportions as to render it both advisable and necessary that the officials of every city and town join together for the protection of the telephone users of the Commonwealth.

A meeting will be held for the purpose of organization and determination of a course of action with respect to petitions for increases that have been filed by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company at the Council Chamber, City Hall, Boston, upon Monday, December 8, at 12 noon.

Trusting you will find it possible to attend or send a representative to this meeting, I beg to remain,

Respectfully yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Upon December 1 the Mayor approved a decision to purchase hay for the various city departments in the open market. A communication from Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department was as follows:

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—Attached please find list of bids for furnishing grain to the various city departments during December, 1924, which were publicly opened and read on November 28, 1924. No bids were called for this month on hay because of misunderstanding among the several dealers as to the new federal grades on hay, and I deem it advisable to purchase hay this month in the open market. I have instructed Mr. Dunn, who is the New England federal inspector on hay and grain, to purchase hay for one month in the open market in order that dealers may familiarize themselves with the new federal gradings on hay.

Trusting that this meets with your approval, I am,

Yours respectfully,

FRANK P. ROCK,
Superintendent of Supplies.

* Awarded contracts.

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do the work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

Upon November 13 the Mayor approved a contract with the C. & R. Construction Company for building water pipe platform and blocking on Blakemore Street Bridge. A communication from Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

BOSTON, November 12, 1924.

To the Mayor of Boston:

Authority is respectfully requested to the award of a contract for building water pipe platform and blocking 12-inch water pipe on Blakemore Street Bridge, Mt. Hope district, West Roxbury, to the C. & R. Construction Company, 67 Harrison street, West Roxbury, without inviting proposals by advertisement, at an estimated cost of $710.

This authority is requested for the reason that the work to be done requires a man experienced in bridge carpentering as well as pipe laying, as in addition to furnishing and replacing stringers, flooring, etc., the 12-inch pipe will have to be realigned, calked, etc. And inasmuch as it is imperative that this work be done with all possible speed, the award of the contract to the C. & R. Construction Company will be for the best interest of the city.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

MILITARY AID IN SOLVING BOSTON'S TRAFFIC PROBLEMS DENIED BY WAR DEPARTMENT.

Mayor Curley on November 28 received the following communication from Gen. J. D. Barrette, Commanding Headquarters First Corps Area, Boston:

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

MY DEAR MR. CURLEY,—On receipt of your letter of October 9 requesting a survey and study by officers of the Corps of Engineers as to ways and means of improving traffic conditions in Boston, we forwarded the letter to the Adjutant General for the action of the Secretary of War, recommending favorable consideration.

I am just in receipt of a letter from the Adjutant General stating that the Secretary of War has given your request careful consideration but that he is unable to give his approval due to the very clear decision of the Comptroller General to the effect that, unless especially authorized by law, the assignment of officers to any duty not strictly of a military nature is unlawful and operates to deprive the personnel so assigned of the pay and emoluments of the grade which they hold.

The Secretary of War further states that he recognizes the very difficult traffic problems confronting the City of Boston and regrets his inability to lend the aid requested.

I would like to add my own sincere regret that we are unable to assist you in the important matter under consideration.

I am, with greatest respect,

Very sincerely yours,

J. D. BARRETTE,
Brigadier General, U. S. Army,
Commanding.

(3) Substitution of lime stone in place of cast stone, $13,000; (4) Substitution of insulate floors instead of linoleum floors, $400; (6) Flax-or-crete for top surfacing of structural slabs in place of concrete, $3,200; (7) The use of Campbell sash throughout the building $8,000. The building is in such a condition as to constitute a fire menace and a nuisance.

DORCHESTER TUNNEL EXTENSION WORK STARTED WITH SIMPLE EXERCISES.

THOUSAND MEN, UNEMPLOYED, EAGERLY WATCH PROCEEDINGS IN HOPE OF BEING EMPLOYED—THE MAYOR DEEPLY IMPRESSED BY SERIOUSNESS OF SITUATION.

Simple and brief were the exercises on Wednesday morning, December 3, at the beginning of the Dorchester Tunnel extension, corner of Boston and Ralston streets. The Mayor wielded the silver spade which loosened the first bit of earth, thus marking the beginning of actual construction under the contract held by Coleman Brothers, Inc.

Mayor Curley had said that at least a thousand men were looking for jobs on this important link in the tunnel extension, but that only a very small number could be taken on.

It was a happy day for the Dorchester Board of Trade, and for Charles A. Ufford, in particular. Last August the Mayor honored Mr. Ufford, in recognition of his services in securing the latest rapid transit plan, inviting him to accept the quill with which he had signed the bill.

The Mayor at the exercises declared that the one man responsible for keeping up the agitation in Dorchester's interest was Mr. Ufford, "a mild and modest man, though a very talkative man, with supreme ability, hastened the day when the rapid transit system in this section would be complete."

Fifty members of the Dorchester Board of Trade were present, also the Transit Commissioner, representatives of the United Improvement Association, officials of the Boston Elevated system, senators and representatives from the district and officials from City Hall.

These men were gathered about a platform decorated with the American flag.

Colonel Thomas F. Sullivan, chairman of the Transit Commission, made the opening speech, in which he expressed pride that his department was able to take so large part in the greatest transportation feat in the history of Boston. He gave credit to Mayor Curley for stimulating the agitation of the scheme and finally making it possible to begin the extension at this time.

The Mayor expressed his pleasure that the long-delayed relief for Dorchester was so far toward completion, and it was a pleasure for him officially to start operations and "to proclaim to the whole world that Boston is alive to its responsibilities and prepared to assume them, regardless of cost."

Then the Mayor and other officials stepped from the platform to the small space cleared of paving blocks, near the center of the street, where the first earth was to be removed. The Mayor took the silver spade handed him by Colonel Sullivan, and performed his duty.

Then followed Mr. Ufford in similar ceremony, the Transit Commission, Dorchester Board of Trade members and the South Boston and Dorchester legislators. There were pictures taken and the exercises were over.

DENIS A. MCCARTHY TO WRITE ANNIVERSARY POEM.

Denis A. McCarthy has accepted the invitation of the Mayor to write a poem in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of Lexington and Concord, and other historic events.

LAND-TAKING IN HYDE PARK.

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners for the taking of land for sewerage works to be constructed as follows:

The right and easement is taken to lay and maintain sewerage works in the following described lands, exclusive of any interest in trees, buildings or other structures standing thereon, reserving to the owners thereof the right to use the lands for any purpose except such as may injure or obstruct said works, and except for placing or maintaining any structure on said lands not authorized in writing by the Mayor of said city; trees, buildings or other structures standing upon or affixed to the land in which an easement is hereby taken are to be removed therefrom within sixty days following a notice of the city's intention to enter upon said taking for the purpose of constructing said sewerage works. Said lands are in that part of Boston formerly Hyde Park and are bounded as follows:

A parcel of land, owners unknown, being part of the private way known as Water street, bounded: Southeast by Cottage street, eight and 66-100 feet; southwest by another part of Water street, fifty-one and 91-100 feet; northwest by land hereinafter described as taken from the City of Boston, eight and 65-100 feet; and northeast by another part of Water street, forty-three and 27-100 feet; containing three hundred and forty-six square feet, more or less.

A parcel of land, supposed to belong to City of Boston, bounded: Southwest by other land of said city, eight and 61-100 feet; northwest by the same, one hundred fifty-three and 76-100 feet; northeast by land hereinafter described as taken from owners unknown (Water street) eight and 54-100 feet; and southeast by Water street, one hundred fifty-three and 84-100 feet; containing twelve hundred and thirty square feet, more or less.

A parcel of land, owners unknown, being part of the private way known as Water street, bounded: Southwest by land hereinbefore described as taken from City of Boston, eight and 54-100 feet; northwest by another part of Water street, by two measurements, two hundred sixty-seven and 73-100 feet and one hundred forty-eight and 5-100 feet; northeast by easement taken by the City of Boston for sewerage purposes July 31, 1916, eight and 17-100 feet; and southeast by another part of Water street and by the southeasterly line of Water street, by two measurements, one hundred forty-five and 93-100 feet and two hundred sixty-nine and 94-100 feet; containing thirty-three hundred and twenty-seven square feet, more or less.

The sewerage works to be constructed are as follows: 620 linear feet of 12-inch pipe sanitary sewer, in the above described premises, being part of the private way known as Water street and private land, between Cottage street and Glenwood avenue.

Betterments are to be assessed for the making of the improvement herein ordered.

This Board determines that no person sustains damages in his estate by the taking of the aforesaid easement and construction of said sewerage works and awards no damages therefor.

Ordered, That this Board estimates that the lots of abutting land on the southeasterly side of Water street, at the corner of Tyler street, will receive benefit or advantage, beyond the general advantage to the community, from the improvement ordered herein, each of the particular lots to the amount hereinafter respectfully set against it; said lots and the supposed owners thereof being shown on a plan marked "City of Boston, Plan No. 587, Sewerage Works, Water Street, Hyde Park, October 4, 1924, William J. Sullivan, Chief Engineer, Street Laying-Out Department," and on file in the office of said department.

EXTENSION OF CONTRACTS.

Martino DeMatteo has been granted an extension of the time of completion of the contract for building sewerage works in Hallowell street, between Oakland and Newcastle streets, and outlet in private land from Favre street to Hallowell street, Dorchester, from August 12, 1924, to September 23, 1924, forty-two days. This extension of time is in addition to a previous extension dated July 23, 1924, making a total of fifty-nine days, and is occasioned by the fact that 80 linear feet of 10-inch pipe sewer was added to the contract, requiring an additional taking for sewerage purposes in Hallowell street, which was not recorded until September 20, 1924.

P. J. Dinn & Co. have been granted an extension of the time of completion of the contract for constructing a gas pipe fence on Everett street (easterly side), Brighton, at southerly approach to bridge over Boston & Albany Railroad, from November 1, 1924, to December 1, 1924.

V. Barletta has been granted an extension of the time of completion of contract for building sewerage works for Dorchester brook sewer, east fork, in Humphreys street, from Holden street to Dudley street, Dorchester, from November 15, 1924, to May 1, 1925, 166 days. This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that the proximity of freezing weather makes it undesirable to do the type of work remaining to be done, viz., laying of artificial sidewalks and setting edgestones, until the trenches have settled properly and the open weather is again at hand.

CIVIL ENGINEERS, DECEMBER 15-20, 1924. THESE EXAMINATIONS ARE FOR THE SERVICE OF THE STATE, ALL CITIES, AND SUCH TOWNS AS ARE CLASSIFIED UNDER CIVIL SERVICE.

Warning.—Many men fail in the civil engineering examination because they apply for grades for which they are not qualified. It is advisable, therefore, if there is any doubt about the quantity or quality of your experience, to take both the grade for which you think you are qualified and the next lower grade. If you should be found ineligible for the higher grade, you will still have an opportunity to be placed on the next lower grade.

Grade A.

Engineering assistants, drafting assistants, and rodmen, who perform under instruction and supervision elementary or apprentice work in the field or office.

Qualifications.—Applicants must have completed a high school course of not less than three years or must have had not less than one year of practical experience in field engineering or office work.

If appointed otherwise than by promotion from Grade A, at least two years of practical experience in engineering work of Grade A character and standard; or such training in civil engineering as is evidenced by a professional degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction at an institution or college of recognized standing; or the successful completion of not less than two years' study in such institution plus one year's practical experience in engineering work.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade C, if the salary is more than $2,580 a year.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion within a department or major division thereof, not less than two years of service in Grade B, or if appointed otherwise than by promotion from Grade B, within a department or major division thereof, at least five years of practical experience in engineering work, at least one half of which shall have been appropriate to the particular branch of engineering work covered by the position, provided that a degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction by an engineering school of recognized standing shall be accepted as the equivalent of three years practical experience.

TO LECTURE ON MUSIC OF ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH.

Boston music lovers will be glad to learn that Mr. Henry Gideon, the well-known musical lecturer, will give a talk on the "Music of the Roman Catholic Church" in the Lecture Hall of the Boston Public Library on Sunday afternoon, December 7, at 5.30 p. m. to which the public is cordially invited.

It is, perhaps, not generally known that Mr. Gideon, who was for two years organist and choirmaster of one of the largest Catholic churches in Greater Boston, has studied the musical traditions of the Roman Catholic Church at the Institut Catholique in Paris and that he assisted four of the papal singers in a concert of sacred music at Rome on the Feast of the Assumption.

The talk will be accompanied by adequate musical illustrations and will form an excellent background and preparation for the concert to be given in Symphony Hall on the evening of December 16 by the Roman choir, consisting of mastersingers of the Roman basilicas and the Sistine Chapel, to which the musical public of Boston is looking forward with keen expectation.

MASSACHUSETTS BAY COLONY.

The first chartered colony in New England, charter granted by Charles I on March 4, 1629. About a year before, a patent had been granted to six prominent men of Dorchester, west of England, among whom was Capt. John Endicott. He sailed in June, 1628, with a party of 50 or 60 persons, arriving in September and settling at Naumkeag, afterward named Salem. In the spring of 1629, the Bay Company fitted out three ships conveying about 400 persons and arriving at Salem in June. Endicott sent a small party to effect a settlement on the Bay in Mishawum, afterward named by the settlers Charlestown, the first town in New England to assume the town polity, Plymouth and Salem being governed by a Governor and Council. Endicott was appointed in London as the first resident Governor on April 30, 1629. The Massachusetts Bay Company was reorganized in London on Oct. 20, 1629, when John Winthrop was chosen as Governor. He arrived at Salem on June 12, 1630, soon proceeded to Charlestown with a large following, and finding that place unsuitable, finally settled in Boston. Winthrop served thirteen years as Governor in four different periods ending in 1649 and Endicott 15 years at various times ending in 1665. Other governors were Thomas Dudley, Richard Bellingham, John Haynes, Henry Vane, John Leverett and Simon Bradstreet, the latter serving 12 years until 1692 when the Bay Colony and the Plymouth Colony were merged, becoming the Royal Province of Massachusetts Bay, which existed 82 years to 1774, the governors being appointed by the King.

VETO OF NOONAN ANNUITY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, November 12, 1924.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, order of your honorable body adopted under date of October 27, 1924, providing for an annuity of $600 for the widow of John A. Noonan, former member of the Boston Fire Department.

It does not appear from the report of the Fire Commissioner that this man's death resulted from injuries received in the performance of his duties.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Fire Department, November 7, 1924.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir,—I return herewith an order of the City Council for an annuity of $600 to be paid to the widow of John A. Noonan, a former member of the Boston Fire Department. Below I submit a copy of a report received from the medical examiner of this department:

"I respectfully report that John A. Noonan was retired from this department on February 7, 1919. I have a medical certificate at hand, signed by Dr. E. Granville Crabtree, stating that John A. Noonan died on July 6, 1922, following an operation on June 23, 1922, for renal calculus (stone in the kidney) and that he had symptoms of that trouble about two years prior to his death. The doctor further stated that another material fact relating to the cause of his death was 'suppression of urine in the remaining normal kidney following etherization.'"

It appears from the above report that Lieutenant Noonan was pensioned on February 7, 1919, and died on July 6, 1922, following an operation. The report further states that the symptoms of the trouble which caused Lieutenant Noonan's death did not appear until two years before his death which was some time after his retirement.

Yours very truly,

THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Fire Commissioner.

Placed on file.

APPROPRIATION FROM PARKMAN FUND.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, November 24, 1924.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit herewith recommendation of the chairman of the Park Commission for the purchase of road machinery and respectfully recommend the adoption of the accompanying order, same to be charged to the Parkman Fund.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of $10,000 be and the same hereby is appropriated from the income of the Parkman Fund to be expended under the direction of the Park Commission, for the maintenance and improvement of the Common and parks in existence on January 12, 1887, as follows:

Boston Common, etc., maintenance equipment, $10,000.

City of Boston,

Park Department, November 24, 1924.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir,—By vote of the Board of Park

Commissioners you are respectfully requested to ask the City Council to appropriate from the Parkman Fund the sum of $10,000 of the amount which is now available for the following purposes:

One 10-ton Holt caterpillar tractor, $7,500; one rotary snow plow, $2,500.

The reason for this request is that the permanent pavements on Boston Common, Franklin Park, park roads and boulevards that were in existence in 1887, require the services of a caterpillar tractor to remove the snow. Investigation has shown us that the Holt tractor is the only one that is capable of doing this work properly and economically.

The reason for the rotary snow plow is that this plow has been successfully used in the park system in Minneapolis. It is rapid, economical and the only plow of this type that will work with the Holt tractor and do the work required by this department.

Yours respectfully,

JAMES B. SHEA,
Chairman.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

APPROPRIATION FOR ENGINE 40.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, November 24, 1924.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit herewith request of the Fire Commissioner for a transfer in the sum of $4,000 from the appropriation for Fire Station, Engine No. 81, Improvements, etc., to the appropriation for Engine No. 40, New Building. The request for this additional money is made necessary owing to the fact that additional piling and concrete for foundation are required and I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Fire Department, November 14, 1924.
Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir,—I respectfully request that $4,000 be transferred from the loan for Fire Station, Engine 81, Improvements, etc., to special loan for Engine 40, New Building.

The reason for this transfer is for extra work necessary under the contract of John B. Dolan, general contractor, dated October 6, 1923, for removing old pile capping and old foundation walls in order to drive new piles. These walls were below the cut-off grade of the new piles and nobody had any information that they were there.

Yours very truly,

THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Fire Commissioner.

Ordered, That under authority of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 the City Auditor be and hereby is authorized to transfer:

From the appropriation for Fire Station, Engine No. 31, Improvements, etc., $4,000, to the appropriation for Engine No. 40, New Building, $4,000.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

POLICE HEADQUARTERS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, November 24, 1924.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—The Acting Superintendent of Public Buildings has submitted a request for an increase in appropriation for Police Headquarters Building to be located at Stuart, Stanhope and Berkeley streets, in the sum of $50,000.

I beg to say in connection with this request that this work was advertised twice with a view to securing a bid which would make possible the completion of the work within the amount allotted by the legislative enactment. The present lowest bid, while considerably below the first lowest legitimate bid received, nevertheless represents a sum in excess of the amount available. Consequently, I respectfully recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of $50,000 be and the same is hereby appropriated from Special Fund, Civilian War Poll Tax Refund for Police Headquarters.

City of Boston,
Public Buildings Department,
November 24, 1924.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir,—I wish to advise you of the following facts pertaining to the proposed Police Headquarters Building located at Stuart, Stanhope and Berkeley streets, total appropriation being $1,000,000.

Site	$377,765 00
Low bid	588,410 00
Alternate, limestone	13,000 00
Alternate, insulate	400 00
Alternate, Flex-or-crete	3,200 00
Alternate, Campbell sash	8,000 00
Lighting fixtures	5,000 00
Architects' commission	37,082 40
Incidentals	2,102 08
Total	$1,034,989 48

In explanation of the foregoing alternates, I wish to say that the $13,000 amount is the substitution of limestone made over precast concrete stone to give a more architectural appearance to the building. The $8,000 Campbell sash is intended to include metal sash and frame to insure a more fireproof building. The $3,200 Flex-or-crete figure is used to avoid wood slabs where wood floors are used throughout the building.

You will observe by this statement, that there would be a deficit of $34,989.48 taking into consideration the lowest bid received. In as much as it is illegal to award a contract in excess of the appropriation, it will be impossible to make a move in the premises unless a further appropriation is made. I would suggest $50,000 as the least possible figure to give the department any degree of latitude.

In connection with this whole affair, I wish to say that when this appropriation was made it was understood that the site would be on Pemberton square and that there would be little or none of this money utilized to purchase land. Because of the fact that we purchased a site, the architects were obliged to reduce the size of the building and in calling for bids, incorporated several alternates in an attempt to keep within the appropriation.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN H. MAHONY,
Acting Superintendent of Public Buildings.
Referred to the Executive Committee.

SEPARATION OF INSTITUTIONS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, November 24, 1924.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—Under chapter 7 of the Ordinances of 1920 the Institutions Department was established; section 1 of chapter 7 of the Ordinances of 1920 provided that the Penal Institutions Department, the Boston Infirmary Department, the Children's Institutions Department and the Institutions Registration Department, be abolished and that all the rights, duties and obligations of the said departments be thereafter exercised and performed by the Institutions Department, as established by the Special Acts of 1919, chapter 222.

Section 2 of chapter 7 of the Ordinances of 1920 further provided that the Institutions Department thus created, should be under the supervision and control of a commissioner, to be known as the Commissioner of Institutions.

I have always believed it to be most unfortunate that the chronic sick, the aged poor and neglected children should be subject to the control of the commissioner having at the same time the custody and care of persons sentenced for the commission of crime. It has been my purpose that this deplorable condition be ended and with that object in view, for more than two years negotiations have been conducted for the purpose of acquiring the property formerly known as the Elks' Hospital property at Parker Hill, Roxbury. It has taken nearly two years to acquire title but this, happily, at last, has been done and it is my purpose in the event that the ordinance here submitted is adopted, to recommend to the City Council in January an appropriation in the sum of $1,000,000 with the debt limit for the erection of a chronic hospital, with such suitable quarters as may be necessary for nurses, orderlies, internes, physicians and surgeons, at Parker Hill.

Upon the completion of this institution it will be possible not only to transfer the chronic sick from the institution at Long Island but to provide treatment in future for the chronic sick in a section of the city where the opportunities for medical and surgical service of the highest character may be found.

It is my purpose, in addition, with the aid of the City Council, upon the abandonment of the West Roxbury institution by the federal government to transfer the aged poor from Long Island to West Roxbury.

The initial step in the program is represented today by the amendments to ordinances as here proposed and which I sincerely trust the City Council, in its wisdom, will approve.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston.

In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-four.

An Ordinance concerning the Institutions Department.

Section 2. The Institutions Commissioner shall continue to be the executive and administrative head of the department at an annual salary of seventy-five hundred dollars and may reorganize said department as he may find necessary for its proper conduct.

Section 3. The Institutions Commissioner shall, after the appointment and qualification of the Penal Institutions Commissioner, have no further control of either Deer Island or the House of Correction at Deer Island.

REPORT OF TRIAL BOARD.

A communication was received from the Trial Board, under date of Nov. 17, 1924, to whom was referred at the meeting of Nov. 3, 1924 (see p. 237), a communication from the Schoolhouse Custodian preferring charges of neglect of duty against William J. Gallagher, custodian, Wait School-house, reporting that a hearing was held on Nov. 8, 1924, which was attended by the custodian concerned and by the Schoolhouse Custodian.

The Trial Board finds that the charges of the Schoolhouse Custodian are sustained inasmuch as Mr. Gallagher left the school building on the morning of Oct. 29, 1924, at 8:10 o'clock A. M., and sent no message of any kind to the Schoolhouse Custodian.

The Trial Board is convinced that Mr. Gallagher is lacking in a sense of appreciation of the duties imposed upon him as custodian of a school building, and finds him delinquent in that he did not make any effort to communicate with the Schoolhouse Custodian, either on the morning on which the incident occurred or at any time since.

FINDING—That the custodian is guilty of the charges preferred against him in leaving the building on Oct. 29, 1924, without sending proper notification to the Schoolhouse Custodian.

RECOMMENDATION—(a) That the custodian be not permitted to resume work until the Schoolhouse Custodian is satisfied that he is physically fit; (b) that he be severely reprimanded for his failure to comply with the established regulations governing attendance at school buildings and notification in advance of absence to the Schoolhouse Custodian; (c) that he be not considered eligible for promotion during the current school year, and (d) that he be notified that a repetition of the charges against him, if sustained, will cause the Trial Board to recommend that the School Committee consider whether or not he is a proper person to continue in its employ.

Placed on file, and the recommendation adopted.

Scollard, Chairman, Conference Committee, Boston Teachers Club, under date of Nov. 14, 1924, reporting that at a recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the Club the Conference Committee was directed to present to the School Committee the following request: That in all cases of dismissal from service, suspension, or enforced leave of absence to teachers, the minutes printed for distribution shall include only the record of the aforesaid action and not the accusation which constrained the School Committee to such action.

Census of 1910, but the number actually admitted was 243,953, or 68.3 per cent of legal quota. The total of immigrant aliens admitted in year ending June 30, 1921, was 805,228, or 87.3 per cent more than in year preceding and 448,233 in excess of the said limit for 1921-22.

POPULATION (ESTIMATED) OF BOSTON POSTAL DISTRICT.

The Supt. of Mails, Boston Post Office, maintains a system of mail delivery whereby the Boston Postal District, consisting of 12 cities (not including Lynn and Woburn) and 11 towns, covering about 231 square miles of territory, is divided into 74 delivery districts, each having a mail station. They extend northerly as far as to include Stoneham, easterly including Winthrop, southerly including South Weymouth and westerly including Wellesley, all being situated in the Metropolitan District or "Greater Boston" and mostly within 10 miles of State House.

Population of Boston Postal District estimated as 1,885,829 in July, 1922, and of these separate delivery districts in Boston as follows: Allston, 18,811; Back Bay, 65,608; Grove Hall, 43,018; Hanover St., 30,000; Jamaica Plain, 37,850; Roslindale, 19,989; Roxbury Crossing, 52,275; Station A, 91,943; Upham's Corner, 49,896. These are minor districts (not all that the City contains) and do not correspond with the geographical districts.

PUBLIC CONTROL OF BOSTON ELEVATED RAILWAY.

By Chapter 159, Special Acts of 1918, a State board of five trustees was created to assume control of the Elevated Railway Co. for the term of 10 years, the need being imperative to improve its unfortunate condition and impaired service in the interest of a very large traveling public. Regular dividends were continued and the raising of $3,000,000 of new capital was provided for by the issue and sale of preferred stock. It was also provided that if the income should be insufficient to meet the cost of service and the reserve fund proved inadequate, any deficit should be paid by the State and assessed upon the cities and towns in which the railway was operated. The fare was raised from 5 cents to 7, then to 8 and again to 10. The total deficit for year ending June 30, 1919, was $4,980,152, which was covered by extra taxation, as ordered, Boston paying $2,905,931 or 71.9 per cent of total levy. According to the said act of 1918, the cities and towns were to be reimbursed for assessments paid by them as soon as the financial condition of the Elevated Co. permitted.

By Chapter 369, General Acts of 1919, the purchase by the State from the Elevated Co. of the Cambridge Subway was ordered as an emergency law, the capital thus made available being needed by the trustees. The property was conveyed to the State May 1, 1920, on payment of $7,868,000 and 4½ per cent of this cost is payable by the B. E. Co. annually for rental.

The report of the Trustees of B. E. Railway Co. for year 1920 showed a notable financial improvement as compared with 1919, the cost of service exceeding receipts by $347,167 or only one-seventh of the deficit in 1919.

The Trustees' report for 1921 showed total receipts for that year of $33,277,026, exceeding the total cost of service, depreciation, debt requirements and dividends by $1,171,445. This surplus permitted certain reimbursements in 1922, Boston receiving $372,035 or 12.8 per cent of the assessment paid in 1919. Under the act of 1918, the general 10-cent fare cannot be reduced until all reimbursements are completed. On June 10, 1922, the consolidation of the West End Street Railway Co. with the Boston Elevated Co. went into effect, as provided by Acts of 1911, Chap. 740, the lease to the Elevated not expiring until the said date.

The work of the decennial census, formerly done by Bureau of Statistics, was placed in charge of Dept. of the Secretary; that of forestry, fisheries and game and animal industry went to Dept. of Conservation; of Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, Minimum Wage Commission, the divisions of Bureau of Statistics concerned with labor and manufacturers, also public employment offices, etc., to Dept. of Labor and Industries; of State Board of Charity, Homestead Commission, trustees of State Infirmary and State Farm, etc., to Dept. of Public Welfare; of District Police, with building and boiler inspection, etc., also Fire Prevention Commissioner, to Dept. of Public Safety; of Mass. This reorganization went into effect Dec. 1, 1919, the appointment of the 64 new officials required having been made by the Governor in November. VOL. 16.

No. 50

AUDIENCES OF 100,000 TO 200,000 CAN NOW ENJOY EXERCISES ON COMMON.

NEW LOUD SPEAKING SET INSTALLED AT PARKMAN BANDSTAND PROVIDES WONDERFUL CONVENIENCE FOR BENEFIT OF PUBLIC, DUE TO MAYOR CURLEY'S THOUGHTFULNESS.

PARKMAN BANDSTAND, SHOWING AMPLIFYING HORNS PLACED ABOUT ROOF.

RADIO AMPLIFYING POWER STATION IN OPERATION BENEATH THE STAND ON BOSTON COMMON.

BOSTON'S OPEN-AIR AUDITORIUM AT PARKMAN BANDSTAND NOW RANKS WITH BEST IN COUNTRY.

Boston can now boast of as huge an out-door auditorium as any city in the country, since audiences of from 100,000 to 200,000 persons can hear any exercises being held at the Parkman Bandstand on the Common.

In the old days when the Parkman Bandstand had some particularly interesting attraction in the way of speakers or music, only 5,000 persons could have the fun of knowing what was going on.

Now it is all changed. The city has installed amplifiers with loud speakers on the roof which will carry the strains of a band concert or the words of an oration to a crowd of 100,000 to 200,000. There are twelve horns which carry the sound in all directions.

Down in the underground part of the bandstand, beneath the floor, where you have probably never been, or even thought of, there are enough tubes and bulbs and dials and things to make the heart of the wildest and woolliest radio fan dilate with joy.

This set is known as the Western Electric Public Address System No. 1. There is a similar set in Madison Square Garden, New York City, and the largest cities throughout the country are installing such instruments. Boston has one of the largest and latest models.

The new apparatus works in three different ways. It will cast the voice of a speaker or a band in the grandstand itself to the audience. Secondly, it will pick up a station in another city directly. Thirdly, it can hitch up by means of a telephone to a nearby receiving set.

The radio has been tried out and it is entirely successful. The public will not have a chance to hear concerts on the Common until Christmas Eve, when there will be carols and mass singing by the audience, with band accompaniment. The official lighting of the Christmas tree, which is now being erected by the Park Department, will be followed by a performance of the Nativity pageant as arranged by the community service under the direction of Mrs. Eva W. White and Miss Joy Higgins. It will be presented on an elevated platform more than double the size of that used last year, permitting of added effects and special lighting.

AUTHORITY TO DO WORK.

The Mayor has approved the request of the Public Works Department for authority to employ labor of the Murray Engineering Company to assist the day labor force of the Bridge Service in making repairs to the face of the north drop, North Ferry, East Boston, without advertisement, the estimated cost for labor and material being $2,500.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,
Ensured by thy sons' and thy daughters' unselfish devotion!"

[From Boston Centennial Poem by

EXTOLS FAITH AND GOOD WORKS AS BEST PREPARATION FOR DEPARTING LIFE.

MAYOR CURLEY DELIVERS BRILLIANT ADDRESS BEFORE WORCESTER LODGE OF ELKS AT MEMORIAL EXERCISES.

Mayor Curley of Boston speaking on December 7 at the memorial exercises of the Worcester Lodge of Elks, Elks' Auditorium, Worcester, said in part:

This beautiful custom of paying tribute to our honored dead is today observed by the brethren of our Order wherever a Lodge of Elks is established.

It is a day of meditation and prayer when the living and dead are in closer communion and when the spirit of love replaces human selfishness.

It gives comfort to the afflicted, cheer to the weary and hope to all who walk in the vale of tears or the shadow of adversity.

Upon this day the Star of Hope illumines with greater brightness the hearts of all and through it all there comes a realization of what we owe to those whose vision made possible the discharge of an obligation by the living to those who have passed to the Great Beyond.

Upon this day we perhaps for the first time realize the emptiness of constant striving for material ends and the tragedy of a life into which the spirit of love and kindness has never been permitted to enter. Those lines from Gray's "Elegy in a Country Churchyard" upon this day have a new meaning for us:

"The boast of heraldry,
The pomp of power,
And all that beauty, all that wealth e're gave,
Await alike the inevitable hour—
The paths of glory lead but to the grave."

Death, the great democrat, is never feared by him or her who scatter the seeds of human affection upon life's highway, for in the last hour consolation comes with the knowledge that faith and good works merit Divine favor.

Socrates, asked if he was prepared to die, answering "My life has been a preparation for death," points the way in which to live if one would forego in the last hours the fear of the hereafter.

The knowledge that we leave the world as helpless as we entered and that regardless of duration of life or eminence of station we take with us on departing either the dread of judgment for misdeeds or the consolation coming from a life worthily lived,—oh, how little heed we pay to this most important of all work!

Would that all upon this day could honestly open the halls of memory and greet without remorse or pang of conscience those whom in life they knew. The kind word unspoken, the helpful deed unperformed, the flowers fragrant of friendship and love withheld until life had fled, how the thought of these punish us this day.

To those who live worthily Memorial Day is a day of rejoicing for upon this day they are comforted and made happy by those whom in life they knew and loved.

How eagerly they throw open the portals of the halls of memory and live over once more each hour of a past that breathed only kindness, affection and love.

With these thoughts in mind we participate in this memorial ceremony with a certain chastened humility and affection, to recall the memory of kin and companion who have passed into eternity; to recount their graces, their virtues, their accomplishments and to restate the traits that endeared them to us in life and will not let us forget them in death. All we are and have, we owe to the past, to the fathers and mothers of the generations that once peopled the earth and toiled and builded that our lot might be less severe and our life be lived more happily and having finished their allotted tasks they have passed out of time into eternity.

Remembrance and honor should be theirs. Remembrance is the grace of heaven, but when God calls back the soul he created at birth we who remain must borrow some of the grace of heaven and keep the memory of our dead green and honored, and sweet as the odor of flowers, and so today we honor the memory of our dead brethren.

In honoring the memory of our brethren who have departed this life, to many of us who have suffered the loss of our dearest, most devoted and best friend, our mother, there comes a realization of the magnitude of the sacrifice made by the mothers of men in every age and every generation for the happiness and well-being of the human family.

That American genius, the poet of the Sierras, Joaquin Miller, has epitomized in his beautiful tribute to the mother of men the devotion and sacrifice, which they have made for mankind.

"The bravest battle that ever was fought;
Shall I tell you where and when?
On the maps of the world you will find it not;
It was fought by the mothers of men.

Nay, not with cannon or battle shot,
With sword or braver pen;
Nay, not with eloquent word or thought,
From mouths of wonderful men.

But deep in a woman's walled-up heart—
Of woman that would not yield,
But patiently, silently bore her part—
Lo! There in that battlefield.

No marshaling troop, no bivouac song;
No banners to gleam and wave;
And oh! These battles they last so long—
From babyhood to the grave!

Yet, faithful still as a bridge of stars,
She fights in her walled-up town—
Fights on and on in the endless wars,
Then silent, unseen—goes down."

Suffering and sadness have been the companions of motherhood from the beginning of time. They indeed have been the heroes, unsung it is true except in rare instances, but faithful at all times, seeking neither honor nor praise, content alone in the service rendered for the advancement and happiness of mankind.

Elkdom has chosen as the ideals for guidance of this great organization, charity, justice, brotherly love and fidelity. Through these ideals alone is it possible to combat and overcome that trinity of evils which have afflicted mankind from the beginning of time, poverty, disease and crime. Human selfishness has been responsible for the existence of these evils and human selfishness is the force that today brings a pang of regret to the heart of everyone attending these memorial exercises that has failed to live in accordance with the ideals upon which this organization is founded.

Through the practice of the greatest of all virtues, charity, the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, numbering nearly one million members in America, is today preaching and practicing the doctrine referred to by the poet Shakespeare in the words:

"To my virtues be most kind
To my faults a little blind."

With an appreciation for human weakness and frailty Elkdom writes the faults of a brother in the shifting sands of time, his virtues they inscribe upon the tablets of loving memory. This is the practical and Christian method applied by Elkdom to combat the spirit of human selfishness. In a material sense the spirit of charity is manifest in the aid extended to the less fortunate in every community where a lodge of Elks is established; in a larger sense in the hour of national crisis this splendid organization through its hospitalization work provided comfort to the afflicted, protection and aid to their dependents, and through unselfish and devoted service helped batter down the walls of hatred, greed and envy created by human selfishness from the beginning of time. Examples of brotherly love and fidelity of this character make for a better common understanding of duty to one's fellow man and responsibility to the creator of all, Almighty God.

This custom of pausing in the busy round of cares and irritation and responsibilities that seem to us monumental but that in reality are meaningless, this centering of our thoughts on things that are eternal, invariably impresses upon our minds and hearts the second Divine Commandment of the Great Nazarene, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

Let us as we go forth from these exercises today pledge ourselves as a duty that we owe to God and to our fellow man to strictly observe this Divine Commandment as through it alone can we hope to overcome the evils that afflict humanity, greed, envy, malice, hatred, poverty, disease and crime.

Through its observance the ideals of Elkdom, charity, justice, brotherly love and fidelity, will animate our every thought and act, will make our life better and the lot of all with whom we come in contact happier, and in the last hour render it possible for us to exemplify the thought and act so beautifully described by William Cullen Bryant in the closing lines of "Thanatopsis."

"So live, that when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan, which moves
To that mysterious realm, where each shall take

His chamber in the silent halls of death,
Thou go not, like the quarry-slave at night,
Scourged to his dungeon, but, sustained and soothed

By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave,
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams."

ALL STATE JOINS BOSTON IN PLANS TO PROTEST INCREASE IN TELEPHONE RATES.

FIFTY MAYORS AND SELECTMEN GATHER AT CITY HALL AT INVITATION OF MAYOR CURLEY AND MAKE PLANS FOR $50,000 PROBE OF PUBLIC SERVICE CORPORATION.

With unanimous purpose fifty mayors and selectmen of Massachusetts municipalities joined with Mayor Curley of Boston, Monday, December 8, and by vote passed in the Council Chamber of City Hall, indorsed a bill just drafted by the Boston Law Department, calling for an appropriation of $50,000 in order that the Public Utilities Commission may conduct a sweeping investigation of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, with respect to the rate advances requested.

The meeting had been called by Mayor Curley in the hope that a statewide fight might be organized. Though several of the largest cities ignored the invitation, and only a few of the 216 towns were represented, there was a general feeling that the movement would have the appeal desired.

Those who were present were enthusiastic, several of the speakers going so far as to express complete indorsement of all that Mayor Curley and Corporation Counsel E. Mark Sullivan had said. This approval was all the more striking, inasmuch as the Mayor and his chief law adviser differed in their estimate of the Public Service Commission's responsiveness to the public.

In calling the meeting to order Mayor Curley called attention to the Telephone Company's reserve of $40,000,000 and emphasized the point that the company had failed to establish its case to justify a further increase. "I appreciate the power represented by a reserve of $40,000,000," the Mayor asserted. "This power represents a nation-wide organization. I also realize that the same raid on the public purse is being made elsewhere. In the face of the general belief that the company has not established its case in the increased rates demanded for Boston, we are confronted with the situation of an attempt by huge sums of money to drug the public mind."

The Mayor then spoke of the campaign of the Telephone Company in its advertising, stating that at his home in Jamaica Plain he had received seven advertisements, though the registered voters there numbered but three. He charged that the company was attempting to bribe the newspapers, and he illustrated that point by holding up a Boston morning paper and pointing to an editorial on the telephone situation and an advertisement from the company on the same page.

The Mayor charged that the company "believes that if the channels of information can be prostituted the Public Service Commission can be depended upon to be servile." Furthermore, Mr. Curley declared that the cities and towns have a duty to perform to compel the company to establish its case, "regardless of what newspaper editors may publicly put on the auction block of the editorial or advertising columns of their papers."

Corporation Counsel E. Mark Sullivan remarked, as he began a resume of his efforts before the Public Utilities Commission in combating the Telephone Company's rate increase, that, if it was a splendid achievement for Governor Cox to reduce the state tax by $2,000,000, then the duty before the cities and towns to save the public an additional telephone burden of $13,000,000 "is measurably more important." He realized, he said, the importance of having the good will of the newspapers. He had read the editorial in question "with mingled emotions," saying that he was sorry for the paper itself and for the public.

As for what the Mayor of Boston had done in the telephone cases, he desired to say that every step had been marked by conservatism. At no time had he (Mr. Sullivan) presumed to say that the Telephone Company does not need increased revenue. "What I have said is that they have not proved their case," he declared. "One of the company's officials said to me within a week: 'Sullivan, I admit you're right.'"

Mr. Sullivan declared that the Public Utilities Commission is not adequately equipped to carry on an investigation of the Telephone Company; their hands are tied and they do not have the right kind of experts. If Boston had not gone into the case the only thing the Telephone Company would have had to do was to establish a pro forma case.

"In all I have done I thought I was too self-constrained, but I wanted to be fair," he continued. "The Mayor constantly said to me: 'We are not out to destroy the Telephone Company or any public service corporation; we don't want any more crippled New Havens or Elevated lines.'"

Mr. Sullivan desired to impress the thought on his hearers that on the decision of the Public Utilities Commission in this case will depend the decisions to be made in other states of New England. The thing that had outraged him most had been the refusal of the company to open its books. Last spring, Mr. Sullivan stated, when the company filed its petitions, it said the deficit for the year would amount to $1,100,000; but later said it would amount to $1,800,000. Today, word had come that it would amount to $2,225,000. "If that is so, why is the company justified in filing schedules that will result in an additional $10,000,000 or $13,000,000?" Mr. Sullivan asked.

Then the Corporation Counsel paid tribute to the Public Utilities Commission, but modified it by the statement that they "are creatures of their creators," meaning that these corporations furnish the candidates for the Board while the public is silent. He declared that the Board seeks the light, wishes for complete information and for a demonstration on the part of the public "that its voice may be raised above the noise of the publicity campaign."

Mr. Sullivan went into considerable detail in outlining the interest of the American Telephone Company in the New England Company, saying that the parent company is in control. The American Company also owns the Western Electric Company, he said, and has a 4½ per cent contract with the local company for telephone parts. He spoke of the annual charge of $2,200,000, or $2 per phone set, and remarked that the city had shown the company that a fair charge would be 50 cents per set and that a fair charge of the other service would be 45 cents.

Mayor Curley spoke of a bill that Mr. Sullivan had prepared for submission to the Legislature, asking for a general investigation of the company, and then spoke of what the city had done in securing five reductions from the Edison Company and four from the Boston Consolidated Gas Company, saying that "in not a single instance was a reduction made by the Public Utilities Commission, an indication that while they may be interested they are careful not to encroach on the income of the corporations." Mr. Sullivan then read his bill, and the Mayor called for comment.

Whitfield Tuck of Winchester was the first to respond. He favored it and hoped that each mayor would work for it. City Solicitor Nelligan of Cambridge moved that the bill be indorsed and J. H. Kelsey of Stoughton seconded the motion. Then followed indorsements from James H. McArdle of Sandwich, Walter C. Stone of Watertown, Mayor Quinn of Cambridge, William H. Murphy, city solicitor of Marlboro; Mayor Connors of Holyoke, J. L. Brown, city solicitor of Malden, Mayor McPhetres of Lynn, E. J. Wade of Lawrence, Judge Dyer of Leominster, William C. Mellish, city solicitor of Worcester; A. E. Green of Duxbury, Harry E. Perkins of Georgetown, Robert E. Bamford of Ipswich, John G. Holmes of Saugus, A. G. Cone of Williamsburg, John H. Dennis of Rockport, A. W. Clark of West Brookfield, Charles H. Cook of Athol, John E. Higginson of Milford, E. F. Perry of Amesbury, J. L. Richardson of Boxboro, W. H. Holbrook of Weymouth, John W. Porter of Holbrook.

When the matter was put to a vote there was a general response, with no negatives. Mayor Curley remarked: "That doesn't look as if Curley was the only one interested in holding down the rates, does it?"

ABATEMENT OF TAXES.

The Mayor has approved the following vote of the Board of Street Commissioners:

Voted, In the matter of petition for abatement of assessment of $63.99, billed December 4, 1924, for a sewer laid in Leyden street and completed January 30, 1892, the Board of Street Commissioners deeming it just and proper that abatement should be made from said assessment, acting under chapter 359 of the Acts of the year 1896,

Voted, That from so much of said assessment of $63.99 to said estate as remains unpaid at this date the sum of $39.77 be and the same hereby is abated.

ASK CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO MAKE POSITIVE AND UNITED EFFORT TO BETTER BOSTON'S PORT CONDITIONS.

MAYOR CURLEY CALLS ATTENTION OF BODY TO OPPORTUNITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT WASHINGTON WITH BAY STATE MEN AT HEAD OF AFFAIRS.

Mayor Curley sent the following communication on December 10:

MR. HOWARD COONLEY, President Boston Chamber of Commerce, Boston, Mass.

DEAR MR. COONLEY.—The Boston Chamber of Commerce was organized, and maintains its existence for the purpose of promoting and fostering the commercial and industrial interests of the Capital of Massachusetts, of co-operating with kindred bodies for the advancement of the well-being of the Commonwealth and New England generally; and of expanding the maritime influence of the Port of Boston, developing its marine business, its import and export trade, and seeking to restore it to the eminence and importance it once held in the sea-going activities of the Republic.

There never was a time in the history of Boston when the interests of the port needed the energetic action of the Chamber of Commerce more urgently than today, since almost every federal administrative agency dealing with commerce, industry, transportation and shipping would appear to be arrayed against us. This condition is all the more amazing since for years Massachusetts has been represented in Washington by men who held politically and potentially the tactical positions that would seem to give her the assistance she has needed and asked for.

Massachusetts has held the Vice Presidency, and the Presidency of the United States, the leadership of the Senate, the speakership of the House, the Secretaryship of War and a strong and able Congressional representation; and yet a Florida bayou or a Texas puddle were able to secure money for improvements denied the great harbor of Boston, and the sympathetic ears of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the United States Shipping Board, hermetically sealed to the pleas and protests of Boston, were open and receptive to any region outside of New England.

Has not the time come for the Capital of Massachusetts to stop pleas, petitions and protests and to make demands and insist that her vital interests be served by her representatives with at least the same zeal as those of infinitely less importance are served. Surely Boston with its harbor of magnificent possibilities is as important to the industry and commerce of America as the mud flats of San Pedro, the port of Los Angeles and Hollywood, twenty-six miles away? Is Houston, Texas, situated on a river that is sometimes wet in the rainy season, of as much maritime value to American business as Boston?

The elections are now over; the imaginary evils that finance and industry feared have been exorcised; wise men are predicting an era of prosperity; and the stock market echoes the return of confidence and credulity.

President Coolidge who preached faith in Massachusetts has been re-elected; two gentlemen, devoted to his policies, have been chosen for the United States Senate; an era of conservation, economy and the promoting of industry, commerce and expansion of trade, is predicted for the country; and the times are ripe for the recognition of the real purpose of such a port as Boston.

Is it not time for a shoulder-to-shoulder movement here in Massachusetts for the restoration of the former maritime activity of the Port of Boston through the development of her import and export trade? Led by the Boston Chamber of Commerce, with which the municipality has always co-operated in every movement for industrial and commercial growth, and assisted by the many other commercial bodies of Massachusetts and New England, we can go to the administration in Washington and demand a policy of fair play for Boston, for equal justice to all ports, for the abolition of the favoritism extended to our commercial rivals, and the covert antagonisms aimed at our state and city by administrative agencies.

I am impressed with the necessity of strong, unified action now on the eve of a new administration, from which this Commonwealth has a right to expect consideration and help as one of the most important industrial regions of the Republic.

Prosperity is predicted by many who do not stop to consider the elements essential to prosperity—stable industry that gives work and wages twelve months in the year—a steady flow of raw materials to feed industry, with a certain outflow to markets to consume the industrial products—without which idleness and adversity for half the year make prosperity unattainable. Under conditions now prevalent the American market is capable only of absorbing the industrial products of about seven months; and unless markets are found for the industrial production of the other five months of the year, industry must cease to function in that five months and unemployment, always dangerous and expensive, confront the country. If Massachusetts is to continue to be an industrial community, markets must be secured for its products; and since our markets at home and abroad are reached and served most economically by seaways, it is imperative that the Port of Boston be fostered and protected. Boston does not ask or need special favors from the government; what it asks is to be given equal economic opportunity with every other port and be relieved from the artificial handicaps placed on her growth and development, through bureaucratic rates and regulations, decrees and decisions that are as arbitrary, lawless and unconstitutional as they are malign and destructive.

Relief from these evils can be obtained only from the action of Congress and the orders of the administration which can limit the lawless activities of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the United States Shipping Board at any time; and experience has shown that Washington will not move until the aroused public opinion of Massachusetts compels it.

Because I see an opportunity in the advent of this new administration to obtain ample and immediate justice for the Port of Boston, I am addressing you in this fashion at this time in the expectation that your great body will take prompt action in getting in touch with Washington, and you may rely wholly on the active co-operation of the City of Boston in your efforts. Now is the time to do something for the real, the vital interests of the Commonwealth, for the things that concern the life and labor of all its people; and it is time we acted.

May I depend upon your bringing this matter before the Boston Chamber of Commerce for early decision and action, for until the Port of Boston's status is settled and its commercial, industrial and maritime opportunities are relieved from the hampering restrictions of bureaucratic administrative federal bodies, it is idle to expect progress or prosperity here in Massachusetts.

Very truly yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

PUBLIC LIBRARY EXHIBIT OF INDIAN STUDIES.

An interesting and intimate story of Indian life is contained in the exhibit of colored photographs taken by Walter McClintock of Pittsburgh, adopted son of a chief of the Blackfoot Indians, which was opened in the Exhibition Room of the Public Library on Monday, December 8. Mr. McClintock has spent much time with the Indians since 1896, when as the photographer of a government expedition he first came in contact with the Blackfoot.

The expedition was making investigations to locate national timber reservations, and after its work was completed Mr. McClintock remained with the Blackfoot, studying their lives and customs. He was adopted by Chief Mad Wolf as a son and was given the name of "White Weasel."

His intimacy with the Indians enabled him to obtain hundreds of pictures showing the romantic and picturesque aspects of their life. Some of them have to do with the impressive ceremonies connected with the "Sun Dance." There will be 200 photographs in the collection, some of which were used to illustrate Mr. McClintock's recent book, "Old Indian Trails."

FINANCE COMMISSION LETTER.

The Finance Commission has written the following letter to the Mayor:

BOSTON, December 5, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

SIR,—The Finance Commission directs your Honor's attention to the proposed increased award of damages to the proprietors of the Revere House property on Cambridge street at Bowdoin square, for land taken for the widening of Cambridge street.

This property was taken on August 20, 1924, by the Street Commissioners and the owners were then awarded $11 a square foot for 10,109 square feet, or a total of $111,119. At the same time a betterment assessment of $23,000 was made upon the remaining land of these owners.

The Street Commissioners on November 25, 1924, about three months after the original award, notified the Finance Commission that they proposed, subject to your Honor's approval, to increase the original award by $10,109, or $1 per square foot. The Street Commissioners did not inform the Finance Commission that they had a "gentleman's agreement" with George U. Crocker, treasurer of the proprietors of the Revere House, to waive the $23,000 betterment, which in effect was increasing the award not by $10,109 but by $33,109.

It was not until the Finance Commission's investigation revealed the existence of the "gentleman's agreement" that Mr. Noyes, chairman of the Street Commissioners admitted that the agreement existed. The day after Mr. Noyes testified before the Finance Commission, he notified the Finance Commission for the first time in writing by a letter dated November 29, 1924, of the existence of this agreement "which the Board intends to make," and the full terms of the settlement.

The case presents even more remarkable aspects. In December, 1922, about the time when you first made public your intention of filing a bill in the Legislature to widen Cambridge and Court streets to a width of 100 feet, George U. Crocker in a letter to your Honor wrote:

"I wish to say in this connection that the owners of the property on which the Revere House formerly stood would, I think, look favorably on a proposition to deed without consideration such portion of their land as might be needed for this improvement. I personally would not look upon such a deed as a donation, because I feel that the value of the remaining land would be greatly enhanced."

This letter has never been withdrawn.

When the Legislature authorized the city to make this Cambridge street widening in 1923 (chapter 489) it was provided that no assessment or settlement should be made unless all pertinent facts were submitted to the Boston Finance Commission not less than ten days before such award or settlement was to be made.

This is the first case in the Cambridge street widening which the Street Commissioners have sought to settle out of court by increasing the original award made only three months ago.

The Finance Commission recommends:

1. That your Honor disapprove this proposed increased award and the waiving of the betterments.

2. That all owners of property taken in the Cambridge and Court street widening who refuse to accept the original awards be left to their remedy in court.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

LAND-TAKING IN DORCHESTER.

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners for the taking of land for a public improvement consisting of the laying out and construction of Chelmsford street, Dorchester district, as a highway, from Adams street to Charlemont street, bounded and described as follows:

MAYOR CURLEY URGES NEW ENGLAND SENATORS AND CONGRESSMEN TO SECURE AIR MAIL SERVICE FOR THIS SECTION.

Mayor Curley, on December 9, sent the following letter to the United States Senators and Congressmen of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut; also to the Committee on Post Office and Post Roads of the United States Senate and House of Representatives:

DEAR SIR,—I beg to advise, in behalf of the citizens of Boston and leaders of its commerce and industry, that they are especially interested in the extension of aerial transportation for the advancement of the New England States, in so far that the air mail of the Post Office Department may be extended to the Boston airport, East Boston, Mass.

In harmony with numerous requests, I have made careful personal inquiry relative to the extension of aerial mail transportation, as a forward movement, and which would serve our people to very great advantage.

After conference with experts, I find that a fair summary of the general situation may be expressed as follows:

1. The Boston airport is admirably situated as it is located in East Boston within twenty minutes of the Boston City Post Office by either truck or street car.

2. The field is large enough to take care of any type of plane which the air mail either is using or contemplates using as numerous flights of DHSS, Martin bombers, and even the very fast landing PW-8 have made use of the Boston airport for a year and a half without any trouble whatsoever.

3. There is ample room for the construction of an air mail hangar and such other buildings as they might care to construct. The approaches to the field are perfect, there being no obstructions in any direction for a considerable distance. The landing and take-off runways are 1,500 feet long and from 2 to 400 feet wide.

4. Ample weather information is available by the United States Weather Bureau as well as the Blue Hill Observatory situated directly on the route between Boston and New York.

5. The air line distance from New York to Boston is 160 miles over a terrain that is easy to fly over with ample emergency landing fields along said route.

6. The average weather conditions would permit the arrival of the mail in Boston not later than 12 o'clock noon 95 per cent of the days in the year, and the same percentage of departures would be possible. That is, considering the air mail coming to Boston from the Chicago-New York night run and leaving Boston in the afternoon for the Boston-New York-Chicago run.

7. Flying by night from Boston to New York would be comparatively easy as a pilot would have no trouble in finding his way on account of the landmarks such as the city of Providence and light houses across Long Island Sound.

8. It is not believed there is a better airport for mail purposes on the entire route than the one at Boston taking into consideration its close proximity to the city and the small amount of time that would be lost in transporting the mail from the field to the post office and return.

I sincerely trust you will give my appeal a most earnest consideration and review, with a sincere hope that the Committee on Post Office and Post Roads of the United States Senate and House of Representatives, at Washington may indorse the extension of air mail to the Boston airport at East Boston.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

LAND-TAKING IN DORCHESTER.

Betterments are to be assessed for the making of the aforesaid improvement.

MASSACHUSETTS CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS.

The Massachusetts Civil Service Commission announce examinations for desirable positions open in the Boston and Metropolitan districts as follows:

CIVIL ENGINEERS, DECEMBER 15-20, 1924. THESE EXAMINATIONS ARE FOR THE SERVICE OF THE STATE, ALL CITIES, AND SUCH TOWNS AS ARE CLASSIFIED UNDER CIVIL SERVICE.

Warning.—Many men fail in the civil engineering examination because they apply for grades for which they are not qualified. It is advisable, therefore, if there is any doubt about the quantity or quality of your experience, to take both the grade for which you think you are qualified and the next lower grade. If you should be found ineligible for the higher grade, you will still have an opportunity to be placed on the next lower grade.

Grade A.

Engineering assistants, drafting assistants, and rodmen, who perform under instruction and supervision elementary or apprentice work in the field or office.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not Grade A if the salary is less than $900 a year or more than $1,440 a year.

Qualifications.—Applicants must have completed a high school course of not less than three years or must have had not less than one year of practical experience in field engineering or office work.

Subjects and Weights.—Rodmen.—Experience, 4; mathematics, 6; penmanship, 1; tracing, 3; questions on the duties of the position, 6; total 20. Assistant draughtsmen.—Experience, 4; mathematics, 6; penmanship, 1; drawing, 9; total, 20.

Grade B.

Senior engineering assistants, instrumentmen, and draughtsmen (a) who assume responsibility for the execution of definite instructions in a minor division or section of engineering activity; or (b) who direct, under supervision, the operation of minor engineering projects.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade B if the salary is more than $1,980 a year.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion, not less than one year of service in Grade A. If appointed otherwise than by promotion from Grade A, at least two years of practical experience in engineering work of Grade A character and standard; or such training in civil engineering as is evidenced by a professional degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction at an institution or college of recognized standing; or the successful completion of not less than two years' study in such institution plus one year's practical experience in engineering work.

Subjects and Weights.—Instrumentmen.—Experience, 16; penmanship, 2; plotting, 6; questions on duties, 8; mathematics, 8; total, 40. Draughtsmen.—Experience, 16; drawing, 10; mathematics, 6; duties, 4; plotting, 4; total, 40.

Grade C.

Assistant engineers, assistant civil engineers, and designing engineers: (a) who assume responsibility for the direction of surveys, the preparation and examination of, or advice upon, plans, designs and specifications for a minor section of a large engineering or a major section of a small engineering project; or (b) who supervise or inspect the construction or the operation of work on such a project; or (d) who make investigations of,

and reports upon, such engineering projects as a basis for a report by an engineering superior.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade C, if the salary is more than $2,580 a year.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion within a department or major division thereof, not less than two years of service in Grade B, or if appointed otherwise than by promotion from Grade B, within a department or major division thereof, at least five years of practical experience in engineering work, at least one half of which shall have been appropriate to the particular branch of engineering work covered by the position, provided that a degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction by an engineering school of recognized standing shall be accepted as the equivalent of three years practical experience.

Subjects and Weights.—Experience, 10; design, 2; mathematics, 2; questions on material and methods of construction, 3; engineering theory, 3; total, 20.

Grade D.

Senior assistant engineers, senior assistant civil engineers, and senior designing engineers: (a) who supervise and assume complete responsibility for the work of a main division of an engineering organization, involving the direction of surveys and design and construction; or (b) who maintain and operate the major section of a large engineering project; or (c) who make independent investigations of and reports upon engineering projects as a basis for executive, administrative, or judicial action; or (d) who take charge of a large engineering department in the absence of the chief engineer; or (e) who give advice on large or complicated engineering projects, which may involve the preparation of plans.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade D if the salary is more than $3,600 a year.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion, within a department or major division thereof, not less than three years service in Grade C. If appointed otherwise than by promotion, within a department or major division thereof, at least eight years of practical experience in engineering work, at least one half of which shall have been appropriate to the particular branch covered by the position, and two years of which shall have been in an executive capacity; provided, that a degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction by an engineering school of recognized standing shall be accepted as the equivalent of four years of practical experience.

under employees' compensation and retirement legislation, persons appointed may be given a medical examination by a physician in the Federal Service before entering on duty.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces open competitive examinations for the positions listed above. From the registers resulting from these examinations certification will be made to fill existing and future vacancies at the places and salaries indicated or at higher or lower salaries.

Citizenship and Sex.—All citizens of the United States who meet the requirements, both men and women, may enter these examinations; appointing officers, however, have the legal right to specify the sex desired in requesting certification of eligibles. Male eligibles are desired for the positions named hereon unless otherwise indicated.

Subjects and Weights.—Applicants will not be assembled for a written examination. The examination will consist of the subjects mentioned below, which will have the relative weights indicated:

Subjects: 1. Physical ability, 40; 2. Training and experience, 60; total, 100.

Training and Experience.—For the positions marked "(a)" applicants must have had at least one year's experience in the occupation for which application is made.

Physical Requirements.—The following physical defects will debar applicants from any examination: Bright's disease; malignant tumor (cancer, etc.); diabetes; epilepsy; any abnormal hardening of the arteries (arteriosclerosis); transmissible disease, including syphilis, gonorrhea, and chancre, also tuberculosis (active or arrested for a period of less than one year); insanity or mental illness sufficiently definite to affect the usefulness of applicant; seriously defective vision of both eyes, in correctible by glasses; progressive myopia; progressive or disabling paralysis; uncompensated valvular disease of the heart; loss of both arms, both legs, or arm and leg; hands, arms, feet, legs, or body so injured, crippled, or deformed as to seriously affect usefulness; chronic alcoholism or drug addiction. In addition, persons who have lost an arm or a leg or who are ruptured are ineligible for appointment to positions in the Custodian Service. Other physical defects will render applicants ineligible for any particular service or position, when, in the judgment of the commission, such defects would disqualify them for the duties required. Physical requirements may be waived in the case of honorably discharged soldiers, sailors, and marines under certain conditions.

MAYOR CURLEY DRAFTS AND PRESENTS TO CITY COUNCIL RESOLUTIONS ON DEATH OF SAMUEL GOMPERS.

Mayor Curley, on December 13, drafted and sent to the City Council the following communication and set of resolutions upon the death of Samuel Gompers:

To the City Council.

GENTLEMEN,—The world's foremost advocate and champion of the rights of the toiler, in answer to the summons of his Maker, has passed to the Great Beyond.

The people of America, regardless of station, race, creed or color, mourn the death of labor's leader and humanity's champion, Samuel Gompers.

His leadership both in peace and in war was dedicated to the welfare of his fellowman and the country of his adoption, the United States of America. When elevated to the position of president of the American Federation of Labor, nearly a quarter of a century ago, he found the creators of the nation's wealth, those who toiled with hands and brain, working long hours with insufficient return to provide for the actual need of their families.

Under his leadership the twelve-hour day in industry was changed for the more humane eight-hour day, the Saturday half-holiday is today operative in substantially every State of the Union, and protection for the toiler and the dependents of the toiler have been made possible through the Workmen's Compensation Act and the Mothers' Aid Act, the saving wage has been substituted for the starvation wage, and the problem of part-time employment is receiving consideration from the thoughtful minds in America.

Through his leadership American labor

made to this department for information regarding the public baths and gymnasiums maintained by the city, and with regard to municipal indoor concerts and band concerts; also information relative to Mt. Hope, Evergreen, Fairview and other public cemeteries owned by the City of Boston.

To THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE, 15 Beacon street, for information relative to the operation of the schools of the city.

To THE SCHOOLHOUSE COMMISSIONERS, Room 1007, City Hall Annex, for information as to the construction and repair of school buildings.

To THE BOARD OF EXAMINERS, Room 1001, City Hall Annex, for information regarding the licensing of persons having charge or control of the work of construction, alteration, removal or tearing down of buildings.

To THE WIRE DIVISION OF THE FIRE DEPARTMENT, Fire Department Headquarters, 60 Bristol street, for all information relative to the erection of poles, the building of conduits, the installation of all overhead and underground construction and electrical apparatus, as well as for general information relative to the entire division. To Room 906, City Hall Annex, for permits for the installing of wires and electrical apparatus within buildings in the City of Boston, and for the payment of fees incident to the granting of the privileges above named, and which must be paid in advance.

has been prevented from accepting the tenets of communism and has been permitted to continue American. His contribution to the welfare of the toiler, to the happiness of his home, and to genuine Americanism is deserving of consideration and action by the city government of Boston, and I accordingly recommend the adoption by your honorable body of an order providing that the flags on all public buildings of the City of Boston be flown at half-mast upon the day of the funeral of Samuel Gompers, and further, the adoption of a resolution expressing the sorrow of the people of Boston at the great loss sustained by America in the death of Samuel Gompers.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

RESOLUTION.

Whereas, Almighty God in His Wisdom has seen fit to call from our midst America's foremost champion of human rights, Samuel Gompers, and

Whereas, During his entire life his splendid talents and great ability were devoted to the promotion of the progress and happiness of his fellowman, and

Whereas, his death is universally mourned and his passing represents an irreparable loss to the forces of labor whom he led with wisdom and courage, to humanity whom he served, to his family whom he loved, be it and it is hereby

Resolved, That the City Council of Boston in regular meeting assembled mourn the loss of Samuel Gompers and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the wife of Samuel Gompers, the vice president of the American Federation of Labor, James Duncan, and to the press.

BOSTON PREPARES TO MAKE HOLIDAY SEASON BEST EVER KNOWN—WITH ALL CITY PARTICIPATING.

LIGHTING OF MUNICIPAL CHRISTMAS TREE ON COMMON, NEAR PARKMAN BAND STAND, WITH CAROL SINGING, TO BE FEATURES—MAYOR CURLEY TO MAKE ADDRESS.

Boston is making elaborate plans for the celebration of the Christmas season, in keeping with the custom followed with such good results in the way of happiness under the first and present administrations of Mayor James M. Curley.

Ever mindful of the cosmopolitan citizenship of Boston, the Mayor has endeavored to make the holiday season as cheerful for all the city as possible. As a consequence the major exercises of the day will center about the Christmas tree on the Common. This has been arranged by the Citizens Public Celebrations Committee and the Director of Public Celebrations, J. Philip O'Connell.

Events will begin with carol singing by trained groups as well as the always fitting mass singing by the assembled audience with band accompaniment. The official lighting of the municipal Christmas tree will be followed by a performance of the nativity pageant as arranged for the occasion by Community Service under the direction of Mrs. Eva W. White and Miss Joy Higgins. This pageant, with improved settings and performance will be staged on an elevated platform more than double the size of the one used last year, which will allow of the added effects and special colorful lighting.

The Boston holiday custom of extending official municipal greetings "to strangers within our gates" by means of original cards distributed to hotel guests and theatrical folk here at the time will be continued. A motion picture film trailer will be used by the theaters to extend the same greeting.

The committee hopes time schedules may be so arranged as to enable the choirs and other carol singers who annually visit Beacon Hill for the now nationally known Christmas Eve festivities in that district to come to the Common for a few minutes. The committee has suggested to the Beacon Hill Association that a committee of that group might co-operate to arrange mutually satisfactory plans.

The purpose of the city exercises on the Common is to assemble as large a group—or several groups during the night—who may there unite in expressing the spirit of the occasion in song and good cheer. The singing of the traditional and universally known carols forms a main feature. The carols suggested are: "O, Come All Ye Faithful," "Silent Night," "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear." As a closing number, combining both the spiritual and patriotic spirit, "The Cross and the Flag" has been suggested.

A particular invitation has been extended to choral societies, choirs, and other singing groups or individuals qualified to participate. Among such groups already assured are People's Choral Union, which hopes to have 250 voices to lead the audience in the singing of the carols; the Filene store chorus and groups from two or three other of the large stores. In a letter prepared by Director of Public Celebrations J. Philip O'Connell he says:

"One of the most significant of the constructive celebrations conducted by the City of Boston under the auspices of the Citizens' Public Celebrations Association has been the Christmas Eve program on Boston Common, where for the past three years the lighting of the Municipal Christmas Tree has been accompanied by the presentation of a nativity pageant and community singing of appropriate Christmas hymns. Those occasions have proven of the most inspiring character and we are certain that properly developed and supported, it will result in incalculable civic and community benefit.

"You are extended a cordial invitation to participate with your organization and to lend your effort to the success of Boston's most spiritual public demonstration. Should you honor us by acceptance I should very much appreciate an early reply and an estimate of the number of your group to participate so that identification badges may be provided."

Radio will be utilized in the Christmas Eve as well as in the New Year's Eve programs on the Common, through the recently installed amplifying and broadcasting apparatus at the Parkman Band Stand.

The New Year's Eve program will be of a more secular character but nevertheless of significant character, to take place the night of Wednesday, December 31. The New Year's Committee consists of Henry J. D. Small, chairman; Edward L. Curran, Harry H. Guterman, John J. Keenan, Wilfred F. Kelley, with John B. Archibald, president of the association, ex-officio.

The choral groups to be led by George Sawyer Dunham to sing at the ten o'clock session on Boston Common, Christmas Eve, are:

Peoples Choral Union, Mendelsohn Singers, Unitarian Laymen's League, the Twentieth Century Club, Phillips Choir Guild of South Boston, Durant Group, Young Women's Christian Association, Houghton & Dutton, Gilchrist Company, Shepard Stores, R. H. White's, Girl Scouts.

MAYOR CURLEY ENTERS VIGOROUS PROTEST AGAINST REVISION OF RAILROAD RATES AS PROPOSED.

TELLS INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION PROPOSALS WOULD WORK SERIOUS HARDSHIPS ON BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND—AFFECTING PARTICULARLY FOOD SUPPLY AND THUS COMMUNITY'S LIFE AND ACTIVITY.

BOSTON, December 17, 1924.

HON. HENRY C. HALL, Chairman,
Interstate Commerce Commission,
Washington, D. C.

DEAR SIR,—Railroad carriers in the various territories that either serve directly or indirectly the New England states, and whose rates react upon the railroads of New England, and through them on the communities they serve, are proposing a revision of class rates in the Eastern territory that if granted and approved by your honorable commission, will seriously affect every activity of the life and living of Massachusetts and Boston. The proposed revisions are upward in all classes except the sixth and in every case strike at the food supply of this region; and as Mayor of the City of Boston I earnestly protest against any advance in these rates, which must affect the vital interests of millions of people.

I desire to bring to your attention the conditions existing in New England, not with a view of giving the commission any new information, but to emphasize them, and bring home to it the peril involved in the contemplated advances to the social, industrial and commercial interests of the New England communities generally and Massachusetts and Boston specifically.

New England is an industrial region; the majority of its inhabitants are industrial workers employed in factories, mills, and those minor activities subordinate to and dependent on the major industries. Here much of the cotton, woolen, shoe, leather, machinery and manufacturing business of the country is done; the workers are urban; farming is a negligible activity comparable with the Middle and Northwest, and is dependent on urban workers and local markets to consume its food products. In a broad sense New England cannot feed itself; meats, grains, flour, butter, cheese, eggs and poultry are largely imported from the states outside its frontiers; and while great fisheries lie off her coast large quantities of fish foods are imported from the Pacific Coast and the lakes.

The important fact to be understood and emphasized is that industrial New England is a consumer, not a producer of food stuffs. There is, therefore, a constant interchange going on of food products and manufactured goods between New England and the rest of the country, and the rates paid to the carriers of this traffic is of vital importance to the well-being of a large population. The raising and lowering of railroad rates may spell the difference between a well-nourished, contented people and an under-nourished and unhappy population. Such farm food products as New England provides for its local markets are limited in kind and quantity; they do provide a certain competitive check to Western producers, which vanishes when rates go up; the handicaps of the Western producer are passed on to the Eastern consumer.

The industrial population of New England, almost wholly urban, is dependent on Western agriculture for its daily bread; and policy of rate-raising that raises the price of that bread is a serious injury to the industrial worker and the industry he serves; it leads to social discontent; to wage demands that if granted must be passed on to customers to the injury of industry, since customers can seek their requirements in places and from manufacturers unaffected by the expanded railroad rates. If wage demands are refused strikes will result and again industry is injured; the injuries afflicted on industry are reflected in every New England business, rural and urban; and the railroads it is sought to help are themselves starved through the dwindling traffic of a prostrated country.

Railroad rates must be mutually helpful to the roads and the people they serve; if just and equitable they build up the community the railroad serves, fostering industry and stimulating growth and new traffic; if excessive they arrest growth, hamper industry, and induce decay and depression. While the laborer is worthy of his hire, be it man or corporation, the exploitation of people and communities for the enrichment of stockholders should be discouraged. A community exploited is soon a community depopulated; and while the hegira of a population may entail individual discontent and suffering, a railroad without people to serve and products to carry must eventually die on its feet; it is immovable and cannot follow its patrons. Dividends must always be subordinated to efficient and reasonably paid service; and rate schedules that kill industry and depopulate communities are economic crimes. The rates now in force were made a few years ago; the business of the country has adjusted itself to them; all things considered, the roads have thriven under them; they are ample for the upkeep of the carriers and if supplemented by proper economies and efficient management would give the roads and the communities they serve an enduring prosperity.

The raising of transportation rates on food supplies strikes at the very root of life and living; assaults on the pantry of a democracy are a dangerous experiment; rate raises now must aggravate the existing evil of the high prices of living; and when such raises are aimed directly at the necessities of life they create a situation that is perilous to law and order, the happiness of the people and the stability of government. In the presence of a movement for lowering wage scales in industry, an increase in food prices, predicated by such a rate increase as the carriers are asking, is worse than folly, and should not be permitted. Increasing food prices means decreasing food consumption, which in turn means decreasing economic efficiency in the underfed worker, crippled industry, decreasing production, communal decay and dwindling trade and commerce.

It is axiomatic that an injury to any part of the country eventually affects all the country. Since all American states and communities are interdependent and the tides of national welfare ebb and flow with the incidence of each and every unit of the Republic, it follows that any injury to New England is an injury to all the United States. The duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission is to conserve the efficiency and preserve the solvency of the transportation system of the country as far as a wise regulation and prudent administration can do so; and it is the part of wisdom on the part of the Commission to guide its counsels with the theory that the railroads are made for the people and that the people are not created for the railroads. The preservation of the people and their essential interests is the first duty of our government and its bureaus; taxing the food supplies of the citizens by excessive railroad rates is a violation of this preservative principle; and it is as unwise as it is needless to enter upon such a policy now.

On behalf of the citizens of Boston and Massachusetts, therefore, I consider it my duty to enter serious protest against any raises in transportation rates on foods of every sort and kind that are carried into this territory. The vital need of New England is reasonably priced foods; the good of the people must come before the greed of the railroads; for upon reasonable food prices and equitable carrier rates is posited the whole social, industrial and commercial life of New England.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do the work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

The Mayor has approved a contract with the American Machinery Company for laundry machinery for the Detention Hospital. A communication from Dr. F. X. Mahoney was as follows:

BOSTON, November 20, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully request your Honor's permission to purchase laundry machinery for the Detention Hospital, without advertising, from the American Laundry Machinery Company, for the sum of $2,420.

The proposal of the American Laundry Machinery Company does not differ appreciably from the prices asked by other concerns for comparable machinery and equipment. There are certain features about the appliances which the American Laundry Machinery Company proposes to install, however, and the manner in which this company agrees to install them that makes the Company's proposal more advantageous for the city in view of the peculiar location and purpose for which this machinery is needed.

A report relative to the machinery, together with the contract, are hereto attached.

Respectfully,

F. X. MAHONEY, M. D.,
Health Commissioner.

INSTITUTIONS DEPARTMENT.

Upon November 25 the Mayor approved a contract with the Murray Engineering Company for emergency repairs on the steamer "Michael J. Perkins." A communication from Dr. David J. Johnson, Institutions Commissioner, was as follows:

BOSTON, November 1, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully ask permission to incur expenses for emergency repairs to the steamer "Michael J. Perkins," amounting to twenty-four hundred three (2,403) dollars, without advertising.

Prior to the annual inspection on specifications for all repairs which could be anticipated were carefully prepared and several firms requested to submit a proposal for doing the work. Of the five proposals received the Murray Engineering Company was the lowest bidder and contract in the sum of nine hundred twenty-five (925) dollars was awarded to that company on October 14.

On October 22 the Steamboat Inspection Service notified us that a number of rivets would have to be welded and as work progressed other repairs not anticipated were found necessary. This additional work was authorized from time to time as an emergency measure in order that the department should not be without adequate transportation facilities to the island institutions for a longer period than was absolutely necessary. A substitute boat is not only unsatisfactory but very expensive.

October 14, original contract, $925; October 22, additional contract, $290; October 23, additional contract, $210; October 25, additional contract, $434; November 1, additional contract, $544; total, $2,403.

Trusting that this action meets with your approval I am,

Very truly yours,

DAVID J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS DEPARTMENT.

The Mayor has approved a contract with Lombard & Rust Company, representing the Atchinson Revolving Door Company, for doors for the Suffolk County Court House. A communication from John H. Mahony, Acting Superintendent of Public Buildings, was as follows:

BOSTON, November 20, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—Some time ago I received a requisition from the Suffolk County Courthouse for revolving doors for both entrances of said building. I accordingly asked the only two firms that I could find in the directory located in Boston to submit a figure for same, with the following result:

Atchinson Revolving Door Company, represented by Lombard & Rust Company, agents, will supply and install the two doors in the sum of $2,114; Skillman & Sunderland Company, $2,900.

Inasmuch as they desire to have these doors installed before the cold weather sets in, and also as there would be considerable time consumed in advertising same, and when we would probably only receive figures from these two concerns who have already submitted figures, I therefore respectfully request permission to award a contract for installing these two revolving doors to the Atchinson Revolving Door Company, Lombard & Rust Company, agents, in the sum of twenty-one hundred fourteen dollars ($2,114) which was the lower of the two bids, without the usual form of advertising.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN H. MAHONY,
Acting Superintendent of Public Buildings.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Paving Service).

Upon December 17 the Mayor approved a contract with Peter Falabella for the construction of artificial sidewalks. A communication from Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

BOSTON, December 16, 1924.

To the Mayor of Boston.

Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Peter Falabella, 308 Harrison avenue, Boston, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Sanitary Service).

The Mayor has approved the awarding of the contract for snow removal in District No. 2, to Coleman Brothers. A communication from Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

BOSTON, December 15, 1924.

To the Mayor of Boston.

The snow removal contract for District No. 2 was awarded to D. M. Biggs & Co., the second lowest bidder, at 56 cents a cubic yard. This firm has defaulted in not signing up the contract.

The third lowest bidder has been awarded a district, while the next bidder in this district is Coleman Brothers, Inc., at 65 cents a cubic yard.

Your approval is respectfully requested for the award of the contract for snow removal in District No. 2 to Coleman Brothers, Inc., at 65 cents a cubic yard.

Yours respectfully,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

SCHOOLHOUSE DEPARTMENT.

The Mayor has approved the payment of $9,853.54 on the contract of the M. S. Kelleher Company for alterations on the Teachers College group. A communication from Thomas P. Glynn of the Schoolhouse Department was as follows:

BOSTON, November 18, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—The Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners respectfully requests the approval of your Honor to the issuance of an order of addition, in the amount of nine thousand eight hundred and fifty-three and 54-100 (9,853.54) dollars, to the contract of M. S. Kelliher Company, for alterations, etc., to the Teachers College Group.

This amount is required to take care of certain additional work which has been found to be necessary during the process of construction. On account of the nature of the work included under the original contract, involving, as it did, considerable alteration in connection with the three buildings of this group, it was impossible, at the time the plans and specifications were prepared, to foresee all the conditions that would arise. The work to be done under this proposed order of addition is necessary to put the buildings in proper condition, and the Board therefore requests your approval of its issuance as stated above.

Respectfully yours,

THOMAS P. GLYNN,
Chairman.

The Mayor has approved an additional payment on the contract of the Thomas O'Connor Company for $11,500 for the erection and completion of the Hugh O'Brien District School. A communication from Thomas P. Glynn of the Schoolhouse Department was as follows:

BOSTON, December 10, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—The Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners respectfully requests the approval of your Honor to the issuance of an order of addition, in an amount of approximately eleven thousand five hundred (11,500) dollars, to the contract of Thomas O'Connor & Co. for erection and completion of the Hugh O'Brien District School.

This amount is required to cover certain additional work found to be necessary during the process of construction. This consisted mainly of additional excavation, backfill, concrete work, caused by being obliged to dig deeper than was anticipated in order to reach proper bearing soil, and of certain heating changes necessitated by running steam mains from the old building to the new portion.

Trusting this will meet with your approval, I am,

Respectfully yours,

THOMAS P. GLYNN,
Chairman.

The Mayor has approved the payment of an additional $8,500 to the contract of the C. & R. Construction Company for the erection and completion of the Julia Ward Howe School. A communication from Thomas P. Glynn of the Schoolhouse Department was as follows:

BOSTON, December 12, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—The Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners respectfully requests the approval of your Honor to the issuance of an order of addition, in an amount of approximately eight thousand five hundred (8,500) dollars, to the contract of C. & R. Construction Company for erection and completion of addition to the Julia Ward Howe School.

This amount is required to cover certain additional work found to be necessary during the process of construction. This work consisted mainly in additional excavation caused by being obliged to dig more deeply than was anticipated in order to obtain proper footing for the concrete piles, and also in changing the exterior brick to a special size brick in order to have the new portion of the building conform to the old. We trust this will meet with your approval.

Respectfully yours,

THOMAS P. GLYNN,
Chairman.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT.

Upon December 11 the Mayor approved a contract with Levin Brothers for furnishing the Boston Sanatorium with 150 Alaska gray blankets. A communication from Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department was as follows:

BOSTON, December 11, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—Permission is respectfully requested to enter into contract, without advertising, with Levin Brothers for furnishing to the Boston Sanatorium 150 Alaska grey blankets at $7 each, making total amount of contract $1,050. This department upon receipt of this requisition from the Boston Sanatorium communicated with the Department of Correction, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, with the request that they submit samples of their blankets for the approval of the undersigned and the trustees of the Boston Sanatorium. The blankets submitted by that department were found to be too light weight for the purposes for which they were intended to be used, and a release was requested from the Department of Correction in order that this department could purchase these blankets elsewhere.

Several prices and samples were received from various concerns, and this blanket was selected as being the blanket desired by the undersigned and Doctors Minot, O'Brien and White of the Boston Sanatorium. I think it is for the best advantage of the city that the blanket selected be purchased, and I therefore trust that this recommendation meets with your approval.

Respectfully,

FRANK P. ROCK,
Superintendent of Supplies.

Upon December 11 the Mayor approved a contract with R. H. Stearns Company for furnishing the Boston Sanatorium 250 white wool blankets. A communication from Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department was as follows:

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—Permission is respectfully requested to enter into contract, without advertising, with R. H. Stearns

This department upon receipt of this order requested the Department of Correction to submit samples of their blankets for the approval of the undersigned and the trustees of the Boston Sanatorium. As the sample submitted by that department was too light in weight for the purpose for which they were to be used, a release was requested from the Department of Correction in order that this department could procure them elsewhere.

Several prices and samples were secured from various concerns, and the blanket of the R. H. Stearns Company was selected as the one desired by the doctors of the Boston Sanatorium, Doctors Minot, O'Brien and White, and I concur with their selection. In view of the above I trust the permission requested will be granted.

Respectfully yours,

FRANK P. ROCK,

A NEW PICTORIAL LIFE OF ST. FRANCIS OF ASSISI.

PUBLIC LIBRARY EXHIBITS FIFTY ORIGINAL WATER-COLOR PAINTINGS OF PEDRO SUBERCASEAUX, CHILEAN ARTIST.

Beginning the 20th of December, fifty original water-color paintings by Pedro Subercaseaux, representing the "Life of St. Francis of Assisi," will be arranged in the Exhibition Room of the Boston Public Library. The library is glad to provide an opportunity for its visitors to become acquainted with the work of this eminent South American artist.

The name of Pedro Subercaseaux is hardly known yet in this country. The plain truth is that we know here singularly little of the art movements and tendencies of Latin America. Only occasionally, when a name breaks through the obscurity and finds its way to international recognition, does it happen that we become conscious of our indifference.

Subercaseaux is still a young man—he was born in 1880 in Rome, where his father is now Chilean ambassador to the Vatican. He studied in Rome, Berlin and Paris, but while still in his early youth returned to this country. Nearly all of his pictures were painted in Santiago, the capital of Chile. His large canvases are in the National Congress Building and the Exchange of that city, and in several public buildings in Buenos Aires. Episodes of the Spanish conquests in the sixteenth century, and of the War of Independence in the first years of the nineteenth century are usually the subjects of these paintings. He painted also a number of sea battles and scenes from modern military life.

The "Life of St. Francis" marks a new period both in his artistic and personal development. The beauty and poetry of the little Umbrian town, in which every street and every house seemed to recall the Franciscan legend, made a strong impression on him. Then and there he conceived the idea of creating a new pictorial life of the saint. He made careful studies of the landscapes and buildings, of the future settings of his pictures. For five years the war interrupted his work, but after the armistice he returned to Umbria, and there completed the series of fifty paintings.

From the birth of St. Francis to the farewell of St. Clare we have before us the whole legend. "Francis and the Leper," "Taken for a Madman," "Francis Disowns his Father," "The Mystical Banquet," "The Sermon to the Birds," "The Stigmata," "The Last Blessing," and all the other scenes and events of the legend are depicted here with a deep inward spirituality of conception and conscientious realism in presentation. Umbria of the thirteenth century is here, with its hills and valleys, crags and fields, and the architecture and costumes are faithful also to their last details. And an ineffable sweetness permeates every stroke in the paintings; this is truly the legend of "The Three Companions and the Fioretti."

This close touch with the life of St. Francis and the spirit of the medieval world wrought a deep change in the artist. As a result of his preoccupation with his subject, in 1920 he joined the Order of St. Benedict at the Monastery on the Isle of Wight.

It is largely due to the artistic insight and appreciation of an American woman, Mrs. Justine B. Ward of New York, that these pictures have been brought before the public. She met the artist, now a secluded monk, at the Monastery, saw his pictures and brought them to this country. The Marshall Jones Company, Boston, did a splendid service to art when they undertook the publication of the series with suitable text.

Connoisseurs, artists and critics hailed the work of the artist with uncommon enthusiasm. Johannes Jorgensen in his introduction to the book speaks in high terms of the genius of Subercaseaux. "He is in the same relation to the Umbrian Saint," he says, "as for instance Boutet de Monvel was to his heroine, Jeanne d'Arc. Works such as these are not only expressions of art—they are expressions of life. They are not only speaking to the eyes—they are speaking to the soul." Rev. Thomas J. Shahan, rector of the Catholic University, says: "For the first time since Giotto a painter has satisfactorily revealed to the eye of faith the story of that holy youth of Umbria. . . ."

In a letter to Mr. Charles F. D. Belden, director of the library, Mr. Ralph Adams Cram, the eminent Boston architect, writes:

"For my own part, I think these pictures are almost in a class by themselves. Not only are they distinguished to a degree from a technical point of view, but they are sure, so far as I know, the most personal and poignant representation of St. Francis that have been made since the time of Giotto. I can only hope that people generally will take advantage of the chance that is given them to see work of this unusual and distinctive beauty."

MASSACHUSETTS BAY COLONY.

The first chartered colony in New England, charter granted by Charles I on March 4, 1629. About a year before, a patent had been granted to six prominent men of Dorchester, west of England, among whom was Capt. John Endicott. He sailed in June, 1628, with a party of 50 or 60 persons, arriving in September and settling at Naumkeag, afterward named Salem. In the spring of 1629, the Bay Company fitted out three ships conveying about 400 persons and arriving at Salem in June. Endicott sent a small party to effect a settlement on the Bay in Mishawum, afterward named by the settlers Charlestown, the first town in New England to assume the town polity, Plymouth and Salem being governed by a Governor and Council. Endicott was appointed in London as the first resident Governor on April 30, 1629. The Massachusetts Bay Company was reorganized in London on Oct. 20, 1629, when John Winthrop was chosen as Governor. He arrived at Salem on June 12, 1630, soon proceeded to Charlestown with a large following, and finding that place unsuitable, finally settled in Boston. Winthrop served thirteen years as Governor in four different periods ending in 1649 and Endicott 15 years at various times ending in 1665. Other governors were Thomas Dudley, Richard Bellingham, John Haynes, Henry Vane, John Leverett and Simon Bradstreet, the latter serving 12 years until 1692 when the Bay Colony and the Plymouth Colony were merged, becoming the Royal Province of Massachusetts Bay, which existed 82 years to 1774, the governors being appointed by the King.

The name, Massachusetts, is Indian and signifies "near the big hills."

CITY OFFICIALS AND LEADING CITIZENS PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO JOHN O. TABER, CHIEF OF BOSTON FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Chief John O. Taber of the Boston Fire Department, who died Tuesday at 3.30 a. m. at his home, 20 Fletcher street, Roslindale, was buried Thursday morning with solemn high requiem mass in the Church of the Sacred Heart, Roslindale, at 10 o'clock.

The Rev. John F. Cummings, rector of the Church of the Sacred Heart, was celebrant of the mass; the Rev. Eugene A. Twomey, deacon, and the Rev. Henry T. Reardon, sub-deacon.

Public officials headed by Mayor James M. Curley, and other prominent citizens joined with the Boston firemen in paying a fitting final tribute to Chief Taber, in token of the great respect and affection that the entire community held for him.

All the honors that the city and the department could bestow to an official of his rank were given. Mayor Curley had ordered all municipal flags to be lowered to half-staff and bells in the firehouses to be tolled during the funeral.

Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn issued a general order, announcing officially the death of Chief Taber, and stating the arrangements made for the firemen's participation in the funeral.

The customary detail of forty-eight men, consisting of sixteen from each division, was made by Acting Chief Daniel F. Sennott, and a guard of honor consisting of chief officers was in constant attendance at the home of the late chief.

Deputy Chief Walter H. MacLean of the third division was placed in charge of the funeral arrangements from the fire department. As the body of Chief Taber was leaving the church after the requiem mass, the gongs in the firehouses were sounded at intervals of twenty seconds until sixty-one strokes had been sounded. The fire headquarters building on Bristol street, and the quarters of the Mason street company have been draped in mourning for thirty days, and all flags on department stations and fireboats will be flown at half-mast for the same period.

Mayor Curley and Fire Commissioner Glynn paid tribute to Chief Taber in eulogistic statements.

Other prominent officials who made public expression of their grief over the death of the chief and their admiration for him, both as a private citizen and as a municipal official, included Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson, Police Superintendent Michael H. Crowley, Acting Chief Daniel F. Sennott and other officers of the Fire Department.

Chief Taber died after a gallant fight for three weeks against a severe bronchial affliction which gripped his lungs following a heavy cold contracted while returning from a vacation trip to Jacksonville, Fla. He appeared to have been recovering up to two days before death, when he suffered a relapse.

He was attended by Dr. James P. O'Hare of Jamaica Plain and by his son-in-law, Dr. John G. Breslin of Charlestown. His son, John O. Taber, Jr., superintendent of the public works in Attleboro, and his two daughters, Mrs. Henry Lawler and Mrs. Breslin, were in constant attendance and were with him when the end came.

John Otis Taber had a nation-wide reputation as an efficient, progressive and courageous fire department executive, and probably no Boston official ever won or deserved greater popularity. He was born in this city, June 24, 1863. He went to sea in his boyhood and subsequently enlisted in the navy and rose to the grade of chief gunner's mate.

The government awarded him a certificate of merit and commendation for risking his life in defense of the United States minister to Peru when an attempt was made to assassinate this official. The chief carried to his grave a scar from the knife blade which he deflected in saving the minister from death.

He was appointed to the Boston Fire Department on January 4, 1888, and advanced through the successive grades until he attained the office of department chief on March 7, 1922. During his administration the complete motorization of the department apparatus and the installation of the two-platoon system were effected.

He was a member of the Fire Chiefs' Club of Massachusetts, New England Association of Fire Chiefs, International Association of Fire Engineers and Mt. Vernon Council, K. of C., and was an honorary member of the Societe des Sappers et Pompiers of Paris and of Box 52 Association.

His wife, who before marriage was Nora T. Shea of Boston, died three years ago, and since then he had been living with his daughter, Mrs. Henry Lawler, at 20 Fletcher street. Besides his son and two daughters, there are four grandchildren.

MAYOR CURLEY'S STATEMENT.

Mayor Curley issued the following statement on December 16 on the death of Chief John O. Taber of the Fire Department.

"The City of Boston in the death of chief of the Boston Fire Department John O. Taber has suffered a great loss. As head of the Boston Fire Department, through his knowledge of fire fighting, persistency and vision, the Fire Department of Boston was developed into one of the best organizations for the protection of life and property from destruction by fire to be found in any portion of the world. As head of the fire-fighting force he not only enjoyed the confidence of the men under him but was loved by all for his ability as a fire fighter and courage as a man; he never followed his men at a fire, he always led them.

"It will be difficult to secure a head for the Boston Fire Department as capable, as conscientious, as courageous as John O. Taber. As Mayor of the city my sympathy goes out to his children in the loss of a devoted father and an exceptional type of upstanding American.

"It was my pleasure to know him personally and my sorrow at this time is shared with the family in the passing of a sincere friend."

EXTENSION OF CONTRACTS.

BOSTON SANATORIUM.

Jarvis Engineering Company have been granted an extension of time for the completion of the contract for refrigerating machinery to December 15, 1924. There has been delay of some months in this work occasioned by a defective ammonia engine, new parts for which had to be made. The Jarvis Engineering Company are not in any way responsible for this.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Thomas O'Connor & Co. have been granted an extension of time of completion of the contract for the erection and completion of the fire alarm signal apparatus building, until July 1, 1925.

The architects for the building recommended the extension because of delay caused by strikes, the approval of material, permits, etc. The contract with the Gamewell Company will not expire until 130 days after the building is thoroughly dried out. The architects believe it will be for the best interests of the city to have the general contractor on the job until the Gamewell Company completes its contract in order to protect portions of the work subject to damage from handling and moving material.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

J. Edward Ogden Company has been granted an extension of the time of completion of the contract for two electrically operated ferry bridges with gallowes frames and accompanying machinery, from December 31, 1924, to April 1, 1925, on account of difficulties and delays in securing structural steel and other materials and because of delays in transportation of materials.

The New England Foundation Company has been granted an extension of the time of completion of the contract for building two piers for Dartmouth Street Bridge, over the Boston and Albany Railroad, from December 3, 1924, to December 31, 1924, on account of the delay in delivery of steel material for the caissons.

Antony Barofaldi & Co. have been granted an extension of the time of completion of the contract for filling in Ashley street, from Breed street to Boardman street, from December 1, 1924, to January 31, 1925.

W. H. Ellis & Son Company have been granted an extension of the time of completion of the contract for repairing wharf at coal pocket, South Ferry, from November 15, 1924, to January 20, 1925.

John Williams and Co. have been granted an extension of the time of completion of the contract for sewerage works in Stellman road, private land, Bradeen street and Washington street, West Roxbury, from December 15, 1924, to January 15, 1925 (thirty-one days), on account of unforeseen obstacles encountered during the progress of the work.

W. H. Ellis & Son Company have been granted an extension of the time of completion of the contract for repairing piers at the North Ferry, from October 15, 1924, to January 20, 1925, for the reason that the company, at our request, removed its equipment from the work on account of the fact that one of the ferrydrops have been damaged and we could not allow the Ellis Company to work and still operate the North Ferry.

PUBLIC LIBRARY LECTURE ON HOUSING.

On Thursday evening, December 18, at eight o'clock in the Lecture Hall of the Boston Public Library, there was given a lecture, illustrated by the stereopticon, by Frank A. Bourne, architect, on "How the Dutch do it: Housing Problems and Port Development."

Mr. Bourne was a delegate from the American Institute of Architects to the International Federation for Town and Country Planning and Garden Cities, held at Amsterdam, and the illustrations include photographs which he took while in Holland, showing the remarkable house building epidemic in Amsterdam in the last three years, and also some material on the ports of Amsterdam and Rotterdam, which may be of value in comparison with the Port of Boston. He also showed a few slides of more popular interest as a result of his trip down the Adriatic and into Jugo Slavia as far as Mostar and Sarajevo.

MAYOR ASKS FOR ACTION ON AIR MAIL FOR BOSTON.

On December 15 the Mayor sent the following message to Speaker Gillett on the air mail situation.

BOSTON, December 15, 1924.

HON. FREDERICK H. GILLETT, Speaker,
House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

I am informed that three bills have been favorably reported by the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads providing for the extension of the air mail service to Boston and that the matter will be presented in the House of Representatives upon calendar Wednesday, December 17. Postmaster General New is reported favorable to the project. It is imperative that some measure pass to provide greater postal facilities for Boston merchants. I sincerely trust that you will call an immediate conference of all members of the Massachusetts delegation in Congress in order that there may be thorough harmony of agreement in behalf of this desired legislation and that methods of procedure may be definitely determined. It is in your power to save this important situation and I feel assured you will take the necessary steps in the premises.

VETO OF PAYMENT TO NELLIE LONG.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, November 25, 1924.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit herewith report of the Corporation Counsel in the case of the orders adopted under date of November 10, 1924, providing for the payment of $1,500 to Nellie Long, who was injured by falling on the sidewalk in the yard of the William E. Blackstone School.

I am agreeable to the course outlined by the Corporation Counsel and commend consideration of the same to your honorable body. The orders are returned without my approval.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Law Department, December 6, 1924.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir,—In reply to your letter of November 18, 1924, in re Nellie Long, I beg to report as follows:

Chapter 437 of the Acts of 1924 provide that the City of Boston may pay to Nellie Long, the mother of James Long, a pupil of the William B. Blackstone School, who was injured while escorting said pupil to said school by falling on the sidewalk in the school yard, which fall was occasioned by an accumulation of ice and snow, the sum of $1,500 as full compensation on the part of said city for said injuries.

This act was adopted as the result of an accident that happened in the school yard of the William Blackstone School, when Mrs. Nellie Long was taking her young son to the kindergarten grade, there having been allowed to accumulate snow and ice on the walks, causing her to fall. On account of her great weight she sustained a broken shoulder and fractured elbow. She was confined to her bed for a long period, and finally on May 31, 1924, died, leaving a husband and three children, aged thirteen, eleven and seven, respectively. Her death occurred while this bill was pending. The bill provides that payment shall be made to Nellie Long.

I consulted with Representative John I. Fitzgerald, who is the petitioner for the legislation, and expressed the opinion to him that in view of the fact that the bill provides for payment to Nellie Long, and Nellie Long being dead, that it might create some complication if your Honor were to sign this order in its present form, and suggested to him that it might avoid any complication if this order was not adopted by the city government, and that in the next Legislature a similar bill be introduced which would provide that payment be made to James Long, husband of Nellie Long. Representative Fitzgerald agreed with this view of the matter.

In view of all the circumstances, $1,500 seems to be a reasonable amount.

Respectfully submitted,

H. MURRAY PAKULSKI,

Assistant Corporation Counsel.

Placed on file.

ADDITIONAL FUNDS FOR EMPLOYMENT BUREAU.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, December 8, 1924.

I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Employment Bureau, November 21, 1924.
Hon. James M. Curley,

CHANGE IN WEST ROXBURY BUS ROUTE.

Coun. PURCELL offered the following:

Ordered, That the route specified in the existing license to the Boston Elevated Railway Company to operate motor vehicles between the junction of Belgrade avenue and Centre street, West Roxbury district, and the junction of Centre and Eliot streets, Jamaica Plain district, be changed so as to read as follows:

"Via Centre street, May street, Pond street, Arborway and Centre street to the Monument; and return over the same route."

Coun. PURCELL—This simply means changing, shortening up the present route, instead of putting in a new order, and involves a continuance still of the present 5-cent fare.

Coun. MORIARTY—I understood Coun. Purcell to ask Mr. Dana in committee if they would run over that route at the present rate of fare, and he would not give any assurance that he would, but said that that would probably be the result, and that he would take it up along that line with the trustees. If we don't look out, there may be a loophole there, and if we vote now to change the route the fare charged may be 6 cents. What will we do then?

Coun. PURCELL—We can vote against it. I don't care what the Council does, whether it passes or reject the order, but I think we should do something. This is something that will benefit a number of voters in the City of Boston out that way, and I understand that there will be no change in the fare for the present.

Coun. MORIARTY—At the hearing held in Jamaica Plain the majority of the people were opposed to the proposed change. We find two women here this afternoon who live in the district who were not present at the hearing in Jamaica Plain, but who have taken it upon themselves to appear here after having gone around with a petition, and they have filed that petition here. I think that is unfair to the people of the district, who were notified of the public hearing, and these people who did not go to that hearing, have now come down here with another petition.

Coun. PURCELL—The gentleman is wrong when he says they come in here with another petition. This proposed change, as embodied in the order, as I understand it, is satisfactory to the people of the district, and it was understood here with Mr. Dana that that was the proper way to do it to satisfy the people.

Coun. MORIARTY—I don't know what has gone on since the public hearing, but I understand that these women, who talked to me this afternoon, both live on Eliot street. Mrs. Brennan tells me that her husband was present at the meeting held there and was in favor of removing the jitneys from that street. If I remember right, and I think the records will show it, those who were in attendance at that public hearing were opposed to a change. When the vote was taken by the presiding officer, Coun. Purcell, the majority of the people at that hearing voted against a change.

Coun. PURCELL—Excuse me for interrupting. The original order was to eliminate May and Pond streets and carry the route all the way along Centre street. That was the reason for the objection. It was the people living in the May street section of Jamaica Plain who objected. The people on Burroughs and Eliot streets were in favor of the proposed change. But the thing was entirely different from this. This proposes to go all along Centre street, eliminating May and Pond streets.

Coun. MORIARTY—Well, you are putting it along the Arborway, and I don't know whether people on the Arborway want it. It is going to discommode some people, I suppose.

Coun. GILBODY—A short delay in acting will not do any harm.

Coun. PURCELL—It makes no difference to me.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. Dana said he was instructed by the trustees to favor the proposition, but that if it went through it would be a 6-cent fare. If we pass this today, with the vote already taken by the trustees, there will be a 6-cent fare. I think we as individual members of the Council ought to protect ourselves, because if we start in changing the route, having in mind the vote the trustees have already taken, they will start in with a 6-cent fare, and we will be overboard.

Coun. WATSON—Can they, with this order?

Coun. PURCELL—No. This order merely changes the route.

Coun. MORIARTY—Have we a right to change an existing route without the consent of the Elevated?

Coun. WATSON—The Elevated are asking for it.

Coun. MORIARTY—No, they are not. We are asking for it.

Coun. LANE—We have the right to grant a route; therefore, we have the right to change the route. I understand that that is all that is asked for here.

Coun. WALSH—Mr. Chairman, I move that the matter be referred to the Committee on Jitney Licenses.

The President put the motion to refer the matter to the Committee on Jitney Licenses, and declared that it was not a vote. Coun. Moriarty doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays.

The Council voted to refer the order to the Committee on Jitney Licenses, yeas, 5, nays 3:

Yeas—Coun. Donoghue, Gilbody, Healey, Moriarty, Walsh—5.

Nays—Coun. Lane, Purcell, Watson—3.

Adjourned at 5.28 p. m., on motion of Coun. HEALEY, to meet on Monday, December 15, at 2 p. m.

REDIVISION OF BOSTON INTO WARDS.

Chapter 630, Acts of 1914, required the redivision of Boston, by the City Council, into not less than 24 nor more than 36 wards, so arranged as to contain as nearly as could be ascertained an equal number of voters in each ward. On December 28, 1914, the City Council enacted as an Ordinance, by vote of 6 to 3, the plan submitted by its Committee on Redivision of Wards. This plan describes the new boundaries of the 26 wards. (See Municipal Register for 1921, pages 196-207.) The changes effected by the redivision of wards were mainly these, viz., Wards 1 and 2, East Boston, are divided by Prescott and Princeton streets instead of as before; Charlestown has two wards (3 and 4) instead of three; Ward 5 covers the old Wards 6, 7 and 8; Ward 6 in place of old Ward 9; Ward 7 in place of old 10; Ward 8 in place of old 11; Wards 9 and 10 cover the old South Boston Wards 13, 14 and 15 mostly; Ward 11 takes in the northern half of old Ward 16 and western end of old Ward 15; Ward 12 is similar to old Ward 17 and Ward 13 to old 18; Ward 14 includes old Ward 19 and adjacent part of old Ward 22 (as far as Perkins and Centre streets); Wards 15 and 16 cover old Ward 21 and the northern part of 22 (as far as Boylston street); Wards 17, 18 and 19 cover that part of old Ward 16 south of Dudley street and all of old Ward 20; Wards 20 and 21 cover the eastern half and western half respectively of old Ward 24 (as far as Blue Hill avenue and Walk Hill street); Ward 22 includes the southern half of old 22 below Boylston street and the northern end of old Ward 23 to Whipple avenue, Walk Hill, South and Allandale streets; Ward 23 is unchanged except as to its northern boundary just stated, and Ward 24 takes in Mount Hope section, east of railroad, Mattapan and Hyde Park. Wards 25 and 26 cover the southern half and northern half respectively of old Ward 25, Brighton.

REPORT OF TRIAL BOARD.

A communication was received from the Trial Board, under date of Dec. 1, 1924, to whom was referred at the meeting of Nov. 17, 1924, a communication from the Schoolhouse Custodian preferring charges of neglect of duty against Charles V. Gillis, custodian, Fairmount Schoolhouse, reporting that a hearing was held on Nov. 28, 1924, which was attended by the custodian concerned, by the Schoolhouse Custodian, and by the master and sub-master, Elihu Greenwood District.

The Trial Board finds that the charges of the Schoolhouse Custodian are sustained, inasmuch as Mr. Gillis appears to have left the school building on several occasions without notifying the sub-master in charge of the building. However, the Trial Board is of the opinion that there were extenuating circumstances, at least on recent occasions, inasmuch as the custodian's mother is critically ill, and the custodian, because of his anxiety, returned to his home during school hours.

From the testimony before the Trial Board it appears that the Fairmount School is a building difficult to heat and the Trial Board believes that under existing conditions the custodian has done and is doing his best in this direction, though sometimes without success.

FINDING—That the custodian is guilty of the charges preferred against him in having left the building on several occasions without notifying the sub-master in charge.

RECOMMENDATION—That a letter be sent to the custodian from the School Committee reprimanding him for his failure to comply with the established regulations with reference to remaining in the building during school hours, and cautioning him against any further failure to comply with these and other regulations for custodians of school buildings; and that the Schoolhouse Custodian be asked to arrange for the custodian's transfer to another building as soon as may be possible, with the understanding that such transfer shall not result in any reduction in salary.

Placed on file, and the recommendation adopted.

WIDENING OF TREMONT STREET.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 15, 1924.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am this day in receipt of a communication from the Street Laying-Out Department, copy of which is here appended, directing my attention to the fact that the authorization for the widening of Tremont street provided by the Legislature of 1923 is insufficient in amount to cover the cost of widening as proposed.

I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Street Laying-Out Department,
December 9, 1924.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston:

My dear Mr. Mayor,—The estimates for the proposed Tremont street improvement as provided for by the Legislature of 1923, are as follows:
Awards for property taken, approximately..... $1,280,000
Construction..... 108,000
Plans, appraisals, etc..... 20,000

Making a total of..... $1,408,000

As the total appropriation for this work is only $1,320,000 it will be necessary to provide $90,000 from some other source within the appropriating power of the city, and we respectfully request that this additional appropriation be granted.

Respectfully yours,
JOHN H. L. NOYES, Chairman.

Ordered, That the sum of $90,000 be and the same is hereby appropriated from Special Fund, Civilian War Poll Tax Refund for Tremont Street Improvement.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

NEW TREMONT STREET BRIDGE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 10, 1924.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit herewith a report received from the Commissioner of the Public Works Department with reference to the bridge on Tremont street at Arlington square.

The commissioner in his communication set forth that a new and wider bridge is necessary at this point as a consequence of the proposed widening of Tremont street, and believes that an amount in the sum of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) will be necessary for this purpose.

I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Boston, December 9, 1924.

To the Mayor of Boston.

In connection with the widening of Tremont street, from Stuart street to Arlington square, it will be necessary to widen the existing bridge over the Boston & Albany Railroad and eliminate the overhead crossing of the 30-inch and 36-inch low service supply mains.

The estimated cost of providing the new bridge structure is $100,000, which amount should be made available as soon as possible from an authorized loan for permanent improvements, in order that plans may be drawn and a contract awarded for this structure.

Respectfully yours,
J. A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Ordered, That the sum of one hundred thousand dollars be appropriated to be expended by the Commissioner of Public Works for the Tremont Street Bridge, and that the City Treasurer be and hereby is authorized to issue from time to time, upon request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

MUNICIPAL BUILDING, BRIGHTON—VETO.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 15, 1924.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, order adopted by the City Council under date of December 8, 1924, providing for the acceptance of chapter 399 of the Acts of 1924, making provision for the erection of a municipal building in the Brighton-Allston district by the City of Boston.

This bill authorizes the city to borrow money outside the debt limit for this purpose and in my opinion this action should only be taken in cases of extreme emergency. The most pressing need of the Brighton-Allston district at the present time is a courthouse and the city has made provision for the construction of the same.

It would be most pleasing for me to approve legislation of this character desired by so many persons of Brighton-Allston and I would gladly do so provided there was some way I could justify it. The necessity, however, of securing sufficient funds at an early date for erection of the Chronic Hospital at Parker Hill, the replacement of the main water line of the city which has been in use since 1860 and which will probably represent an expenditure in excess of a million dollars, the necessity for the appropriation outside the debt limit of sufficient funds to proceed with the establishment of a main traffic highway through the center of the business district of the city as recommended by the City Planning Board and approved by the business interests, which will represent an expenditure in excess of thirty millions of dollars, are, in my opinion, matters of primary importance that take precedence over the legislation as here proposed, and until such time as the necessities have been provided which are required for the protection of life and property of the people of the city we must forego demands of this character regardless of the number of persons that may be displeased or the pressure that is exerted to secure immediate action upon the improvement desired.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Placed on file.

PAYMENT TO EDWARD J. C. POWERS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 15, 1924.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I submit herewith for your consideration an order for the payment of the sum of $2,500 to Edward J. C. Powers in reimbursement of a judgment found against him on account of his acts as a member of the Fire Department. The facts are set forth in the accompanying communication from the Corporation Counsel and the Fire Commissioner.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Fire Department, December 10, 1924.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I respectfully recommend and authorize that Ladderman Edward J. C. Powers of the Boston Fire Department be indemnified in the sum of twenty-five hundred (2,500) dollars, the amount of a judgment awarded to Frank P. Keating in the case of Frank P. Keating v. Edward J. C. Powers. This authorization is given in accordance with section 100, chapter 41 of the General Laws.

Ladderman Edward J. C. Powers, while in the faithful performance of his duty, and operating Ladder Truck No. 8 in response to an alarm of fire from Box 1471, on January 9, 1924, collided with an automobile of Frank P. Keating, resulting in damage to the automobile involved in the collision and other automobiles of the plaintiff.

Yours very truly,

THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Fire Commissioner.

Ordered, That the sum of $2,500 as recommended by the Fire Commissioner be allowed and paid to Edward J. C. Powers for expense incurred by him in the settlement of an action brought against him on account of his acts as a member of the Fire Department; said sum to be charged to Reserve Fund.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

RESOLUTIONS ON DEATH OF SAMUEL GOMPERS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 13, 1924.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—The world's foremost advocate and champion of the rights of the toiler, in answer to the summons of his Maker, has passed to the Great Beyond.

The people of America, regardless of station, race, creed or color, mourn the death of labor's leader and humanity's champion, Samuel Gompers.

His leadership both in peace and in war was dedicated to the welfare of his fellow man and the country of his adoption, the United States of America. When elevated to the position of president of the American Federation of Labor, nearly a quarter of a century ago, he found the creators of the nation's wealth, those who toiled with hands and brain, working long hours with insufficient return to provide for the actual need of their families. Under his leadership the twelve-hour day in industry was changed for the more humane eight-hour day, the Saturday half-holiday is today operative in substantially every state of the union, and protection for the toiler and the dependents of the toiler have been made possible through the Workingmen's Compensation Act and the Mothers' Aid Act, the saving wage has been substituted for the starvation wage, and the problem of part-time employment is receiving consideration from the thoughtful minds in America.

Through his leadership American labor has been prevented from accepting the tenets of communism and has been permitted to continue American. His contribution to the welfare of the toiler, to the happiness of his home, and to genuine Americanism is deserving of consideration and action by the city government of Boston, and I accordingly recommend the adoption by your honorable body of an order providing that the flags on all public buildings of the City of Boston be flown at half-mast upon the day of the funeral of Samuel Gompers, and further, the adoption of a resolution expressing the sorrow of the people of Boston at the great loss sustained by America in the death of Samuel Gompers.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

RESOLUTION.

Whereas, Almighty God in His Wisdom has seen fit to call from our midst America's foremost champion of human rights, Samuel Gompers, and

Whereas, During his entire life his splendid talents and great ability were devoted to the promotion of the progress and happiness of his fellow man, and

Whereas, His death is universally mourned and his passing represents an irreparable loss to the forces of labor whom he led with wisdom and courage, to humanity whom he served, to his family whom he loved, be it and it is hereby

Resolved, That the City Council of Boston in regular meeting assembled mourn the loss of Samuel Gompers, and be it further Ordered, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the wife of Samuel Gompers, and the vice president of the American Federation of Labor, James Duncan, the expense to be charged to the Reserve Fund.

On motion of Coun. MORIARTY, the rule was suspended and the preambles, resolution and order were passed by a unanimous rising vote.

Later in the session, Coun. MORIARTY offered the following:

Ordered, That the late Samuel Gompers once being a resident of the City of Boston and later one of the leading figures of our country, His Honor the Mayor be requested to appoint a committee to represent the city at the funeral services.

INCREASE OF LOCAL JITNEY FARES.

The following was received:

Boston Elevated Railway,
 Offices of the Public Trustees,
 31 St. James Avenue,
 Boston, December 15, 1924.

To the Honorable City Council.

Gentlemen,—In conformity with request made to me at the conference on December 10 to reduce to writing the reasons for request of increase of local fares, I am attaching a statement which covers the matter.

Very truly yours,

EDWARD DANA,
 General Manager.

MEMORANDUM FOR BOSTON CITY COUNCIL.

Reasons for increase from 5 cents to 6 cents for local fare on bus rides.

1. The trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway are directed to fix rates of fare which in their judgment will reasonably insure sufficient income to meet the cost of service. If the income is not sufficient any deficit caused thereby may be assessed upon the cities and towns served. The City of Boston pays over 70 per cent of any such deficit.

2. In the year ending July 1, 1923, the income no more than met the cost of service through the receipt of $144,000 from settlement of claims for previous years.

During the months of July, August, September and October, the receipts were less than the corresponding period of the previous year by $1,042,556.11.

In October a wage increase was granted by arbitration of about 3½ per cent. This increases expenses about $500,000 per annum.

The foregoing shows the reason why it was necessary to take steps to increase the income for the succeeding year.

The trustees made the smallest possible increase, to wit: One cent on the local fares on street railway lines. The same increase should be made upon the bus rates because:

1. The added revenue is necessary in order to meet the cost of service.

2. It constitutes unreasonable discrimination to maintain these five-cent lines when it has been necessary to increase the fare upon street railway lines furnishing substantially similar service.

3. The bus lines in general are service lines, that is, they are not operated at a profit, but to fulfill the function of furnishing some service to the region in which they are operated.

Operated at the same rate of fare as the similar street car service they impose some burden upon the rest of the system and it is unreasonable for this burden to be increased by maintaining a lower fare.

4. It is the desire of the trustees to do away with the six-cent fare for local rides and restore the previous five-cent fare as early a day as possible. The maintenance of the five-cent fare on the bus lines to the amount that it decreases the revenue otherwise receivable, postpones the day when this can be done and is consequently favoring riders on the bus lines at the expense of the large body of the citizens of Boston.

Referred to the Committee on jitney licenses.

EXPENSE OF REDISTRICTING BOSTON.

President DONOGHUE offered an order—That the City Auditor inform the City Council what expense, if any, has been paid by the City of Boston, on account of the legislative commission appointed to redistrict the wards of the city.

Coun. BRICKLEY in the chair.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. Chairman, I introduce this order at this time because of the report which has recently been given to some of the newspaper reporters relative to the plans which are being mapped out by the committee which was appointed to redistrict Boston. Originally this committee was given authority by the Republican Legislature which in previous years has always been vested in the City Council of the City of Boston, but this year the Republican Legislature, in order to gerrymander our city, appointed a committee of Representatives and Senators, composed of seven Republicans and four Democrats, to redistrict Democratic Boston, it being known when they did so that they would make an absolutely biased report, and from what information has already been given to the press they are well living up to their reputation. This committee was supposed to have private quarters, as I understand it, in the City Hall, and an expense account of $3,000 was to be at their disposal, to be paid for by the citizens of Boston. The City Council has refused to sanction the bill for $2,000 and has also protested against the granting of any space in this hall to that committee, but I have been informed that space has been provided for them and that they have been working behind closed doors, the press not even being allowed to go into the room to attend any of the meetings of the committee. No one in the employ of the City of Boston up to the present time has been given any information by that committee as to what they expect to be able to accomplish. This committee, composed of seven Republicans and four Democrats, appointed a subcommittee to make a report to the committee of the whole, and they appointed on that subcommittee Senator Clark from Dorchester, Representative Keniston from the Back Bay, and Carrol Meins, Representative from Roxbury, who originally introduced the order to take the power away from the City Council, and they refused absolutely to give the Democratic Party any representative whatever on that subcommittee. Even though this is a Democratic city by over 70,000 votes, we find that this committee of gerrymanderers appointed a subcommittee without giving any representative whatever to the Democratic Party in our city, even though the chairman of the Democratic City Committee is a member of the committee of the whole. From what reports have been gleaned by the enterprise of newspaper reporters, we find certain things, and I believe the only reports the newspaper men have received have been through their own initiative and not through voluntary wish of that committee. They have so laid out this city of ours that they have eliminated practically in their entirety four Democratic wards. They have not disturbed a single Republican ward in the City of Boston. In fact, they have added to the districts which have been Republican in years gone by. They have segregated the people of the Jewish race so that they are now all thrown into a district by themselves in Dorchester, proving that they only tolerate the Jewish citizens of our city. They have done the same thing in so far as the negro in our city is concerned and, while at the present time Ward 13 is practically an even district between the Democrats and the Republicans, as represented by the negro people in the Republican part of the ward, they are denied representation and sent out to Jamaica Plain. They have made one ward of East Boston, composed of over 14,000 voters, one ward of Charlestown, one ward of the West End, bringing old Ward 5 all the way up through the South End to Waltham street, and they have brought Democratic Ward 12 from the outline from the outskirts of Roxbury down to the other side of Waltham street, eliminating entirely the ward I come from, Ward 6. Of course, I personally did not expect any better treatment. But I notice that Mr. Keniston, who is a member of this gerrymandering committee, has recently been appointed as his reward to the job of chairmanship of the Metropolitan District Commission. Senator Clark, from Dorchester, has so manipulated the thing that he has eliminated the Jewish voters from his district, so that he can be a candidate for the incoming City Council. Martin Hays of Brighton has so manipulated the Brighton district that he comes all the way down through to Kenmore Station, jumping over from the Brookline line, the natural boundary line of Brighton at the Cottage Farm Bridge, and coming all the way down until he joins with Ward 8. No Republican ward is disturbed. If East Boston is a district by itself, and if Charlestown is a district by itself, then so is Brighton, and they are not entitled to come all the way from Brighton into Ward 8 to pick up the necessary 1,200 or 1,500 votes in order that they make two wards of Brighton. In fact, I personally think that this is about as raw a deal as has ever been inflicted upon the people of our city, and I think that the Democratic citizens of Boston are entitled under the present set-up of our political parties to a better representation in the incoming City Council than they will receive under this gerrymandering act. Under this act the Republican Party are positively assured of at least nine or ten city councilors out of a total of twenty-two, and they are not entitled to that number. This city of ours is Democratic by over 70,000 votes, and this state of ours is on the wavering line, as demonstrated by the vote for United States Senator as between Speaker of the House Gillette and the Hon. David I. Walsh, when in a presidential year there was a difference of less than 8,000 votes between the two candidates in our state. With Boston under this plan entitled to less than twenty-five Democratic representatives in the General Court, and with the City Council of Boston entitled to possibly eleven or twelve Democratic members at the most, a Council now composed of eight Democrats and one Republican, I say it is about time that some action was taken to prevent this iniquitous scheme of the Republican Party to divide and disrupt the Democratic Party in our city from going into effect. If they dare to file any such report as is now contemplated, I will predict that the courts of our Commonwealth will never stand for such an unfair gerrymandering scheme. I hope that the order will go upon its passage.

The order was passed.

POWERS OF CITY COUNCIL IN COUNTY MATTERS.

President DONOGHUE—Gentlemen of the Council, the Chair at this time will make a statement with reference to the co-called investigation of the House of Correction at Deer Island in order to make his position as a member and President of the Council a matter of record. It is the opinion of the Chair that the committee of the City Council on Inspection of Prisons has the right at any time to visit, inspect, and inquire into conditions at the Jail or House of Correction, and that the City Council, as such, has the right and power, either as a body or by a duly authorized committee, to investigate the management of the county institutions or any other institutions or department for which they appropriate money. The right of the City Council, by itself or by a duly authorized committee, to investigate the county institutions by virtue of the powers conferred upon it and which are exercised in other counties by the county commissioners, has been established by precedent and confirmed by an opinion furnished to the City Council on February 24, 1914, by the then Corporation Counsel, Hon. John A. Sullivan, in the matter of the investigation of the County Jail. And in pursuance to that opinion the Council passed an order authorizing their Committee on Inspection of Prisons to make that investigation and the investigation was made, and the hearings were held, and the witnesses examined at City Hall. I might point out that the Council which obtained this opinion and concurred in it, contained four lawyers of high standing in the community, Messrs. Kenny, Collins, Coulthurst and Attridge. Acting apparently on the theory that there is a board of county commissioners for Suffolk County consisting of the nine members of the City Council and the Mayor, thereby making a board of ten members, five members of the Council have assumed that they are county commissioners, have called meetings, elected a chairman and a secretary, and propose to hold hearings and conduct an investigation of the House of Correction. Their proceedings are open to two objections, first, that if there is a board of ten county commissioners, five is not a majority; and second, that the county commissioners of Suffolk County, if such a body existed, would be a board consisting of the City Council of Boston, the City Council of Chelsea and the County Commissioners of Middlesex. However, neither of these objections are of particular moment, for the reason that the Supreme Court in a case reported in 114 Mass., page 417, decided, and made the bald statement, "that there are no county commissioners in Suffolk"; and there has been no substantive change in the law relating to county commissioners since that decision was made. No matter what the individual opinion of members of the Council may be, it has been settled by the highest tribunal that county commissioners do not exist for this county. The action so far taken by these self-constituted county commissioners, except in so far as it has been taken in their ca-capacity as the Committee on Inspection of Prisons, is, in the Chair's opinion, illegal and unwarranted. Illegal, because there are no county commissioners, and unwarranted because it is not the action of a majority under their own contention. They now find themselves in an untenable position, and propose to ask for outside legal advice. The Chair sees no reason, when the proper course of procedure has been clearly established both by precedent and legal opinion, for splitting hairs and casting doubts on the powers which we have exercised as a City Council for more than fourteen years. Our powers have been curtailed enough by a hostile Legislature without any additional assistance from our own members. We can quibble all day about the exact meaning of this phrase or that phrase and at the end there will probably be nine different opinions, but why quibble when we have an established method of procedure, backed up by the opinion of the former Corporation Counsel which stands until it is reversed or overturned. The Chair makes this statement without intending to reflect in any way on any member of the Council, but believing it is time to return to an orderly and legal method of transacting the business of the Council, whether under the powers conferred on it which are exercised by county commissioners in other counties, or in any other capacity. Let me state, gentlemen, that that is my opinion, and I make that statement for the purposes of the record. I will recognize any other member of the Council on a question of personal privilege, to make any statement he desires. I simply wish to make it plain that my reason for nonparticipation in the farce was for the reasons that I have just stated to the Council.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

On motion of Coun. WATSON a general reconsideration of all action taken today was refused.

Adjourned, at 5 p. m., on motion of Coun. WALSH, to meet on Monday, December 29, at 2 p. m.

UNDERGROUND RAPID TRANSIT IN BOSTON.

The Boston Transit Commission, consisting of five members, two appointed by the Governor and three by the Mayor, began its official existence, July 1, 1894, and ended it July 1, 1918, after seven extensions of the original term. It constructed, under the authority of Acts of the Legislature, the following subways and tunnels, the ownership of which is vested in the City of Boston, and all costs to be covered by revenue from same, not by taxation; Tremont Street Subway, from Broadway and Tremont street, South End, to North Station, and from Boylston street, near Charles, to Park street, 1.68 miles, open to Park street, September 1, 1897, and to North Station on Sept. 3, 1898, costing with subsequent alterations, \$4,416,000, the first transportation subway in the United States; East Boston Tunnel, from Maverick square, East Boston, under Boston Harbor and State street to Scollay square, Boston Proper, 1.42 miles, opened December 30, 1904, costing \$3,336,000, the first all-concrete under-water transportation tunnel in the world; Washington Street Tunnel, from Ash street, opposite Nassau, South End, to Traverse street, near North Station, 1.16 miles, opened November 30, 1908, costing \$8,496,700 (including \$2,850,000 land damages); Cambridge Connection Subway from under Park street station of Tremont Street Subway to Grove street near Cambridge Bridge, 0.47 miles, opened March 23, 1912, costing \$1,465,000; Boylston street subway, from Commonwealth avenue, near Kenmore street, Back Bay, to Tremont Street Subway, near Charles street, 1.5 miles opened October 13, 1914, costing \$5,485,639; East Boston Tunnel Extension, from Scollay square to North Russell street, 0.41 miles, opened March 18, 1916, approximate cost, \$2,450,000; Dorchester Tunnel, from Park street, Boston Proper, to Andrew square, South Boston, 2.26 miles, opened December 3, 1916, as far as South Station; on December 15, 1917, to Broadway, South Boston, and on June 29, 1918, to the Andrew Square terminal. Trains of four or six cars are run in the Washington Street Tunnel, continuing on elevated track to Forest Hills, also in Dorchester Tunnel from Andrew square, South Boston, connecting with Cambridge Tunnel, to Harvard square, Cambridge, while only single or double street cars are run in the other tunnels and subways; amount borrowed to 1922 for the Dorchester Tunnel, \$10,750,000. Total gross debt for all subways and tunnels, \$37,558,700 (incl. loans of \$1,210,000 for new Arlington Station of Boylston Street Subway, opened on November 13, 1921), against which a sinking fund of \$6,369,630 has been accumulated from the revenue, payable mostly in 40 years from date of each loan (loans since 1911 payable in 45 years), annual interest averaging 3.8 per cent. These underground ways, about 8.9 miles in all with total of 19.27 miles of single track were leased to the Boston Elevated Railway Company (which furnished the equipment) for term of 25 years (except Tremont street, 20 years) at annual rental of $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{3}{4}$ per cent of net cost (except East Boston Tunnel which was at $\frac{1}{8}$ of one per cent of all annual gross receipts of said company). In accordance with Chapter 741, Acts of 1911, the various leases were extended to July 1, 1936, the rental to be $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent of net cost after expiration of the first-term leases.

By Chap. 185, Special Acts of 1918, the powers of the Transit Commission, whose term expired that year, were transferred to the Mayor, Commissioner of Public Works and City Treasurer, or such person or persons, not exceeding three, as the Mayor might appoint. By Chap. 3, Ordinances of 1918, the Transit Dept. was established as a regular City department, to be in charge of three commissioners.

EXPENDITURES FOR PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS PER CAPITA IN LEADING CITIES (RANKING FROM HIGHEST).

Los Angeles, $20.62; Pittsburgh, $15.51; Chicago, $13.92; San Francisco, $12.14; Philadelphia, $8.68; New York, $8.23; Boston, $7.42 (as corrected according to approx. population). (See U. S. Census Bureau's Financial Statistics of Cities, 1920, Preliminary Reports.)

ABSENTEE VOTING AT STATE ELECTIONS.

By Chapter 289, General Acts of 1919, any registered voter absent from home at election time may vote by mailing an "official absent voting ballot" previously applied for and obtained from the Election Commissioners, to the latter so as to be received before the polls close. Said ballot must be marked by the voter privately but within the observation of an official authorized to administer oaths, and of no other person, in a municipality which is separated by at least two municipalities from that in which he is registered. The voter must make affidavit before said official, enclose ballot in official envelope and mail same on or before day of election.

Of 868 Absentee ballots mailed to Election Dept., on or before Nov. 2, 1920, 570 were counted, 10 were rejected and 288 were uncounted because not received until after closing of polls.

GOODBYE OLD YEAR.

Goodbye Old Year. Here comes New.
 You've done wonders; now you're through;
 Adding wisdom to the ages,
 Making history's best pages.
 Rest and slumber with the sages.
 Goodbye Old Year. Welcome New.

Goodbye Old Year. Welcome New.
 Off with false hopes; on with true.
 Nations raise a mighty chorus,
 Rich intoning, grand, sonorous,
 Blithe and gladsome, sad, dolorous.
 Goodbye Old Year. Welcome New
 Off with false hopes, On with true.

Goodbye Old Year. Hail the New.
 Goodbye hatreds. Wrongs adieu.
 Down Life's lane, with high or lowly,
 Weak, or strong, sin-cursed or holy,
 Time is reaping — trudging slowly.
 Goodbye Old Year. Hail the New.
 Goodbye hatreds. Wrongs adieu.

Goodbye Old Year. Come in New.
 Stout hearts look for light to you.
 Rising hopes new scenes are staging;
 Brotherhood our thoughts engaging.
 Dreams of peace hide battles raging.
 Goodbye Old Year. Come in New.
 Stout hearts fondly look to you.

MAYOR CURLEY ADDRESSES PRESIDENT IN PROTEST AGAINST PROPOSED INCREASE IN FOOD TRANSPORTATION COSTS.

The Mayor on December 19 addressed the following letter to President Coolidge on the proposed increase in transportation rates on food.

HON. CALVIN COOLIDGE, President of the United States, Washington, D. C.

MY DEAR MR. PRESIDENT,—I hereby inclose for the information of the President a copy of letter recently mailed to the Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which I submit, with all proper respect, is a protest whose subject matter deserves the attention and interest of the Chief Magistrate of the republic.

Since the mailing of this letter announcement has been made in the daily press that a 10 per cent reduction in the wages of the textile workers of the Merrimack Valley has been ordered by the mill owners, thereby producing economic conditions that render life and living more difficult and hazardous for dependents. In view of the high cost of living now obtaining in New England and the downward trend of wage scales the contemplated raise in transportation rates on the foods of the worker is essentially against the public weal and a move if permitted to materialize calculated to entail a needless hardship in this wintry season.

I respectfully ask that the President will intervene to prevent the precipitation of a situation dangerous to the peace and order of this Commonwealth and unjust to its people. Feeling that I can count on the sympathetic interest of the President and his prompt action, I have the honor to remain,

Respectfully yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

PRESIDENT ACTS ON MAYOR'S SUGGESTION.

Mayor Curley received the following communication December 23:

THE WHITE HOUSE,
WASHINGTON, December 22, 1924.

MY DEAR MR. MAYOR,—Your letter of December 19, with enclosure, has been received and by the President's direction the matter to which you refer is at once being brought to the attention of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Sincerely yours,

C. B. SLEMP,
Secretary to the President.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,
Ensured by thy sons' and thy daughters' unselfish devotion!"

NATHAN HASKELL DOLE.]

BOSTON HAS BEEN GENEROUS TO HER VETERANS FOR WAR SERVICES.

REPORT OF SOLDIERS' RELIEF DEPARTMENT AS PRESENTED TO MAYOR CURLEY SHOWS EFFICIENCY AND SUCCESS OF ORGANIZATION AND WORK ACCOMPLISHED — OVER $14, 000,000 SPENT IN RELIEF SINCE ORGANIZATION.

Boston has spent more than $14,254,289 in soldiers' relief work since the organization of the department and for the year 1922-23 has given relief to more than 10,000 veterans at an expense of $337,366.31. This includes Civil War, Spanish-American War and World War veterans, according to the report of the Commissioner, General John H. Dunn, which he has this week presented to Mayor Curley for consideration. The total number of visits made during the year was 13,511, averaging more than 1,125 per month. In addition to this there were 3,162 who came to the offices in City Hall and made statements, thus saving trips by visitors. During 1921-22 $1,061,797.06 was expended and in 1922-23 $1,049,631.09. This year, however, to date there have been expended but $337,366.31. Owing to unemployment in the past few months these figures will likely be raised.

The report of the Commissioner to his Honor, the Mayor follows:

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

SIR,— In compliance with the provisions of chapter 3, section 24, of the Revised Ordinances, I have the honor to present the annual report of the Soldiers' Relief Department for the year ending January 31, 1924.

The Soldiers' Relief Department under the various statutes as codified under chapter 115 of the General Laws disburses State Aid, Military Aid and Soldiers' Relief to honorably discharged veterans and their dependents of the Civil War, the war with Spain, the Philippine Insurrection and those who served on the Mexican Border and during the World War.

Such persons under the law in order to be eligible for State Aid and Military Aid must have served to the credit of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and to be eligible for Soldiers' Relief must have a legal settlement in Boston. They must be in such need as to require assistance, and it must be determined that they are worthy persons and that their necessity has not been caused by their misconduct.

The following tables will show the changes in the number of cases on the pay roll from February 1, 1923, to January 31, 1924, and also changes in the total monthly payments. The pay roll for the Civil War diminished from $9,128 for the month of February, 1923, to $7,556 for the month of January, 1924. The greatest changes, naturally, were in the pay roll for the World War, Spanish War, Philippine Insurrection and Mexican Border veterans.

$112,428.28 of this amount was expended for World War veterans and their dependents.

The total number of visits made during the year was 13,511, this being an average of 1,125 visits monthly.

In addition to the visitors' reports as to the circumstances of the applicants and beneficiaries, the commissioner requires that all persons who are being aided report at the office from time to time, usually every alternate month, to make statements under oath as to their financial condition or other changes in circumstances. During the year the number of these statements made at the office totalled 3,162. This report of the beneficiary in conjunction with the information gained by the visit to his home, gave the commissioner, when he reviewed the case, an intelligent understanding of the needs in each case and corresponding action on his part.

Practically all applications for aid whether original or for reinstatement go through the commissioner's hands after personal visit and other investigation has been made. In doubtful cases every effort is made to obtain all possible information in order that the commissioner may be conversant with all the circumstances and feel that his action is justified in all his allowances or his action in another direction.

The commissioner personally interviews a large majority of the applicants and advises them regarding their problems. In this way it is found that the confidence and co-operation of the beneficiaries is usually gained.

This work is still being continued, the aim being to aid as far as possible eligible veterans and their dependents in their claims for Federal compensation or pension. Since this work was begun, many pending claims have been settled with the result of a considerable saving to this department. One visitor from this office, who has been especially appointed for this work, makes daily calls at the Veterans' Bureau in order to keep in close touch with the claims of all persons who are on the pay roll of this department.

The commissioner takes this opportunity to express his appreciation for the assistance in various ways given by organizations of former service men which has been of material help toward the results obtained by this department.

The Municipal Employment Bureau has rendered valuable assistance in securing work for ex-service men, many of these being positions for skilled workers at good wages.

The State Employment Bureau and the Massachusetts Reference Association have also been helpful by their co-operation. In addition, the commissioner himself and the visitors and other officials of the department have frequently secured employment for applicants by their personal efforts.

During the period from March to November, 1923, 480 veterans were given employment on the East Boston Tunnel, and in addition to this particular work, during the period from September, 1923, to August, 1924, 804 veterans were placed in positions through the Municipal Employment Bureau established through his Honor Mayor Curley, and this naturally resulted in a great saving to the city.

Since 1922 there has been a large increase in the visiting and clerical staff in order that applications might be handled with greater expedition. Where it appears that the applicant is in extremely needy circumstances, an advance of aid is made pending the usual investigation. Also a policy of greater liberality has been adopted in view of the increase of the cost of living.

The office routine has been greatly improved with the result that decisions on applications may be quickly reached, and an information desk has been established where applicants may be fully informed as to all details of the office procedure.

Methods in the preparation of case histories have been improved, and all histories are now summarized up to date before the case is placed before the commissioner, who is thus enabled, by having a clear view of the situation, to act with greater expedition.

Where a veteran is homeless and unable to earn, it is always the endeavor of the department to induce him to enter a National or State Soldiers' Home, as his condition is thereby greatly improved. During the past year 79 soldiers were sent to the National Soldiers' Home in Togus, Maine, and 17 to the Massachusetts Soldiers' Home in Chelsea. Eight of these latter were moved in ambulances of the Public Buildings Department.

By arrangement with the Law Department, suitable guardians or conservators are appointed for the minor children of veterans as well as for veterans themselves, where such need has been found to exist. A visitor of this department has been assigned to this branch of our work, and gratifying results have been obtained.

The City Council periodically votes from the appropriation for this department a certain sum to be given as temporary relief to soldiers and their dependents who cannot be considered cases for the pay roll. A moderate advance only in these instances is sufficient to tide over the immediate necessity. During the year 192 soldiers and their dependents were helped from this fund.

Provided that the total burial expense does not exceed $160, the state allows, when the deceased does not leave sufficient to defray burial expenses, the sum of $58, or such part thereof as may be necessary toward the funeral expense of veterans and certain of their dependents of the Civil, Spanish, Philippine, and World Wars and Mexican Border service.

During the year 52 applications were allowed by the Commissioner of State Aid at an expense to this department of $2,461.75. The above deceased numbered 42 soldiers, 8 widows, 1 mother, and 1 army nurse. Twenty-six of these soldiers and the army nurse died overseas.

This expenditure for burials is refunded annually to the city by the state.

The Municipal Employment Bureau was established by his Honor Mayor James M. Curley March 1, 1922, and since that time it has been of the greatest assistance to this department in securing positions for a great number of ex-service men who have applied for Soldiers' Relief. By thus providing work for these applicants a large saving has been made to the city.

The Soldiers' Relief Committee of the City Council, consisting of Chairman David J. Brickley, George F. Gilbody, James T. Moriarty, John A. Donoghue, and James A. Watson are due thanks for courtesy and co-operation in their connection with the work of this department.

The Civil Service Commission has also rendered valuable co-operation in certifying and giving preference in the matter of employment to veterans who were on this pay roll.

The Superintendent of Public Buildings, by furnishing ambulances for the removal of disabled soldiers to the Soldiers' Home in Chelsea has rendered valuable service to this department.

into the service of the United States; but all contracts now subsisting between any town or city, and any member of the volunteer militia, as such, shall terminate in ninety days from the date of such contract or the date of enlistment if subsequent to such contract and previous to the passage of this act.

SECT. 3. No compensation, in addition to the regular pay of the army and navy of the United States, other than that mentioned in this act, shall be given by any town or city to any of their inhabitants, who, as volunteers, or otherwise, shall enlist in the service of the United States; but all contracts made with any members of the volunteer militia who have been mustered into the service of the United States for the term of three months, shall be valid during such term, and no pay shall hereafter be allowed by any town or city for the expense of drilling.

SECT. 4. Any city or town, when danger from attack by sea is apprehended, is authorized to organize an armed police to guard against such an attack, and may provide, by taxation, to maintain the same. Such force may, for this purpose, act in any part of the county within which such city or town may be situated.

SECT. 5. Of the sum so paid or applied by any city or town for the support of the family of any inhabitant, who may be actually engaged in the service of the United States, as provided in the first section, there shall be annually reimbursed from the state treasury to such town or city, a sum not exceeding one dollar per week for the wife and one dollar per week for each child or parent of such inhabitant, who at the time of his being called into the service of the United States, was dependent upon him for support; provided, that the whole sum so reimbursed shall not exceed twelve dollars per month for all the persons named in this section so dependent upon any such inhabitant.

SECT. 6. No reimbursement shall be allowed from the state treasury to any town or city, as provided in the previous section, until a full report, certified and sworn to by a majority of the board of selectmen of any town, or by the mayor and majority of the aldermen of any city, containing a statement of the inhabitants of such town or city, whose families have been assisted, as provided in the first section, and of the persons who have been assisted, and the relations which such persons severally bear to such inhabitant, and the sums paid to each person, has been made to the auditor of the Commonwealth, and carefully examined and approved by him.

SECT. 7. A statement certified and sworn to by a majority of the board of selectmen of any town or of the mayor and a majority of the aldermen of any city shall be made to the auditor of the Commonwealth, on or before the fifth day of January in each year, of the full amount due such city or town for aid furnished in accordance with this act.

SECT. 8. This act shall take effect upon its passage. Approved May 23, 1861.

In 1866, after the close of the Civil War, the law was modified so as to provide monthly payments for disabled veterans and to widows and minors, reimbursement to be made by the Commonwealth. The expenditures of this department were reduced in consequence.

All distribution of state and city aid to soldiers, sailors and their dependents was originally made by the direction of the Mayor and Board of Aldermen under different legislative acts until 1897. In

Although the Soldiers' Relief Law was not enacted by the Legislature until 1888, we may consider that the Soldiers' Relief Department came into being as the result of chapter 222, Acts of 1861, which became operative May 23, 1861, about a month after the outbreak of the Civil War. This act is interesting as relating to conditions at that time and is here inserted:

Acts of 1861, chapter 222.

An Act in aid of the families of volunteers, and for other purposes.

SECTION 1. Any town or city may raise money by legislation, and, if necessary, apply the same, under the direction of their selectmen or mayor and aldermen or city council, for the aid of the wife, and of the children under sixteen years of age, of any one of their inhabitants, who, as a member of the volunteer militia of this state may have been mustered into or enlisted in the service of the United States, and for each parent, brother or sister or child, who, at the time of his enlistment was dependent on him for support.

SECT. 2. Any city or town may by vote raise money to defray any expense already incurred, or to carry out and fulfill any contract heretofore made with, or in behalf of any of its inhabitants who may have enlisted as members of the volunteer militia, or who have been or may be called that year the Legislature enacted chapter 441, effective the first Monday in January, 1898, creating the Soldiers' Relief Department of the City of Boston in charge of the Soldiers' Relief Commissioner. As the result of this act, the first Soldiers' Relief Commissioner was appointed by the Mayor, May 23, 1898. Previously all aid to soldiers and their dependents was paid by the paymaster of the state aid office as it was then known, who was under control of the City Treasurer. It is interesting to note the work of this office as shown in the auditor's report for the year 1864-65.

The payments from August, 1861, to the end of April, 1865, amounted to $1,021,790.25, being an average of $22,706.45 per month. Of this we have received back from the state $628,897.40. Our payments generally include other dependents on the soldiers than what the state authorizes. Such payments are not refunded by the state.

The payments in 1864-65 have been the following:

May, June, July.....	$48,818 00

MOVE BEGUN TO FORM ADVISORY PLANNING BOARD OF CITIZENS AND LEADING ORGANIZATIONS.

MAYOR CURLEY TAKES FAVORABLE ACTION ON SUGGESTIONS MADE BY CITY PLANNING BOARD LOOKING FORWARD TO MORE CONSISTENT BEAUTIFYING OF BOSTON.

Mayor Curley has sent the following communication to the chairman of the Planning Board:

MR. FREDERIC H. FAY, Chairman, City Planning Board, Boston, Mass.

DEAR MR. FAY,—I have carefully considered the report as submitted by the City Planning Board with reference to the creation of an advisory committee on public improvements for the City of Boston and am in accord with the views of the Boston Planning Board.

I have accordingly directed a communication to the following organizations, requesting that they submit the names of three members from each organization from which I shall select one name to serve for a period of three years, without salary, in an advisory capacity for the City Planning Board for the consideration of all public improvements for the City of Boston:

The United Improvement Association, Women's Municipal League, Boston Central Labor Union, Boston Society of Architects, Boston Society of Landscape Architects, Affiliated Technical Societies, Boston Real Estate Exchange, Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, Boston Chamber of Commerce, Team Owner's Association, Fruit and Produce Exchange, Master Builders' Association, Retail Trade Board, Motor Truck Club of Massachusetts, Inc.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

BOSTON, December 4, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—Pursuant to our recent conference, the City Planning Board has voted to lay before your Honor in formal manner a report and recommendation relative to the creation of an advisory committee on public improvements for the City of Boston, this committee to act in an advisory capacity to the City Planning Board.

Some of the more obvious reasons underlying this recommendation are set forth in the accompanying communication. The proposition has been discussed with representatives of many of the leading civic organizations in the city that would unquestionably be involved in such a proceeding and the idea having met with unanimous approval, the City Planning Board has been strengthened in its belief that the plan as outlined is possessed of substantial merit.

The value of such a body in the consideration of plans such as the proposed intermediate thoroughfare, for instance, would be inestimable. Through its activity might be found a common meeting ground for the settlement of questions of necessity, the comparative merits of other plans, the apportionment of costs, and the assessment of betterments. The appointment of such a committee would be particularly opportune at this time in that their assistance might be available in the presentation and consideration of legislative matters.

The City Planning Board accordingly recommends that immediate action be taken by your Honor looking toward the creation of an advisory committee on public improvements for the City of Boston in the manner outlined and for the purposes indicated in the accompanying communication.

Respectfully submitted,

THE CITY PLANNING BOARD,
FREDERIC H. FAY,
Chairman.

PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS IN BOSTON.

The results of the past year indicate strongly that a change is needed in the method by which public improvements in Boston are studied.

Owing to Boston's size and relative importance, both in the state and in the metropolitan district, its larger public improvement projects are of wide interest, far beyond its own corporate limits, and on a financial scale that makes it necessary in practically every case to secure legislative permission. Those projects which can be financed within the debt limit are the minor, routine projects and are not sufficiently important to be involved of necessity in the following proposal, but logically should come under the procedure to be outlined for the more important projects.

In securing legislative action on these matters it is necessary, in the natural order of things, first to present a draft of the desired legislation to the appropriate legislative committee and to present arguments substantiating the need of the relief sought and the wisdom of the steps proposed to that end. Such proposals can be and are made by whosoever sees fit, individual, civic body, municipal board or other authority. Following such presentation opponents may be heard in opposition, and generally are.

Under this procedure the legislative committeemen are forced to assume a function, as arbitrators of proposed city planning projects, which is as unreasonable a burden on their time as it is an unjustifiable presumption of their technical knowledge. In the interest of the appropriate use of the time of our legislators no such community project should be presented to them until it has passed through some local filter of public opinion, and when carefully studied projects are presented by the city authorities they should be accompanied by a thoroughly developed public sentiment that would relieve the legislative committee from the necessity of passing on the merits of the improvement, leaving it solely to consider its broader financial and administrative aspects.

Let us consider the history of the past session and see if a conclusion is not fairly obvious.

Nearly a score of bills, some involving very large expenditures and important readjustments in the city plan, were submitted by a single individual without prior conference with the city authorities appointed to advise on all such matters. It is an imposition on the legislators to force them to spend time on such projects and also on the city authorities to expect them to make hasty study and report either for or against proposals involving such important factors. What actually happened, all but one of these bills were "given leave to withdraw" and that one was referred to a duly appointed commission for study and report.

His Honor the Mayor presented through the City Planning Board a comprehensive thoroughfare development for the downtown district. In order to prove its conclusions in the matter the City Planning Board had for fully six months been in consultation with many civic bodies through their officers or specially appointed committees and in presenting the plan was able to present a very substantial body of carefully considered opinion in support of its proposal. These supporting opinions, however, were separately obtained and when at the hearings opposition was voiced by certain of the bodies interviewed, no rebuttal could be readily offered from the group of proponents, but only the single answer of the City Planning Board. The value of the community support presented was, however, fairly clear, although the size of the project made it not unreasonable to refer it to a special commission for further study and report.

His Honor the Mayor also presented a bill for the zoning of Boston, a measure of the very greatest importance, affecting every owner and user of property. This bill went successfully through both branches of the Legislature with only a few perfecting amendments offered by the proponents, and a few offered as a result of conference with them and with their entire agreement.

How was this legislation prepared? By the City Planning Board in co-operation with a Zoning Advisory Commission appointed by the Mayor, the appointees being representatives of some eleven civic organizations. These two bodies sitting jointly through a period of nearly two years developed every step in the undertaking, under skilled professional guidance. After its tentative conclusions had been reached the various organizations themselves gave them consideration, and the public, at a still later stage, had opportunity to appear at public hearings and discuss the many technical phases of the proposed legislation. That so few appeared at their hearings is probably explained by the fact that a very large proportion of the public was represented and already fully informed through the eleven co-operating organizations.

Many zoning bills have failed of passage at their first presentation. Does not the smooth progress of this important piece of constructive legislation suggest a method of procedure that should be followed in the development of all public improvement projects? The city has its official department equipped to do the technical work and to furnish professional guidance to all such studies. What it sadly lacks is an organized approach to public sentiment. This it attempted to secure piecemeal on the thoroughfare project with not a little success. It arranged a more official method for joint public consideration and co-operation in connection with the zoning bill with very marked success, warranted by the high quality of public service that was rendered by a group of private though representative citizens in the interest of the community as a whole.

The City Planning Board believes these experiences and similar instances in the past indicate clearly that there should be created some officially and publicly recognized committee of citizens, available for regular contact with the City Planning Board for the purpose of considering and assisting in the development of all major public improvements to the end that such improvements when finally presented shall have secured the approval of all the elements of the community, technical, professional, financial, economic, business, commercial, social. Such a body need have no authority given to it except to advise; for with such a body in existence and recognized by the community, any proposal that was presented to the Legislature with its support would have all the presumptions in its favor, and proposals made by individuals would find an easy answer in reference to such a body for study and report. The proposals of such a body could be safely accepted as being the reasoned expression of local public opinion and individual opponents would find their special pleas answered by the logic of a united and carefully considered opinion based on a consistent study of the problem.

Such a body could be competent to consider all phases of the subject including its relation to the general condition of the city's finances, and being a continuing body would build up a background of sound financial and business policy of the very greatest value to the city.

It is accordingly recommended that steps be taken toward the creation of an "Advisory Committee on Public Improvements for the City of Boston," to act in an advisory capacity to the City Planning Board, the committee to consist of not more than fifteen members, appointed by the Mayor, from nominees from organizations within the city selected as representing the important business, professional and social factors of the community, each to serve for three years without pay. Such organizations might include.

The United Improvement Association, Women's Municipal League, Boston Central Labor Union, Boston Society of Architects, Boston Society of Landscape Architects, Affiliated Technical Societies, Boston Real Estate Exchange, Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, Boston Chamber of Commerce, Team Owners' Association, Fruit and Produce Exchange, Master Builders' Association, Retail Trade Board, Motor Truck Club of Massachusetts, Inc.

From B-22, Medical, $17.95, to C-10, Library, $17.95.

The reason for the foregoing transfers is explained as follows:

The sum of $2,416.21 is asked for to provide money on the last line in the budget for ten zoo attendants, which appears to be this amount short. When making up the budget, this item was cut the amount that is now needed.

B-6, Hire of Teams: On account of this item being cut $2,000 in the budget and the additional work that was required during the year, we find that it will be necessary to have $5,000 for the needs of this item until the end of the fiscal year.

B-14, Horseshoeing: The sum of $20 is needed to pay for bills for shoeing horses near where they are employed and thus save the time in being obliged to go back to the yard.

C-13, Tools and Instruments: The sum of $900 is asked for to pay for two Champion snow plows, $500, that are badly needed and the balance of $400 will be required to supply the various articles charged to this item until the end of the year.

D-2, Food and Ice: The sum of $100 is asked for on this item in order to have a balance above the $40 on hand to pay for the ice bill for the summer, which is submitted in the closing days of the fiscal year.

D-7, Veterinary: The sum of $40 is asked for to pay for bills for veterinary supplies needed at the zoo.

D-8, Laundry, etc.: The sum of $250 will be needed, in addition to the balance on hand, to pay for soap needed to be sold in the various buildings throughout the department until the end of the year.

D-10, Agricultural: The sum of $200 will be required to pay for material needed on this item until the end of the year.

D-11, Motor Vehicles: We believe that the sum of $600 will be needed on this item for the balance of the fiscal year.

E-1, Building: We believe the sum of $500 will be needed for various kinds of building material for the balance of the fiscal year.

E-12, Parks and Recreational: We asked for $30,000 in the budget, but it was cut to $28,000. We believe we will need $1,500 on this item for the rest of the year.

B-39, General Plant: $7,000 is asked for on this item. The reason for this request is on account of the unexpected requirements that prevail in the various parts of the department. We will be obliged to ask for $7,000 to keep the department up to the standard.

D-4, Forage and Animal: We asked for $23,000 on this item in the budget and were allowed $21,000. We find on account of the increased number of animals in the Zoological Garden that the sum of $5,000 will be needed to pay for the requirements of this item until the end of the year.

B-8, Light and Power: We believe the sum of $500 will be needed on this item until the end of the year.

C-10, Library: The sum of $17.95 will be required to pay for bills incurred on this item.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES B. SHEA,
Chairman.

MAYOR CURLEY SENDS TART REPLY TO FINANCE COMMISSION.

ANSWERS CRITICISM AS TO CAMPAIGN FUND BY SHOWING CONTRIBUTIONS WERE RETURNED BY HIS COMMITTEE.

BOSTON, December 22, 1924.

HON. MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN, Chairman, Finance Commission, Boston, Mass.

MY DEAR JUDGE,—I beg to acknowledge receipt of your communication dated December 22, 1924, relating to contributions made by tenants of Faneuil Hall Market.

The amount of contributions received by Mr. Feeney from the tenants was $105. It did not, as you state, appear in the return of receipts filed by the People's Committee because it was decided by that committee not to use said money and accordingly it was returned to the donors prior to the filing of said statement of receipts. It seems to me that such a display of virtue on the part of any political committee should merit the commendation of both your commission and the public.

With every good wish for a most enjoyable Christmas and trusting that the year 1925 will continue productive of mutual understanding beneficial to the public whom we serve in common, I beg to remain,

Very truly yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

The Finance Commission's letter of criticism was as follows:

BOSTON, December 22, 1924.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor of Boston.

SIR,—The Finance Commission has investigated the matter of city officials requesting the tenants of Faneuil Hall Market to contribute money for your Honor's recent campaign for governor. The commission reports as follows:

The Superintendent of Markets, Patrick H. Graham, testified that about ten days before election day, November 4, 1924, Mr. Francis J. Brennan, who was manager of your Honor's campaign, requested him to solicit campaign contributions from the market men in Faneuil Hall Market. Thereafter, Mr. Graham and Joseph F. Feeney met. Mr. Feeney is one of your Honor's appointees to the Overseers of the Public Welfare and treasurer of the William A. Doe Company, which occupies a stall in Faneuil Hall Market. As a result of the meeting, Mr. Feeney, with the consent of Mr. Graham, solicited and received contributions from the tenants in Faneuil Hall Market, which he delivered, with a list of the contributors, to Mr. Graham who testified that he delivered this money and the list of contributors to Mr. Brennan.

Mr. Feeney testified further that some of the contributors were opposed to your Honor's candidacy, but were contributing because he told them that he was soliciting the funds at the request of Mr. Graham, the Superintendent of Markets.

The William A. Doe Company has had noncompetitive contracts for furnishing supplies to the Overseers of the Public Welfare since Mr. Feeney became a member of that body.

The market men in Faneuil Hall and Quincy Markets are tenants of the City of Boston. Although they have written leases of their stalls, they are subject to the rules and regulations of the superintendent in the conduct of their business. Solicitation of funds from these tenants, either at the request or with the consent of the Superintendent of Markets, for political purposes is unjust, if not actually coercive. Solicitation of funds to be used in a campaign of the Mayor of the city by Mr. Feeney, who is the treasurer of a corporation which has been enjoying noncompetitive contracts from the Overseers of the Public Welfare, of which he is a member, is not for the best interests of the city.

It does not appear from the records at the State House and at City Hall that the returns made by your Honor and the Peoples' Committee, of which Mr. Brennan is treasurer, of the moneys received and expended in your Honor's recent campaign contain the names of the market men who contributed the money to Mr. Feeney.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN.

ADDITIONS TO CONTRACTS.

SCHOOLHOUSE DEPARTMENT.

The Mayor has approved the request of the Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners to the issuance of an order for the following additions to contracts:

An addition, in an amount of approximately $6,500, to the contract of J. Slotnik Company for erection and completion of the Dorchester High School for Boys.

This amount is required to cover certain extra work found to be necessary during the process of construction. This consisted of furnishing and installing additional steel for the auditorium and gymnasium balcony, additional brick piers in assembly hall, installation of pressure ash hoist and certain changes in boiler room to take care of ash hoist discharge, etc.

An addition to the contract of Thomas O'Connor & Co. for the erection of the Roxbury High School for Girls, in the amount of $25,879.50, subdivided as follows: extra concrete foundations, $22,500; backfilling, $3,379.50.

This amount is required to cover work made necessary by being obliged to blast more deeply than was anticipated, because of the formation of the rock (seamy, soft and rotten rock), to reach suitable bottom. The extra excavation necessitated extra concrete foundation. Backfilling must be paid for under the contract. The amounts of these items could not be arrived at until the rock excavation (blasting) had been completed, and all trenches prepared for the foundation walls.

An addition, in an amount of approximately $7,500, to the contract of Alco Contracting Company, Incorporated, for erection and completion of the Mather District School.

This amount is required to cover certain additional work found to be necessary during the process of construction. This consisted mainly of additional excavation, concrete work, etc., caused by being obliged to dig more deeply than was anticipated in order to obtain proper bearing soil, and of change in sewer pipe to meet the grade of the main sewer in Charles street.
